The neurosthenic sentimentalists who are so clamantly interesting themselves in the behalf of preventing Walter Blythe, the Agincourt wife-murderer from receiving justice, are unreasoning emotionalists. They have a great sympathy for the man brought to book for constituting a long course of wife beating by beating his wife to death. These persons don't know what they are doing. At least they ignore what the wife suffered and how utterly the husband's long practised cruelty shuts the door upon sympathy or consideration. People in the village where Blythe and his wife lived, and who know the facts, are indignant that an effort should be made to arouse sympathy with a man who deserves no sympathy. One plea is that the man was drunk when he perpetrated the final and fatal beating. This only adds to his criminality. While the law does not regard drunkenness as an excuse for crime, in Blythe's case it is plainly an aggravation of his offence. He was accustomed to beating his wife, both in England and after his arrival in Canada. It is to be assumed that he only did this when he was drunk. In his sober moments he knew that if he got drunk he would be sure to beat his wife. This knowledge should have kept him sober. His deliberately becoming drunk, was to invite the very condition which he knew would make him a criminal. He is therefore as actually and morally guilty of murder in taking his wife's life in a moment of drunken frenzy as if he had committed the deed in sober cold blood. He was sober when he began to prime himself for murder. He knew from past experience what would be the result. There is a radical difference between the law taking Blythe's life in the interests of justice and of the protection of society and his taking that of his wife. The latter was a brutal, a cruel, and, in every way, an unwarranted crime; the other is an imperatively-demanded act of law ,warranted by considerations of justice and of the safety of human life; one was a diabolical act; the other is a divine act, at least an act with divine warrant.

The demand of maudlin sentimentalists for unmerited mercy is not the worst or only bad feature of the Blythe affair. The interference with the course of the law after the manner practiced in the United States is the introduction of a corrpting element into the fountain of justice undefiled. Time was when a death-sentence, following due and fair trial, was respected and carried out in a seemly solemn, dignified, impressive manner. Now, we are introducing the thin end of the wedge. The system of "appeal," new trial," etc., is an introduction into Canada of that which has made "the course of justice" a travesty among our neighbours, justice turning, not on trial, evidence and merit, but upon legal technicalities, influence, and the social or rather financial standing of the criminal—though convicted red-handed. We have permitted our environment to exercise a corrupting or at least deteriorating, influence upon our language, literature and our morals; but let us keep the fountain of justice pure. Let us not depart from the good old way.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

We all knew, says the Victoria (B. C.) Colonist, that Mr. Fielding, Mr. Templeman and Mr. Oliver were newspapermen; but not many of us were aware that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Mr. Brodeur, Mr. Lemieux and Mr. Graham have worked actively in newspaper life. With seven members of the profession in one ministry, the wonder is that the millennium hesitates about arriving.

"John Bull" tells this story: Why was the King laughing so heartily as he re-entered his stand after leading in the Derby winner? Here is the explanation. One of the excited crowd, throwing decorum to the winds, had patted him familiarly on the back, with the remark, "Brave, Teddy! Now go back and dissolve that damned Parliament." His Majesty was greatly amused, and told the story to his guests at the Derby dinner.

A LADY'S OPINION

"I was very, very glad on seeing in Saturday's Globe a reprint of your article, "Defiance of Law," to think that one man and one Canadian newspaper was brave enough to speak out for simple justice and I felt I must write and tell you so. It was simply disgusting to read of the mad race here last Wednesday in order to get a respite for the brute Blythe, and made one feel ashamed of being a Canadian. Unless capital punishment is to be abolished altogether, there never surely was a more fit subject for the gallows. I sincerely trust that you will agitate, and agitate. The press is the educator of the people; raise your voice and pen, so that this poor, frail little creature's brutal murder shall not go unavenged. 'The Toronto papers are guiltily silent.' Many letters have been written but never published.

Yours very truly,
M. C. S.

Our correspondent writes apparently under the impulse of strong feeling, which is not unnatural. What she says emphasizes the fact we have pointed out, that the sentimentality in pumping up so much factitious sympathy for Blythe, the man, forget Blythe the murtierer; forget or ignore the circumstances under which he so cruelly caused the death of his wife; forget or ignore the fact that the fatal assault was the culmination of a long series of similar beatings and abuse. One can fancy a little of the long-drawn out agony of "the poor, frail little creature" in her wretched home life, made a perpetual dread by the conduct of her brutal husband; one can fancy her listening with dread to his footsteps, knowing from bitter experience that if they were unsteady and stumbling, she would be subjected to another round of abuse and beating; one can fancy the last fatal time,how the frensied field seizing the poker beat the shrinking body of his spouse, till her screams were silenced in death. She was not surrounded with the tender sympathy of the sentimentalists; no voice spoke pity, no hand brought rescue. Alone and unpited she closed her eyes on earth to the accompaniment of the fiendish cruses and cruel blows of the man, who in defiance of his marital oath, "loved, conforted and honoured her" with curses and clubbings through long years and finally to the death. Now in defiance of law, in defiance of the safety of society, the seasoned wife beater and wife murderer is to be treated with tenderness and consideration that might well be lavished only upon an angel of mercy. If,as our correspondent says, capital punishment still obtains, there is no man who should more strictly furnish an example of Canadian justice; should furnish the lesson that crime brings its penalty and that the laws which guard our lives must be carried out.

AVOID AVIATORIAL HYSTERICS.

(Washington Post.)

The biggest thing about an airship is the quantity of superheated air that inflates it, and much of the talk of the day about airships is of the same stuff. The mighty, dirigible, invulnerable, lightning-proof and wind-defiant, loaded with its mortars and paraphernalia for raining down death-dealing bombs, is still a rainbow which all the world can see, but may never reach. Perhaps it will some day become a practical means of transportation; without doubt it may be used as a spy, a lookout to give notice of the approach of an enemy; doubtless as well, it may be used as a messenger to carry to carry a few men from camp to camp or from ship to shore. But it is not going to accomplish all the horrors now being claimed for it.

Pickering, June 22.—The Friends' yearly meeting now in session here, held three well-attended sessions in the restored brick meeting house on Sunday. The veteran lady missionary, Elisa Varney, was present and although infirm in body, was clear in voice and mind. Thomas Davidson of England gave a lucid history of the use and growth of Quakerism. John Dillingham of Philadelphia, an ex-professor, made two splendid addresses. He conveyed the message of the Emily Williams, a colony preacher, but now an invalid, wherein he made a plea for union of all the Friends in Canada. "One body was baptized with fire in the loss of their college, another by fire in the destruction of their meeting house, and it looks like a call to peace and union."

Starves In Midst of Plenty.

Edmonton, Alta., June 22.—A little woman, with features pinched from lack of nourishment and clothes ragged from long wear, with two children, one in arms, the other scarcely six years of age, who had sent them on foot to the city in search of some means to maintain a bare existence, were found in an exhausted condition in a little shack on the river bank Sunday evening. They had been lying there all day and most of the previous night, with not a bite to eat.

The brave young mother had tramped the entire 75 miles into the city, occupying four days on the trip, sleeping wherever she could find a sheltered spot, eating whatever she could beg or obtain in other ways from the farms she passed.

The Client—How much will your opinion be worth in this case? The Lawyer—I'm too modest to say. But I can tell you what I'm going to charge you for it.—Cleveland Leader.

W. J. Gage & Company's "Story Of Sixty-five Successful Years"

We feel sometimes that we, in Canada, are, compared with transatlantic countries, somewhat new and raw. We cannot boast of much antiquity in buildings and other monuments of human progress, but this young country need not feel ashamed in pointing with pride to the conditions that make possible a superbly beautiful illustrated booklet like "A Story of Sixty-five Successful Years in Business," issued and kindly transmitted to the Examiner by W. J. Gage & Co., Publishers, Manufacturing Stationers and Envelope Makers, to signalize the termination of three score and five busy years spent in building up a business enterprise of the first importance. The booklet shows by the aid of letter press and beautiful photograveurs, how the business has grown and outgrown various buildings and situations, till following the fire on Front street, in 1904, it erected and occupies the magnificent new factory and warehouse buildings, 82-94 Spadina avenue, Toronto, containing 90,000 square feet of store space, completely equipped with multifarous conveniences for the accommodation of the many-sided business of the firm—board rooms, sample rooms, offices, distinct departments for the manufacture of envelopes, papeteries, tablets, printing, binding, ruling, etc., all complete, in equipment and mechanical facilities. The booklet also describes and illustrates the Kinleith Paper Mills, St. Catharines, where the Company manufactures paper, the raw material of their Toronto manufacturies. The "Story of Sixty-Five Successful Years" is not complete, but has only reached a new chapter which promises still greater expansion and success, and provides the paradox, that stationery, under the management of W. J. Gage & Co. does not mean standing still.

May Report Of The Labour Conditions In Peterborough

Mr. J. Arthur Sharp, correspondent for Peterborough, Ont., and district to the Labour Gazette reported as follows on the general conditions of the labour market for May:

The month showed some improvement over last month, especially in the building trades, and a big improvement over last year. No large works, but a great number of dwellings are being built. The factories have not shown much improvement, but are working full time. The Colonial Weaving Co., afford an example of manufacturing conditions generally. It manufactures tables, and orders received are far in excess of the plant's capacity. The company will build a new factory, 50 feet by 200 feet. Boat and canoe builders are still very busy on gasoline launches and canoes. The Cheese Factories opened on the 3rd of the month. The season is considered by buyers to be very promising. The Baptists have bought a lot for a new church, the present building being too small. Building permits issued since January 1st, total $90,881. The City Council passed a by-law to have all barber shops close at 11 o'clock on Saturday nights and on nights preceding holidays; they formerly were open until 12 o'clock.

Condition of Local Industries.

Agriculture.—Farm work has been much retarded by the weather, but no alarm is felt. The fine weather of the latter part of the month made seeding possible and the farmers were very busy. The general opinion is that a good season will be experienced. The fall wheat and clover have done well in spite of the dry weather last fall.

Lumbering.—Conditions continue active. Work on the drives is in full progress and the sawmills are all started working. A good cut is expected.

Railroad Employment. — The grain traffic has been heavy and business as good as could be expected.

Condition of Particular Trades.

Bricklayers, masons, carpenters, lathers, plasterers, and painters are having a busy season. Plumbers were fairly well employed, with stone cutters active, and builders' labourers all busy. Iron moulders report some improvement. Machinists have been fairly well employed. Printers had a good month. Tailors reported business very good during the latter part of the month, but not so good the early part of the month. Bakers reported a little better than it has been for some time. Cigarmakers had no improvement and business was not very good. Railroad workers had a very busy month. Among unskilled labourers there was very little work until the latter part of the month, but all are fairly well employed now.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Ex-Mayor William Gruer of Mount Forest is dead.

Hon. William Pugsley inspected the harbor at Quebec.

Hon. Charles Murphy was entertained by the Canadian Club at Winnipeg.

D. Lorne McGibbon of Montreal has given $100,000 to build a sanitarium for consumptives at Ste. Agathe.

A mail clerk was killed in a head-on collision near Mt. Carmel, Ill., due to an error in train orders.

Prof. G. B. Foster of Chicago University was voted out of the Chicago Baptist Ministers' Conference yesterday.

No trace has been found of Leon Ling, the Chinaman who is believed to have killed Elsie Sigel in New York.

John Robinson is wanted by the Ottawa police on a charge of assaulting Mrs. Martin and her daughter. Mrs. Martin is not expected to live.

The population of the three Prairie Provinces has increased about 300,000 in the last three years, about half of the new settlers being from the United States.

James Lowery died suddenly in a police cell at Calgary. He gave himself up on a charge of robbing and shooting a Chinaman, and it is suspected that the disgrace drove him to suicide.

Both the C.P.R. and its telegraphers have accepted the finding of the board which enquired into difficulties arising out of a dispute over the dismissal of an employe near Toronto. Judge Fortin of Montreal was chairman of the board.

An Exhibition, Not a Circus.

Austin, Texas, June 22.—Buffalo Bill's Wild West is not a circus, according to yesterday's ruling of the Texas Court of Civic Appeals, which has upheld the decision of the District Court of Travis County, in the case of the State of Texas and Travis County v. William F. Cody.

The higher court holds that as the wild west show is not a circus, it does not have to pay a circus tax, only an exhibition tax.

SAY SUFFRAGE IS COMING NOW

Women of International Council Optimistic as to Outcome.

MUST FIGHT FOR OFFICE

Resolution is Passed at Big Woman's Meeting in Toronto Favoring the Contesting of All Elections Where Women Are Allowed to Run—Dr. Anna Shaw Says Equal Suffrage is Next Great Step.

Toronto, June 22.—Canada has still a good deal to learn if the International Council of Women is any criterion. The question of suffrage for women is looming large on the political horizon of many countries, and has risen to the zenith in several of considerable importance. Canada is behind Australia and New Zealand in this respect. Several of the United States have taken the step which politicians who fear clean politics dread. In Finland the Parliamentary and all other suffrages are extended to women.

There was a capital audience in Convocation Hall last night in connection with the fact that universal suffrage had been adopted as a department of the council. Every country, however, is left free to take up its own line of work. This was all lucidly explained by Rev. Dr. Anna Shaw, who presided. The International Council was waiting for some of the more backward councils to appoint delegates. To many present the movement was regarded as the most important work not only in the council but that was done.

Dr. Shaw said she regarded woman suffrage as the next great step in human freedom. They could not segregate man from woman, and should take into the service of the state the best ability of both sexes.

The speakers were Mrs. O. E. Edwards, provincial vice-president, for Alberta; Mlle. Lepric la Fontaine, Brussels, one of the founders of the Belgium league for the rights of women, and who spoke in the absence from illness of Mlle. Popelin; Madame Julia Bernocco-Rava Parris, delegate from Italy; Frauline Salomon, who not only represented Germany, but also spoke as the newly-elected correspondng secretary, her excellent English commending her for the position; Miss Gina Krog, president of the Norwegian Council, whose quaint and jaunty self-possession quite won the audience; Mrs. Henry Dobson, president of the National Council of Tasmania and eminent in a score of societies; and last, but by no means least, the Countess of Aberdeen.

"That the International Council of Women strenuously endeavor to place women on all boards now open to women. And to secure the inclusion of women on all boards now open to women. And to secure the inclusion of women on all other authorities or committees dealing with public work."

This was the first resolution, spoken to by Mrs. Edwards, and supported by those who preceded Frauline Salomon, who moved the resolution endorsing woman suffrage. The other speakers, including the Countess of Aberdeen, supported the motion. Both were unanimously adopted.

"That each National Council promote the holding on Sundays and week days of peace days and assemblies by churches, schools, universities and societies" was the proposal of the committee on peace and arbitration presented to the afternoon session.

Mrs. Mary Wright Sewall read the report, saying a large number of countries already have a peace day.

There was some discussion, and not all were of one mind regarding the question of peace day. Indeed when it came to a vote there were 41 nays to 26 yeas.

Frau Stritt of Germany said the National Council of Germany refrained from proposing a peace day as "it would never, never find people who were in sympathy with it," although every woman was in favor of the principle of peace.

The mover said that the reports from the different countries showed an increasing growth in favor of the annual peace day.

Surgeon's Opinion OF KNIFE FOR PILES

Operating often a fad—The modern way of curing piles is with Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Sir Henry G. Burdett, K.C.B., of London, England, in a recent address said, "What we want are surgeons, who with wisdom of the conservative have courage to protest against the growing tendency to put a knife into everybody on the slightest pretext provocation."

Too many doctors have a desire to use the knife as every opportunity. The tendency to rather use the knife first instead of first trying other methods of relieving suffering of body and mind; the operation is resorted to and the cost of life itself. But operation should be the last resort, for in spite of glowing promises the results are often very disappointing.

Many a sufferer from piles has been saved by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, after operations have failed. Hundreds of thousands have escaped operations by using this treatment first and thereby obtained cure.

Mr. Arthur Lepine, school teacher, Grassie Hill, Muskoka, Ont., writes:

"For two years I suffered from bleeding piles and lost each day about half a cup of blood. I went to the Ottawa General Hospital to be operated on and was under the influence of chloroform for one hour. For about two months I was better but my old trouble returned and again I lost much blood. One of my doctors told me I would have to undergo another operation, but I would not consent.

"My father, proprietor of the Richelieu Hotel, Ottawa, advised me to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, and two boxes cured me. I did not lose any blood after beginning this treatment, and believe the cure is a permanent one. I gratefully recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment as the best treatment in the world for bleeding piles." 60 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Constable's Fight to the Death.

Oxford, Mass., June 22.—Albert E. Miller, 28 years of age, a constable and keeper of a waiting station news stand at Oxford Heights, was shot to death by thugs about 3 o'clock, and a man identified as Frank Harding, South Milford, was later found dead in the waiting-room, a bullet hole through his heart, and Miller's handcuffs at his feet. Miller's club, covered with blood and hair, was clutched in his right hand. The dead man had no scalp wounds.

Mad Bodies Unlawfully Moved.

Brantford, June 22.—William E. Dunne was yesterday found guilty of having unlawfully had the bodies of a boy and girl removed from the Caledonian Cemetery plot, adjoining one he had purchased. The removal was in straightening out the boundaries. Parts of the girl's body were found on three other graves. Dunne was found guilty and bound over for one year to keep the peace. Dunne was ordered to pay the costs of $68 within a week.

Killed Seven-Foot Snake.

Chatham, June 22.—While Col. Sam Holmes and Charles Hicklin were reclining on the grass a short distance from their Joy club house property at Mitchell's Bay on Sunday, a spotted snake over seven feet long wriggled silently into their midst and had devoured a portion of their lunch before they noticed it. Hicklin went for it with a canoe paddle, which broke over its head before he killed it.

Attempt to Dynamite Church.

Newark, N.J., June 22.—With tomato cans converted into bombs by means of dynamite filling, with wire wrappings and fuses, an attempt was made to blow up the Church of St. Rocco and the adjoining rectory. One of the bombs exploded, wrecking the entire front of the rectory.

Hotelmen Sign Bond.

Port Hope, June 22.—Port Hope is in the midst of a hot local campaign, the latest move being the signing of a $300 bond on the part of leading hotelkeepers not to sell liquor during prohibited hours. Those who signed are C. Perry, L. G. Bennet, Britton Bros., George Gamble, W. Couchman, J. H. Vanderlip and Wm. Howard.

Rabies in Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, June 22.—There is an epidemic of rabies in Allegheny County and thirty-seven persons are undergoing the Pasteur treatment at the Magee Pathological Hospital here.

Mauretania's New Record.

Queenstown, June 22.—The Cunard line steamer Mauretania has clipped another 30 minutes off the best previous eastward record, which is also her own.

A SECOND LIFE
"If I only had another chance!"
How often are these despairing words uttered when a man feels his strength ebbing, his vital forces depressed, his health undermined—often as the result of his own errors or follies—and he realizes the infinite possibilities which might lie in his grasp, could he indeed receive in Shakespeare's phrase, "a second life."
Happily for the world, this other chance, this "second life" is to be had for the asking by means of that which has been aply described by a famous physician as "the last word science has spoken" on the subject of such remedial agents, and to which by virtue of its health-giving properties, the name of Vitol—meaning life "health-producer"—has been given.
So potent is its force that it will not only restore the health and vigour which have been lost, but, if persevered in, will in addition impart the highest measure of nervous and physical vigour of which the individual is capable; for there is a maximum capacity of health for everyone, though he may not hitherto have had the fact impressed upon him. Doctors endorse this and daily prescribe Vitol in increasing quantities. The constituents which give this power are known to every physician, and one has testified to the supreme merits of Vitol as A Revitalizing Force
after wasting illness and as a restorer of health, not only in nervous disease (with their innumerable symptoms of discomfort and distress, including loss of memory, insomnia, irresolution, weakness of the will, &c.), but also in anæmia, digestive disturbances and consumption.

Cattle Markets.

Cables Strong—Hogs Steady to Lower at Buffalo and Chicago.

LONDON, June 21.—London cables for cattle are firm, ... cents to 13½c per lb. for Canadian steers, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 10½c to 11½c per lb.

Toronto Junction Live Stock.

TORONTO JUNCTION, June 21.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 54 carloads, consisting of 1169 cattle, 5 hogs, 173 sheep and lambs and 12 calves.

Exporters.

Only two or three loads of exporters were sold. Sheep sold at $5.10 to $5.25; bulls, $4.75 to $5.25 per cwt. About 6 loads of export cattle were held over for Tuesday's market.

Butchers.

Prime picked lots of butchers' sold at $5.75 to $6.15; loads of good, $5.60 to $5.65; medium, $5 to $5.25; commons, $4.60 to $5; cows, $3.50 to $4.60; canners, $2.40 to $2.75.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, June 21.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending June 19 were 2500 cattle, 450 sheep and lambs, 1200 hogs and 200 calves. The supply for local consumption this morning consisted of 900 cattle, 40 sheep and lambs, 300 hogs and 110 calves. There was no important change in the condition of the market for cattle, prices for all grades being fairly maintained on account of a smaller run than a week ago, and a keener demand from both local and outside buyers. A large percentage of the offerings consisted of grassers, the bulk of them being in poor condition, and the general impression is that it would pay the farmer if he kept such stock a little longer on the grass before marketing. The attendance of buyers was large, including several from Quebec, who bought three or four carloads, and trade on the whole was more active than it has been of late. There was also good demand from exporters, owing to the stronger cable advices from Liverpool, which noted an advance in price of 1c to 1c per pound, as compared with a week ago. Choice stall-fed steers sold here at 5½c to 6½c; good at 5½c to 5c per lb. The best graziers brought 5½c to 5½c; medium, 4½c to 5c, and lower grades from 3½c to 4½c per lb. Owing to the small supply of hogs and the keener demand for the same from packers and dealers, a stronger feeling developed in the market, and prices scored an advance of 25c to 35c per 100 lbs., with sales of selected lots at $8.75 to $8.85 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars. The condition of the market for small meats was unchanged. Supplies of all lines were limited, for which the demand was fairly good, and sales of sheep were made at 5½c to 6½c per lb. Lambs brought from $3 to $7 each, and calves from $2 to $10 each, as to size and quality.

At the Canadian Pacific Live Stock Market, the receipts for the week ending June 19 were 1761 cattle for export account, and 735 cattle, 691 sheep and lambs, 900 hogs and 1500 calves for local consumption. The offerings this morning were 250 cattle, 175 sheep and lambs, 35 hogs and 120 calves.

Big Carnival in Montreal Under The Auspices Of The St. Jean Baptiste Association

Montreal, June 22.—A unique celebration, which is bringing together French-Canadians from all parts of the Province of Quebec as well as from many other points in Canada and the United States, opened here this morning, the occasion being the Seventy-fifth anniversary of the organization of the St. Jean Baptiste Association, an organization which numbers thousands in its membership, and is one of the most powerful and influential in Eastern Canada. A host of visitors arrived this morning to participate in the week of Carnival and Sport which has been arranged to commemorate this notable anniversary, and hundreds of others will reach the city on later trains. These for the most part are former residents of the city who have taken this opportunity of renewing acquaintance with friends in the Commercial Metropolis.

The celebration, which commenced with the opening of the National Congress at the big Monument National this morning, will be continued throughout the week, and the programme of events is an interesting and varied one including as it does meetings at which topics of vital interest to French-Canadians will be discussed by prominent men, parades, and musical and athletic events. One of the main objects which it is hoped will be achieved at the National Congress is the organization of all French-Canadian Societies in a general Society. Preliminary steps were taken to this end at this morning's meeting. The consensus of opinion among the delegates seemed to be that some scheme should be devised whereby the different socities might be united under one head, each society keeping its own particular character. The matter was left for further consideration at a later meeting. The delegates were welcomed on behalf of the City by the Mayor and several of the French-Canadian Aldermen at the opening of this morning's meeting. This afternoon another meeting of the National Congress is to be held at the Monument, when questions of National, Social and economic interest are to be discussed. The Congress will again meet this evening and will be addressed by several of the chief officials of the Association and a number of prominent speakers.

To-morrow morning is to be devoted to athletic sports including races, lacrosse and baseball and a gymnastic exhibition. The afternoon will be given over to the ladies, the opening of the Congress of the National Federation of Women in affiliation with the St. Jean Baptiste Association being scheduled. In the evening the principal French-Canadian artists will hold a reception to the visitorsa t the Monument National when matters pertaining to Canadian art will be discussed. There will also be bonfires and fireworks at the various City squares and several open air meetings will be held by the different French Societies of the City.

A notable event in connection with the celebration will be the big parade and pageants to be held Thursday. Allegorical cars have been prepared representing scenes from French-Canadian history, "Habitant" life and Allegories of the various periods of the Association's growth. Detachments of police and firemen, the Mayor and the members of the City Council and the various Societies will also join in the parade. The route will be through the principal streets of the City to Lafontaine Park where a big open air mass meeting will be addressed by the Archbishop of Montreal and vocal selections will be rendered by the massed choirs of the Societies. In the evening there will be a public meeting in the Monument National and an illuminated electric car ride through the City, also an open air concert in the large space in front of the church of St. Louis de France. The citizens' houses in this quarter of the City will also be illuminated, elaborate preparations for this having been made by many.

Friday morning will be marked by one of the most important events of the Congress, the laying of the corner stone of the Lafontaine, monument at Lafontaine Park by Sir Charles Pelletier, Lieutenant Governor of the province of Quebec. In the afternoon there will be a big athletic contest and a military review, while the ladies' section will meet again. In the evening there will be display of fireworks. Saturday will be devoted almost entirely to sport, a number of lacrosse matches and gymnastic contests having been arranged. The congress will close on Saturday night.

Some Camp News From Local Boys At Sturgeon Point

Following are a few items of interest from the "Baker's Dozen" of the Peterborough boys serving with the 45th Regiment at Sturgeon Point, under Capt. Fee:

The mosquitoes are like chickens, and are as thick as bees.

Paradey on "Why Don't You try?"

We're the best bunch in the business,
And we win most every time;
You can tell there's something doing
When you see our bunch in line.
Col. Sergt. Henry is our leader,
And the girls, they are so sly,
But if they think that they can love us,
Why don't they try?
Peterborough is our club name,
And our password is Yau Yau,
And when we're all together
We're the best you ever saw.
There is Portsmuth Moss and Wyatt
And Mesley, O, he comes next;
Then comes little Corporal Ruth,
With his little golden text.
There's Montgomery, Hall, and Wilson,
And McFadden and Weart are right there,
Chasing up the Sturgeon girls
With lovely auburn hair.
Then comes our wee Bugler,
And his name is Howard Heap,
And at half-past five he toots his horn
When us guys want to sleep.
We are but thirteen in number,
And we are not so very small,
But if you read this over,
You'll find them all.

Norman Allison joins us on Saturday.

The mail steamer Kathleen, running between Lindsay and Sturgeon Point, was stuck on the rocks for five hours to-day.

COMPANY INSPECTION OF THE 57th REGIMENT LAST EVENING

The 57th Regiment did not hold a marchout last night, but instead the annual comapny inspection commenced under the supervision of Col. Young, of the D.A.A.G., Kingston. The regiment was put through company and gard drill, and the inspection, which will continue throughout the week, will be thorough. The miniature ranges a re now open in the shooting gallery of the armouries, and practice will be held on July 5th. Regimental drills will be discontinued until further notice, after Wednesday, June 23rd. The orders for the week are as follows:

Headquarters,
Peterborough,
June 21, 1909.

Orders by the Officer Commanding 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers:

No. 1.—Detail of duty for the week ending June 28th, 1909:—Captain for the week, Capt. Cluxton; subaltern for the week, Lieut. Merritt.

No. 2.—The following extracts from General Orders are promulgated for the information of the regiment:—

General Order 58, May, 1909:—

"Efficiency pay:—

"For article 217 amended by G. O. 49, April, 1909, substitute 217. Efficiency pay may be issued to warrant officers, Non.-Coms. and men of the active militia (non-permanent) an addition to pay, or rank while on ordinary service, at the rates prescribed herein and under the following conditions:—

Rates of efficiency pay:—
1st rate, 80 cents per diem.
2nd rate, 40 cents per diem.
3rd rate, 50 cents per diem.

"Second conditions applicable to all arms (non-payment.)

"If a man misconducts himself or is negligent or inefficient, the commanding officers may stop the whole or any portion of such man's efficiency pay, which he would otherwise have qualified for, and the amount so stopped with the reason for such stoppage to be shown in the efficiency pay roll.

"To be eligible for efficiency pay a man must:

(a) Be duly enrolled in a corps of active militia and have performed training as prescribed for the corps to which he belongs for not less than 10 days in the year for which pay is claimed.

(b) Have satisfactorily performed the drills and duties prescribed for his position in the aim of the service to which he belongs, and be certified in the efficiency pay roll by the officer commanding the unit to have become reasonably proficient therein and deserving of efficiency pay.

(c) Must further fulfill the following conditions applicable to the arm of the service to which he belongs.

INFANTRY.

(d) Have carried out the muketry practice prescribed for the corps unless specially exempted by these regulations as showed below. Infantry exemptions, Sergt.-Major, Bandmaster, Quartermaster, Sergeant, Sergeant-Drummer, Orderly-room Sergeant Paymaster-Sergeant, Pioneer Sergeant, Bandsmen, Stretcher Bearer Section.

The above are the only exemptions allowed and no other men are allowed to draw efficiency pay except those specified in article 220, unless they carry out prescribed musketry practice.

If exempted under this clause, from muketry practice, or under article 220 efficiency pay may be paid at the rate the officer commanding the regiment certifies the man is deserving of having regard to his length of service and manner in which he has perfomed his duties, provided that any man who has not previously attended any training must not be granted more than first rate of efficiency pay.

(e) For first rate of efficiency pay, 20 cents per diem.

Have made a score of not less than 41 points at each of two ranges, 100 and 200 yards, seven shots at each.

For second rate of efficiency pay, 40 cents per diem.

"Have made a score of not less than 21 points at each of the two ranges as above.

"For third rate of efficiency pay, 50 cents per diem.

"Have made a score of not lessthan 28 points at each of two ranges as above.

For city corps (i.e., units not training at camps) the rates to govern efficiency pay may be 200 and 400 yards instead of 100 and 200 yards, but the choice must be made by the O.C. before the annual course commences.

INFANTRY WITHOUT RANGES

(f) In the case of Infantry unite without service range accommodation the conditions of clause (c) may be varied as follows:—

Shooting at miniature targets of the same design and making values as the standard target authorised by Militia Order 59, 13th May, 1909.

For first rate of efficiency pay:—

"Have made a score of not less than 16 points at each of two ranges, 25 and 50 yards, seven shots at each range.

For second rate of emciency pay:—

"Have made a score of not less than 24 points at each of two ranges 25 and 50 yards as above.

For third rate of efficiency apy:—

"Have made a score of not less than 30 points at each of the two ranges, 25 and 50 yards as above.

(g) Men who fail to qualify for the first rate of efficiency pay at their first trial cannot in any case be permitted to draw higher than the first rate of their qualify in a subsequent trial.

DISQUALIFICATION.

(h) Any cases of the following nature occurring during muketry practice are to be considered as disqualifying to the men concerned from any grant of efficiency pay, and the range officer is to report such case to the commanding officer in order that the offenders may be punished and the necessary deductions made.

(i) Any man firing or attempting to fire for another by impersonation or any man allowing another person to fire in his behalf.

No. 3—In accordance with the foregoing General Order it is hereby notified that the miniature ranges are now open in the shooting gallery of the armouries, and that practice will be commenced on and continue until further order from July 5th, 1909.

No. 4.—Musketry practice will be given each evening at 8 p.m. and will be under the charge and direction of the chairman of the Rifle Committee, who will detail from time to time the necessary range officers.

No. 5.—Companies will parade for musketry practice as follows:

Monday evenings — Companies A. and B.

Tuesday evenings — Companies C. and D.

Wednesday evenings—Companies E. and F.

Thursday evenings—Companies G. and H.

Friday evenings—Casuals and all others exempt.

No. 6.—Companies will parade as follows for inspection by the D. A. A.G. of E.O. Command:—

Monday, June 21st, at 8 p.m.—Companies C., E. and H.

Tuesday, June 22nd, at 8 p.m.—Companies B and D.

Wednesday, June 23rd, at 8 p.m.—Companies A., F. and G.

No. 7.—Regimental drills will be discontinued until further orders after June 23rd, 1909.

No. 8.—Extract from Militia Order; No. June, 1909: "Best shot badge is awarded to Pte. G. Russell, D. Co., 57th Regiment.

SUFFERED FOR SIX LONG YEARS

Then Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Mrs. Richard's Diabetes.

East Chezzetcook, Halifax Co., N.S., June 21.—(Special).—Cured of Diabetes and Rheumatism from which she had suffered for six years Mrs. Boniface Richard, well known here, is joyfully telling her neighbours that she owes her health to Dodd's Kidney Pills and to no other cause.

"My Rheumatism and Diabetes were brought on by a cold and a strain, and though I was attended by a doctor he could not help me. After suffering for six years I made up my mind to try Dodd's Kidney Pills and to my surprise they did me good almost at once. Two boxes cured me completely. I recommend them to everybody as a sure cure for Diabetes, Backache and all other Kidney Diseases.

NEW CELESTIAL WOBBLER; A COMET COMES INTO VIEW

Rev. Dr. Marsh, of Springville, has received two important bulletins telling of the approach towards the earth—of a new comet having swept within human ken. There is no doubt of the presence of this eccentric visitant for two different astronomers have caught and identified him or her—probably her for a comet's peculiarity, the uncertainty of knowing when to find her entitles it to claim classification with the gentler sex.

Bulletin No. 347, received by Dr. Marsh states that a telegram was received at Harvard Observatory, stating that Mr. Daniel, of Princeton Observatory had, on June 15th, discovered a comet in right ascension, 1 hour, 39 minutes and 54 seconds and declination, 28 degrees 5:55 minutes. Bulletin No. 348 says that a cablegram has been received from Kiel, stating that a comet was discovered by Jabell at Nice, on June 16th, right ascension, 1 hour, 41 minutes and 54 seconds; declination +29 degrees, 58 minutes and 18 seconds. Thus it is seen that different observers widely separated, made the discovery of this comet practically at the same time. This comet is visible by the aid of a small telescope or good field binoculars, in the eastern heavens about three o'clock in the morning.

This morning at that hour Dr. Marsh endeavoured to get a photograph of the new celestiol wanderer, but as his telescope in stationary and an adjacent building shut out the view made it impossible.

ANOTHER GERM DESTROYER.

Herpicide is Death to Dandruff Germs.

The germ burrows into the scalp, throwing up the cuticle in thin scales, called dandruff, or scurf, and digging at the root of the hair where it saps the hair's vitality. First comes brittle hair, then falling hair, and, finally baldness. Nine-tenths of the hair troubles are caused by dandruff. Without dandruff, hair will grow luxuriantly, as nature intended. "Herpicide" kills the dandruff germ leaving the hair to grow unhampered, as it does with the American red man. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

GYPSY CAPTIVES ARE A PICTURESQUE LOT

Description of the Impromptu Camp in the Jail Yard Where the Women of the Party are Kept Prisoners--All the Women Use Tobacco and the Children Smoke Cigarettes---"Kids" and Dogs in Plenty.

It is a long time since Peterborough contained such interesting visitors as the band of gypsies now confined in the county gaol are proving to be. As a sensational feature they are a great success, but the authorities much as they like to please the populace by giving them something to see and talk about are keenly anxious to get rid of the visitors, who will prove a serious financial tax if they are kept here long. It is no light burden to feed sixty people as well as a large number of horses and dogs, and as special constables have been sworn in and men engaged to look after the prisoners their presence here is liable to cost something.

The Mexicans have terrorised the countryside, and after looking them over one could easily understand why the farmers were up in arms against them. It is said that they have not hesitated to take what they wanted, wherever they happened to be, and stories are told of a number of them calmly walking off with a farmer's cow and slaughtering and eating the animal. At Bobcaygeon, Fenelon Falls, Omemee, and all along the line they have caused trouble and annoyance, and the authorities have done well to round them up instead of merely driving them on into other fields of prey.

The men of the party are confined in the gaol, while the women and children are quartered in the yard, into which their waggons were driven.

One of the oldest of the women was christened by a local man who saw her as "Sitting Bull," and, in fact she did have a marked resemblance to the famous old Western war chief as she sat cross-legged in a blanket in front of one of the caravans.

Every one in the party apparently seemed to be addicted to the use of tobacco. The women all smoked pipes or cigars, while the children, down to boys and girls of three and four years of age, smoked cigarettes. The visitors to the strange colony were surrounded with the gypsies who begged for "tobac," "cigarettes," etc., from every one who hove in sight, even to the special constables. A visitor gave a cigarette to one of the women and she was beginning to light it when one of her offspring, a boy of about seven years of age, reached over her shoulder and snatched the cigarette. The visitor looked for an outburst from the woman, but she merely smiled in admiration of the boy's audacity and begged for another for herself.

The handsome queen seemed to be in bad humour over the affair, and scolded everyone impartially for a while. She wanted her horses watered first, and kept on calling for water until the animals had received their drink. "I want what I want when I want it," seemed to be her motto.

The stealing and begging instincts of the tribe were not interfered with by the fact that the members of the party are locked up. The youngsters approached everyone that came along for money and the mothers would try to help them out by begging for a nickel for the babies. A little boy walked up to a visitor and, watching his opportunity, snatched his watch from his vest pocket, and was making off with it when his mother stopped him with a shrill cry and he dropped the time piece and fled.

The children are practically naked and are allowed to tumble around in the dust just as much as they please. Under some of the waggons a couple of babies and a number of dogs could be seen sharing the same bed, with infants and canines sound asleep.

At six o'clock last night Warden Scott and Mayor Rush visited the colony, and the queen at once approached the authorities with a view to obtaining a lawyer. She wanted to see if it was not possible to get bail for the men. "We can pay the money," she remarked, and another woman chimed in with the statement that the men had never been in gaol in their lives before. Still another said, "We'll get out if you'll give us money to go on the train."

It was decided that the Warden should accompany the gypsy queen in search of a lawyer. Last night the women slept in the waggons as they had been accustomed to doing when travelling. The vehicles were well provided for in the matter of bed clothing and looked comfortable enough. Some of the waggons are of the usual gypsy variety, while others are grocery bread delivery covered carts, with the names and addresses of the firms which once owned them on the covers. Whether these were stolen or not is, of course, hard to say.

The men were searched when they were brought into gaol and, strange to say, very few weapons were found. There wasn't a revolver in the party, two rifles comprising the firearms equipment. It was their numbers and their tactics rather than their arms that has made the caravan so alarming.

The yard presented a curious spectacle yesterday afternon when the gypsies were in full possession. Some fifteen covered waggons were in the enclosure, while the horses were tied in the sheds. The gypsy women, in the bright-coloured raiments, and chidren and dogs everywhere, completed the strangest picture that has ever been grouped in the court yard.

The women are still attired in the conventional gypsy garb, with flowing garments of all the colours in the rainbow and bright-coloured shawls as a head dress. All wear their hair in braids and are decked out with necklaces of coins, some of which appear to be valuable. Bracelets and other jewellery are in evidence, and the women present a fantastic appearance to say the least. Some of them appeared worried as to the outcome of their case, and the disposition that was to be made of the men of the party, but the majority took things easy, contenting themselves with squatting on the ground and looking after the children, which was no light task to say the least. Some of the women are good-looking, the queen of the party, who is called Rosie by her associates, being very handsome. She is young and in comparison to the others, well dressed, while she wears an abundance of jewellery. Young as she is she seems to have absolute control of the entire party of women, and they jumped around to obey her commands when she spoke to them.

THANKS EXTENDED.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—Will you kindly allow me space to publicly express my thanks and apppreciation to the superintendent and nursing staff of Nicholls Hospital. During my stay in that institution of several weeks I received every attention and care, and it is largely due to the nurses and the skill of Dr. G. N. Greer that I owe my life. At Nicholls Hospital the patients receive the best of everything and it is a pleasure to be there when sick.

Yours sincerely,
MRS. W. J. McCALLUM.

NEWS FROM THE FRONT

What the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons are Doing in Camp at Nassau.

At almost any time yesterday from early morn till late in the afternoon one could see on our street, mounted horsemen attired in scarlet and blue. The citizens are more familiar with infantry than cavalry and hence many paused to watch the new arrivals as they rode about viewing the city and starting for the camp.

This year Peterborough is fortunate enough to have the annual camp of the Third Prince of Wales Dragoons located at Nassau, which is about three miles up the Otonabee on the road to Lakefield. The field which has been selected for the rendezvous of the cavalry is on the Smith side of the river and north of the road leading over the bridge. Nassau is only a small hamlet which usually has nothing more exciting than the passing of a drive of logs, but for the next ten days the villagers will have a continuous exhibition right at their own doors as the cavalry make their camp and perform their daily manoeuvres. All day yesterday the horsemen were dropping in for their first view of the new camp and loads of baggage and fodder arrived at intervals and soon it was a busy place. There are several rows of round military tents with a few square ones set off to one side. The horses are tethered out and altogether the camp is a scene well worth visiting. Last evneing everything was in order and showed that the officers in charge know how to set up a camp at short notice. The situation is all that could be desired as the field is large and extends along the river-bank which is low at this point. The water supply for the horses is thus sure to be equal to the demand and very convenient. Another feature is the fact that both men and horses may enjoy the pleasure of a bath whenever necessary. The ground is level and comparatively even so that the drills can be carried out without any difficulty. There is a plentiful supply of good well water for cooking and drinking purposes very close at hand and no expense is incurred in that connection. Nassau certainly has all the desirable features of a perfect cavalry camp and this may not be the last time it will be used as such.

The camp of 1909, is under the command of Lieutenant-Colonel Syer, of Millbrook. In an interview he stated that the men came in sober and orderly and he was well pleased with their conduct and appearance. Both Colonel Syer and the other officers expressed themselves as delighted with the location and condition of the field and also with the arrangements for their reception in Peterborough. The camp will be under local option conditions for the commanding officer has issued a special order that no intoxicants will be sold or permitted to be distributed.

This detachment of the Third Prince of Wales Dragoons consists of four squadrons which are designated by the first letters of the alphabet.

Squadron A—Headquarters at Colborne, Northumberland County—Under command of Major McLaughlin, of Bowmanville—Strength, 31 horses.

Squadron B—Headquarters at Millbrook, Durham County—Under command of Major Davy, of Millbrook—Strength, 30 horses.

Squadron C—Headquarters at Peterborough—Under command of Major Johnston, of Peterborough—Strength, 34 horses and 7 dismounted men.

Squadron D—Headquarters at Wellington, Prince Edward County—Under command of Major McCullough, of Wellington—Strength, 33 horses.

Frim this it will be seen that four counties are represented and the total strength is 128 horses.

Officer Commanding — Lieut.-Col. Syer—Millbrook.
Quartermaster—Captain Smith—Cobourg.
Adjutant—Captain Medd—Peterborough.
Medical Officer—Dr. Douglas—Moose Jaw, Sask.
Veterinary Officer—Captain Poole, V.S.—Peterborough.
Chaplain—Hon. Captain Rev. Dr. Langfeldt—Peterborough.
Regimental Sergeant-Major—J. Paul—Millbrook.
Regimental Sergeant-Major—T. A. Syer—Millbrook.

To-morrow the officers of the squadrons will be given with to-day's events.

A daily report of the doings at camp will be published in the Examiner so that those interested may be well informed.

ANOTHER LETTER IN FAVOUR OF PAVEMENT ON INSIDE

To the Editor of The Examiner:

The importance of having the walk inside of the line on Benson street is apparent to any person. If you will consult the people who use the street, namely: The citizens that are compelled to walk over it every day and the staff and students at Normal School, I will wager that you will find 95 per cent. in favour of inside.

To be honest in anxiety for the beautifying of Benson street, that leads to Normal School, it might be expected that when space provides that any unsightly and offensive industry would be removed to a less important and short street, and then it would have its bearings on its owner's front door and not his neighbour's.

Considerable has been said and written with regard to this sidewalk, and I would just draw your attention to the report of the engineer and the opinion of other engineers, who are continually working at streets. It seems to me that if a private individual can sway the whole Council against the recommend of a paid and competent engineer then why pay for experience and knowledge when hot air free, will answer just as well?

INVESTIGATOR.

GYPSIES REMANDED TO THE JAIL UNTIL NEXT MONDAY

After each man of the band had been questioned as to where they came from by Detective Miller, two charges were preferred against them, one for loitering on the roadside and obstructing the highway, interfering with passengers, and the other one was for allowing vehicles to stand on the road in the Township of Smith for a period of more than three hours. They did not plead and after a consultation of the Crown Attorney and the Detectives it was decided to remand them to the gaol for one week. They will again appear before Magistrate Edmison on Monday morning next at ten o'clock. The men will be kept in the gaol while the women and children will remain in the gaol yard. The horses will be kept at the Exhibition grounds.

Statute Labour Work On Roads Are In Bad Shape

For the past few months travel in the country has been pleasant on account of the smooth state of the roads. The Statute Labour system prevails in most townships and the roadwork must be done between seedtime and haying. The usual stretches of loose gravel on the dry, hard roadbed are being laid down and progress will be both slow and tedious. The pedestrian, the wheelman, the teamster, and the motorist, will all be behind schedule time in their trips on account of the heavy going.

To Prove To You That All Is Not Gold That Glitters

We invite you to call at our showrooms to compare our critically selected stock of Pianos and Organs and our prices and terms with the Slaughter Price Kind. It is a serious matter to introduce a poor instrument in your home, great care should be exercised in selecting Pianos and Organs as well as all other musical instruments. Any old thing will not assist in the development of Musical Culture and Appreciation. Come in and let us talk it over with you.

CHAS. McGILL WAS ON THE STAND

Former Bank Manager Will Look Over the Books.

SAYS THE DIRECTORS KNEW

Defunct Ontario Bank's Chief Testifies Before Referee Kappelle Regarding Stock Dealings—Declares That He Was Told to Buy and Sell, Although He Protested to Directors of the Bank.

Toronto, June 22.—Once more the books of the defunct Ontario Bank will come under the scrutiny of Charles McGill, who though serving a penitentiary term, is now in Toronto to give evidence before Referee Kappelle.

From eleven o'clock yesterday morning, until a quarter after four, with two hours off for lunch, he was under examination, trying to recall dates and circumstances when, he swears, he was directed by men "higher up" to carry out certain financial transactions in connection with the business of the bank. He was submitted to a severe memory test, but he was unable always to furnish definite information, declaring that if he could only get another look at the books, he'd substantiate his statements.

He will be given two hours to look over the books before resuming his evidence to-day.

The enquiry is being conducted before Referee George Kappelle, McGill appearing to urge his defence to being officially liable for 1,713 shares of Ontario Bank stock.

"There were no shares in my name at the time of the failure," he explained. "Shares were transferred to the Officers' Trust Fund. Acting under the instructions of the directors I gave instructions to brokers to purchase stock for the bank."

Continuing, he said, these orders were not in writing. All through, he stuck to the contention that he had at all times acted according to the instructions of the directors and particularly the president, G. R. R. Cockburn. If he were only given time to go through the books and refresh his memory, he would be able to connect somebody with each transaction. Frequently he averred that President Cockburn knew as much or more about the buying and selling of the bank's stocks as himself and that if the late Mr. Smith and the late Donald McKay had been examined when he had so advised, they could have and would have confirmed him in his every statement.

"I do not like to generalize, but after all I have been through, it is impossible for me to cite specific cases unless I can get access to the books."

"Did you ever give any information to Mr. Cockburn as to the holdings by the bank of its own shares?" asked Mr. James Bicknell, K.C., who appeared for the liquidators.

"Yes."

"What was the last time before the failure that you did that?"

"I cannot say. He saw the books every day and was aware who were buying and how much stock the bank had to take care of. He knew every time that I bought anything."

"Did you ever give Mr. Cockburn a statement showing what funds of the bank were invested in its own shares?"

"Yes, and at this time Mr. Cockburn told me not to sell any more shares until he had sold his."

September 1, 1906, was the meeting when he was instructed not to buy any more stock; yet, at the request and with the consent of the directors, 1,000 shares had been transferred between that date and Oct. 9. At that meeting, witness claims, he officially revealed to them, though they all previously knew, the exact balance in the balance book. Then the directors had gone through it item by item. Just before the bank's collapse, he was instructed to purchase more stock and only did so after very stiff protest.

Rich In Gold.

Port Arthur, June 22.—Patrick Hickery is in from Sturgeon Lake gold fields with some samples which assay a thousand dollars to the ton.

The Climax silver mine in Silver Mountain district is to be opened up again. It was one of the best mines in the early days of mining in the district.

WHEN YOU CAN'T SLEEP.

There is many a man and woman tossing night after night upon a sleepless bed. Their eyes do not close in the sweet and refreshing repose that comes to those whose heart and nerves are right. Some constitutional disturbance, worry or disease has so debilitated and irritated the nervous system, that it cannot be quieted.

Or again, you have, a sinking sensation, a feeling you are going to die; or perhaps, you wake in your sleep feeling as though you were about to choke or smother, and rest leaves you for the night. If you allow these conditions to continue for a short period even, you will begin to feel your health declining. It is the nerves and heart not acting rightly, and they can only be set right by the use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. They soon induce healthful, refreshing sleep, not by deadening the nerves, but by restoring them to healthy action.

Mrs. E. Nutt, St. Mary's, Ont., writes:—"I can gladly recommend your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills as I was greatly troubled with my nerves. I was so bad I could not sleep at night without the lamp burning, but after taking four boxes of the pills I became all right again."

IS NOW IN CABINET.

Hon. Mackenzie King Is Elected by Acclamation.

Berlin, Ont., June 22.—Hon. W. L. M. King was yesterday elected by acclamation to represent North Waterloo. The vacancy was caused by his elevation to Cabinet rank in the Laurier Government.

Allan Huber, who threatened that he would oppose him, failed to raise the cash for the necessary deposit and was not nominated.

"It is with deep appreciation of the honor which has been conferred and of the added responsibilities which it brings, that I thank the electors of this riding," said Hon. Mr. King, in addressing the meeting. "It is sometimes said that there is too much party and too little politics, according to the true meaning of that word. I am prepared to subscribe to the truth of that statement. I believe in principle before party, and patriotism before prejudice, and I rejoice to feel that I shall be able through the remainder of my life to point to the riding of North Waterloo as having on this occasion demonstrated its adherence to this larger view. But I am chivalrous enough, I hope, to appreciate a generous foe, especially when it comes from an opponent, and I wish, therefore, to thank also my friends of the Conservative party."

Regarding the claim that a labor man, who had received his apprenticeship at a trade or had come to Parliament direct from the workshop, the mine or the factory, was alone competent to fill the position of Minister of Labor, Mr. King said:

"What is wanted to-day is a closer relationship between our universities and our workshops, a better understanding by educated men of the problems and conditions which confront the thousands who labor. I hope to live to see the day when a workingman will hold the portfolio which I have now the honor of holding, and when more workingmen will find a place in Parliament."

Holyhead Route Possible.

London, June 22.—The White Star steamship Cedric, from New York on June 12, arrived at Holyhead at 11.23 a.m. Sunday. The passengers and mails were landed by noon and left on three special trains for London. The first of these specials arrived at the Euston Station at 5.48 p.m. so that the passengers were comfortably seated in the London hotels about the time the Cedric arrived off Liverpool.

This is a new departure, which possibly may mean the permanent opening of Holyhead as a station for the landing of the American mails, and the experiment is regarded in every way as highly successful. It is contended that Holyhead has the advantage of ample water at all stages of the tide to accommodate the larger liners.

Delegates at Glasgow.

London, June 22.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Imperial Press delegates visited Glasgow and the Clyde. The trip included a visit to the Fairfield works, where they saw the keel of the first Australian destroyer. The Australian delegates cheered the beginning of the Antipodean navy.

Subsequently an honorary LL.D. degree was conferred on several delegates, including Sir Hugh Graham and J. A. Macdonald at Glasgow University. Macdonald, returning thanks to the Senate, said it was a new thing for journalists to be respected officially by a university.

Subsidy Increase Announced.

Ottawa, June 22.—It is officially announced that the Canadian subsidy of $50,000 a year to the direct line between Vancouver and Mexico has been increased by $25,000 a year, the Mexican Government having withdrawn its annual subsidy of $50,000 to the line. The steamships of the line carried 3,000 tons of freight from Mexico to Canada and 16,000 from Canada to Mexico, last year. Most of this latter freight was destined for European ports via the Tehauntepec Railway.

Envelope Manufacturers Protest.

Buffalo, N.Y., June 22.—How to stop Uncle Sam from conducting such an extensive envelope business is the problem with which the American Envelope Manufacturers' Association is wrestling here. Secretary Doris said "The continuous extension of the envelope business on the part of the U.S. which is selling stamped envelopes at prices which are almost ruinous to the trade, is we believe unfair and unjust."

A Murderer Released.

Montreal, June 22.—Ten years ago Elzear Mann murdered his mother-in-law during a drunken quarrel and was sentenced to be hanged, but his sentence was changed to life imprisonment.

It appears that Mann's conduct has been of the very best, and yesterday his lawyer, T. Paguenlo, received word from Ottawa to the effect that Mann would be liberated on ticket-of-leave.

Strike Ties Up Fishing Fleet.

Vancouver, B.C., June 22.—The whole fleet of the New England Fish Co., operating out of Vancouver to the northern halibut banks seems liable to be tied up as a result of a strike among the fishermen over union principles. Eighteen months ago the Pacific Halibut Fishermen's Union was formed, and the men who man the New England steamers are said to all belong to it.

MANY PEOPLE WERE DROWNED

Quartette of Deaths Reported From Various Parts

DECKHAND LOSES HIS LIFE

Albert Forget of Lachine, Que., Perishes as a Result of Falling Out of a Boat in Cornwall Canal—Lad Drowns While Crossing River From Sunday School—Fatalities at Other Places.

Cornwall, June 22.—Albert Forget of Lachine, Que., aged 20 years, a sailor of the M. T. Co.'s barge Dakota, lost his life yesterday morning at lock 20 of the Cornwall Canal. He was knocked off the barge into the water.

Drowning at Woodbridge.

Woodbridge, June 22.—Last evening Howard Douglas, was accidentally drowned while playing beside the Humber River near his home. The child not coming home Mr. Douglas went out and came across him dead in the water.

Drowning at Mine Centre.

Mine Centre, June 22.—Sunday evening, while a number of the Mine Centre Lumber Co.'s employes were bathing in Turtle Lake, B. Jenkins and J. Brandon went out in a birch bark canoe, which capsized. Jenkins was drowned in eight feet of water. He came from near Hamilton.

Son Takes Guilt From Father.

London, June 22.—John and Dominic Taddeo, arrested in Kenora recently for raising postal notes here, appeared before Magistrate Love yesterday morning and pleaded guilty to charges of forgery and fraud.

John Taddeo, who operated in Toronto, Montreal and Sherbrooke, said his father did not know what he was doing. The old man broke down and in pleading guilty said he did not know that his son was doing wrong.

Sight-Seeing Auto Runs Away.

New York, June 22.—As the result of a big sight-seeing automobile running wild early yesterday, six of the occupants are in hospitals with severe injuries, and one young woman may die. The runaway car crashed into a tree and all the twenty-five passengers were thrown out.

Choked on Piece of Meat.

Kingston, June 22.—John Hardie, a patient at the Rockwood Asylum, while bolting his dinner, choked to death on a piece of meat. Hardie, who was 70 years of age, was brought to the asylum from the Cobourg district.

Killed by a Well.

Thessalon, June 21.—Roy Wilson, aged 22, was caught by a cave-in while digging and suffocated.

Won't Affect Textile Stock.

Montreal, June 22.—The death of President David Yuille of the Dominion Textile Co. will not affect the common stock of that company, as the 4,000 shares held by the deceased were included in the amount about to be sold to London interests, consequently it will not be thrown on the market.

Mr. Yuile is said to have been worth something over a million dollars.

Big Steamers Collide.

Southampton, June 22.—It will take two or three weeks to repair the damage to the bows of the Red Star Line steamship Zeeland that was in collision Saturday night east of Dover with the British steamer Hartlepool. The starboard bow of the latter was cut down to the water's edge.

Fine For Manslaughter.

Buffalo, N.Y., June 22.—Enoch L. Cordery of Fort Meade, Fla., was yesterday fined $250 by Justice White in the Supreme Court on his plea of guilty of manslaughter in the second degree. Cordery shot to death Harry Carr of Syracuse in a rooming-house here last Christmas night.

Good Time to Float Loan.

London, June 22.—The Financial News thinks Mr. Fielding is here only to sound the market, but points out that July is a propitious time for a floatation of a gilt-edged loan in London, as the payment of Government dividends makes money plentiful.

CATARRH

THIS DEEP-SEATED DISEASE CAN'T BE REACHED THROUGH THE STOMACH.

Cure can come only from cleansing the air passages with the soothing vapor of Catarrhozone, which cured ex-Mayor S. L. McKay of Kingsville, Ont., who says: "As the season for Colds and Catarrh is again on, I wish to be prepared with the right remedy. Send me Catarrhozone—which is without doubt the best remedy I have ever tried—and I have used not a few. I strongly recommend Catarrhozone."

To keep the correct humidity for sanitary purposes, we place the water pan in right over the main door, a place where the heat and the householder can reach it. So in Sunshine Furnace the water never gets stagnant, and the householder never complains about the awkwardness of pouring the water in.

Automatic Gas Damper allows furnace to be checked shortly after coaling. This saves fuel and protects plants in rooms above.

To make "Sunshine" the easiest-to-be-cleaned furnace, we construct two fire doors, and place same not only at an equal distance from each other, but at an equal distance from the large feed door. So the operator with an ordinary soot-cleaning brush can go completely around the radiator without inconvenience; and, what is more important still, can do this without having to put out the fire or take down the smoke-pipe.

TENNIS ASSOCIATION SCHEDULE IS BEING CARRIED OUT—RESULTS OF LAST WEEK

The schedule of the Peterborough Lawn Tennis Association covering inter-club matches is being carried out in a very satisfactory manner, the games being arranged for and completed promptly. The various club representatives are evidently performing their duties in a business-like manner and deserve the commendation of all concerned.

The inter-club matches thus far have been productive of some of the finest tennis seen in Peterborough for years. The keenness with which some of the games have been contested has produced a classy game of the highest order. On Saturday the match between the Golf Club and the Y. M. C A. was one of the best exhibitions of Tennis seen on the Y courts this year. While Dr. McPherson and B. H. Meyers of the Y.M.C.A. took both sets from F. D. Kerr and Geo. Lundy, the games were all well contested and some excellent plays were made.

The club matches for the present week are as follows:

St. John's vs. Y.M.C.A.
Collegiate vs. Nicholls Oval.
Golf Club vs. West End.

Results of the third week inter-club matches.

Collegiate vs. St. John's—C. Moore and S. Anderson, of Collegaite, beat W. Coleman and G. Chandler, of St. John's, 6-1; 6-3.

C. Cossey and N. Greenhalgh, St. John's, beat G. Dennison and N. Gaele, Collegiate, 10-8; 7-5.

West End vs. Nichalls Oval—J. W. Wood and C. Currier, West End, beat Ray P. Best and D. B. McRae, Nicholls Oval, 6-2; 6-4.

W. H. Collier and H. B. Collier, West End, beat E. Easson and R. Dobbin, Nicholls Oval, 7-5; 6-3.

Golf Club vs. Y.M.C.A.—H. D. Burnett and H. L. Sheen, Golf Club, beat A. O. Meyers and F. Cresman, Y.M. C.A., 6-3; 6-3.

Dr. McPherson and B. H. Meyers, Y.M.C.A., beat F. D. Kerr and Geo. Lundy, Golf Club, 6-1; 7-5.

Club standing—third week:

Y.M.C.A.	10
Golf Club	9
West End	8
So. John's	6
Collegiate	2
Nicholls Oval	1

Championship Singles

In the championship singles the schedule calls for the following matches to be played before the 26th June. To avoid the possibility of defaults each contestant should immediately arrange with opponent to have the match played as early in the week as possible. As no matches in this first round will be permitted to be played later than Saturday of this week, it is necessary that the various players get together at once.

The draw follows:

SATURDAY'S GAMES IN THE SENIOR CITY BALL LEAGUE

Saturday's double-header in the Senior City League will bring together the T. A. S. and Park Street in the first game, and the West Ends and Stratheonas in the second contest. Both games should be well worth seeing. It will be the first meeting of the Park Street and T. A. S. teams, and should be a good exhibition. The Abstainers have yet to be defeated and there is much speculation as to whether or not Park Street will be capable of accomplishing the feat. However, the Baptists will have a much stronger line-up than has yet represented them, and will make a big effort to hand Manager Quinlan's aggregation the first bump they have received in the League. It will be some game all the way. It was the West Ends who started the Stratheonas on their slump, and the Commissioners state that they will be revenged on the Westerners, and at the same time put an end to their losing streak by annexing the victory on Saturday. The West Enders won the first game by an exciting ninth innings' rally, after a hard fight throughout. Both teams claim that they will win this time. Of course, one side is wrong, but just which one will be decided about the ninth innings on Saturday. With good weather the attendance should be the best of the season.

NERVOUS AND SLEEPLESS

Thousands are in this pitiable condition—blood is colorless, thin, and watery. Digestion is generally imperfect and needs attention. Appetite is fickle and requires pampering. Pretty soon the Kidneys and Liver cease to act properly—and then everything goes wrong.

Ferrozone is a positive cure for Nervousness. It possesses marvelous tonic properties that quickly restore the nerves to a normal condition.

"Last year I suffered from a run-down condition and Nervous Headache. I had the best treatment and medical assistance in the city but was not helped. FERROZONE rebuilt my strength and made me well." (Mrs.) J. Warren, St. John, N.B.

It strengthens the heart, improves the blood circulation, aids digestion and assimilation of food. Ferrozone has a specific action on the Kidneys and Liver and causes these organs to eliminate all poisonous secretions. Ferrozone brings rest and quiet to the excited brain and is guaranteed to cure Nervousness, Nervous Prostration, Nerve Exhaustion, Tiredness, Languor, and all diseases arising from poverty of the blood. Refuse a substitute for Ferrozone, which costs 50 cents per box or six boxes for $2.50. Sold by druggists everywhere.

WITH THE RUNNERS.

Alfie Shrubb will clash with Longboat in their long-deferred twenty-mile race in Toronto on Saturday night, and the little Britisher should just about bring home the bacon as usual, although Longboat showed class in trimming Nebrich of Buffalo, last night. Indian Tommy is in better shape just now than he has been for a long time, but he never could trim Shrubb up to twenty miles.

CRICKET

The Peterborough Cricket Club will hold a practice to-morrow evening at Nicholls Oval. A full attendance of the players and any one who would like to join the club is expected.

A Lawn Social will be held on the beautiful grounds of St. John's Church next Thursday. St. John's Glee Club and Opera House complete Orchestra will render sweet music. Strawberries and cream, tea and sandwiches, served in Eastern Costumes by dainty ladies. Beautiful flowers, ice cream and cake, croquet, everything combined to make a lovely evening's pleasure. The grounds will be specially illuminated by F. J. R. MacPherson with up-to-date lights.

ADDRESS READ TO HIS HONOUR DEPUTY JUDGE O'CONNELL

Opening of the June Sessions of the County Court at One O'clock---His Honour's Reply and Address to the Grand Jury---Four Criminal Cases.

The June sessions of the County Court opened this afternoon at one o'clock before His Honour Deputy Judge O'Connell. The members of the bar present were: Crown Attorney R. E. Wood, D. W. Dumble, K.C., W. H. Moore, K.C., S. T. Medd, F. D. Kerr, G. M. Gordon, J. W. Bennet, A. P. Poussette, R. Ruddy, John Green, E. L. Goodwill and R. R. Hall.

On behalf of the bar of Peterborough, Mr. D. W. Dumble, K.C., read an address expressing the deep sorrow and regret felt at the death of the late Judge Weller and extending wishes of success and pleasure to Judge O'Connell during his incumbency until a permanent judge be appointed. The address read as follows:—

His Honor Deputy Judge O'Connel, presiding, in Quarter Sessions.

Since the last regular holding of the Quarter Sessions death, inevitable to all, has visited us and left vacant a place long honourably filled by the late Charles Alexander Weller, Esq., and to-day we feel it becoming in this public session of the Court to make public our deep regret that one who for over fifty years was an honoured citizen of Peterborough, and for nearly a quarter of a century judge of the County and Surrogate Courts, and Local Master of the High Court of Justice, has been called away.

With profound sorrow we make public mention of the great loss that has befallen the community, and the especial sorrow of those who through familiar intercourse have learned the singular gentleness of a strong man and the integrity and honour of a faithful servant who placed in a high and honourable position, so acquitted himself as to win the respect and love of all. The late Judge was a man of large knowledge of affairs, a patient hearer and with a constant desire to do what was just and equitable. His judgments, on after thought, were usually approved as right, they were rarely appealed against and more rarely reversed. With the profession, he was uniformly courteous and obliging, and, while always dignified, he succeeded in winning a feeling kindlier than more respect.

We part with him after a full life in which he maintained an ever youthful sympathy with everything that was manly and of good report. We shall cherish his memory as a good citizen, a kind parent, a courteous, refined and able Judge. In sorrow and in reverence we place this, our chaplet, on the memory of our deceased Judge.

And now sir, we would express our gratification that the gentleman whom the late Judge asked to be appointed Deputy Judge during his sickness, has been so promptly appointed and is now able to take up the business which has accumulated in the Court.

We wish for you during your incumbency, until a permanent Judge be appointed, much success and pleasure in the performance of your duties.

On behalf of the Bar of Peterborough.

HIS HONOUR'S REPLY.

In replying to the address, His Honour Deputy Judge O'Connell said: "Gentlemen of the bar of Peterborough, as has been very eloquently expressed, our late venerable judge who, after having for more than a quarter of a century has presided over this court, has laid down his burden. I do not know as I can add anything to what has already been said. The older members of the bar who knew him as a member of the profession, remember him as a lawyer who gave assiduous and conscientious attention to his duties. He was a man who won universal respect, a man of broad mind, and it is not surprising that when a judgeship became vacant, he was unanimously chosen as a fit one to fill the position that he had so ably filled for the last quarter of a century. He was everything you have said he was. While he was a stern judge, he exercised wisdom and prudence in all judgments. His kind, patient and courteous nature and his ever kind disposition to the members of the bar, won for him the admiration and respect of all. His death has occasioned deep regret that will be felt for years to come. Whoever his successor may be, I hope that he will be as worthy of the position as our late Judge.

In conclusion I thank for your kind expressions concerning me, and trust that I may deal with matters that come before me satisfactorily."

Address to Grand Jury

The following members of the Grand Jury were then sworn: Messrs J. J. Howden, (foreman), Hugh Bertram, J. Browne, George Curtis, Robt. Deyell, R. Fowler, J. M. Greene, Wm. Henry, Jas. Little, Eugent Maloney, Robt. Tanner and F. Wilds.

In his address to the Grand Jury, Judge O'Connell said that he was sorry that he was not in a position to tender congratulations on the fact that the county was free from crime. There were several matters of a criminal character to come before him. It was true, that since certain legislations had been made there were not so many criminal cases to come before this court, the magistrates dealing largely with existing crime in the community.

Speaking of the conditions in the gaol, His Honour said that yesterday the population of this institution had been greatly increased by the arrests of several foreigners. However, this was an unusual case. There were four charges of rather a grave character that would have to be given careful consideration. They were cases of seduction, perjury, theft and assault, doing actual bodily harm.

In conclusion His Honour referred to the lamented death of the late Judge Weller. Judge Weller, he remarked in the administration of law was fair and impartial. His carefulness in the carrying out of his duties and his kind disposition won for him respect of everyone.

AUTO BUS CARRIES FOOTBALL TEAM TO LAKEFIELD

The usefulness of the large motor-driven vehicle was demonstrated last Saturday when the Chemong Auto bus met the 4:38 C.P.R. train and carried the Havelock football team to Lakefield. The number on board was the skidoo sign . . 23, and notwithstanding that circumstance the trip was made in good time and without any mishap whatever. After the game, the party returned to the city and took the 12:31 for the east. They expressed themselves as well pleased with this means of conveyance as it proved to be the right rig in the right place when the train connections were not suitable.

TWO BOYS DROWNED

Norwood, Ont., June 21.—While a party of boys and girls from the Elgin Sunday School were crossing the Trent River yesterday morning in small boats, Charlie and Howard Lobb, sons of William Lobb, who lives near here, were upset from a canoe, and before the larger boats could reach them Charlie was drowned.

He was about 18 years of age. The body has not yet been recovered.

The death occurred yesterday evening at 6.20 o'clock of Victor, the five year old son of Mr. Roland Hill, 290 Lake street. The funeral will take place to-morrow (Wednesday) afternoon at 3 o'clock to Little Lake Cemetery.

MRS. ARTHUR CARTWRIGHT.

To-day at 8.30 a.m., Ada M. Cartwright, wife of Mr. Arthur Cartwright, passed away at her home on Lot 2, Con. 10, North Monaghan. She was born in Bedfordshire, 48 years ago, and came to Canada in the early part of 1908. During the past nine months she has been in failing health, and her death was not unexpected. Mrs. Cartwright was twice married, her former husband's name being Hall. She is survived by her husband and three children, Chas. L. Hall, Florence Hall, and Donald Cartwright. The many friends of Mr. Cartwright and family will sympathise with them in this the time of their sad bereavement.

The funeral will take place on Friday at 2.00 p.m. from the family residence, North Monaghan, to the Little Lake cemetery.

MRS. JOHN W. KINDRED.

At the residence of Mr. John Breckenridge, in Asphodel, death claimed his daughter, Mrs. John W. Kindred, at the hour of one o'clock this morning. This is a particularly sad event as the deceased lady had just reached her 36th year, and leaves three small children, Grace, Charles, and Jean, to mourn her loss. The many friends of the family, and, in fact, the whole community, extend their heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved husband and father.

The funeral will be held on Thursday from the family residence, Lot 7, Con. 12, Otonabee, at 2.00 p.m.

MRS. REVINGTON.

On Thursday last, June 17th, death removed one of Ennismore's oldest and most respected citizens in the person of Miss Deborah Revington, aged ninety years. She was the daughter of the late George Revington, and was born in King's County, Ireland. The family emigrated to Canada in 1836, and first settled in Emily, afterwards moving to Ennismore, where the subject of this obituary lived for the past seventy years. She was the last survivor of a family of five sisters, and four brothers, and had lived for many years with her nephews and nieces, the well-known Haggart family of Ennismore.

Miss Revington possessed all those sterling qualities of character and disposition that in their influence live on, even long after death has claimed the body. Of an affectionate and motherly nature, shew as greatly beloved by her nephews and nieces, whose care had fallen to her by the early death of their mother. Not soon will they forget her wise counsel and careful guidance in life. As a neighbour she was always considerate and charitable and greatly won the hearts of a wde circle of friends. As a Christian woman she stands out a worthy example of consistency and faith. She was a life-long member of the Anglican branch of the Catholic church, whose ministrations were very precious to her, and in which faith she was gently led to rest in "sure and certain hope of the resurrection to eternal life."

The funeral, which was conducted by her pastor, the Rev. J. H. Teney, Rector of Emily and Omemee, took place on Saturday, June 17, to Little Lake Cemetery, Peterborough, and was attended by a large gathering, bearing testimony to the esteem in which she was justly held.

WEDDING BELLS

BRAND—THOMAS

The first blossom to be plucked for this week's bouquet of June brides was Miss Ida Thomas, whose wedding took place on Tuesday at the pretty residence of her parents, on Elgin avenue, and amid a profusion of flowers, ferns and palms, which banked the bay window of the drawing room, she was given away by her father, J. W. Thomas, the happy man being Malcolm R. Brand, head pattern maker with the Doty Engine Works Co., Ltd. The ceremony was performed at high noon by Rev. M. Turnbull, rector of St. George's church. The bridal gown was of old rose duchesse silk made in princess style, and the bride wore a bracelet set with pearls, the gift of the groom, and caried a bouquet of white roses. Miss Ellen Walters of London, was bridesmaid, and wore a costume of Copenhagen blue Japan taffeta silk and carried pink roses. Josh Thomas brother of the bride, was best man. The wedding march was played by Mrs. Bullard, and after the ceremony Miss Martha Wells sang very sweetly, "Because You Came to Me." The guests numberd about fifty, and the luncheon was served on the verandah as well as indoors, the beautifully fine day contributing to the success of this feature of the arrangements. Among the guests from out of town were Mrs. and Miss Walters of London, and friends from Lucknow, and it is worthy of note that the three living grandparents of the bride honored the occasion with their presence, Mr. H. D. Thomas being only two years short of the century mark. At the G. T. R. station in the afternoon there was a gay gathering and confetti lay in drifts in the waiting room of the station and on the station platform after the bride had passed. Her travelling dress was a tailored suit in the castor shade and her hat was of Copenhagen blue trimmed with pink roses. As the train pulled out the bridal bouquet fell to Miss Lizzie Gibson. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a pearl crescent and to the groomsman a pearl pin. Among the gifts the bride received was a substantial cheque and a handsome piano from her father. The honeymoon trip includes a visit to Toronto and a trip down the St. Lawrence, and on their return Mr. and Mrs. Brand will reside on Britannia road.

Mr. Brand is an old Peterborough boy, son of Mr. George Brand, 472 Cedar street.—Goderich Signal.

O'DETTE KYLIE.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at 9.30 at St. John's church, Keene, this morning, when Miss Mary Georgina, second daughter of Mr. James Kylie, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Henry Vernon O'Dette, eldest son of Mr. J. B. O'Dette, city. The bride, who was dressed in silk eolina, trimmed with Duchess satin, entered the church leaning on the arm of her father, while Miss M. Barcroft played the Mendelssohn's wedding march. The bride was assisted by her father The bride was assisted by her sister, Miss Nellie, who was becomingly attired in a dress of white organdie, trimmed with valencies, and a directoire sash, with a burnt straw hat. The groom was assisted by his cousin, Mr. Frederick Rishea. After the ceremony the happy couple drove to the home of the bride's parents, where a dainty decuner was partaken of. The groom's gift to the bride was a sunburst of pearls, and to the bridesmaid, a gold bracelet, set in pearls, and to the groomsman a pair of gold cuff links. The guests, who numbered about ninety, spent the evening in dancing and in games. The presents received were numerous and costly. The happy couple will reside at No. 500, Park Street, City. Among the visiting guests present were Mrs. and Miss Nellie O'Donnell, of Rochester. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. O'Dette wish them a long life of happiness.

McFARLANE—ROLPH.

The marriage took place at Pomona, California, on Wednesday, the second of June, of Miss Estelle Monica Rolph, to Mr. John Ernest McFarlane, of Portersville, Cal., and son of Mr. and Mrs. A. McFarlane, Homewood avenue.

Mr. McFarlane's many friends in this city will join in extending him congratulations and best wishes for the future.

WHITE—DRUMMOND.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mrs. M. Drummond, 750 George Street, at 2 o'clock this afternoon, when her daughter, Miss Catharine Isabella Drummond, was united in marriage to Mr. John White, of Midland, Ont. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Robt. Pogue, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, in the presence of a number of guests. The bride, who wore a handsome gown of white satin and caried the usual bouquet, was given away by her brother, Mr. Duncan Drummond, while Miss Margaret McGregor of St. Thomas, rendered Mendelsshon's wedding march, Miss McGregor also sang a solo in excellent voice at the conclusion of the weding service .

The bride was assisted by Miss Mary McPherson, of St. Thomas, while the best man was Mr. Ernest Alexander, of Midland.

The house was tastefully decorated for the occasion with palms, peony roses and syringes.

Mr. and Mrs. White leave on the afternoon train to-day for Toronto, from which point they will take a boat trip down the St. Lawrence River. They will reside in Midland, and their many friends in this city will wish them every success.

ODDFELLOWS EXCURSION TO JUBILEE POINT

Under the auspices of Golden Link Rebekah Lodge, No. 81, I.O.O.F., a very successful excursion was held on Saturday to Jubilee Point. The steamer Otonabee left the Wolfe St. wharf at 8 a.m. and returned at 7 p.m. On account of the somewhat unfavourable weather the attendance was not just as large as it otherwise would have been but those present thoroughly enjoyed themselves, both at the Point and on the boat. At Jubilee the crowd had dinner and supper in picnic fashion and a long list of sports was run off. The events were well contested and provided good amusement. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. G. Maitland, Mrs. Watts, Mrs. H. Gibbs, Alderman Duncan and Mr. Maitland. Rebekah Lodge is in a flourishing condition financially and its members are pleased with its prospects.

H. P. KENNEDY SELLS HIS RETAIL BUSINESS

His Successor is S. A. Oke—Important Changes Contemplated.

As will be seen by announcement elsewhere, Mr. H. P. Kennedy has sold his retail meat and provision business to Mr. S. A .Oke. Mr. Oke too bpossession this morning. It is a pleasure to know that this transaction does not involve the loss of Mr. Kennedy as a citizen of Peterborough. He will still carry on his extensive wholesale cattle business, and, although a considerable portion of his time is necessarily occupied away from home attending the Montreal and Toronto cattle markets, he will continue ot be a resident of this city.

It is also gratifying to know that this business is to be conducted in future by Mr. S. A. Oke, of this city. He is not only a tried business man, who has "made good" in his fruit and fish business, but he has also earned the confidence and good will of the general public. It is Mr. Oke's intention to add fruits and other allliedlines to the meat and provision business carried on for the past thirteen years by Mr. Kennedy.

WHITE PLAGUE KILLS INDIANS IN THE LAND OF HIAWATHA

Plague-striken Indians on the Cattaragus reservation in New York. Outdoor squaws and their papooses, who are immune from tuberculosis.

Lawton, N.Y., June 23.—Bad health and not bad whiskey is making bad Indians, is the opinion of Cary W. Hartman, a Buffalo business man who has been helping the Senecas on the Cattraaugus reservation here. He finds that the red men, ignorant of the white man's ways, are becoming victims of tuberculosis at an alarming rate.

Nearly every house in the reservation, which is on the land figuring in the lore of Hiawatha, has at least one unfortunate Indian on whom the great white plague has laid its scourge.

"The only thing that will stop these conditions is education of the Indian," says Mr. Hartman. "He is slow to adopt the white man's ways, and he fears to live in the white man's houses unless the windows and doors are boarded up. As a result the air in the homes of these Indians is foul and their families become an easy prey to tuberculosis.

UNABLE TO WORK.

"Some persons think the Indians are lazy because they don't work as much as the whites in this part of the country," says Dr. Hartman. "This isn't wholly true. Most of these Indians are unable to do a day's work in the fields. It will fatigue them."

The case of Jasper Logan, which came to Mr. Hartman's notice, was typical. Logan, in the last stages of tuberculosis, lived in a small shanty with his sister, who was the mother of six children, although she is not yet 21, all shown in the picture. Her husband was sent to prison, and the whole family was dependent on one sickly Indian for support. Logan couldn't do a day's work and the whole troop were in squalor when found by Mr. Hartman.

TAUGHT HOW TO LIVE.

Some of the Senecas, though, even Carlisle graduates, return to life in the open air and discard the white man's attire. They thrive and raise healthy papooses.

Working with the state board of health Mr. aHrtman, who is president of the Indian Association of America, is educating the Indians ho wto build sanitary homes.

WAS CHARGED WITH SERIOUS OFFENCE

Satisfactory Arrangement Reached by Parties Concerned—Accused Was Dismissed.

In the case against Charles Bowe charged with the seduction of a young girl that came on for hearing in the general sessions of the High Court yesterday, the Grand Jury brought in a true bill. But when it came up before His Honour Judge O'Connell this morning no evidence was offered, a satisfactory arrangement having been arrived at by the parties concerned. His Honour then discharged the accused.

A Lawn Social will be held on the beautiful grounds of St. John's Church next Thursday. St. John's Glee Club and Opera House complete Orchestra will render sweet music. Strawberries and cream, tea and sandwiches, served in Eastern Costumes by dainty ladies. Beautiful flowers, ice cream and cake, croquet, everything combined to make a lovely evening's pleasure. The grounds will be specially illuminated by F. J. R. MacPherson with up-to-date lights.

24th Battery Broke Record On Route March--Make Good Showing

Special to The Examiner.

Cobourg, June 23.—The 24th Field Battery of Canadian Artillery, of Peterborough, in command of Major T. W. H. Young, arrived here at 7.45 p.m. Monday night, after having made a very successful route march from Peterborough to Cobourg. The battery, about eighty strong, left Peterborough at 7.45 on Monday morning, and thus took but twelve hours including stoppages, to make the forty mile trip with four guns. It was a record-breaking journey, Col. Machnacton stated upon the arrival of the battery, and beats the mark made by A Battery of the Kingston regulars for the same distance, by five hours. Mr. T. H. Hooper, the Peterborough caterer, fed the corps on their trip, carrying the food to Bailliebore in an automobile and providing the boys with a dinner that was much appreciated.

The battery was given a great reception in camp and the members are already most popular. The boys are working hard, although the heat is intense, but so far the members have been in good health. The battery has added fresh laurels to those already won by its great marching feat.

EXPLOSION IN MINE KILLED THREE AND INJURED MANY

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Pittsburg, June 23.—Three bodies of miners were recovered at 10.30 from Lackawanna Mine, at Wehrum, where an explosion occurred to-day. At least ten men were injured, and some fatally.

Perjury Case Left Over Until Fall Court—True Bill Found

The Grand Jury, in the June sessions of the High Court, brought in true bills in the charge of perjury against a local man and in the cases of Albert Craig and Harry Chapman, charged with assaulting Assistant Fire Chief Grange, doing him actual bodily harm. The charge of theft against S. Southern was thrown out, the jury finding no bill.

The perjury charge was left over for disposition until the Fall court. The assault case is being heard this afternoon.

SEIZED BARREL OF WHISKEY

License Inspector Joseph Stewart went to Lakefield last evening and at midnight paid a visit to the Lakefield House, conducted by Mr. J. A. Lawless. He seized a barrel of whisky and after loading it on his vehicle, returned to Peterborough. He got home this morning about four o'clock, after lodging the barrel in safe keeping in a cell in the police station. Mr. Lawless will come up before Magistrate Edmison, charged with the illicit sale of liquor, at an early date.

BRITAIN'S INCOME

The decadence of Britain which the pessimist croak about is not very visible in her money bags, anyway. London still continues to be the financial centre of the world for which British capital flowers in a golden stream, as it has played for years, to every part of the civilized world, with its returning stream of interest profit. Interesting figures showing the amount of British capital invested abroad have been collected by George Paish, editor of the Statist, and set before the Royal Statistical Society last week.

Mr. Paish said that the incomes which British investors drew from holdings in Indian, colonial, and foreign Governments' bonds amounted to a total of $156,125,435. The incomes from this sources had rapidly expanded in recent years in consequence mainly of new loans to the colonies and Japan.

The income British investors derived from Indian, colonial, and foreign securities from coupons and from railways of the United Kingdom was $244,516,500, which, with the income from Government loans, made a total of $397,500,000, as compared with the income of $225,000,000 received from similar sources twenty years ago.

Additional income was derived from investments in a vast number of miscellaneous undertakings. He had ascertained the income from 2,178 companies for which Great Britain had provided capital and found that the amount reached $280,000,000.

If it were possible to bring together all the income of companies trading abroad and distributing interests and profits in this country the total would be about $700,000,000. This great sum did not include the interest upon money deposited in Indian, colonial and foreign banks by persons residing in this country nor the large amount of income derived from capital privately placed abroad.

On the other hand, it was essential to recollect that foreign investors drew a good deal of income from capital placed with British companies. To obtain the income from abroad of nearly $700,000,000 per annum Great Britain had invested $135,000,000, and was obtaining all around a return of 5.2 per cent.

ENHANCED PRICES.

The increase in the cost of living is something which concerns many people, and has been noticed by all. In order that there might be some definite information as to the extent of this increase it is of interest to note that since 1890 the Washington authorities have been collecting data relative to the wholesale prices of the principal staple commodities sold in the United States. The purpose is to furnish a continuous record of wholesale prices and to show the changes in the general price level from year to year. A recent bulletin shows actual prices for 1908 and relative prices for the nineteen years from 1890 to 1908. Prices are given for 258 articles. The investigation shows that wholesale prices, considering the 258 commodities as a whole receded from the high level of 1907 which was the year of highest prices of the nineteen-year period covered. The recession of 1908 carried prices back approximately to the level of 1906, but, with the exception of 1907 only, prices as shown by the 258 articles are higher than in any other year of the nineteen-year period. The average for the year 1908 was 5.2 per cent. below that for 1907; 0.2 per cent. higher that that for 1906, 36.9 per cent. higher than for 1897, the year of lowest prices during the nineteen-year period, and 29.8 per cent. higher than the average for the ten years from 1890 to 1899. The decline from the prices shown by the October, 1907, data continued without interruption until August of 1908, with the exception of a slight advance in July. Prices were at their lowest point of the year during the month of August, when they were 1.1 per cent. below the average for the year 1908, and 7.3 per cent. below the average for October, 1907, the highest point of the nineteen years covered. The prices in December show an advance of 1.8 per cent. over the prices in August, the month of lowest average prices during the year.

Comparing 1908 with 1907, the groups showing the greatest decrease in prices were metals and implements, lumber and building material, and cloths and clothing. Food, etc., was the only important group of commodities which showed an increase in price.

Food as a whole increased 2.4 per cent. in the average price for 1908 as compared with 1907. In this group, twenty-eight articles increased in price, three showed no change, and twenty-six decreased in price.

The most striking decreases in the average prices for 1908 as compared with 1907 in the group of farm products were for hops, hay, sheep and cotton. The most important articles showing increased prices were corn, cattle, tobacco, oats and wheat. The articles showing the greatest increase in price in food were potatoes, fresh beef, beans, cabbage, flour, meal, rice, and sugar, while the articles showing the greatest decrease were pepper, mackerel, pork, canned peas, canned tomatoes, and molasses. In the group of cloths and clothing there was a decrease of from 10.8 to 29.5 per cent. in twenty-two articles, including most of the cotton products, while only four articles showed an increase.

The bulletin does not discuss the causes of the increases or decreases, beyond stating in a general way what they are. It seems reasonably certain, however, that the cost of most of the necessities of life has gone up permanently, even periods of depression not reducing them materially, if at all.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

La Rose (Cobalt) silver mine is "a gold mine" for its promoters. Based on the output for May its annual output is four million dollars per year. In May it shipped out 501 tons and two-thirds of this was high grade ore —form $2,500 to $3,000 ounces per ton. This means about 7,000 ounces or a value of $35,000, or four million dollars per year.

BOTH TO BLAME

La Presse, Premier Laurier's inspired organ in Montreal, is busily engaged in a bitter "race and religious" campaign. If any Conservative newspaper were to say that La Presse is saying what a lugubrious howl would the Grit press raise!—Brockville Times.

The Times is wrong. The Conservative press have been printing just as objectionable race and religious articles as La Press could do. The Toronto News and the Mail and Empire have been showing the way in this regard to La Presse. We do not defend nor excuse either party to the controversy, or rather the battle of sectarianism. Both are wrong. The race and religion cry is one that is not a proper subject of discussion. Grand Master Sproule may deal with it in his lodges for that is his business—his position demands it of him and we expect it of him. But newspapers whose duty it is to promote national unity have no mission to sow the seers of dissension. Both parties to the discussion should be silent. Impeachment of a fellow citizen's loyalty, except under most overt and flagrant provocation, is not in good taste as a subject of question or discussion, any more then a husband would show good taste in making the question of his wife's fidelity a question for conversational discussion. "A plage o' both your houses."

IMPERIAL CABLE.

(Chicago Record-Herald.)

The existence of a huge empire such as that of Great Britain with its outlying members, Canada and Australia, is certainly an incentive to the establishment by the Government of its own cable lines. To some extent considerations of security suggest this, but to a much greater extent it is favoured by a desire to bring all parts of the empire into steady, easy and cheap communication. It is not surprising, therefore, to find the Imperial Press Congress, now in session in London, discussing enthusiastically such a project, nor to find the British Postmaster-General assuring the delegates of the sympathy of the Government. One delegate expressed the belief that through the establishment of such lines Canada and England could cable each other at a cost not to exceed 5 cents a word. What a huge advantage such a rate would give to all parties able to use the service is clear.

COBALT BLIND PIGS.

(Cobalt Citizen.)

The blind pig has become a topic of general conversation. So much for the value of advertising. Since this journal began to give expression to its views regarding the Province's methods of dealing with the nuisance and incidentally, though indirectly, fostering the curse, Toronto papers have awakened to a sense of their duties in this matter.

The blind pig is a nuisance and a curse, chiefly because it makes such disgusting pigs of its patrons be they blind, halt or lame. We all know what Cobalt is like and the stranger within our gates who is young and new to the country marvels much that a prohibition town should be able to furnish such large and juicy drinks and so many of them. From North Bay to Cochrane, from Latchford to Gow Ganda, from Dane to Larder Lake the pigs extend, blind pigs, and the other kind you meet on train and steamboat, on waggons and afoot. Go where you will the nuisance is there. The head of a certain famous distillery firm lifted up his hands in wonder and amazement when his traveller returned from New Ontario, said he, "Where in thunder does it all go?" The traveller was a discreet man and he replied: "My business is to sell liquor and I make it a rule never to ask any questions."

GUNBOATS ON THE GREAT LAKES

(St. Paul Pioneer-Press.)

The Canadians do not like to appear suspicious yet they confess to a bit of uneasiness over the fact that some of our obsolete gun boats are being taken into the Great Lakes for the use of the naval militia. The last of these boats to come up the St. Lawrence river and through the Welland canal was the gun boat Nashville. Of course we had permission of the Canadian authorities to take the boat into the lakes, yet some Canadian papers are not sure whether we are doing the straight thing or not. The Montreal Star admits that it is not afraid we have any ulterior motives or will do any harm with our lake fleet. Yet it cannot resist the temptation to call attention to the fact that the Nashville is too big to get by under the terms of our treaty.

We now have on the lakes eight boats that formerly were considered effective as fighting machines. The Canadians contend that armament could be placed on these that would make them formidable craft. There is no doubt that our neighbours are right. The relations between this country and Canada and between this country and Great Britain are so friendly no one imagines for a moment there is any danger to Canada in the presence of the naval militia training ships upon the lakes. We have no intention of violating the spirit of the treaty against maintaining an armed force on international waters. If the size of some of the boats exceeds the letter of the treaty to the discomfort of any one in the Dominion, we should cease to offend. The confidence of our next door neighbour is too valuable to be jeopardised.

'ROUND THE STORES

This morning the shop windows looked so attractive that one's mind turned to the "shut-ins," who for one reason or another, cannot get round to see the pretty things. A walk through a few shops revealed many new novelties for hot weather conditions.

This is the season for fancy silk sunshades. A choice assortment is shown at Harry Adams' Store for women at $1.98, the regular prices being $2.50, $2.75 and $3.00.

Then children's wear, too pretty for a newspaper description, is shown at the "Bee Hive" in great variety. Here also, was noticed embroidered linens nicely embroidered blouses, and prettily tailored skirts. Linen skirts and suits, pretty, cool and durable. A white linen skirt, a neat blouse and belt, and the wearer need not feel out of place at any out-door gathering, or on the street, and the whole may be had for very, very little.

One-piece dresses, very airy and dainty, were on sale at Fair's in a range of prices to suit every purse. Women at $1.98, the regular prices ar wear. For the woman who has a lot of housework to do, woven underwear should prove a boon. Some claim that it is cooler than cotton and can be had very cheap in vests, drawers and corset covers. They are easily washed and do not require ironing.

Now that really good fresh Canadian strawberries can be had at a reasonable price, this favourite summer dish should form a portion of the morning and evening meals. They are coming in plentifully at Mason's Dutton's, Oke's, Brien's and other stores. New potatoes, tomatoes and rhubarb are for regular household supply.

If the housewife is feeling luxurious, she can get a bottle of Jersey cream too, from Coleman's confectionery to use on her strawberries or in her tea and coffee. Such a delicacy will be found far ahead of meats and heavy foods for this warm weather. The fountain and ice cream parlours at Coleman's are busy these days.

Henry Ward Beecher said: "A babe is a mother's anchor. She cannot swing far from her moorings. The old ark never made such voyage as the cradle." In guarding the child's health extra vigilance is required during hot weather. Apart from the mother's personal care and her good material sense, not much more is needed. Recourse is often made to the druggist for various helps in the infantile life, and there are some very useful adjuncts to the nursary shown at Payne's drug store. The closeness of Mr. Payne's prices in many staple lines has often been proven.

Just a word to housewives who would like to replenish their culinary ware. A good opportunity is offered by the Best Stove and Hardware Co. On Saturday next 240 pieces of imported graniteware, such as preserving kettles, water pails, saucepans, pudding dishes, etc., will be offered at 25c each. Take your choice—this chance is for one day only. See advt.

A cultivated appreciation of dress and attributes is no indication of a frivolous mind, as some badly dressed women would try to make out; on the contrary, a woman who dresses becoming and well within the limits of her purse gives much pleasure to all who look upon her. Moderns pay homage to beauty, but beauty must be correctly garbed. The blue-sashed and muslin-frocked pretty girl of the fairy tales would not get much attention at the season's dances, when the girl of the ordinary face but satin directoire gown would capture all the most desirable parties, and possibly the satin gown may not have cost much more than the muslin. The opportunities at the reduction sale at Richard Hall & Son's is making shopping brisk at that store. The range of summer novelties is very varied.

What "Examiner" Want Ads. Did

I came into this city fair,
A few short years ago.
My friends said "Stay here,
You'll get work within a week or so.
Just put an ad. in the EXAM.
And see what it will do."
I did so, and the result of it
I now will tell to you.

Next day when the postman called
He brought me letters nine,
All offering positions good
And salaries that were fine.
I chose the one I thought was best,
And moved my family here.
The next thing was to find a house
That to my work was near.

Another ad. I then wrote out,
And got the finest flat.
Then business boomed, my salary raised
Now here is where I'm at.
All from the EXAMS want ads. I got
A cosy home, a hired girl, and a boy to help me too,
An automobile all fired up
That's just the same as new.

A piano for my little girl,
A teacher for the same.
A summer cottage near the lake,
Now this is what's my aim—
To recommend EXAM. want ads.
To all within this clime.
For had it not been for their worth
These joys would not be mine.

A SERIOUS ILLNESS RELIEVED BY PE-RU-NA.

MRS. WILLIAM HENDERSON, Cralk, N. W. T., Can., writes:

"I was troubled with very serious internal weakness, which exhausted me so that I feared I would lose my mind.

"I suffered agony with my back, the pain extending down my left leg. The pain was so severe that I would have welcomed death as a relief.

"Peruna cured me of this trouble—no wonder I recommend it so highly.

"It will soon be two years since I found relief from the pain and not a sign of it has returned.

"I am glad that there is a way in which I can speak of this, as many a sufferer may read my testimonial, and not only read, but believe."

Had Given Up All Hope.

Mlle. Albina Cirouvin, No. 80 Rue Agnes, St. Henri, Montreal, Canada, writes:

"I consider Peruna better than any patent remedy, as it cured me when nothing else could.

"I suffered for years and years with heart trouble, headaches and weakness. I never expected to find anything to cure me.

"I tried Peruna and am entirely cured."

FRENCHMEN FOREGATHER.

The Progress Proposed For Congress at Montreal.

Montreal, June 23.—The great French congress, with 200 delegates, opened here yesterday. Long-headed citizens declare that they do not get much political benefit out of the procession and the speech-making, but that a great deal of good comes of the various branches of the Franco-American and the Franco-Canadian family meeting together and discussing subjects of profit to the people they represent.

On Thursday His Grace Archbishop Bruchesi will celebrate mass in the open air at Lafontaine Park, while Rev. Father O'Clair will preach, and on the following day, H. Bourassa, M.P.P., F. D. Monk, M.P., and Senator Dandurand will give addresses.

The last time a great open air religious ceremony took place in Quebec Province was on the Plains of Abraham, when Cardinal Taschereau said mass and Bishop Racine of Chicoutimi addressed the people. Later on, Chapleau spoke, yet all of these distinguished men have long since passed away. French Canada has made much progress, but her orators are no more celebrated to-day than those of a quarter of a century ago.

The election of the officials for the congress was by acclamation: Honorary President, Archbishop Bruchesi; chairman, J. C. Beauchamp; vice-presidents, C. F. Delage, M.P.P., and Dr. J. Brien, of Fall River, Mass.; secretary, J. B. Lagace; chaplain, Rev. F. Perrier.

A Canadian Navy.

Montreal, June 23.—Montreal is to be sacrificed to Quebec as a port.

In Montreal to the Chambre de Commerce Hon. Mr. Brodeur said that there was a question whether the drydock should be at Montreal or Quebec. The majority of the accidents were at Quebec or below it, and ship owners thought that was the place for it.

At Quebec, Hon. Mr. Pugsley said the Government would take up the development of the port of Quebec as the summer port of Canada.

Mr. Brodeur also announced, for the first time, that the Government's policy is to construct a Canadian navy.

"This policy," he said, "should not strike anyone as surprising. It is quite natural. States of South America, such as Colombia and Paraguay, have their own navy. The Canadian Government wishes to participate in the defence of the Empire, but at the same time to safeguard its autonomy and the control of its contributions."

Boys' Dangerous Pranks.

Welland, June 23.—George Barrick and Frank Bassane, aged 8 and 11 years who threw a switch at the Michigan Central and derailed two freight cars, were given their liberty after bonds for their good behavior were furnished. George Minor, a Barnardo boy, aged 16 years, who changed the railway block signals on the Michigan Central main line, causing a signal for a clear track to be shown when there was a train on the block ahead, is remanded for a week.

Engineers to Visit M.C.R. Tunnel.

Toronto, June 23.—The Canadian Society of Civil Engineers will hold their annual excursion this year to Windsor and Detroit. The Toronto members will join the Montreal and Ottawa contingents at the Union Station on Thursday morning, and the party will reach Detroit in time to see the last section of the Michigan Central Railway tunnel between Windsor and Detroit placed in position.

To the Pole by Balloon.

Christiania, June 23.—Walter Wellman and the other members of the expedition that is to make an attempt to reach the north pole by balloon, left here yesterday afternoon for Tromscoe on their way to Spitsbergen, where it is purposed to make the start.

Drowns in a Slough.

Winnipeg, Man., June 23.—Henry Dewson, aged 40, of Winnipeg, was found drowned in a slough near Portage la Prairie, yesterday morning. It is thought he committed suicide. He leaves a wife and two children living here.

Wanted $50 for Promotion.

Montreal, June 23.—At yesterday's session of the royal commission Capt. Naud, who had been 31 years on the fire department, stated that Sub-Chief Dubois had on one occasion asked $50 from him to obtain a promotion.

U. S. Duty on Hides.

Washington, June 23.—In the Senate the amendment of the finance committee fixing a duty of fifteen per cent. ad valorem on hides was agreed to by a vote of 46 to 39.

St. Kitts' New Police Chief.

St. Catharines, June 23.—Henry Greene, patrol sergeant of the London police force, has been appointed chief of police here.

Boy Drowns.

Cheese—Steady; unchanged; receipts, 15,815.

Eggs—Irregular; receipts, 21,558; State Penna. and nearby fancy, selected white, 26c to 27c; do., fair to choice, 23½c to 25c; brown and mixed, fancy, 25½c to 26c; do., fair to choice, 21½c to 23c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Firm—Hogs Active and Lower at Buffalo and Chicago.

LONDON, June 22.—London cables for cattle are firm, at 13½c to 14½c per lb. for Canadian steers, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 10½c to 10½c per lb.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, June 22.—The railways reported 78 carloads of live stock at the City Market, consisting of 1219 cattle, 693 hogs, 755 sheep and lambs, with 176 calves.

Exporters.

Exporters sold at $6 to $6.35—for steers, and bulls at $4.75 to $5.25.

Butchers.

Prime picked lots sold at from $5.75 to $6; loads of good at $5.50 to $5.75; medium at $5.15 to $5.40; common, $4.85 to $5; cows, $3.25 to $4.50; canners, $2.40 to $3.25.

Milkers and Springers.

Drovers were expressing a great deal of dissatisfaction in reference to the cow market, many of them stating that they had lost money. But a prime quality cow will still bring a good price. Prices ranged from $30 to $60, the bulk of the best selling at $40 to $50. Common cows, ill-bred cows are cheap, with a light demand for them.

Veal Calves.

Moderate receipts met a fairly strong market for veal calves, which sold at $3 to $6 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

A fair run of sheep and lambs and steady prices. Heavy ewes, $5 to $5.25; light ewes, $4 to $4.50; rams, $3 to $3.50; spring lambs sold at $7c to $8c per lb.

Hogs.

Hogs have again rebounded, the quotations for Selects, fed and watered, going up $1 per cwt., and $5.75 f.o.b. cars at shipping points.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, June 22.—Cattle—Steady; prime steers, $6.25 to $6.35; Veals—Receipts, 25 head; active and steady.

Hogs—Receipts, 800 head; fairly active, light, steady; heavy, $6 to $6.10; lower; heavy and mixed, $6.05 to $6.20; closing, $6.00 to $6.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 400 head; steady; sheep slow; lambs active; yorkers, $5.50 to $5.60.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Beeves—Receipts, 164; all for slaughterers. Nothing doing in live cattle; nominally steady. Exports to-morrow, 1600 quarters of beef, barely estimated.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 3244; sheep steady; good lambs full steady; medium grades slow to a shade lower; sheep, $3.50 to $5; lambs, $6.25 to $8.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, June 22.—Cattle—Receipts, estimated at 2000; market steady; beeves, $5.50 to $7.25; Texas steers, $4.60 to $6.15; western steers, $4.75 to $6.35; stockers and feeders, $2.60 to $4.85; cows and heifers, $2.60 to $5.30; calves, $5.50 to $7.75.

Hogs—Receipts, estimated at 23,000; market 5c to 10c lower; light, $6.30 to $7.05; mixed, $7.40 to $8.10; heavy, $7.50 to $7.70; good to choice heavy, $7.20 to $8.10; pigs, $6.20 to $7.10; bulk of sales, $7.05 to $7.50.

Sheep—Receipts, estimated at $12,000; market weak; native, $3.75 to $5.50; western, $3.75 to $5.90; yearlings, $6 to $7; lambs, native, $5 to $8.10; western, $5.50 to $8.20; spring lambs, $6.80 to $8.75.

New York, June 23.—White Star Line announced yesterday that for the rest of the summer the mails will be landed at Holyhead instead of Liverpool.

Took Poison by Mistake.

Carberry, Man., June 23.—Mrs. Henry Stewart, who was under the doctor's care, took strychnine instead of medicine in error with fatal results.

Unions to Fight Consumption.

Toronto, June 23.—A. J. Portman Dansby, director of the labor department of the State Charities Aid Association, before the International Boot and Shoe Convention here, yesterday announced that a state league to be formed of representatives of labor unions will be organized this fall to fight consumption and he urged that a national league be formed. He declared that sweat shops must be eradicated.

Lake Steamer Is Rammed.

Alpena, Mich., June 23.—The steamer W. P. Thew, owned by Hugh B. Havey of Detroit, was sunk yesterday off Thunder Bay Island by the steamer Livingstone. Capt. E. W. Duncan and the crew of eleven men escaped in yawls.

The collision occurred during a heavy fog. The big steel steamer Livingstone rammed into the smaller boat, the Thew being but 32 feet long.

Heroine Loses Her Life.

Ottawa, June 23.—A double drowning took place Sunday afternoon near the Village of Lac. The victims were the 11-year-old son of Michael McCrank, and Miss Nellie Daly, aged 17, only daughter of Timothy Daly, who lost her life in attempting to rescue the boy.

McCrank was splashing his feet in the lake and fell in. Miss Daly went to render assistance and also fell in.

Beneficiaries to Pray For Him.

Ottawa, June 23.—Of an estate of $5,000 left by Telesphore Lavergne of Hull, who died recently, $3,000 is to be held in trust by Father Prevost of Oblate Order, to be expended in preparing young men for the priesthood.

The condition of the will is that when those benefitted by the money amount to the priesthood, they will offer prayers for the rest of his soul.

Challenge Shield for Cadets.

Ottawa, June 23.—Earl Grey will give a challenge shield to the town of city with 5,000 inhabitants or over, or to the county not having within its borders a town of 5,000 inhabitants, which can show the greatest percentage of cadets to its population on May 24, 1910.

The shield will be held by the most efficient cadet corps of the winning city, town or county.

May Go to Privy Council.

Montreal, June 23.—Armand Lavergne, M.P.P., stated yesterday that, if necessary, the Jules Fournier case will be appealed to the Privy Council. He claims there is no contempt of court in the article that caused the arrest, as the court had ceased sitting.

Alfonso Father of a Girl.

La Granja, Spain, June 23.—Queen Victoria gave birth to a daughter at 8.25 a.m. yesterday.

Her first two children are boys, Prince Alfonso, born May 10, 1907, and Prince Jaime, born June 26, 1908. The royal couple hoped for a girl.

R. M. C. Commissions.

Kingston, June 23.—Royal Military College commissions are granted as follows: Royal Engineers, B. S. M. Grassett, Toronto; Royal Field Artillery, Corpl. Wankyou, Montreal; Sergt. Wartell, Quebec; Royal Canadian Engineers, Corpl. Lawrence, Stratford, Corpl. Dunbar, Montreal.

Not Liable For Income Tax.

London, June 23.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—An appeal against the decision making the Hudson Bay Co. liable for an income tax on land sales was heard yesterday. The court reversed the judgment.

ZAM-BUK CURES SUNBURN

Don't have your vacation spoiled by the pain of sunburn; and don't have your skin permanently freckled from the same cause.

Zam-Buk contains herbal extracts and juices which not only ease the pain of sunburn, but prevent unpleasant results from it. Zam-Buk applied to a bad burn gives speedy ease. It also soothes blisters, aching feet, chafed places, insect stings, etc. See that you take it with you to the country!

Mothers should know that for baby's chafed places it is better than powder. Also for heat rashes, eczema, prairie itch, etc. Sufferers from piles will find it indispensable. All druggists and stores.

A VERY BAD STRETCH OF BOUNDARY HIGHWAY

Persons who have used or suffered in travelling, the boundary road between North Monaghan and Cavan, from Scott's Corners, north to the first concession of Smith, are unanimous that it is worst piece of road to be found between South Monaghan and Minden; that, even in the most unfrequented colonization road districts of this vicinity, can nothing worse be found. In these districts, owing to various causes, the roads are neglected, but to nothing like the extent the road in question is, judging by the condition, left severely alone. This is all the more surprising when North Monaghan, in its own road system, rather excels other municipalities. The people of the vicinity and others who have to use the boundary line referred to, are unanimous in asserting that its condition is a disgrace to the two adjoining townships, and the surprise is continuous that something is not done to improve it.

HAVE RETURNED FROM TRIP TO MINE

On Thursday last a party of Peterborough gentlemen consisting of Messrs. J. C. Shook, R. J. Monette, P. E. Rutherford, R. A. Elliott and Wm. Thackeray returned from a ten days' trip to the Hanson mine, where they have made large investments. Their inspection of the property with its splendid equipment has made them most optimistic, and they consider the future of the mine assured.

The claim consists of 1364⅔ acres located near Silver Mountain, Nor'der Bay District, on the Duluth branch of the Canadian Northern, 38 miles southwest of Port Arthur.

NEWS FROM THE FRONT

What the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons Are Doing in Camp at Nassau.

Nassau, June 22. — To-day several more tents were erected and the camp is complete, and everything is going along in perfect harmony. The day was very warm, but both men and horses stood the test of their first drill on the new field. Although it is not just as lively here as in the midst of a great city, yet there is no monotony, as the camp is on the bank of the Otonabee, which, from here to Lakefield, forms a part of the Trent Valley Canal, and boats are constantly passing to and fro. Another evidence of activity is the G. T. R. train on its thrice-a-day trips to Lakefield.

This evening was a most beautiful one, and a party of ladies and gentlemen came up from the city and were entertained to tea by the officers.

The men were nearly all off duty and spent the evening in various ways. Some took a trip to the city on foot, and others went for a stroll along the river and a few went over to the swing bridge, when the Steamer "Water Lily" was passing through.

Daily Routine.

The life of the cavalryman in camp is not just a vacation, as he must rise early and keep busy all day. Regular hours are adhered to and strict discipline enforced, and there is no lounging around only at the time set apart for rest and recreation. The daily routine is:

5.30 a.m.—Reveille.
6.00-6.45.—Stables.
7.00—Men's breakfast.
7.30—Officers' mess.
8.30—Turnout for parade.
8.45—Regimental turnout.
9.00—March off.
11.30—Dismiss from parade.
1.00 p.m.—Men's dinner and Officers' lunch.
1.45-4.30—Afternoon parade.
5.00—Stables.
6.00—Men's supper.
6.30—Officers' dinner.
6.30—Guard mounting.
7.20—Retreat.
9.30—First post.
10.00—Last post.
10.15—Lights out.

To-day the following orders were issued:

Peterborough Camp, June 22, 1909.

Regimental orders:

1. Sale of liquor or intoxicants of any description is absolutely prohibited. Any breach of this order will be severely dealt with.

2. Camp bounds—All lands outside the fences enclosing the field in which the camp is pitched are out of bounds.

3. White covers—While the white cap covers are in order they are to be worn only by the officers. While off camp the attention is drawn to Squadron Commanders that they see that all men going out of camp are properly dressed.

4. No refuse whatever is to be deposited in the river. Anyone violating this order will be severely dealt with.

5. Field Officer to-day—Maj. Johnston; next for duty, Maj. McCullough.

6. Orderly Officer today, Lieut. Dudley; next for duty, Lieut. Anderson.

In the list of the officers of the respective squadrons, given below, there is a seeming inconsistency, as some have more officers than others, but this is explained by the fact that each squadron is at half strength, and hence the full complement of officers is not necessary for each.

Squadron A, Colborne—Under command of Major McLaughlin; other officers are, Captain Dudley, Lieut. Edmison, S. S. M. Ventress, S. Q. M. S. Purdy.

Squadron B, Millbrook—Under command of Major Davis, Lieut. A. W. Medd, S. S. M., H. Wood, S. Q. M. S., H. Blakely, Farrier Sergeant, C. Armstrong, Sergeant W. Armstrong.

Squadron C, Peterborough — Under command of Major Johnston, Lieuts. Cleghorn and Anderson, S. S. M., F. Dixon; S. Q. M. S. W. Bell, S. F. S. S. Garbutt; Sergeants, G. Elmhirst, S Miller, W. Pue; Corporals, S. Elmhirst, R. Spears, E. Lynch, W. Carveth, F. Hamblin.

Squadron D, Wellington — Under command of Major McCullough, Lieut. H. E. Boyce, Sergt.-Major J. J. Taft, Sergeants Brown, Taft and Young; Trumpeter, Ed. Sadler; Coroporals Young, Henry and Kemp; Saddler, Roy Stuart; shoeing smith, Forshee.

The Staff.

As some additions have been made to the staff the full list has now been ascertained and is given below:

Officer Commanding, Lieut.-Col. Syer, Millbrook.

Quartermaster, Capt. Smith, Cobourg.

Adjutant—Capt. Medd, Peterborough.

Medical Officer—Dr. Douglas, Veterinary Officer; Capt. Poole, Peterborough, Chaplain; Hon. Capt., Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, Peterborough.

Regimental Sergeant Major — J. Paul, Millbrook.

Regimental Orderly Sergeant.—T. A. Syer, Millbrook.

Regimental Q. M. Sergeant—O. E. Hutchinson, Millbrook.

Regimental Paymaster Sergeant—N. Murphy, Wellington.

STREETS IN CENTRE OF CITY TO BE WATERED SUNDAY MORNINGS

At a meeting of the Board of Works last evening it was decided to have the streets in the centre of the city watered on Sunday mornings. The dust was very bad last Sunday, and the action of the Board of Works will no doubt meet with the hearty approval of the citizens. Ald. Phelan, Chairman of the Committee, presided, and all the members were present.

The whole system of street watering was again talked of and many complaints were made. As a result a lot of fines will be imposed on the contractors who are neglecting their work. Several other matters of interest were also put through by the board.

Ald. McIntyre brought up the matter of watering the streets in the centre of the city on Sunday. This was generally favoured.

Ald. Morgan suggested that the streets be watered in the outskirts of the city.

Moved by Ald. McIntyre and Turner that the streets in the centre of the city be watered on Sundays, and the motion carried.

Mr. C. Clementi was given permission to cut down a tree in front of his residence on Water street.

The wardens of St. John's Church wrote to the Board of Works stating that they had reconsidered their opposition to the building of the sidewalk on the south side of Brock St., behind St. John's Church and that they would be willing to have the walk constructed now as advertised.

On motion a by-law was ordered to be prepared for the next council meeting confirming the construction of this walk.

Tenders For New Library Will Be Received Up To July 2nd

A special meeting of the City Council was held last evening, Mayor Rush in the chair, and the following aldermen were present: Aldermen Duncan, Gillespie, Buller, Duffus, Metheral and Phelan. The meeting was called for the purpose of accepting the specifications and plans for the new Public Library. Upon motion of Alderman Duncan, seconded by Alderman Buller, that the report of the Property Committee recommending that the plans and specifications of Architects Belcher and Blackwell be accepted and that tenders for the new Public Library be advertised for, to be received up until July the second. Carried.

Upon motion of Alderman Metheral and Alderman Duncan, the account of Maitland and Moore was ordered to be paid.

What action is to be taken in the matter of the Cameron Septic Tank Co. threatening to sue the city was taken up. The city's septic tank is similar to one for which this Chicago company has the patent and they are claiming $150 royalty from the city. The city solicitor, Mr. E. H. D. Hall and Alderman Phelan attended a meeting of municipalities interested in Toronto a short while ago and another one is to be held there on Thursday. Mr. Hall and Alderman Phelan will attend the meeting on Thursday and were instructed to take whatever action they deemed advisable.

SOME FINE CATCHES IN LITTLE LAKE

The fishing on Little Lake continues good, and many good catches are being made. Mr. A. Callander caught a fine eight-pound 'lunge off the Mark St. wharf. Mr. Harry Adams was trawling on the lake and landed about a ten-pounder. Merton Adams caught a 'lunge last night.

IN AGONY WITH PILES

Mr. G. W. Cornell, with the Shaw Milling Co., St. Catharines, Ont., writes, "For six years I was a victim of itching, protruding piles and was in dreadful agony day and night. Doctors were unable to help me and I was about as miserable as any creature could be. My druggist advised me to try Dr. Chase's Ointment, which I did and obtained relief from the first box and complete cure with the second. This ointment would be cheap at fifty dollars a box in view of what it did for me."

INTERESTING ITEMS FROM HASTINGS

STRATHORMOND ENTERTAINS PETERBOROUGH ASTRONOMERS

Hon. J. R. and Mrs. Stratton Give Delightful Evening to Peterborough Centre of Royal Astronomical Society and Other Citizens.

As one star differeth from another in glory, so did the function at Strathormond last night differ in excellence and successful fruition of its objects from similar gatherings. The members of the Peterborough Centre of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada, were guests of Hon. Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Stratton. There were present, besides, a large number of citizens—ladies and gentlemen—also to enjoy a hospitality as graceful as it was effective and an evening of rare social enjoyment and an opportunity of closer acquaintance with the greater and lesser luminaries that glittered in the clear expanse of a cloudless summer sky. The weather conditions were in keeping with the arrangements for the astronomic fete—perfect. The intense hot weather of the day had resolved itself into a genial warmth of balmy atmosphere peculiar to leafy June.

The beautiful and spacious grounds were brilliantly lighted by vari-coloured electric lights. Seats at the edges of rugs were disposed through the grounds, and the members of the society had placed three telescopes for the use of the company—one, Rev. Dr. Marsh's five-inch Brashear instrument, and two three-inch lenses, one belonging to the society and the other, owned by Mr. H. B. Collier, the vice-president, who with Dr. Marsh, president, was unremitting in his efforts for the scientific success of the occasion. These were manipulated by the more expert members, Dr. Marsh, of course, adjusting his own splendid instrument, whose full power owing to its having to be placed upon a portable tripod which did not provide the necessary rigidity and fixity of support, was not, unfortunately available.

In fine, everything had been done to contribute to the pleasure of the evening. Upon the western and lower plateau of the lawn were stationed the Fifty-Seventh Band and the refreshment marquee. The tuneful music of the band floated out upon the tepid summer air and blended, not unharmoniously, with the music of the spheres which the guests were enjoying.

The views obtained, through the telescopes, of the heavenly bodies, the chief planets in the visible field, the most popularly known fixed stars and above all the crescent moon, which hung her silver arc in the western heavens, were viewed with delight, and aroused and evoked an interest in the spectators, which will be more than transitory and showed to what extent one object of the society, to popularise interest in the fascinating study of astronomy—a prelude to a deeper and more practical interest—were subserved by the thoughtful hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Stratton.

The object of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada is to encourage the study of astronomy principally among the members and to popularize interest in it.

That this end, especially the latter feature of the society's object, was admirably subserved last night goes without saying. The expressions of delight and astonishment of those to whom telescopic acquaintance with the stars was a new experience, the intelligent demands for information and the general anxiety of interest shown demonstrated an enlistment of popular sympathy with the subject which will strengthen the hold of the Peterborough Centre upon popular favour.

After the distribution of the welcome refreshments — a welcome menu of daintily served ices and cooling drinks, there was a little speaking. A feature of the gathering was the presence of Dr. King, C. M., G., LL.D., Chief Astronomer of the Government Observatory, Ottawa, and honorary president of the Royal Astronimical Society of Canada, and of Dr. Stratton, of Napanee.

Mr. T. F. Matthews took the chair on the piazza, and on the platform were Dr. King, Dr. Marsh, Dr. Stratton, Mr. Robert Fair, Mr. and Mrs. Stratton, and Mr. H. B. Collier, vice-president of the Peterborough Centre.

Rev. Dr. Marsh, president, on behalf of the members most cordially—"as heartily as words would express"—thanked Mr. and Mrs. Stratton for their unbounded hospitality on the occasion. He stated that the object of the society was to encourage and popularize the study of astronomy. He added that the government helped the work of the society by a grant of $2,000. The society was without sect or politics and was open to all classes of seekers after knowledge. He asked to consider the gathering a meeting of the society for the purpose of admitting a new member. Rev. Father McCann, Rector of St. Peter's Cathedral had been proposed by Mr. Robert Fair, and seconded by Mr. H. B. Collier. The secretary was instructed to cast a favourable ballot, and the Reverend Father was duly enrolled a member of the Peterborough Centre of the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada. Dr. Marsh concluded his remarks by again expressing his cordial thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Stratton.

Dr. King pointed out that the society was composed of members in various parts of Canada and where there were enough, organization was effected, a local centre formed and meetings held These centres were Peterborough, Ottawa, Hamilton and Toronto. The membership was between 600 and 700. The reading of papers and astronomical observations were features of the meetings. The study of astronomy varied so greatly in scope as to be open to all, from the child to the man of science. When one considered the importance of the subject and its intimate relation to general scientific research and development, and its high educational value it was a surprise that it did not occupy a more permanent place upon the curricula of our universities. He was pleased that the Peterborough Board of Education had shown its interest in the study by placing a room in the Collegiate Institute buildings, at the service of the society. He had very warm words of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Stratton, for the hospitality which had served a double purpose, the enjoyment of the evening and the promotion of the interests of the society.

Dr. Stratton, of Napanee read a carefully-prepared and scientific paper on light in its relation to astronomical influences and Mr. R. Fair, chairman of the Board of Education expressed the pleasure it had given the Board and would continue to give it, to help the objects of the society by giving it shelter in the Institute buildings.

The band played the National Anthem and the happy gathering separated, after a most delightful evening of enjoyment, whether regarded from the viewpoint of hospitality, social enjoyment, or scientific interest and entertainment. The night of June 22 will be red-lettered in the calendar of the Peterborough Centre of the Astronomical Society of Canada.

LAWN SOCIAL GREAT SUCCESS

The lawn social of the Murray St. Baptist Young Ladies, held last evening, was most enjoyable and successful. The lawn was decorated tastefully with flags, etc., by Messrs. Turner & Sons, brilliantly illuminated by electric lights and Japanese lanterns. Music was furnished by Miss Hope Miller and Messrs. Cunningham, Seymour and Schneider. Strawberries, ice cream, cake, and candies were served in abundance. The weather was favourable. The patronage was liberal and all seemed to enjoy a happy social evening.

BUSINESS CONTINUED AS FORMERLY

Although death has removed Mr. James Authors, the founder of the firm Authors & Cox, Manufacturers of Artificial Limbs, Trusses and Deformity Appliances, the business will go along as formerly, under the management of Mr. T. J. Le Cras, Mr. Authors' son-in-law, who has been actively engaged in the management of the business since Mr. Authors' retirement from active business life some years ago.

Mr. Le Cras has had a wide experience in the manufacture and fitting of artificial limbs, trusses and deformity appliances extending over 26 years, part of which has been in the United States, but latterly, for the past ten years, he has been associated with this firm, and closely identified with its conduct. Mr. Le Cras has a firm grasp of all the details of the business, both scientific and mechanical, having worked up from the bench and later carried on careful scientific and anatomical studies, which thoroughly fit him for properly applying such knowledge as he has acquired.

Patrons of this enterprising firm are assured of the same careful and expert attention and superior workmanship in everything of their manufacture that has marked their past dealings. Their factory is up-to-date in every respect, all the latest and best machinery for their purpose having been installed, and only competent, trained men are employed.

Chinaman's Room Mate Tells How Teacher Was Slain.

DRUGGED AND STRANGLED

Chong Sing Breaks Down Under Third Degree and Describes Going Into Room Where the Murdered Girl's Body Lay and Finding That It Was Still Warm—Leon is Still at Liberty.

New York, June 23.—Bullied and intimidated by detectives, threatened with prosecution and confused with a rapid fire of questions, Chong Sing, one time room-mate of Leon Ling, told yesterday afternoon of the murder of Miss Sigel, Ling's Sunday school teacher in New York. Under the terrific pressure of the third degree, the little Chinaman admitted that he had seen the body in Leon Ling's room over the Eighth avenue chop suey restaurant, and that he had touched it while it was still warm; that he had smelled drugs, and had watched Leon Ling's preparations for placing the body in the trunk, where it was found horribly decomposed on Friday night last.

Chong Sing, in fact, if what was learned at the criminal courts yesterday is correct, described almost everything concerning the murder of the girl except the actual commission of the crime. He denied any implication in it, and protested stoutly that he was ignorant of the whereabouts of Leon Ling, the supposed murderer.

All day he was bullied, persuaded and entangled in a mass of questions by the detectives and lawyers, but it was not till late in the afternoon that he broke down and told what he knew of the young missionary's death. He was told that Leon Ling had been captured and had laid the blame upon his (Chong Sing's) shoulders. This, together with the persistent hammering at the prisoner, brought the confession.

From the man's story it is apparent that Elsie Sigel was first drugged with chloroform and then choked to death. She was killed apparently on the night of June 9, although Chong Sing appeared a little mixed in his dates. But he says that early in the morning of June 10 he heard a strange noise in Leon's room adjoining his, and, looking over the transom, saw the girl lying on the bed with a bloody towel over her mouth. He passed through the room to go out to wash his hands and as he did so felt the body, which was still warm. Afterwards he went down to the chop suey restaurant below, then returned to the room. Leon in the meantime had covered the body with a blanket up to the chin and had pulled a trunk to the middle of the floor. This trunk, Leon was calmly emptying preparatory to placing the body therein. The rope with which the body was bound was lying on the floor at the time, according to Chong Sing. One night between devotions, said Chong Sing, Where he remained until Leon called him. When he entered the room the body was not visible, having been bound with rope and placed in the trunk.

Killed at Cobalt.

Cobalt, June 23.—Harry Davis, a teamster, was killed yesterday morning at Badger mine. Davis was assisting in repairing a cage when he was caught and jammed. Deceased was a native of Greenview, Hastings county, aged 34. His wife died about a year ago, leaving four small children, who were with Davis. His mother lives at Greenview, where the body will be sent. Three brothers live in camp, two of them employed in the Coniagas mine.

The Cretan Situation.

London, June 23.—It was officially announced here yesterday that when the international troops are withdrawn from the Island of Crete at the end of July, foreign guardships will be stationed in Cretan waters to protect the Turkish flag, which is the only emblem of Turkish sovereignty now remaining, and to assure the maintenance of tranquility and the protection of Mussulmans.

Laundry Licenses Go Up.

Kingston, June 23.—The General Hospital will erect two cottages for cases of tuberculosis patients.

In order to keep Chinamen under control, the City Council will make the laundry license $50 and $25 for a transfer of business.

There may have ling of the feet and f the urinary organs, eposit in the urine, highly colored scanty or cloudy urine, bladder pains, frequent or suppressed urination, burning sensation when urinating, etc.

Do not neglect any of these symptoms, for, if neglected they will eventually lead to Bright's Disease, Dropsy and Diabetes.

On the first sign of anything wrong Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken. They go to the seat of trouble, strengthen the kidneys and help them to filter the blood properly and flush off all the impurities which cause kidney trouble.

Miss Albertha B. Clarke, Stony Creek, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with kidney trouble for several years; my back was weak, I had such terrible headaches, and was so restless I could not sleep at night and tried everything without any benefit. Meantime a friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, so I got four boxes and they completely cured me. I now feel as well as I ever did and would advise everyone suffering from Kidney Disease to try them."

Price 50 cts. per box, or 3 for $1.25, all dealers or The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

When ordering specify "Doan's."

Through a Bridge.

Guelph, June 23.—Only a collision with a telegraph post prevented W. H. Beattie, druggist of this city, from being hurled by a runaway horse over the C.P.R. trestle bridge near the depot into the river below. Freed from the buggy in the collision, the frightened animal, owned by Mr. La Fontaine, bolted on the bridge. Its hoofs became lodged in the trestle work, and it rolled over into the river about 25 feet below. Mr. Beattie, who was thrown out unhurt, waded into the water, about four feet deep, but the animal could not be made to budge. Thinking that its back or neck was broken, it was finally decided to let the animal drown, but no sooner did it get its head under water than it revived and struggled out. Little worse for the experience. Mr. Beattie was unhurt, and only the buggy suffered damage.

Must Change Attitude.

Ottawa, June 23.—At the opening of the Anglican Synod of the Diocese of Ottawa yesterday, the Lord Archbishop of Ottawa said that three most important changes in Christian attitude were needed.

The false idea that the church officers were to be the only workers must be dropped.

Our ideas as to the value of the ministerial life should be amplified. Only then would the young be attracted to a life which must always be a life of self-denial.

There must be a greater use made of lay help. The clergy and the laity must go hand in hand in attacking the forces of modern indifference. Every brotherhood should be encouraged and steps should be taken to form guilds of church workers.

Child Can Choose.

Quebec, June 23.—In the Bulmer habeas corpus proceedings yesterday, Sir Francois Langelier quashed the writ without costs, giving the ten-year-old daughter of the parties into the custody of the mother. The judge said that the object of the writ should not be to enforce paternal authority, but to permit freedom of action, and as the child was of an age to be able to decide for herself, and had declared she would prefer the custody of her mother, the court would so decide. The Bulmers were married in Montreal in 1893. Three years later Mrs. Bulmer left her husband and in 1905 took an action against him for separation. This she lost, the court awarding the father custody of the child. This order was never obeyed.

Bees Swarm on Baby.

Detroit, June 23.—A Holland, Mich., special last night says: The fifteen-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Van Deewen of this place, is lying at the point of death, swollen out of all semblance to a human being as the result of being stung by hundreds of bees. The child was playing in the yard of her home, where the bees are kept, when they swarmed on her. When discovered by her mother the little one was completely covered by bees. Her father and a farm hand, summoned by the mother's screams, managed to drive the bees away, but not before the child had been terribly stung. Physicians say the child cannot recover.

Accident Near Glanworth.

London, Ont., June 23.—An accident occurred yesterday afternoon on the Pere Marquette line near Glanworth that came near proving serious. A train was returning from Port Stanley, where it had landed a great crowd, who attended the St. George's and Sons of England picnic, when a journal on the engine broke and a car was thrown from the track. The coach was pitched clear of the rails and the track ripped up for some distance. Fortunately the cars were empty, so no one was hurt. The line was blocked for some time, and lake-bound trains were delayed.

VANCOUVER TRAIN WAS HELD UP

Masked Bandits Go Through Passengers in Rockies.

ERROR IN CALCULATIONS

Robbers Believed They Were Holding Up Train Carrying Bar Silver to the Coast But Failed to Get Anything of Value—Many Shots Are Fired at Trainmen, But No Person Received Injuries.

Kamloops, B.C., June 23.—Vancouver train No. 97 was held up by five masked men at Ducks Monday night. They had mistaken it for No. 5, carrying 90 silver bars of 70 pounds each to the coast.

Two men climbed over the tender at Notch Hill and compelled the engineer to stop at Ducks, where four men were waiting alongside a camp fire. All were armed with Winchesters. They compelled the fireman to break open the express car, but found nothing in it. Immediately afterwards the robbers got in a boat and started for the north side of Shuswap Lake. A posse is in pursuit.

No. 97 was running several hours late, in charge of Conductor Sam Elliott, who was in charge of the train held up near Ducks by Bill Miner two years ago. The train had stopped at Pemberton siding to pick up some repairers, and one of the robbers boarded at that point. Shortly after leaving he crawled down over the tender and assisted Engineer Mac Crawford.

"You run the train until you come to a fire along the side of the track," was the robber's command, and it was obeyed. When the train stopped two other men came to the assistance of the first. All wore masks and were heavily armed. The fireman was ordered down out of the cab and also the engineer. The fireman started to uncouple the engine, but was stopped by one of the robbers.

"You don't need to do that; we don't do things like Bill Miner. We can hold up a train as she stands," he said. With that the robbers set about their business. Coming to the express car, they found it sealed, for 97 does not carry an express messenger and everything is sent through in sealed packets. Handing Engineer Crawford a few sticks of dynamite, they demanded that he blow up the car. Knowing that the car was empty, Engineer Crawford protested, whereupon the robbers battered in the door.

The car went was visited and Mail Clerk Allan had the honor of escorting the robbers through the car.

Nothing valuable was found and the robbers ran back to the engine and told Crawford that everything was all right and to go ahead. Brakeman Ashton ran ahead during the operations to investigate, but was driven back by the robbers, who fired at him three times.

There was considerable firing throughout, but this was more for the purpose of frightening members of the crew.

Four saddle horses were stolen from the stables of the Pioneer poultry ranch Monday night, and it is thought that they were taken by the train bandits to aid their escape.

Walker Slightly Favored.

London, June 23.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The keenest interest is being manifested in the sprint championship, which is heightened by the international character of the contests; the present opinion, especially for shorter distances, slightly favors Walker, who beat Gastmeil Saturday, running with wind, in 10.00 flat. Kerr, however, won more easily than seemed at Stamford Bridge and naturally he is not in championship trim yet, while the track there is rather slow. The fight between the South African and Canadian alone will be sufficient to draw a big crowd.

Peat For Gas.

Ottawa, June 23.—A contract has been awarded for the construction of an experimental plant at Ottawa to be used by the Mines Branch under Dr. Haanel, for the purpose of ascertaining the value of peat in making producer gas. It is held that peat can be made for smelting and other fuel purposes. The station will cost about $13,000. The contract has been given to Dorian & Devlin of Ottawa, the lowest tenderers.

The "Hecla" Furnace

These Grate Bars Mean a Clean Fire and no Coal Wasted.

There are four grate bars in the "Hecla." Each can be shaken separately. When the center of the fire is bright, and the outside dead, simply shake the outside bars. If any part of the fire needs cleaning, that one part may be cleaned without disturbing the live coals or unburnt fuel in any other part of the fire-pot.

"Hecla" Grate Bars are easy to shake, clean the fire without a poker, save coal and make sifting ashes unnecessary.

The "Hecla" also has the famous Fused Joints—that make this furnace absolutely and permanently gas, smoke and dust proof.

He was surprised at how the sores healed—"I took your New Method Treatment for a serious blood disease with which I had been afflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians, taken all kinds of blood medicine, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after disregarding the special diet the symptoms would break out again—running sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, looseness of the hair, swellings of the glands, pains in the bones, scaling, blotches on the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 6 years ago. I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks' time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the New Method Treatment for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no signs of any disease since. My boy, three years old, is sound and healthy. I certainly can recommend your treatment with all my heart. You can refer any person to me privately, but you can use this testimonial as you wish." W. IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

A MATINEE OF TURF CLUB PRODUCED SOME GOOD SPORT

Attendance Was Not Large But the Racing Was Good Throughout---Patterson Won the Fast Class After an Extra Heat---Sadie's Green Race.

The weekly matinee of the Peterborough Turf Club was held at the Driving Park last evening, and some execellent sport was provided for a small-sized crowd. The enterprise of the Club in putting on a matinee is evidently not appreciated by the citizens, as the attendance has been poor at all the matinees, while the racing has been excellent and worthy of a much larger gate. It is hoped that in the future there will be larger attendances, as it is discouraging to the members of the Club to have their entertainments so little patronized.

There were two races on the card last evening, a fast class and a slow class race, which provided some excitement for the spectators. There were three entries in the fast class, Martin Conors' Lady Bothard, E. Jones' Patterson and W. Whitham's Queen's Bourbon. Lady Gothard won the first heat handily, but the second and third went to Patterson, thus giving the good Jones' stepper the race. Lady Gothard went out in front in the second heat and led until near the three-quarter pole, but Patterson had lots of speed in reserve, and flashed by the mare and won without trouble. There was nothing to the third heat but Patterson, although Queen's Bourbon, with Bennie Dunsford teaming, provided an unexpected opposition in the stretch, and was only beaten off in a driving finish.

The green race was easy for J. T. O'Connell's fast mare, Sadie, who cleaned up easily. There was a field of five green ones in this class, but Sadie was far too fast for her field and romped away from them. The other four had a race by themselves, and there was some lively changing of places during the heats.

Following were the results:

Class A—Fast Class.

Paterson, E. Jones	2	1	1
Lady Gothard, Martin Connors	1	2	3
Queen's Bourbon, W. Whitham	3	3	2

Time, 2.29¼, 2.28¼, 2.28.

Class B—Slow Class.

Sadie, J. T. O'Connell	1	1
Keta K., Lillico	3	2
Boy Billie, H. Walkey	2	4
Nellie K., J. Cox	5	3
Minnie K., H. Hall	4	5

Time, 2.33, 2.40.

SOME GREAT SHOOTING AT THE GUN CLUB'S PRACTICE

The best shooting of the year was done at the practice shoot of the Peterborough Gun Club held at the Driving Park last evening. The attendance was not large, but the members out had their shooting eyes on for fair, and the way in which they smashed the clay birds was worth seeing. Following were the scores made at 25 birds.

B. Tivey, 19 birds.
C. James, 19 birds.
C. Wood, 15 birds.
H. Routley, 19 birds.
L. Hall, 15 birds.

The next shoot of the Club will be held on Friday, July 2, at 7 p.m.

THIS WEEK'S GAMES WILL HAVE AN IMPORTANT EFFECT

The two games in the Senior City Baseball League on Saturday afternoon will have a very important effect on the standing inasmuch as one will decide whether or not the T. A. S. will finish the first round undefeated, while the other will put the Strathconas practically out of the race should they lose.

It is therefore certain that both games will be warm tussles, and will be fought until the last man is retired. The T. A. S. hook up with Park St. in the 2 o'clock game, the first time that the two have met this season, and it will be a lively battle as Park St. will have their strongest team in uniform for the occasion, while the Abstainers will have the same line-up that has brought them along so far without a defeat. The South Enders have a lot of supporters who claim that they will put the Indian sign on the cold water aggregation, which is some feat.

The West Ends and Strathconas clash for the second time in the 3.30 contest, and as the Commissioners are anxious for a chance to make up for their former defeat at the hands of the Occidental squad and the latter need the game to keep in the running there will be happenings all through the piece.

Lawn Bowling

The Frost Trophy competition is on and if the enthusiasm displayed last evening is an evidence of the interest shown, it means that the winner will have to pass through a number of hard fought games.

The club had a visit from a Keene rink last evening and while the score looks a little one-sided, the game was well contested all the way.

The rinks were as follows:

Keene	Peterborough
S. Smithson	Jno. MacKenzie
F. Dean	J. E. McIntyre
Mr. King	W. H. Dayman
Dr. McWilliams, skip—7.	T. Ed. Pratt, skip—24.

Also the following games played in Frost Trophy series:

Skip Dr. Holloway (13) vs. Skip R. M. Wadell (11).
Skip D. H. Moore (24) vs. Skip D. H. Koneghen (6).
Skip R. Kerr (12) vs. Skip W. Thompson (13).
Skip J. E. Fitzgerald (16) vs. Skip W. E. Talbot (15).

WITH THE RUNNERS.

Fred Simpson was in the city today and stated that he would start in the Marathon Derby in Belleville on July 1st, and hoped to make a good showing. He is hoping, however, that there will be none of this hot weather in sight for the holiday, as he cannot perform to good advantage in the heat. He would prefer a cool day with a slight rain, and if he gets the conditions he is looking for promises to make things lively for the big field that will fight it out in the Dead City.

Everything She Ate SEEMED A BURDEN TO CARRY.

HAD STOMACH TROUBLE FOUR YEARS.

When your food has not been properly digested, your body has not received the benefit it should. The exertions of the gastric juices have been confined entirely to removing the unmasticated undigested portions of food which they cannot properly digest as speedily as possible from the body, thereby only giving the blood a small percentage of nourishment with which to feed the tissues. Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the bowels, promotes perfect digestion, makes pure blood, tones the stomach, and thus restores perfect health and strength to the debilitated system.

Mrs. D. A. Francisco, Rossland, B.C., writes: "I was suffering from stomach trouble of the worst kind for about four years. Everything I ate seemed a burden to carry. I always arose in the morning with a sickening and feverish taste in my mouth and was also troubled with swellings in my hands and feet, which my physician said was due to the disordered state of my stomach. I tried everything that was purchasable, and also consulted two or three physicians, but could find no relief until one of my neighbors told me of a wonderful cure by Burdock Blood Bitters. I used altogether ten bottles and am now perfectly cured. I wish to recommend B.B.B. to anyone who may be as unfortunate as I was."

Surgeon's Opinion
OF KNIFE FOR PILES

Operating often a fad—The modern way of curing piles is with Dr. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Sir Henry C. Burdett, K.C.B., of London, England, in a recent address, said, "What we want are surgeons, who with wisdom to be conservative have courage to protest against the growing tendency to put a knife into everybody on the smallest possible pretext."

Too many doctors have a desire to use the knife at every opportunity. The rewards to them are rich, but think of the suffering of body and mind, the enormous expense and the risk of life itself. An operation should be the last resort, for in spite of glowing promises the results are often very disappointing.

Many a sufferer from piles has been cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, after operations have failed. Hundreds of thousands have escaped operations by using this treatment first and thereby obtaining cure.

Mr. Arthur Lepine, school teacher, Granite Hill, Muskoka, Ont., writes:

"For two years I suffered from bleeding piles and lost each day about half a cup of blood. I went to the Ottawa General Hospital to be operated on and was under the influence of chloroform for one hour. For about two months I was better but my old trouble returned and again I lost most blood. One of my doctors told me I would have to undergo another operation, but I would not consent.

"My father, proprietor of the Richelieu Hotel, Ottawa, advised me to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, and two boxes cured me. I did not lose any blood after beginning this treatment, and believe the cure is a permanent one. I gratefully recommend Dr. Chase's Ointment as the best treatment in the world for bleeding piles." 60 cents a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Men With the Conundrum.

The man with the fretful eyebrows and the sorrowful ears comes to the desk of the man with the dispirited mustache and asks:

"Why is a man who goes on an expedition to discover the south pole and after many months of toil and privation during which he eats all his canned goods and half of his dogs and then returns to civilization with a fixed appetite for boot boots and hat brims—why is he like a woman who has been waiting impatiently since midnight for the sound of the latchkey as her husband endeavors to unlock the front door without awakening the entire neighborhood?"

The man with the discouraged mustache shakes his head impatiently, and the other repeats the question, whereupon the man with the discouraged mustache asks:

"What is the difference between a lady reading a hair restorer ad. and a man who asks fool questions when you are busy? Answer—Because they are both about ready to die."

"Oh, very well!" sniffs the man with the fretful eyebrows and the sorrowful ears. The answer to mine is that both are getting ready to deliver a lecture, but I wouldn't tell you if you pleaded with tears in your eyes."

Stevenson and Dreams.

Robert Louis Stevenson owed much of his inspiration to dreams. In one passage he attributed some of his finest work to the "brownies" who tenanted his brain during moments of unconsciousness. "The Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" owes its origin to a dream. "I had long been trying to write a story on this subject," writes Stevenson, "to find a body, a vehicle, for that strong sense of man's double being which must at times come in upon and overwhelm the mind of every thinking creature. For two days I went about racking my brains for a plot of any sort, and on the second night I dreamed the scene at the window and a scene afterward split in two, in which Hyde, pursued for some crime, took the powder and underwent the change in the presence of his pursuers. All the rest was made awake and consciously, although I think I can trace in much of it the manner of my brownies."

THE GYPSY WOMEN HAVE CHANGED HEADQUARTERS

Are Now in Camp on George Street South---Hundreds of Curious Citizens Visited the Encampment Last Evening ---Some of the Mexicans Resented the Scrutiny of the Spectators.

The gypsy women yesterday changed their headquarters from the jail yard to a lot on the extension of George Street, south of Romaine St., where they were taken by the authorities. The burden of feeding and looking after the party at the jail, while the men are waiting trial, was too great, and it was considered advisable to let them go into camp where they could look after themselves. Accordingly the retinue of waggons carried the party to the new camp yesterday afternoon, causing a sensation as it passed through the streets.

On the opposite side of the street from the camp of the new arrivals, another band of gypsies, occupying three tents had already established a station so that the field just now presents the aspect of a circus ground.

The size of the crowd that wended its way to the camp last night added to the circus-like appearance of the gypsies' headquarters. Hundreds of citizens, some in carriages, some in automobiles, and others on foot, visited the strange band during the evening and the crowd was so large that the women found it almost impossible to prepare supper, and the Mexicans were annoyed, to say the least. "Go away and mind your business," a woman would say, and the queen addressed the crowd, pleading for a chance to get supper. "You have all had something to eat," she remarked, "and we are so hungry; won't you please go away and let us have our meal?"

In spite of her entreaties, however, the crowd remained, and each family hearth was surrounded by a circle of curious sightseers, who watched with interest the culinary arrangements of the gypsies.

A number of the women were up town early in the evening on a shopping tour, and when they returned to the camp laden with parcels there was great jubilation. The purchases included, in addition to bread and pork, water melon, cucumbers, onions bananas and tomatoes and the children pounced on these latter dainties, and the women had trouble in saving enough to make the funny smelling stew that seemed to be the principal feature of the evening meal.

Fires were lighted in front of each caravan and the cooks prepared a stew composed of fruits and vegetables. A combination of water melons and bananas on one side and cucumbers and onions on the other would hardly commend itself to the average person, but the Mexicans seemed to consider it a delicacy, and the little tots would persist in snatching fragments from the pot over the fire, long before the stew had been sufficiently cooked.

Some of the gypsies seemed to resent the scrutiny of the crowd and threw water and boiled rice at the spectators, but the queen did not approve of this treatment and shrilly ordered the offenders to stop. Some of the children took a delight in snatching hair ribbons from the girls among the visitors and succeeded in getting away with a large number of these trophies.

P. C. Newhall visited the camp during the evening and found it necessary to drive the crowd back in order to give the members of the tribe a chance to go to sleep. Beds were spread out on the ground and some of the women dropped off to sleep there while the others took shelter in the waggons.

When darkness fell the scene was very striking. Camp fires blazed brightly in front of the tents and waggons, lighting up the scene, while the lanterns in the vehicles added more light to the picturesque camp.

The gypsies are certainly a great drawing card and will not want for visitors during their stay in the city.

Series Of Closing Recitals At Conservatory Of Music

The second of the series of recitals to mark the closing of the musical year of the Peterborough Conservatory of Music was held last night, with another good attendance. The programme, given by pupils of Mr. Glidden, and rendered in a manner to evidence careful instructing, was as follows:

Rhapsodie No. 11, Liszt—Miss McGill.

Gugne Bretonne, Bachmann—Miss Josie Hawkey.

Spinning Wheel from "Flying Dutchman, Liszt; Wagner—Miss Beatrice Stark.

Danse Hongroise, Bohm—Miss Janet Titerson.

Venegro Grandhern, Liszt — Miss Sisson.

Polonaise, Chopin, Op. 41—Miss Geraldine Rudkins.

Non. Cor. Pin. Mesta, Beethoven—Miss Florence Howell.

Duo, two pianos, Berlioz—Miss Hodgson, Misses McKee, Sisson and Stark.

On account of the length of the programme the vocal numbers were omitted, but will be heard from.

Dragoons To Attend Service At St. Luke's Church On Sunday

The members of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons, who are in camp at Nassau, will attend St. Luke's church in a body on Sunday morning next. They will come as far as the Lift-lock by a steamer and will march from that point to the church. Arrangements are being made to have the 57th regimental band provide music for the parade.

Citizens of Peterborough will have another opportunity of seeing the Dragons as the officer commanding is making arrangements for a day in Peterborough, when local people will be given a chance to see some of the manoeuvres of the cavalry corps. Further notices will be given of both turn-outs.

Daring Bank Robbery.

Ithaca, N.Y., June 23.—Burglars blew up the safe in the Citizens' National Bank at Locke, 20 miles north, at one o'clock yesterday morning and got $3,700, most of which was in $5 bills. They overlooked about $5,000 in gold. There were four men in the band and holding the citizens who were aroused by the explosion at bay they escaped across country.

May Be New Senator.

Montreal, June 23.—It is believed here in the best informed circles that the vacancy in the Senate caused by the death of the Hon. Rosaire Thibaudeau will go to Arthur Boyer, one of the most highly polished gentleman in the province, ex-M.P.P. for Jacques Cartier and a Minister without portfolio in the Mercier Cabinet.

Woman's Record Ride.

Rochester, June 23.—Mrs. Herbert Wadsworth of Avon, a leader in Washington society and a friend of Theodore Roosevelt, rode 150 miles on horseback in 16 hours yesterday, breaking the record of Mr. Roosevelt and the officers who accompanied him when he made about 120 miles in a day.

$320,000 Raised for Y.M.C.A.

Montreal, June 23.—The Y.M.C.A. campaign closed yesterday, with $320,000 reported up to 6 o'clock, or $20,000 in excess of the sum required. Robert Reford gave $10,000 yesterday, and "Buffalo Bill" Cody, now here, was hit for a twenty. The day began with a deficit of $10,000.

MR. J. W. GARVIN SUES FOR A PROMOTERS' SHARE

Toronto, June 22.—An interesting suit is being heard by Mr. Justice Teetzel in the Non-Jury Assize, in which Mr. J. W. Garvin, a local financial agent, is suing Messrs. E. B. Edmondson, of Toronto, Chas. Holt and J. Kirkpe-Meyers, of London, England, and the Interurban Electric Co. for a one-fifth share in the stock of the Erindale Power Company.

According to the claim set out by the plaintiff, he entered into an arrangement with the defendant, Holt, whereby they were to purchase the Erindale Power Co. for $40,000. Holt putting up $25000 and the plaintiff $15,000. No written agreement was made between the parties, who went one forming a company, and appointing provisional directors. Subsequently it is alleged the defendants purchased the property, ignoring the agreement with Mr. Garvin, so Mr. Garvin entered action to have himself declared owner of a one-fifth interest.

In his defence Mr. Holt says that he broke off the negotiations with Mr. Garvin because he learned that the property could be purchased for $22,000. This is the amount he and his friends paid for the property.

WEDDING BELLS

DAVIDSON—MOSS.

The marriage of Miss Emily De Latre Moss, daughter of Chief Justice Sir Charles Moss and Lady Moss, to Mr. William Edward Davidson, son of the late Rev. E. F. Davidson, took place very quietly yesterday afternoon at St. James' Cathedral, only immediate relatives and friends being present. The Rev. Canon Welch, assisted by Rev. Canon Davidson, of Peterborough, brother of the groom, officiated. The bride was given away by her father, and wore a pretty embroidered India muslin, with white hat. Her only attendant was her young cousin, Miss Amy Vere Brown, who wore a white embroidered lingerie dress and hat. The best man was Mr. Sidney Larratt Smith. The brothers of the bride and Mr. Tom Moss were ushers. There was no reception, and no invitations were issued for the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Davidson left for the seaside.—Toronto Star.

PATTERSON—HARMER

A very large wedding took place at St. Paul's Church at half past two o'clock yesterday afternoon when Mr. Herbert Kendall Patterson, second son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Patterson, of Todmorden, was married to Marie, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harmer. Rev. Canon Cody performed the ceremony and Mr. Palmer was at the organ. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a lovely imported robe of white crepe de chene, embroidered in rose leaf design, and trimmed with Irish crochet lace. The full court train was of the same material and instead of a wreath she wore a Juliet cap made of lillies of the valley which held to the head the bridal veil of tulle. Her bouquet was a shower of bride's roses and lilies of the valley, which with a three stone diamond and sapphire ring was the gift of the bridegroom. There were four bridesmaids, Miss Jule Stuart, Miss Elsie Pierce, of Philadelphia, Miss Evelyn Maw, of Winnipeg, and Miss Zina Pinkerton. They were all dressed alike in short frocks of dotted Swiss muslin and mohair poke bonnets trimmed with maise coloured ribbon and tiny mauve and yellow flowers. All carried hat baskets of daisies tied with yellow ribbon, the same flower being used throughout as decoration. The bridegroom's gift to each was a brooch in daisy design with baroque pearls and peridot centre. Mr. M. Hargraft, Mr. William Baillie, Mr. W. V. Edwards, Mr. Herbert Wickens were the groomsmen, with Mr. Charles Ellis as best man. Each received a tie pin of the same design as the bridesmaid's from the groom. At the conclusion of the ceremony Miss Geraldine King, of Peterborough, sang "Oh Fair, Oh Sweet and Holy." Mrs. Harmer held a reception afterwards at the Metropolitan Assembly Rooms in College street, most of the two hundred and fifty guests going on to it. She wore black lace over white, the bodice being finished with white lace, and a black hat with osprey, and carried lilies of the valley. Mrs. Ernest Johnson, sister of the bride, was in white lingerie dress and hat and carried a nosegay of pink sweet peas. Mr. and Mrs. Patterson left during the afternoon for New York and neighbouring resorts for a fortnight, and on their return will be in town for ten days before going to their home in Winnipeg. The bride travelled in a Wedgwood blue rajah silk dress and handsomely braided coat. Her hat was of white chip trimmed with blue to match.—Toronto News.

OBITUARY.

JAMES McCABE.

On Sunday, at the residence of Mr. Dan. McMullen, 569 Bolivar Street there occurred the death of Mr. James McCabe, at the age of 61 years. The deceased was formerly of Norwood, but for the past few years has followed the life of a lumberman, and has made his home, when in this city, with his cousin, Mrs. McMullen.

At 9.30 this morning the funeral left 569 Bolivar street, and proceeded to St. Peter's Cathedral, where services were conducted. From there the remains were taken to the C. P. R. station, and sent by the 11.26 train to Norwood, where interment took place at the Norwood cemetery this afternoon.

JOHN GERALD ELLIOTT.

The many friends of Mr. John W. Elliott, 53 Olive Avenue, this city, will regret to learn of the sad death of his infant son, John Gerald, at 6.30 a.m. He was a bright little fellow, aged 2 years and 9 months, who will be greatly missed in the home.

The funeral will be private and take place to-morrow (Thursday) at 10 o'clock to the Little Lake Cemetery.

MRS. JAMES WEIR

This morning, at 339 Water street, Susannah Sutton, relict of the late James Weir passed away at the ripe old age of 84 years. Mrs. Weir was born in the township of Cavan and several years ago moved to Forest, Ont. Last Christmas she came to live with her daughter, Miss Weir, 339 Water street, a member of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute teaching staff. There are seven children living, but it will be impossible for them to be present at the funeral which will leave the house at 3.30 p.m. on Thursday and proceed to the C.P.R. station. Interment will take place at Forest on Friday, the 25th inst, at 2:00 p.m.

FIRE INSURANCE

"Two years ago an Ontario Market Gardener sowed four cents an ounce on the cost of half a pound of Cabbage Seed. In the fall he admitted that he was over $100 to the bad on the crop because the bargain seed had lacked vitality. Thirty-two cents saved—one hundred dollars lost. WAS IT WORTH WHILE?

The Address Of Grand Jury Deals With Gypsy Problem Undue Expense On County

Presentment Made To-day---Congratulations to His Honour Judge O'Connell Upon His Elevation to Bench---Jury Regrets That City Has No Place for the Indigent and Unfortunate.

The Grand Jury of the County Court completed their duties to-day shortly before dinner and made their presentment to His Honour Deputy Judge O'Connell.

The presentment read as follows:

To His Honour Judge O'Connell:

Your Grand Jurors at the County Court and General Sessions of the County of Peterborough, beg leave, in making their presentation, to most heartily congratulate your honour upon being elevated to the position of dignity and honour of County Court Judge. We regard this as a tribute to your legal knowledge, your general high qualifications as a member of the bar and your judicial qualities of mind.

While the honour is, in itself, a great one, it is emphasised by the fact that those best qualified to judge have considered you to be a worthy successor of the late lamented Judge Weller, who, during nearly a third of century of professional life and nearly a quarter of a century of able and dignified judicial life, furnished to the bar and the bench of Canada a standard of professional practice, high sense of duty and efficient discharge of the same, which constitute a precedent, whose observance is worthy the respect of the legal profession and of the most capable occupants of the bench.

In compliance with the charge of your honour, delivered at the opening of court, we have addressed ourselves to the duties pointed out to us.

We regret, with your honour, that, in regard to the investigation of criminal charges, our duties have not been as light as has been the case on other similar occasions; but we are pleased to report that the charges upon which we have found three "true bills," are not of a very serious character.

We made the usual inspection of the gaol and found a satisfactory condition of management. It contained three old persons, for whom the gaol is not, we submit, a proper place of shelter, and we would suggest that the City make some adequate provision, similar to that made by the County, to provide for the case of the indigent and unfortunate, without compelling them to associate with criminals or accused persons.

We paid the usual visits to the House of Refuge and the Public Institutions of the City, and have only to speak in terms of approval of the satisfactory conditions found existing in all of them.

With regard to the foreigners in the gaol, while we recognise that society must be afforded protection, we regret that a course of action was made necessary, in the interest of the safety of the general public of the district, which seems to throw an undue expense upon this County; and it seems to us desirable, if the means do not already exist, to so arrange matters as to enlist the action of the Provincial Authorities in discharging or materially helping to discharge, the responsibilities arising out of the situation.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

FOREMAN.

DR. WORKMAN VS. WESLEYAN THEOLOGICAL COLLEGE

Professor of Hebrew and Old Testament Enters $5000 Suit for Libel.

The following despatch refers to a legal action taken by Dr. Workman, of Montreal, a former pastor in Peterborough, every year a summer guest at "Beautiful Keene," where he will again arrive in a few days:

Montreal, June 23.—An action was entered this afternoon for $5,000 by Rev. George C. Workman against the Wesleyan Theological College, for libel, in his famous heresy case. This action follows that taken by Dr. Workman against the college, April 30, for $5,000, and is the direct result of the plea entered by the defendant, which the plaintiff claims is tre reiteration of the libel, and for which he now seeks a sum total of $10,000.

Dr. Workman was engaged by the board in May, 1904, to act as professor of Hebrew and Old Testament exegesis, and in May, 1908, the plaintiff claims that he was dismissed without his consent and without any legal or just cause.

Successful Closing Concert Of Conservatory Of Music Year

Very Enjoyable Affair Was Given in the Conservatory Last Night---Programme Was Thoroughly Appreciated by the Audience.

The closing concert of the active year of the Peterborough Conservatory ofg Music, worthily marked the close of the fifth successful year of this musical centre, which bears the relation to the past year which each year has borne to its predecessor—a progressive improvement in every branch of the interests, the Conservatory represents.

In 1904 the Conservatory was established with some natural misgivings as to its prosperity—and permanency. But these were needless; the Conservatory has shown a gradual and healthy growth. At the end of three years the increase of patronage made necessary the building of the new Conservatory music hall— to provide for more teaching room in the main building and this increased capacity has been largely absorbed by increase of pupils and classes. The pupils show a steady numerical increase in every department and many clever local musicians can be proudly pointed to as the products of the Conservatory. In violin, Miss Julia Choate is a distinguished young artiste, and in piano the names are suggested of Mrs. Pollock-Thacheray, who has been associated with the Conservatory as pupil and teacher since its organization and is one of the most conscientious musicians and valued members of the staff. Miss Stark and others who might be mentioned are proofs of the effective character of the instruction imparted.

From the beginning, the Conservatory has aimed to have the best available teaching talent on its staff. Among these have been Mr. Harry Field, now a prominent piano pedagogue in Dresden, Germany; Mr. August Wilhelmj, now of London, England; Herr Lamts, the present head of the vocal staff with whom has recently been associated Mr. Andrew Ross Love, Miss Winnifred Parker, being a valuable addition to the Elocutionary department.

Last night's concert, in which the excellent programme was furnished by the staff and pupils of the Conservatory, was further evidence that it has very amply justified its establishment ad operation. The work of the Conservatory orchestra, which mustered 35 strong, was noteworthy and is important as the nucleus for a permanent orchestra which is thus shown to be possible as far as material and training are concerned. Mr. Andrew Ross Love, a tenor of rather robust quality of voice, was first heard in public, and if he teaches as well as he sings, is a valuable addition to the staff. He sang with finished effect and befitting taste, two vocal selections, and though recalls were taboo, was compelled to answer to an encore, a new and beautifully sung arrangement of "Lead Kindly Light." Miss Parker's selections were received with the favour their excellent presentation demanded. The other contributions to the programme acquitted themselves most creditably. The following is the programme:

Mendelssohn — War March from Athalie—Conservatory Orchestra.

THE FIRST PASSENGER TRAIN

The coming and going of railway trains are as nothing to an ordinary city or country dweller, in Ontario, but they have a tremendous meaning to the pioneers of the Great West, who, in advance of the conveniences of civilization and transportation, have gone in to possess the land. It is no wonder therefore that these western farmers hailed with delight and broke bands the arrival, on Monday of the first passenger train on the Prairie Division of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. It is satisfactory to note that the first train, which covered a distance of 532 miles west of Winnipeg, was a great success, both in the matter of patronage and service. The Grand Trunk Pacific was a national necessity indespensable to the development of a practically unknown and reconditeful section of our country. In a short time we shall be called upon to chronicle the sweep of trains both passenger and freight from the Atlantic ocean to the Pacific —3,897 feet over Canadian soil and on the finest built roadbed in the world.

A USEFUL INFLUENCE.

Montreal is a great commercial city, busy at buying and selling; but the people are not all mere money-grubbers. An appeal was made on behalf of the Young Men's Christian Association of that city for the contribution of $300,000 within so many days, for the purpose of enlarging the buildings and usefulness of the Association. The appeal was very promptly and practically met, and $350,000 in excess of the amount asked was secured. This is a very practical form of expression of appreciation of the work of the Association, and the important role it plays in the community. To put the matter on no higher grounds than material success, business success, the efficient employment of capital and enterprise, depend upon the instruments available—the employees. Young men employed in commercial and industrial capacities give much better service when they lead steady, sober and upright, private lives, when they are steadied and inspired by high ideals through the medium of a Young Men's Christian Association, which, properly administered, exercises a salutary effect in forming and maintaing character and developing habits of steadiness, application and the general qualifications that fit men for dependable and satisfactory service. In an age when there are so many distractions, so many temptations to the frivolous life, dissipation of youthful energies and their direction to unworthy objects, a steadying and guiding influence like that capable of exercise by the Young Men's Association—its existence and operation—is emphatically indicated. It's usefulness, however, depends upon capability of administration.

THE LEMIEUX ACT.

Labour bears so important a relation to the industrial and material welfare of the country that anything affecting its interests becomes a matter of moment. Upon continuity of employment at reasonable wage depends the prosperity of labour as a whole, and therefore the prosperity of the country, as a whole. The operation of the Lemieux Act in conducing to the maintenance of this condition by its effect on strikes and lockouts, is worthy of especial attention. This act has been variously received; at first with thinly veiled hostility in some quarters, but it is rapidly overcoming the initial prejudce that assailed it. The working of the act has been so effective that the representatives of organised labour are assuming a more friendly attitude. A few days ago A. A. Gibeault, president-general of the Federation of Textile Workers, Montreal, who had brought in a minority report as a member of the Board of Conciliation on the textile workers' strike as a representative of the workers, in writing to the department saying that the workers would accept the finding of the board, in his letter said:

"This is a striking demonstration of the value of the Lemieux Act, for, without this law, I believe there would have been a long-continued strike."

"The Lemieux Act is about the hardest worked Act of Parliament there is in the Dominion this season. The number of references to it of labour disputes has been increasing very rapidly and it must be admitted that actual strikes have decreased very materially.

"Last year the Act was very near coming under the ban of organised labour, but we are quite sure now that such action would have been a mistake.

"The railway men, who at first became convinced that the Act was loaded against them, have since been giving it some very hard tests. The miners, who drew out of the Trades Congress last year chiefly because that body would not repudiate the Act, have since found it to their advantage to invoke its provisions.

"We had better take up seriously the recommendation of the Trades Congress to suggest improvements to the Act, for the principle underlying the measure has apparently made good."

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. W. M. German, the popular M. P. for Welland, was presented with a bouquet and an address on the occasion of his departure for an European tour.

An experimental plant, to be used by Dr. Hannel of the Mines Branch, is being erected in Ottawa to investigate the suitability of peat for the making of producer gas for smelting and other fuel purposes. If the experiment should prove successful an important new source of fuel and calorific energy will have been subjected to the use of man.

MEAT INSPECTION.

The meat and canned foods act went into operation on Sept. 3, 1907, and already results of its enforcement have justified the passage of the law. The opinion of packers and others is that the inspection as carried out by the health of animals branch of the department of agriculture is proving beneficial as a stimulus to the meat export trade, which a year or two ago was in danger of being lost unless protected by a Government guarantee. Foreign countries were certifying that all meats exported by them were from inspected animals and were sound and wholesome at the time of shipment, and public sentiment in Great Britain, Canada's best customer for meats, was demanding some guarantee that our meat exports were free from suspicion. Provision for inspection therefore came none too soon.

An investigation of Canadian packing houses made some time prior to the passage of the act, while revealing nothing of an alarming nature, showed conditions which it was felt might be corrected with advantage to both packer and consumer. These conditions were remedied as early as possible after the act went into force, and the changes are very perceptible. The sanitary conditions at the packing houses are much improved, as is also the process of handling; not only in process of cure, but in the manufacture of the various meat products.

In his annual report, the chief meat inspector, S. H. Ward, V. S., says that to enforce the regulations promulgated for the operation of the act, thirty-nine veterinary inspectors were appointed, each establishment being under the supervision of from one to four inspectors, according to capacity. The inspectors received a thorough course of training in Chicago in all branches of meat inspection, and in addition were required to pass an examination prescribed by order-in-council before being eligible for appointment.

Every animal intended for slaughter is examined by one of the inspectors before being allowed to enter the killing floor of the abattoir. As animals are killed the inspector makes a thorough examination of the carcasse and all viscera, and if no evidence of disease is found the carcass is marked with a stamp or label bearing a crown and the words "Canada, approved," together with the number of the establishment. Diseased carcases are marked with a "condemned" tag. The post-mortem inspection is most thorough. Tuberculosis is found to be the most prevalent disease.

In all, twenty-eight establishments were under inspection last year. The inspectors passed 1,074,434 carcases and condemned 5,264. The total number of "portions" condemned was 69,888.

The chief inspector regrets that as matters stand it is only possible to apply the operation of the act to those establishments which have engaged in export or inter-provincial trade, and expresses the hope that ere long municipal authorities throughout the Dominion will be aroused by the conditions shown to exist, and inaugurate similar systems of dealing with food products. This can be done in most communities by the abolition of the private slaughter house, with all its abominations, and the establishment of municipal abattoirs conducted under a system of inspection similar to that now enforced by the Dominion Government in the export houses.—London Advertiser.

UNEXPECTED BENEFITS

More Voluntary Concessions to Thousands of Policy-holders by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

A remarkable spirit of liberality toward its policy-holders is again the striking feature of the periodical statement or report of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, a summary of which is published this week.

Broadly speaking, the inducements offered by responsible life insurance companies to insurable persons are of two kinds. One consists in a proposition to carry a definite amount of "straight" insurance at low cost; the other offers innumerable plans by which in return for excessive premium payments the person insured is to "participate" in the earnings of the company, receiving benefits that are not definitely stated in the policy itself. The first plan appeals to the man of judgment as a clear-cut business contract under which all obligations are mutually understood. The other appeals to the speculative instinct, and demands a higher degree of confidence in the insuring company, which carefully avoids an absolute guarantee of benefits proportioned to the high rates demanded.

The Metropolitan Life sells "straight" insurance only; that is, it promises to pay at death, or at the expiration of your policy, a fixed sum plainly written in the contract. As a matter of course, it must sell this insurance at a cost low enough to secure business in competition with all the big insurance companies. Having issued such a policy, the company has no further obligations under its terms until the specified benefits are due and payable. The person insured is satisfied with his contract and expects only that it will be exactly carried out. So far as we konw, any great financial or mercantile organization would consider such a contract final.

But at this point the Metropolitan Life chooses to temper hard-and-fast business methods by injecting a little "soul" into its after relations, with the man who holds its policy.

It must be kept in mind that the actual cost of insuring a life can never by any human foresight be calculated in advance with absolute exactness. The death rate in a given population varies from year to year; the earnings of invested funds are bound to be greater or less through periods of prosperity and depression, the cost of operating the Company's business will each year bear a different proportion to the number and value of policies in force. Insurance must be sold at a price based upon its probable future cost under these varying conditions, and the safety of the company, upon which all its policy-holders depend for protection, must be assured by estimating the cost as high as past experience has proven necessary.

The business of the Metropolitan Life has increased tremendously year by year, while its operating expenses, proportioned to the vast amount of insurance carried, grow steadily less. Ordinarily the resulting gains would be considered a legitimate reward of enterprise under capable management, in which the policy-holders have no interest; but this particular insurance company chooses to share its prosperity with them by paying bonuses and increasing benefits.

The Company in ten years has reduced the ratio of expense to premium income on its business in all departments 15 per cent. In the industrial Department alone the reduction accomplished in the past five years amounts to 8 per cent.—this last item representing a total of three and a half million dollars.

These great gains are being used to increase the benefits 10 per cent. on all policies in force since January 1, 1907.

As to policies dated previous to January 1, 1907, a bonus of 8 per cent. of the premiums is given for a year on all policies over five years old, and increased benefits are allowed on policies of long standing which become death claims.

To sum up these benefits—not promised to policy-holders nor expected by them—it is shown that during the past sixteen years the concessions and bonuses in the Industrial Department alone are equivalent to a gift outright of eighteen millions of dollars.

Pasteurization Not the Panacea.

Detroit, Mich., June 24.—Before the 65th annual meeting of the American Institute of Homeopathy yesterday, Dr. Charles H. Higgins of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, Ont., read a paper on "Tuberculosis of Animals and Men," in which he held that dead tubercle bacilli increased the susceptibility of the consumer to tuberculosis and therefore that "Pasteurization of milk is not the panacea that some of its advocates would have us believe."

Turned Away From the Jail.

St. John, N.B., June 24.—Although Policeman Crossman had commitment papers, and his prisoner, Geo. McSweeney, proprietor of the Brunswick Hotel, at the jail door, Dorchester, N.B., Tuesday evening, Sheriff Willett, with a doctor's certificate in his hand stating that McSweeney was not in a fit condition to go to jail, refused to allow the officer to enter with his prisoner. McSweeney was released and returned to Moncton.

May Prevent His Tour of India.

London, June 24.—The Daily Express, announcing yesterday that Byron H. Phelps, the New York lawyer, who is regarded as a leader of the Indian home agitation against British rule in India, had been ordered to quit the Waldorf Hotel, London, publishes an editorial article expressing the hope that Lord Morley, Secretary of State for India, will take steps to prevent Mr. Phelps' projected tour of India.

Our Manufacturers Criticized.

Ottawa, June 24.—A. W. Donly, Canadian commissioner in Mexico, hands out a warm criticism of Canadian manufacturers and their methods of doing business, in a report just received at the Department of Trade and Commerce. According to Mr. Donly, our manufacturers are both "academic" and "provincial," and fail utterly to appreciate the fertile field for trade development, which exists in Mexico.

There is no excuse for this, he says, in view of the fact that Mexican imports are steadily growing and Canadian manufactured products are similar to those of the United States, a country which supplies 65 per cent. of everything imported by Mexico.

Congress is Opened.

Toronto, June 24.—The Quinquennial Congress of the International Council of Women officially opened this morning at 10 o'clock in Convocation Hall. Addresses were given by Their Excellencies the Countess Grey and Lady Aberdeen, and Lady Edgar, president of the Dominion Council, spoke a few words of welcome to the foreign delegates.

The council is divided to nine sections, and the sessions opened immediately after the formal addresses in Convocation Hall.

PEARED PARALYSIS

Mr. F. A. Kraus, Schwartz, Que., writes, "For one year I was a complete nervous wreck, could not rest or sleep, had indigestion and terrible headaches and constantly feared paralysis. Six boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food made me well and strong. There is no treatment in the world so good as this for building up the nervous system."

Cattle Disease Curable.

Sydney, N.S., June 24.—Reports having been made to the Department of Agriculture that a serious disease was prevalent among young cattle in the Mira districts in Cape Breton, Dr. Pethick, Dominion veterinary surgeon, has made an examination and diagnosed the disease as black-leg, against which science has in recent years provided a preventative in the shape of an anti-toxin. He was able to assure the people that an expenditure not exceeding 15 to 20 cents per animal was in the power of the farmer to practically stamp out the disease, which for 25 years has caused very considerable loss.

Interest in the Island of Ceylon has been quickened to a remarkable extent by the phenomenal success of "Salada" Tea. Naturally everyone is anxious to know more about the country that produces such a delightful and delicious beverage. 77

Sleep May Cost Him His Life.

Kenora, June 24.—Whilst lying asleep on the car track four miles east of here, Peter Loxinski, a watchman on duty in the employ of the company, was, Tuesday night, run over by a passenger train and flung several feet off the track. His skull was fractured.

Love-Crazed Italian's Frenzy.

Albany, N.Y., June 24.—Because he was refused the hand of Tonyea Destafanio, aged 14, with whom he was desperately in love, Rosario Delapola, aged 35, attempted to kill the girl and her mother and then shot himself.

Kick of Horse Fatal.

London, Ont., June 22.—John Loton of Appin died at St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday as a result of being kicked in the head by a horse some days ago at Appin.

GOOD BYE TO RECIPROCITY

LUMBER TARIFF IS FIXED

Clause Favoring Free Exchange of Coal Between U. S. and the Dominion Is Thrown Out of United States Tariff Measure and Scale Is Arranged — Dressed Lumber Is $2.00 Per Thousand.

Washington, June 24.—Rather unexpectedly to itself the Senate late yesterday concluded its consideration of the coal schedules.

The finance committee through Mr. Aldrich reported an amendment fixing the duty on bituminous coal and shale at sixty cents per ton; on coal slack or culm, at fifteen cents per ton; coke and compositions used for fuel at twenty per cent. ad valorem. A drawback equal to the duty is allowed vessels in the foreign trade.

This scale, Mr. Aldrich explained, was a reduction of seven cents a ton on coal under the house rate. The amendment, he said, also left out the House reciprocity provison. He did not believe, however, that the House would remove its duty on coal even if the reciprocity provision were left in the bill.

Numerous attempts were made to reduce the rate, and there was one effort to obtain free coal, but all were voted down and the committee's scale retained.

By a vote of 50 to 26, the Senate finance committee's amendment placing a duty of $1.50 a thousand feet on sawed lumber, with differentials on finished lumber was carried. This is 50 cents below the Dingley rates. In quick succession several other paragraphs of the lumber schedule were agreed to. By amendments offered by Mr. Aldrich and agreed to by the Senate, the duty on clapboards was increased from $1 to $1.50 per thousand; on laths from 20 to 25 cents per 1,000 pieces and on shingles from 30 to 50 cents.

Macdonald Talks to Scots.

London, June 24.—With the press delegates at Edinburgh, speaking at the students' union luncheon, J. A. Macdonald of Toronto, replying to the provost's welcome, pointed out the significance of concluding the tour at the capital of the unconquered Scottish people. To-day they were proof of what Scotland and Edinburgh had done for the liberty of the world. The strength of the overseas dominions' press would fight to give the common man a chance, and fight, if necessary, against the tyrannous crowd democracies could breed, as their sires had fought against kings. He invited the British people to fill the great lands of overseas dominions, where they desired to build a democracy free and strong that would cling to the old homeland.

Gift to Canon Welch.

Toronto, June 24.—A purse of $1,000 and a magnificent silver tea service were presented to Rev. Canon Welch and Mrs. Welch by the congregation of St. James' Cathedral, about 300 of whom met at the Canadian Art Club yesterday afternoon.

Canon Welch will sail for England early in July to assume the vicarate of Wakefield.

NASAL CATARRH

Medicated Air Will Cure.

These are common diseases, but not less dangerous and difficult to cure on that account. In our climate the weather changes quickly. We are careless. Disease attacks us before we know it. A large majority of our people have nose, lung, or throat troubles, and find it hard to get cured.

It's remarkable with what tenacity both the medical profession and the laity adhere to the old theory that these diseases can be reached and combated by dosing. And this despite the fact that failure to cure in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred attends this mode of treatment.

STOMACH MEDICINE CAN'T CURE.

At best it is a roundabout way of trying to reach the disease which is in the air passages of the throat, nose, bronchial tubes and lungs. Leave the stomach alone—use a remedy that air will carry into the minutest air cells, into the tiniest cavities of the affected organs.

LIQUID REMEDIES DANGEROUS.

Doctors say only "Catarrhozone" can cure—you inhale it along with the air you breath—it goes where the living disease germs are gnawing into your system—it kills these germs—it heals, soothes. It CURES.

CATARRHOZONE GUARANTEED.

Wouldn't it be wise to use Catarrhozone now—to-day—and be cured permanently?

You can send the soothing vapor of the pine woods, the richest balsams and healing essences, right to the cause of your trouble by inhaling Catarrhozone.

Little drops of wonderful curative power are distributed through the whole breathing apparatus in two seconds.

Like a miracle, that's how Catarrhozone works in bronchitis, catarrh, colds, and irritable throat. You simply breath its oily, fragrant vapor and every trace of congestion and disease flees as before fire.

So safe, infants can use it; so sure to cure, doctors prescribe it, so beneficial in preventing winter ills, no person can afford to do without Catarrhozone. Used in thousands of cases without failure. Try it yourself! 25c, 50c, $1.00 sizes. Sold by all dealers, or by mail from the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

You Can Defy The SPRING FATIGUE

Just nervous exhaustion. If you will make the blood rich and red by using DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD.

Fatigue and weakness tell of weak, watery and impure blood.

Are you going through the usual suffering and discomfort of spring this year or take a hand in the matter of your health and build up the system?

It is for you to decide, for you know that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, by forming new, rich blood, overcomes the fatigue, the weakness, the feelings of depression, and disparagement which come with spring.

The nervous system is almost always exhausted in the spring. Your appetite fails because the nerves which control the appetite are exhausted, and so it is with digestion and the working of the other bodily organs.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the greatest spring medicine because it is the greatest of nerve restoratives. It forms the new, rich, red blood from which vigor, energy and nerve force are created.

If you would restore the healthful glow to the complexion, sharpen the appetite, improve digestion, strengthen the action of the heart, revitalize the wasted brain and nerve cells and round out the wasted form you must use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. No imitation is just as good. There is no substitute but will disappoint.

Mr. John P. Shannon, Whitesides, N. S., writes: "I used four boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and found it an excellent medicine. It has proved to be a splendid treatment for headache and a run-down system."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50c a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

The closing exercises of the Royal Military College were largely attended.

Sir Lomer Gouin was presented with an automobile by Montreal friends.

At a meeting of London financial men yesterday it was declared that Mr. Lloyd-George's budget was unsound and unjust, and that it would drive capital from the country.

The native chief of the town of Oyo, in Nigeria, who recently expelled Rev. S. D. Pinnock, a Baptist missionary from Oyo, has now seized the land belonging to the Baptist Mission. Mr. Pinnock had protested regarding the chief's acts of cruelty.

A special cable despatch to The London Times from Constantinople says the rumors of military activity on both sides of the Greek frontier must berecelved with great caution. On the Ottoman side rumors of mobilization thus far are as untrue as similar reports from Thessaly proved to be.

At the village of Crookston, Ont., two little sons of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Vincent, who live in the station of the Madoc and Belleville line of the G.T.R., secured their father's gun, and in some way it was discharged and a portion of the heavy charge entered the head of Cecil, doing frightful injury.

Degree For Earl Grey.

Cambridge, Eng., June 24.—The delegates to the centenary of the birth of Charles Herbert Darwin, the observance of which began Tuesday night, yesterday presented addresses to the chancellor of Oxford University, Lord Rayleigh. Subsequently a number of degrees were conferred. Among the recipients were Earl Grey, Governor-General of Canada; Oliver W. Holmes, associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, and George Ellery Hall of California, who were given the degree of doctor of civil law.

A total of 235 universities and learned bodies, including 20 of the most famous institutions of America, and an equal number in Germany, have nominated representatives to the centenary, and the leaders of each delegation presented their addresses yesterday. The gift of America is a bust of Darwin.

Police Are Silent.

New York, June 24.—After a day of conflicting statements, the district attorney's office, acting under instructions from Mr. Jerome, and the police department, under orders from Commissioner Bingham, refused last night to discuss further what progress had been made in the search for Leon Ling, the Chinaman who is wanted for the murder of Elsie Sigel.

The official police statement yesterday denies that Quong Sin "confessed" the lurid details published yesterday, only admitting having seen the girl after her death. "He was questioned for four hours yesterday again.

Freed by Clerk's Error.

Chicago, June 24.—The error of a court clerk in reading the wrong slip returned by jury, and declaring that Frank O'Donnell, accused of robbing a van at the point of a revolver, was "not guilty," resulted in a pitiful scene. O'Donnell jumped from his seat, excitedly laughing and wrung his lawyer's hand. He started from the room with his head in the air and his eyes sparkling. Then the mistake was discovered and O'Donnell was brought back to be condemned to life imprisonment.

Wed at First Port.

Montreal, June 24.—The new British marine regulations forbidding ship captains to perform the marriage ceremony, is already foiling the best laid schemes of Cupid, or at least temporarily delaying their execution.

The steamship Manitoba reached port from Liverpool yesterday, bearing three love-lorn couples who had "made up" during the voyage. They were among the westbound contingent.

CHILD-BEATER COMMITTED.

Further Stories of Mrs. Lajoie's Cruelty Told in Court.

Ottawa, June 24.—Mrs. Napoleon Lajoie, Aylmer, the alleged child-beater, was yesterday committed to stand trial by Magistrate Guiette in the Hull court. Trial was set for Monday morning next at 10 o'clock. There was a large crowd present, mostly women.

Dr. W. Kennedy of Ottawa General Hospital, testified that the child was emaciated and failing rapidly from lungs when taken here. Her arms and head were bruised and cut.

Mrs. Napoleon Chartrand, who lives across the street from the Lajoie home, testified that she had known the family for a number of years and that Lena had always been compelled to do hard work. Her mother compelled her to carry big pails of water from an outside pump to the house, a distance of 30 yards. If she returned with the pails not quite full she was given a sound beating. Lena was kept on her knees on the stairs for hours and was never allowed to play outside doors like the others.

"I hate you enough to poison and destroy you," was the assertion Mrs. Chartrand said the mother made one time to the child. Mrs. Lajoie told her she hated Lena because of the strong facial resemblance to the father's relations."

To Extend Meat Inspection.

Ottawa, June 24.—The extension of the meat inspection provisions to local meat business and compensation for animals condemned and seized were urged before Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. Sydney Fisher yesterday morning by a deputation which included representatives of Blackwell and Plawelle, Toronto; Laing & Co., Montreal; Matthews, Ottawa; Hutton, Collingwood; Fearman, Hamilton, all big firms doing both interprovincial and export business. The delegation declared that the provisions of the Pure Food Act, to which they were subjected, should be extended by provincial legislation to local butchers and packers who do business in a single province only and are therefore not subject to the Dominion act. The Ministers promised to use their influence to have the request carried out.

Australia's Policy.

Melbourne, Australia, June 24.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Premier Deakin told Parliament yesterday that an active policy of immigration would be undertaken, with an appointment of a high commissioner if necessary, and an endeavor would be made to cheapen cable charges and extend mail services. Col. Foxton would consult the Admiralty on marine defence by means of the most effective vessels, manned and officered by Australians, and on the construction of necessary docks, shipyards and coaling facilities. For land defence the policy of the Government would be founded on universal training and the counsel of one of the most experienced commanders in the British army would be sought.

Progress at Soo Works.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., June 24.—W. C. Franz, manager of the Lake Superior Corporation, in an interview yesterday, stated that the new No. 3 open hearth furnace would make its first steel yesterday. The foundation work on No. 3 blast furnace has been started and it is expected that in two weeks' time work will be commenced on the new structural mill, which will include all the requirements for making structural steel. The making of steel in the new open hearth furnace yesterday brings to a successful culmination the first improvement under the new management, that is, since English capital was introduced into the concern.

To Open Oxford to Non-Men.

Oxford, England, June 24.—The Hebdomadal Council of Oxford University, at a meeting yesterday which was presided over by Lord Curzon of Kedleston, the chancellor, adopted resolutions to facilitate the admission of large numbers of poor men to the institution and to make provision for their residence and instruction.

RUPTURE

Established 1856. Nearly Half a Century in Toronto, Ont.

J. Y. EGAN, Specialist, Office—WEST KING ST., P. O. BOX 281, TORONTO.

THE MOST RELIABLE and Successful Authority—Graduate specialist in the treatment of Hernia (Ruptured) Varicocele (Fistula, Bandage) of all known appliances in use. Dr. Egan makes a specialty of one department and certainly no more experienced and reliable than he can be found. "Many have failed, why not you?" Don't put off your case, believing it to be simple—Incipient ruptures often prove fatal unless your case is attended to now, and time avoid danger. Many wearing trusses and passing examiners, have come to our offices after being told that they had what is the matter. Do not despair or be deterred from calling further advice, or hesitate to call because you have been disappointed. This is the very time your financial circumstances, as my reputation has been made in curing hopeless (so-called) cases. Come and have a talk with me.

LADIES suffering from any form of irregular disorder will find treatment herein their own attended to. Everything strictly professional. Write Toronto office for further particulars.

MOTHERS—Look to your daughters—have them examined before they grow into womanhood. Many of the ills of women result from neglect in early life. Don't allow them to grow up with the curse of deformity upon them.

MY CHARGES are within reach of all, the poor man is welcome as the rich. Terms can be satisfactorily arranged. No reason why you should not consult me at once, during this week.

VARICOCELE FALSE RUPTURE

MEN OF ALL AGES SUFFERING from this affliction, whether it be Varicocele or Rupture, should not delay another day, but call for free consultation at my office, Palace of Mode, Toronto. The terrible effects of these troubles is to cause nervous debility, weakness, impotency, etc. Are you content to allow this affliction to impair your vitality? Little doing an hour and it may cause you years of misery. Remember, no matter how serious your case may be, time allowed, or the failures experienced in trying to be cured by quacks, free trials, or public institutions, my methods system and cures. No temporary benefit, but a PERMANENT one. NO OPERATION necessary. No detention from business.

The Cool Handle

When Ironing Day comes 'round, particularly in hot weather, just ask any woman, who has to use the ordinary flat-iron if she does not suffer from the heat of the handle as much as from the heat of the stove?

The "Automatic" Electric Iron is in no sense heated, that the handle is always cool, "cool as a cucumber," cool as the nickel on your range when the fire is out.

FIRE INSURANCE

The following legend taken from an enterprising Seedsman's Catalogue is set without a bearing on Fire Insurance:—

"Two years ago an Ontario Market Gardener saved four cents an ounce on the cost of half a pound of Cabbage Seed. In the fall he admitted that he was over $100 to the bad on the crop because the bargain seed had lacked vitality. Thirty-two cents saved—one hundred dollars lost. WAS IT WORTH WHILE?

MODERN SHOE DISPLAY IN McWHINNIE'S WINDOW

The "Beauties" Exemplified by a Tasty Window Trim.

One of the nattiest, most attractive and well arranged window trims is that shown in the Shoe Window of R. McWhinnie. Nothing obstructs the view of the pleasing lay out of footwear. The display is well balanced, is not too profuse, and the prospective buyer can look over an array of style attractiveness, which should commend sales.

WHAT IS ITCH DIRT?

It is the old Anglo-Saxon name for Dandruff and it's a good one. If you have dandruff you have itch dirt and the little microbes that are part and parcel of dandruff are working persistently night and day and sooner or later will reach the very life of your hair and destroy its vitality.

Then you'll be bald—Bald to stay—for not even the wonderful rejuvenating properties in Parisian Sage can grow hair after the hair bulb or root is dead. Parisian Sage cures Dandruff. Wm. Madill the druggist, sells it—recommends it and guarantees it; only 50 cents a large bottle and your money back if it fails to cure Dandruff, Falling Hair and Itching of the Scalp.

THE DEPREDATIONS OF THE BAND OF GYPSIES RE-TOLD

The Lindsay Warder says:

The actual extent of the depredations committed by the band of gypsies which passed through this county is now being definitely ascertained and Chief Vincent has a list of the offences.

Judging from the length of the list which has been compiled and the certainty that more offences will be added, Gypsy Queen Rose and her band are adepts at the nefarious profession.

Before mentioning complaints of thefts and other unlawful acts a brief description of the queen of the gypsies might appeal to the romantic. Her name is Rose and she is of medium height and brunette complexion. A headgear something after the fashion of a mantilla half shows and half conceals raven locks "done-up" in apparently indiscriminate, but really cleverly arranged, profusion. A Zouave costume adds a touch of bizzarre to the appearance of Mme. Rose, and scarlet and white texture being covered at the bodice with gold and silver coins and other ornaments. Green and white boots of the latest Broadway pattern were topped off with tassels. Altogether she is not unhandsome and might even be called pretty.

Fair she may have been, but the acts of her adherents were very unlawful. Wm. Brown, of Emily, had a lamb stolen to make broth for the gypsy pot. D. Jackson, of Emily, is minus $15, and D. Haggarty, Omemee, a pocketbook and cash. Other Omemeeites to suffer were Richard Nurse, who had a colt stolen, and Wm. Brandon, whose garden was stripped of onions. The colt was secured afterwards. Dr. Sutton lost some cash, but regained it from the gypsies, and Mrs. D. Pogue furnished (involuntarily) some fowl. Wm. Kennedy of Emily, had a lamb stolen and Hugh Murray some groceries. T. McQuade, of Omemee, got back part of $5, which was purloined, but Mrs. S. Mahood did not regain a parcel of goods, which she had left in the buggy and which were stolen. T. A. McPherson, of Omemee, lost some dry goods and they are now probably bedecking some of the gypsy gang. The gypsies tore down Everett Mitchell's wire fence and let their horses wander over his crops.

The gang have been remanded to the Peterborough gaol for a week to enable the authorities to decide what to do with them.

LAKEFIELD MASONS' ANNUAL SERVICE

Will be Held Next Sunday—Other Items From the Northern Village.

Examiner Special.

Mr. Eldred Cumberland left on Monday to spend the summer at Stony Lake.

The ringing of the fire bell caused quite an excitement in the village on Monday morning, when Mr. Jas. Moore's kitchen took fire. The fire brigade turned out and by their promptness and able work the fire was soon extinguished.

The many friends of Mrs. Nugent will be pleased to hear she is recovering from her recent very serious illness.

Mr. Richard Smith has greatly improved the appearance of his residence by the building of a verandah.

Clementi Lodge, No. 313, A.F. and A.M., will hold their annual parade on Sunday morning next at St. John Baptist Church.

DANDRUFF CAUSED BY A GERM.

A New Discovery That Kills the Germ and Prevents Baldness.

Pretty nearly all the hair preparations for dandruff have some merit in allaying itching of the scalp, and in being a fairly good dressing for the hair, and baldness, and that destroys the cause, a little germ—and that is Newbro's Herpicide. This germ eats its way into the scalp, it digs up the scalp into little white scales. Unless it is destroyed there's no permanent stopping of falling hair and cure of dandruff and baldness. Newbro's Herpicide kills the germ. "Destroy the cause you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

NEWS FROM THE FRONT

What the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons Are Doing in Camp at Nassau.

Special to The Examiner.

Nassau, June 23.—Hello! Is that Peterborough?

Yes!

Well, we wish to advise you that during this afternoon this camp has been put into telephonic communication with the outside world, at least that part of it covered by the Bell Telephone Co., and its many connections. If you wish to talk with any one here just give Central this instruction: "420, ring 14," and you will be hooked up with the instrument in the Orderly Sergeant's tent. Goodbye.

The camp seems to be getting nearer the city every day, now that conversation can be carried on by telephone. This is a modern convenience which will be appreciated both by officers and men alike.

As there is no postoffice established nearer than Peterborough, it may be well to mention that all mail matter for anyone in camp should be addressed care of Third Dragoons, Peterborough. By observing this rule, much delay and inconvenience will be avoided.

For those who are accustomed to going down to business at nine in the morning, this getting up at 5.30 is just what it is advertised to be. That's the time to get the pure, fresh and invigorating country air, which costs nothing, but the effort to breathe. However, the squadrons here are composed chiefly of swarthy farmers' sons, and the early rise is not out of the ordinary, and cavalry drill is somewhat of a change from the road work, which obtains at this season in the rural districts.

Was this a hot day?

Well, the heat waves rolled in here good and plenty, and some of the boys who have been doing inside work at home are taking on a beautiful reddish tinge which will soon change to a rich tan effect.

In the eventide about the most envied man in camp is Corporal Pue, who has a neat little runabout, with wind in the tires. To this he hitches a pony and drives a couple of friends down to the city. Several did the pedestrian act and hiked along the highway to see the attractions of Peterborough.

This evening, at sunset, there was a smart little shower, which chased the boys under cover, but it was, nevertheless, a very welcome one, as it cooled the air and made life much more pleasant.

Now, to come down to business.

The camp was favoured to-day by a visit from Col. Young, the District Adjutant General of Eastern Ontario, accompanied by Ccl. Stevenson, Maj. Bennett and Major Clegg, of the 57th Regiment of Peterborough. These gentlemen expressed themselves as pleased with the order and conditions prevailing in the camp.

To-day, Capt. Poole, the Veterinary Officer, made a thorough inspection of the horses and found them in a satisfactory condition. His report is most favourable.

In spite of the very warm weather, the health of the entire camp is A No. 1. Dr. Douglas, the Medical Officer, reports every one fit and ready for action. There are two hospital tents, but fortunately there have been no occupants, yet either from illness or accident. This is a splendid record and it is to be hoped that it it will be maintained for the next ten days.

The work now is coming down to hard-pan, but the efficiency and endurance of the men is increasing apace.

During the day there was troop, squadron, and regimental drill, and the officer commanding is well pleased with what has been done in this connection.

In a large tent the sub-target has been placed in position, and B squadron had instruction in that department this afternoon. To-morrow forenoon A squadron will parade for sub-target practice. Further particulars concerning this instrument and its equipment will be given at a later date.

Thursday will be devoted to squadron and regimental drill with a dismounted drill in the afternoon.

The number of visitors is daily increasing and the means of getting here very from "Shanks' mare" to the large and speedy touring car.

The officer commanding, Lieut.-Col. Syer, has given permission for this statement: "A cordial invitation is extended to the public to visit the Nassau camp of the Third Prince of Wales Dragoons, at any time, whether during the hours of action or relaxation."

The public will appreciate this kind invitation and as it will be impossible for everyone in the city to avail themselves of it. An opportunity to see the Dragoons in the city in marching order will be given before camp is broken up.

ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETE FOR T. A. S. ANNUAL PIC-NIC

A Splendid Programme of Sports to be Provided—Baseball, Tug-of-War, Launch Races, Etc.—Good Prize List.

Full arrangements for the annual picnic of the T.A.S. have been almost completed. The grounds in the T. A. S. Park are being levelled up and the construction of booths, dancing platform, etc., is going merrily on. A large gang of men are working at the park to-day. The pronounced feature of the day will undoubtedly be the sports and games. A baseball match between the T.A.S. and West Ends for a valuable trophy, the grand tug-of-war challenge, the boat races and nearly forty other classy events will furnish a bumper day's sport. Two gasoline launch races will be run, one for boats 5 h.p and under, and the second, an open race, no restriction as to power, and under. Mr. R. M. Roy will officiate as judge in these events. The prizes for the different events are coming in fast, nearly all of the donors of previous years having already contributed again. The system of voluntary donation is certainly meeting with great success, and it is expected that before the sports committee arrange the prize list next week a full bill of prizes will have been handed in. Mr. Dan Sheehan will again officiate as the maintainer of law and order on the grounds, on picnic day. Two yachts will leave the street railway wharf on Saturday afternoon carrying all those members who desire to assist in the work at the grounds.

Presentation Of Prizes And Closing Exercises Of The Grove School At Lakefield

Special to The Examiner.

Lakefield, June 23. — The annual closing exercises in connection with the Grove School were held here tonight and the interest manifested in the school was shown by the presence of many prominent Peterborough and Lakefield people.

The most important event of the evening was the presentation of prizes to those scholars who, during the term, have shown themselves worthy of the honours received.

The prize winners were as follows:

General proficiency; Form I.—Marcus MacAuley; Form 2, Eric Lefroy, Form 3, George Renfrew; Form 4, J. Sidney Smith. The fourth form prize was presented by Mr. A. Montizambert, of Peterborough.

Mathematics—Redmond Ord, Geoffrey Edwards.

Languages (French and Latin) prize presented by Mr. E. R. Tate, Lakefield, Geoffrey Edwards.

English prize, Stuart Cooke.

Prize for best bowler—George Renfrew.

Best average cricketer—Esmonde Clarke.

Mr. R. M. Hamilton's Cup, donated to the boy proving himself to be the best average athlete during the school term was also presented. A medal awarded to the boy who excelled in courtesy and gentlemanly conduct during the term, donated by Mrs. Hamilton, of Auburn, was presented to C. Zwicker.

Rev. Dr. E. A. Langfeldt was present to present his prize medal to the boy considered by the head master and teachers ofthe school the best all round boy. This coveted medal was won by Esmonde Clarke. After the presentations, speeches were made by Rev. A. W. MacKenzie, Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, Prof. M. MacKenzie, and Major McLaughlin. Refreshments were then served and a most pleasant evening brought to a close with the singing of the National Anthem.

Among those present were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Hatton, Peterborough; Miss Lundy, Peterborough; Mrs. R. Hamilton, Peterborough; R. M. Hamilton, Fenelon Falls, Hon. Capt. Dr. Langfeldt, 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons, Peterborough; Major McLaughlin, 3rd Prince of Wales C Dragoons, Bowmanville; Mrs. Zwicker, St. John's, N.B.; Mrs. and the Misses Atwood, Lakefield, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Tate, Lakefield; Mr. and Mrs. and the Misses Hillier, Lakefield; Rev. W. J. Creighton, Lakefield; Mr. Comber, Bobcaygeon; Mr. M. B. Kilpack, Peterborough, Mrs. Dunn, Quebec, Mrs. Traill, Lakefield, and others.

THE VALUE OF TURPENTINE

When all else fails the physician recommends his wealthy patient to take a trip to the turpentine groves as a cure for throat and lung troubles. The turpentine of commerce cannot very well be used but by adding linseed Dr. Chase succeeded in getting up the most effective treatment for throat and lung troubles that was ever discovered. It is known as Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

FIRST REGULAR PASSENGER SERVICE ON GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC RAILWAY

Advices have been received from the General Passenger Department of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, that the first regular passenger train which is being operated between Winnipeg and Scott, a distance of 560 miles, was thoroughly satisfactory both as to service and patronage. Brass band receptions were given the train at every point along the line.

IS CANADA MORE PAGAN THAN CHINA?

Attendance at the Mission Conducted by Rev. Jonathon Goforth Would Seem to Indicate as much.

The Rev. Jon. Goforth, of China, who is conducting a mission in St. Paul's Church is not getting a very good impression of the Christianity of the people of Peterborough, judging from the attendance at the meetings. The mission is a union effort of the three Presbyterian congregations. The other denominations have also been invited to attend; and, yet, the meetings have been attended by very few. Mr. Goforth is one of the most honoured servants of God on the foreign field. Indeed, judging by results, he is one of the greatest living missionaries. He has been the human instrument that God has used more than any other in the great revival which has recently swept over China. The Presbyterian Church freed Mr. Goforth from his regular missionary work sometime ago that he might devote himself altogether to evangelistic work among the Chinese Mission fields.

Whenever he has gone throughout China multitudes have flocked to hear him, and his preaching and work have resulted in a marvellous revival resulting in thousands of conversions.

Mr. Goforth is on furlough. Instead of taking a much needed rest, he has decided to hold a series of missions in Canada. Peterborough is the first he has held. He wants to see if the people of Canada are as anxious to hear the Gospel as they are in China. So far the results have not been encouraging. The Christians in China seem more anxious for the glory of God and the spread of Christ's name than they are in Peterborough. They are more zealous, more prayer-loving, more Bible-loving, more Christ-loving. If the response is not such as he hoped he intends going back to China to a people that are more willing to receive the Gospel than they are here.

The service last night was the largest of any yet, and the interest was deep. Indeed the meetings all along have been characterized by great power, and if only the church members of our different congregations had attended would have resulted in a great revival throughout our city. His mission is altogether to the churches, to professing Christians rather than the unsaved. He feels what Mr. Moody felt and what Finney felt during the last years of his life, that the most important thing in all evangelistic efforts to get the church right. If this is accomplished everything else will follow. The meetings will be held every day this week, Saturday included, at 3:30 and 8:00 p.m. On Sabbath he will preach in St. Andrew's in the morning and St. Paul's in the evening.—Com.

Another "Sunshine" Feature

This is an entirely new idea, and will especially interest people who reside in natural gas districts. The gas ring takes the place of the lower Sunshine fire-pot, thus making it possible to burn gas in your furnace without inconvenience. Such is not possible in a furnace where the ordinary gas log is inserted; for, should the gas give out, a coal or wood fire could not be started until the gas pipes were disconnected.

To provide against sweating in the summer time, Sunshine Furnace is equipped with a nickelled steel radiator and dome. All bolts and rivets are nickelled, all rods copper-plated. This special treatment, besides meaning quicker and greater radiation from the radiator and dome than cold chill iron could possibly give, acts as protection for the bolts, rivets and rods from inroads of gas. When cast iron comes in contact with our nickelled steel it is coated with our special Anti-Rust treatment, which prevents the slightest possibility of rust commencing anywhere in Sunshine Furnace.

ROMAN CATHOLICS HAVE UNITED

French-Canadians and New Englanders in Giant Society.

ORTHODOXY IS NECESSARY

French Extraction and Due Performance of Easter Duties Are Stipulated as Qualifications For Membership In the Huge Association Launched In Montreal Yesterday—Membership Is 250,000.

Montreal, June 24.—The French-Canadian and Acadian Catholic Association is now an accomplished fact, embracing the French societies of almost every province of the Confederation and New England States and possessing about three hundred thousand members, was successfully launched last night at the Monument Nationale in the presence of the Premier of Canada and of the Province of Quebec.

Years ago the Hon. Horace Mercier and Hon. J. Israel Tarte argued that the St. Jean Baptiste Society should take in every man speaking the French tongue, even if he were an adherent of the Protestant faith, but they failed to convince the majority that a man's faith should not be a test, and this has been adhered to in the formation of the larger confederation, which received its baptism last evening.

It has been stipulated that to be a member of this new society one must perform their Easter duties, and so this would have at once bowled out the late Sir Henri Joly de Lotbiniere, who was a Huguenot, and it is not at all probable that the present Premier of the Dominion could be a member. It is stated, however, that this test was adhered to by the clerical delegates and supported by a large majority of the laymen present.

At the evening's soiree de gala Mayor Payette welcomed Sir Wilfrid and Sir Lomer, and one of the incidents was the presentation of a beautiful poem written by John Boyd and dedicated to the St. Jean Baptiste Association.

The delegates are as follows: Quebec 31, Ontario 4, New Brunswick 2, Manitoba 2, Alberta 1, Maine 1, Massachusetts 4, New York 1, New Hampshire 1, Rhode Island 1, Connecticut 1.

Damage by Electrolysis.

Winnipeg, June 24.—That the known damage to the domestic supply and high water mains through electrolysis amounts to thousands of dollars already, and that it is possible that a great many water mains in the central portion of the city are very seriously affected through the currents of electricity escaping from street car rails, is the essence of the report presented to the board of control by Prof. L. B. Hunt of McGill University, who has been conducting tests for several months.

Up-to-Date Railway Travel.

Chicago, June 24.—Competition for the bulk of travel to the exposition in Seattle has reached another notch in the announcement of one railway that all its limited trains will be supplied with phonographs for the entertainment of passengers. Among other unique bids for patronage are a table d'hote meal for $1 beginning with a cocktail and ending with a costly cigar, the provision of women stenographers, and a clothes pressing attachment free of charge.

McGuigan Represents G.T.P.

Toronto, June 24.—The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co. yesterday appointed F. H. McGuigan as the company's representative on the conciliation board recently granted to the employes by the Dominion Government.

Mr. McGuigan and the men's representative, J. G. O'Donoghue, have a week in which to agree upon a presiding arbitrator. In default of an agreement one will be nominated by the Minister of Labor.

Died of Excitement.

St. John, N.B., Jun 24.—Mrs Mary N. Elliott, widow of W. J. Elliott, Newcastle, had sent her trunks to the train and was preparing to leave for the station en route to Minot, North Dakota, to visit her children, then to go to Vancouver to see other children, when stricken with hemorrhage of the brain, due to excitement, and died in a few hours.

Palpitation of the Heart.

One of the first danger signals that announce something wrong with the heart is the irregular beat or violent throb. Often there is only a fluttering sensation, or an "all gone" sinking feeling; or again, there may be a most violent beating, with flushings of the skin and visible pulsations of the arteries. The person may experience a smothering sensation, gasp for breath and feel as though about to die. In such cases the action of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills in quieting the heart, restoring its normal beat and imparting tone to the nerve centres, is, beyond all question, marvellous. They give such prompt relief that no one need suffer.

Mr. Sylvester Smith, Hampton, N.B., writes:—"I was troubled with palpitation of the heart and tried doctor's medicines, but they only gave me temporary relief. I heard of your Heart and Nerve Pills and bought two boxes and before I had used them I was completely cured and would recommend them to all similarly affected."

Price, 50 cents per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

PARTY OF TOURISTS WAS DROWNED

Eleven Persons Lose Lives on Lower Lake Killarney.

BOAT CAUGHT IN A GALE

Famous Irish Resort For Sightseers Is Scene of Terrible Calamity When Five Americans, Four English and Two Boatmen Are Drowned —Many Other Boats Escaped by Returning to the Shore.

Killarney, Ireland, June 24.—A large rowboat, carrying five American and four English tourists and four Irish boatmen, or 13 in all, was swamped in a gale while crossing Lower Killarney Lake yesterday afternoon.

All of the tourists and two of the boatmen were drowned. The victims are Mrs. A. A. Hilton and son of Tacoma, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. Longhead, or Loughead of Boston; Miss M. H. Catum or Coturn of Massachusetts; Rev. B. Barton and sister of London, and Miss Florence Wilkinson and cousin of Brentwood, Essex; Boatmen Con. Tooney and Con. Gleeson. None of the bodies were recovered last night.

The boat was a four-oared craft, used for taking visitors about the lake. Most of the passengers were guests of the Great Southern Hotel. When the lower lake was reached, it was found that a heavy wind from the northwest was blowing. Several other boats that had started over the same course put back.

It was not long before anxiety began to be felt concerning the boat, which had continued on the course, and searchers who put out when the wind had died down a little, discovered her overturned with two of the boatmen clinging to the keel. Barton and two of the women could be seen in the distance, supported by an oar, but they sank before the rescuers could reach them.

The two boatmen who were rescued were so exhausted to give any account of the accident.

Prisoner Attempted Suicide.

Ottawa, June 24.—William Swift, arrested here on a charge of trying to work a swindle in connection with a cold storage scheme, attempted suicide with morphine, but was detected just after he took the dose, and by walking him about vigorously for a couple of hours saved the man's life.

Lineman's Escape.

Cornwall, June 24.—In trying to prevent himself falling, George Airey, a lineman of the Electric Light Co., grasped a wire and formed a circuit for 10,000 volts. His hands were badly burned, but his use of a safety belt saved him a fall of 25 feet.

Can Go to Elmira.

Kingston, June 24.—The 14th Regiment has been granted permission to go to Elmira, N.Y., for July 4, the Militia Department canceling its previous order.

Live Fortnight In Cellar.

Galveston, Tex., June 24.—In removing a cyclone wrecked house on the farm of Charles Dilson in Brown County, the workers discovered a storm cellar in which were Dilson and his wife and 12-year-old daughter, more dead than alive. For two weeks they had been prisoners in the cellar with barely a morsel to eat for a week, and nothing to drink for two days. Raw potatoes had been their subsistence for six days.

Month Off For Militiamen.

Montreal, June 24.—The Lake of the Woods Milling Co. have gone one better than their rivals, The Ogilvie Flour Co., in the matter of assisting indirectly in the defence of the country, and offer militiamen in their employ a fortnight to attend camp and two weeks' vacation in addition, with full pay. Their circular is headed "The president of the Lake of the Woods Milling Co. replies to Lord Rosebery's ringing challenge."

Babe Drowns In Rain Barrel.

Hamilton, June 24.—Death came with shocking suddenness to the year old baby girl of David McDonough, 118 North John street. The child was playing in the back yard, enjoying herself in the shade. There was a tub of rain water in the yard, and little Loreen was amusing herself floating bits of stick and making herself toy boats to sail in the tub, when she fell in and was drowned.

Struck by Lightning.

Paris, Ont., June 24.—During a heavy thunderstorm yesterday afternoon Jerome Kinsley was struck by lightning and was unconscious for twenty minutes. He, with his men, who are cutting lumber in Lapirre's Bush, about three miles from here, were holding their horses, when he and three of the horses were struck. They will all recover.

Accused of Perjury.

Kingston, June 24.—Samuel Levein, a confectioner, fined $40 and costs for selling ice cream and fruit on Sunday, has been arrested for perjury.

He persists in saying that he only sold lunches to men, who testified they purchased ice cream and fruit.

Prof. Workman Sues Again.

Montreal, June 24.—Prof. Workman has entered another action against the Wesleyan Theological College for $5,000. The college in the plea to the other action for five thousand related the charges, claiming that they were not true. This is claimed by the professor to be another libel.

Timber Lot Sold.

Ottawa, June 24.—Yesterday No. 2 berth of the Dokis [illegible] Reserve, five and a half miles square, was knocked down to the Georgian Bay Lumber Co., for $64,000. The amount realized will be handed by the Indian Department for the benefit of the Dokis Indians.

The Selling Value of a House

Mr. Builder, this talk is for you. You are building for investment. The profit you make on your investment depends on the ease with which your house sells, or if rented, the rent it brings and the number of years it will be in condition to command that rental.

You have, no doubt, noticed that the first question a prospective buyer or tenant asks about a house is, "How is it heated?"

Now, if you can answer that your house is heated by a hot water system you have a great argument in its favor. You give it the highest commendation when you say it is heated by the

Daisy Hot Water Boiler & King Radiators

We want you to make a careful, critical examination of the Daisy Hot Water Boiler. We want you to go into every detail of its construction and get full information about its exclusive features and the tests it has stood.

We want you to do this for your own ultimate good—so that when you invest in a heating system you will not buy in the dark.

We know, that, when you have the facts before you, you will realize why seventy per cent. of the boilers in use in Canada, to-day, for hot water heating systems, are Daisy Boilers.

Daisy Hot Water Boilers are made in the largest and most modernly equipped plant in the country. The very highest grade of materials and expert workmanship are employed.

But the strongest feature of the Daisy Boiler is its design. It is so constructed that it makes use of all the heat generated in the fire chamber—none of the heat is wasted up the chimney or radiated into the cellar. It is under perfect control, so that every part of the house is evenly warmed and held at any desired temperature. It gives plenty of heat for the coldest days in winter, and comfortable warmth without overheating during the chilly nights of early summer.

We are ready to give you every opportunity to thoroughly investigate the merits of the Daisy Hot Water Boiler. It will pay you who are building to sell or rent, as well as those who are building a house to live in, to take advantage of this opportunity—pay you in the life of the system, its efficiency and economy.

King Radiators are designed to give a perfectly free circulation to the water from the boiler and offer the largest radiating surface.

King Radiators are cast from a special selection of iron that insures perfectly smooth castings and will stand our extremely high pressure test.

Though no radiator in operation is subjected to a higher pressure than ten pounds, we test each separate section and each assembled King Radiator to a pressure of one hundred pounds. The slightest imperfection or sign of weakness sends the radiator to the scrap heap. This test is most rigidly adhered to.

The design of the King Radiator is compact and neat in appearance, lending itself readily to any scheme of decoration.

The highest standard of efficiency in house or store heating is found in the combination of Daisy Hot Water Boilers and King Radiators.

Write for our Booklet "Comfortable Homes." It tells a story of interest to anyone with a house or building to heat. We'll gladly send the Booklet free.

Montreal, June 24.—At the afternoon session of the royal commission yesterday ex-Ald. Ames swore that when he was first elected he was visited by the city assessors and asked if he wanted his assessment reduced. He had indignantly refused.

Seventeen Miners Killed.

Wehrum, Pa., June 24.—As the result of an explosion of gas in mine No. 4 of the Lackawanna Coal & Coke Co., shortly after 7 o'clock yesterday morning, 17 miners were killed and 16 injured. All but one were foreigners.

Farm Hand Becomes Baronet.

Winnipeg, June 24.—Jos. Brough, a young Englishman working as a farm hand at Alexander, Manitoba, has fallen heir to a baronetcy in England, and also an estate valued at $375,000.

Badly Hurt In Runaway.

Brampton, June 24.—Wm. Large, a plumber, accompanied by Frank Bailey, was driving to Huttonville yesterday morning, when their horse ran away. Both men were thrown out. Large having his leg broken and Bailey a broken [illegible].

PAINS

In Neck, Shoulders, Arms, Joints, Muscles

This means Rheumatism, the disease that next to Tuberculosis plays greatest havoc in the nation. But there is a cure—Ferrozone—a concentrated vegetable remedy that has the power to neutralize Uric Acid, and therefore it cures permanently.

FERROZONE CURES

"For years I had been rheumatic. I tried various forms of relief, without success. The disease increased, settled in my joints and muscles; these swelled, caused excruciating pains, and kept me from sleeping. My limbs and arms stiffened, my shoulders were lame, and prevented me from working. Week by week I was losing strength, and despaired of finding a cure. It was a happy day I heard of Ferrozone. Every day I took Ferrozone I felt better; it eased the painful joints, gave me energy, and a feeling of new life. Ferrozone cured my rheumatism, cured it so that not an echo has ever returned. Even damp weather no longer affects me."

(Mrs.) Edw. Warman,
Kent Junc., N.B.

You will be cured for all time to come by using Ferrozone; try it—now—50c per box, or six boxes for $2.50 at all dealers.

CITY LEAGUE GAMES MAY BE PLAYED ON THE OVAL

Saturday's games in the Senior City Baseball League may be played at Nicholls' Oval instead of at Riverside Park as the result of a meeting of the executive of the League held at the Examiner office last night. President McWilliams was in the chair and all the clubs were represented.

The teams in the League claim that the terms offered by the owners of the Riverside Park are not satisfactory and that unless they are reduced considerably the League schedule should be finished out at the Oval, where the generosity of the public will have to be depended upon for securing funds for the clubs.

The teams were unanimous in this opinion and a proposition will be made to the owners of Riverside Park which, if not accepted means that the games in future will be played at the Oval.

TWO FAST GAMES ON IN CITY LEAGUE DOUBLE BILL

Great interest is being taken in the Saturday's games in the Senior City Baseball League, which promise to be the best of the season. The first game between the T.A.S. and Park St. will mark the end of the first round, while the last game of the double-headers, which brings together the West Ends and Strathconas will be the first of the second round of the series.

Both games should be fast and interesting as all four teams have the strongest line-ups billed for Saturday.

The Park St. team states that they will give the T. A. S. an awful argument in the first game and with the contemplated changes in their team they will certainly be there. It will be a hard-fought game all the way.

Will the Strathconas turn the tables on the West Ends in the second game? "Sure," says Manager Metheral of the Straths, but Manager Oldham can't see it at all. "We'll make it two straights from the Straths," is the way he looks at it. There you are, but you probably will have to wait until Saturday for the answer.

LAWN BOWLING

The interest in the Frost Bowling series is shown by the large number of members out each evening, there being several very interesting games played yesterday. The following is the scores:

Skip Dr. Marshall, 16, vs. Skip T. Brightman, 8.
Skip T. B. Yeates, 10, vs. Skip W. McElroy, 24.
Skip Sam Shoope, 15, vs. Skip Clarke, 13.

Rev. Pearson vs. J. E. A. Fitzgerald.
T. Ed. Pratt, vs. T. B. Yeates.
W. M. Lang vs. Dr Greer
R Cottrell vs. Sam Sharp.
J. E. McIntyre vs. Dr. Marshall.
C. Seymour vs. D. Belleghem.

LIVERPOOL, June 23.—Closing—Wheat—Spot No. 2 red western winter, nominal; futures firm; July 8s 6¼d; Sept. 8s 6¾d; Dec., 8s 4½d. Corn—Spot, steady; new American mixed (via Galveston), 6s 4¼d; futures, quiet; July, 5s 7d; Sept., 5s 7¼d. Lard—Quiet; prime western, 48s 6d; American refined, 52s 6d. Turpentine spirits—Steady, 32s 6d.

New York Dairy Market.

Cheese—Steady; unchanged; receipts, 2205.

Eggs—Irregular; receipts, 19,562; State Penna and nearby brown and mixed, fair to choice, 21½c to 23c; western, first, 22c to 23½c; seconds, 19c to 20½c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—Hogs 10c to 15c Lower at Chicago.

LONDON, June 23.—London cables for cattle are firm, at 13½c to 14¼c per lb. for Canadian steers, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 10½c to 10¾c per lb.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, June 23.—(Special.)—At the Canadian Pacific Live Stock Market, the offerings this morning amounted to 450 steers, 100 cows, 50 bulls, 200 sheep, 100 lambs, 700 hogs and 1200 calves. Altho the weather was exceedingly hot, the gathering of buyers was large, and, as they were all somewhat short of supplies of beef for the balance of the week, on account of the large number of strangers being in town, which has tended to increase the consumption considerably, the demand for all classes of cattle was good, and, considering the increased offerings an.. the unfavorable weather for keeping stock, quite an active trade was done, and prices were well maintained. There was no demand for export account, owing to the fact that there was no suitable stock on the market. Choice stall-fed steers sold at 6¼c to 6½c; good at 5¾c to 6c; top quality grassers brought 5½c and medium 4¾c to 5¼c; good cows sold at 4c to 4½c, and common at 3c to 3½c. Choice bulls brought 5c to 5¼c, and lower grades 4¼c to 4¾c per lb. Supplies of small meats were considerably larger than usual, for which there was a good demand and an active trade was done, with no change in prices to note. Sheep sold freely at 5½c to 4c per lb. Lambs brought from $3 to $6 each, as to size. Demand for calves was brisk, and, as some of them were of extra choice quality, higher prices were paid for them. Sales were made at $10 to $12 each for top grades, and the commoner ones sold at from $2 to $8 each. The quality of the hogs offered was inferior, and the top price realised for them was $6 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market the offerings of live stock this morning consisted of 325 cattle, 50 sheep and lambs, 135 hogs and 1025 calves. A fairly active trade was done in all lines on account of the somewhat scarcity of stock earlier in the week, and the fact that the consumption this week is somewhat larger than usual, notwithstanding the hot weather. The undertone to the market was firm, and prices show no material change. Sales of choice stall-fed steers were made at 6¼c to 6½c; good at 6c to 6¼c, and grassers ranged from 3c to 5½c per lb. Sheep sold at 5½c to 4c per lb. Lambs brought from $3 to $6 each, and calves from $2 to $10 each, as to quality. The market for hogs was strong, on account of the small offerings, and sales of selected lots were made at $6.75 to $6.85 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

Veals—Receipts, 150 head; active and 25c higher; $5 to $8.50.

Hogs—Receipts, 3400 head; fairly active and 10c to 15c lower; heavy and mixed, $6 to $6.10; Yorkers, $7.25 to $6; pigs, $6.90 to $7.10; roughs, $6.75 to $7; stags, $5.50 to $6; dairies, $7.25 to $7.30.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 800 head; lambs, active and steady; sheep, slow; yearlings and mixed sheep, 25c lower; yearlings, $6.50 to $7; ewes, $4 to $4.50; sheep, mixed, $3 to $4.75.

New York Live Stock.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Beeves—Receipts, 1099; steers slow to 10c lower; bulls steady; fat cows easy; others steady to 10c higher; steers, $5.35 to $6.85; bulls, .. to $5; cows, $2.25 to $4.60; experts, about 2000 quarters of beef.

Calves—Receipts, 2500; veals steady, but rather slow; buttermilks, 10c to 15c higher; veals, $4 to $8.75; few selected bunches, $9; culls, $5 to $5.50; buttermilks, $4.75 to $5.12½.

Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 7300; sheep steady; lambs 10c to 25c higher on light supply; sheep, $3 to $5; culls, $2.75; few choice sheep, $5.25 to $5.50; lambs, $7.50 to $9.25; culls, $7.

Hogs—Receipts, 5813; market lower, at $6.90 to $6.10; pigs, $7.00 to $7.60.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, June 23.—Cattle—Receipts, estimated at 15,000; market, steady; beeves, $5.15 to $7.25; Texas steers, $4.60 to $6.15; western steers, $4.75 to $7.15; stockers and feeders, $3.60 to $5.50; cows and heifers, $3.40 to $6.25; calves, $5.50 to $7.75.

Hogs—Receipts, estimated at 23,000; market 10c to 15c lower; light, $7.05 to $7.70; mixed, $7.25 to $7.80; heavy, $7.30 to $7.85; rough, $7.30 to $7.45; good to choice heavy, $7.45 to $7.85; pigs, $6.10 to $6.95; bulk of sales, $7.65 to $7.75.

Sheep—Receipts, estimated 15,000; market weak; native, $3.50 to $5.20; western, $3.75 to $5.75; yearlings, $5 to $7; lambs, native, $5.50 to $8; western, $5.50 to $8; spring lambs, $5.50 to $9.75.

WAS KICKED BY A HORSE

Last night at 11.45 Mr. John Manley was brought to the Nichell's Hospital suffering from a very painful accident. Mr. Manley's home is in Otonabee, but has been in the employ of Mr. W. McKee of North Monaghan. While attending the horses in the evening one of them kicked him full in the face and the marks of the caulks are quite distinct. What makes the injury of such a serious nature is the fact that his right eye is badly cut, but it is not thought that he will lose the sight of that optic.

Under the circumstances Mr. McKee considered it advisable to bring Mr. Manley to the hospital, where he could be properly cared for and a speedy recovery is expected.

Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

JOHN R. HEGEMAN, President

INDUSTRIAL DEPARTMENT

In January, 1907, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company largely increased the benefits in its industrial policies by reason of a heavy reduction in expenses and improvement in mortality experience.

During the past three years the Company has steadily reduced its expenses, so that it is enabled to make a further increase in benefits. Industrial insurance policies have a unit of weekly premium—three cents, five cents and multiples thereof—and the amount of insurance varies with the age.

All Industrial Life policies (premiums cease after age 74). Endowment policies at age 60 and Adult 20 year Endowment according to a new table of benefits adopted for policies issued after July 1, 1909. In other words, not only does the Company issue a new table for policies hereafter issued, but it makes the increase retroactive since the present form of Limited Payment and Endowment at age 60 policies were adopted.

Policies issued since January 1st, 1907, will be increased in benefits about ten per cent.,

Upon the OLD INDUSTRIAL POLICIES the Company is paying out TWO AND A HALF MILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN BONUSES THIS YEAR, bringing up the total Bonuses and Concessions upon industrial policies to EIGHTEEN MILLIONS OF DOLLARS IN SIXTEEN YEARS. This is OVER AND ABOVE ANY AND ALL OBLIGATIONS expressed or implied in the policies.

The Metropolitan in its Industrial Department has the lowest Ratio of Expense of all the Industrial Insurance Companies in the world which pay immediate benefits. In FIVE YEARS its

Ratio of Expenses to Premium Income has been Reduced

8 per cent., representing an Annual Saving of Three and a Half Millions of Dollars

The new Convertible policy issued by the Company is a novel form of insurance which becomes fully paid up life insurance in a few years and is then automatically converted into endowment insurance, the maturity of which is periodically shortened as payment of premiums continues.

The Company is abreast of the public demand for combination of term insurance and annuities, and serves the public better than any other agency.

INDUSTRIAL POLICIES IN FORCE, NEARLY 9,500,000, INSURING NEARLY $1,500,000,000.

ORDINARY DEPARTMENT

The Company has reduced expenses six per cent. in this department in the last FIVE years—representing an ANNUAL SAVING OF OVER A MILLION AND A QUARTER OF DOLLARS IN THE ORDINARY DEPARTMENT.

The Company issues policies in the Ordinary Department in amounts from $500 to $1000,000 upon all approved plans at the lowest rates. IN 1908 IT WROTE MORE PAID-FOR BUSINESS IN ITS ORDINARY OLD LINE INSURANCE (exclusive of Industrial,) in the United States and Canada, THAN ANY OTHER COMPANY.

All of its policies in the Ordinary as well as the Industrial Department are written on the non-participating plan. The Metropolitan pays its dividends at the start—that is to say, it cuts down the premiums. It believes the plain, common-sense men who make up the bulk of policy-holders look for a plain business contract. By plain business contracts we mean those which tell their whole story upon their face, which leave nothing to the imagination, borrow nothing from hope, require definite conditions and make definite promises in dollars and cents.

In both departments combined the company has, in each of the past fifteen years, written more paid-for insurance than any other company in the world.

The Company upon its total business has in the last ten years reduced its Ratio Expenses to Premium Income Fifteen Per Cent.

EXAMINATIONS IN MUSIC HELD

Examinations for the Toronto Conservatory of Music were conducted in the Y. M. C. A. while at the same time the examinations for the Toronto College of Music were held at the local Conservatory of Music. The latter examinations are being continued to-day. Quite a number of local pupils have been writing on one or other of the examinations.

WEDDING BELLS

KELLMAN—CHAMBO

The marriage of Miss Olive Marie Chambo, of this city, to Mr. Charles Kellman, electrician, for the Bell Telephone Co., of Chatham, was solemnized by Rev. J. G. Potter at St. Andrew's manse yesterday afternoon. The bride and groom were unattended. Miss Chambo wore lace over cream silk taffeta with hat to match.

Mr. and Mrs. Kellman left on the 4.36 train for a trip to Toronto and Detroit. They will reside in Chatham.

KEENE FISHERS' SPLENDID LUCK

Some Big Catches Made—Women's Institute Meets on Saturday.

Examiner Special.

Keene, June 23.—Fishing commenced Wednesday, June 16th, and there were a great many fishermen out that day, most of whom were fortunate to get one or more 'lunge, a considerable number having been caught in Keene River. Since the sixteenth, owing to the windy weather, it has been almost been impossible to fish in the lake, and the catch has not been very large, although, no doubt, if the weather had been better many more would have been caught. Mr. F. M. Dean was fortunate Thursday afternoon in landing an eighteen pound fish, and Saturday, Mr. J. H. S. Dickson caught one weighing over 16 lbs.

Mr. J. C. Read, accompanied by his neice, Miss Bessie Read, i terborough, left Tuesday to visit relatives in Connecticut.

Mrs. Yourex and Mrs. Young, Norwood, were the guests of Mrs. William Campbell, Friday.

The Village Improvement Association ran an excursion to Peterborough last Wednesday. The attendance was not large, but those who attended enjoyed a very pleasant sail.

Rev. John Gray, D.D., who has been in the village and vicinity for a couple of weeks, canvassing for the Thursday for Toronto.

Misses Luella Redpath and Lena Murdiff, Lakefield, are the guests of Miss Nellie Speirs.

Miss Clara Roach intends leaving next week for Rochester, where she will enter a hospital as nurse in training.

Miss Bessie Read and Kathleen Powell left for a summer's visit to Vancouver Island, Tuesday.

Miss Edna Howson has returned from Norwood, where she has been attending high school.

Mr. Leo Walsh left for Edmonton last week.

Messrs. W. Kidd and J. Devlin, Indian River, were in the village on Saturday.

Miss Lillian Wedlock is the guest of Mrs. Jas. Wedlock on the Otonabee River.

Mrs. John Fife is visiting relatives in the West.

Mr. Adam Starke is spending his holidays in Otonabee.

Mr. John Byran left last week in a trip to Manitoba.

The Masons will hold their annual picnic at Healey's Falls, St. John's Day, Thursday, June 24th.

Mr. S. Smithson left Tuesday for Buckhorn, where he will act as presiding examiner at the entrance examinations held there.

Miss Margaret Wood is visiting friends in Warkworth.

We are pleased to state that Mr. J. H. McIntyre, who has been very ill, is greatly improved.

A number of local young men are attending military camp at Cobourg and Kingston.

Mr. James Stewart has purchased a new covered bus, to run between Kane and the station. He has also bought Mr. John Bennet's old blacksmith shop and intends turning it into a stable.

Rev. W. D. Harrison, pastor of the Methodist Church, will preach his farewell sermon Sunday, June 27th. Mr. Harrison will leave next week for Warkworth and will be succeeded by Rev. Mr. Johnston of that town.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McIntyre, of North Bay, are the guests of Mr. McIntyre's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McIntyre.

Mr. Harold Smith, Peterborough, is spending his holidays in Keene.

Entrance examinations will be held in Keene Public School Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, June 23rd, 24th and 25th. Mr. J. L. Garvin, of Lakefield, will act as presiding examiner.

Bethel Sunday School and Epworth League will run an excursion Thursday to Stony Lake.

Mr. H. L. Kirby, Toronto, is visiting friends in this vicinity.

The Women's Institute meeting will be held in the town hall Saturday afternoon and evening, June 26th. The afternoon meeting, which is for women only, will be taken up by an address by Miss Powell, "Demonstrations in Needlework," and Miss Tilhólm's address "Will the Dairy Cow Remove the Mortgage?" The meeting will commence at 2.30 p.m.

The evening meeting will commence at 8 p.m. All are invited to this meeting. The addresses will be "Our Friends and Foes—Bacteria," by Miss Gilholm, and "Institute Work" by Miss Powell. The programme will be interspersed with music and recitations.

The Women's Institute has been but recently organized in Otonabee, and is making good progress. It is expected that these meetings on Saturday will help bring in a great many members to the Society.

"A WOMAN HEART"
This pathetic little drama tells a story of a man divorced and married again, and called to the death bed of his first wife, and the troubles and joys that followed. It is a most beautifully coloured picture and one to please everyone

"PROFITABLE MARRIAGE"
An extremely funny picture, showing the trouble a young man has in getting money from his uncle, how he succeeds by getting married, and the extremely happy result of this marriage.

"A FRIEND IN NEED"
An interesting picture story of Camp Life in the West, showing how a number of men seek the death of a companion, and when he is about to die is rescued by his faithful horse, which unties the ropes that bind him.

"A VACCINATION THAT PREVENTS ALL INJURIES"
This very funny picture shows Dr. Findall with his discovery of a new Serum, which when you are vaccinated with it will save you from all harm. Anyone interested in vaccination should not fail to see this picture, as it might cure them of their troubles.

Mr. Loftus will sing a new illustrated song entitled "When the Sun Goes Down to Rest Behind the Hill."

Do not forget that we have installed a self cooled motor Fan, and that the Royal Theatre is the coolest place to go to.

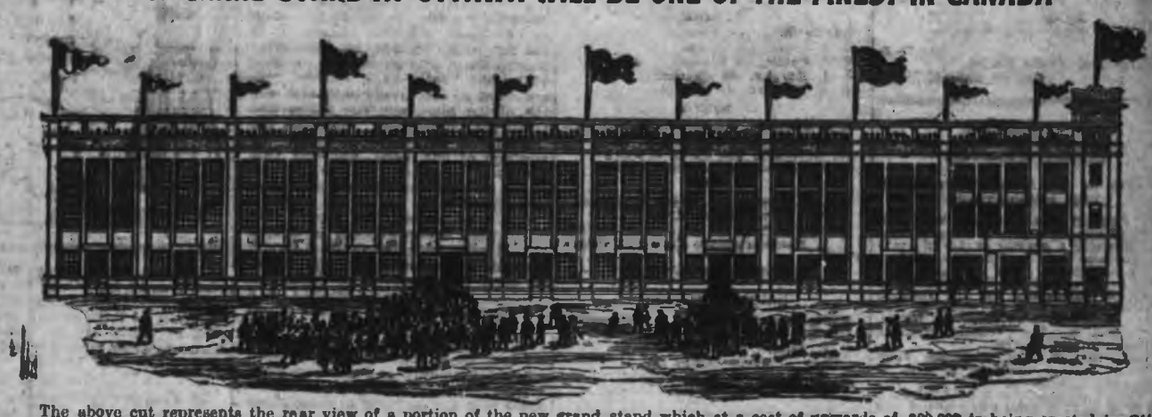
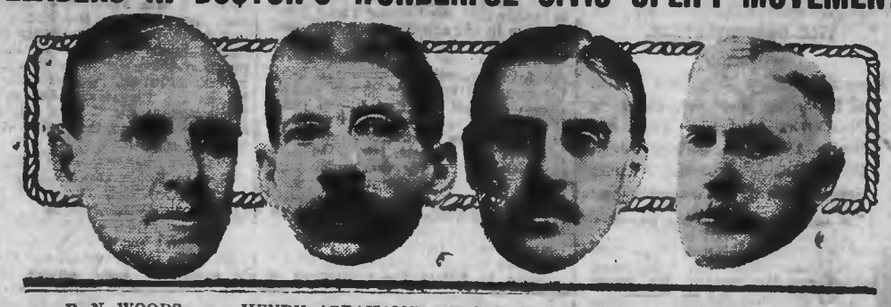
NEW GRAND STAND AT OTTAWA WILL BE ONE OF THE FINEST IN CANADA



The above cut represents the rear view of a portion of the new grand stand which at a cost of upwards of $80,000 is being erected in Ottawa by The Central Canada Exhibition Association, is one of the finest structures of the kind on the continent. The work is rapidly progressing and will be completed in good time for this year's big Exhibition, Sept. 10th to 18th. Constructed of solid steel and concrete and absolutely fireproof, the new stand will be over 500 feet in length and will provide seating accommodation for 12,000 people, along with elaborate dining halls and other accessories of the modern fair. It will command from all sections a fine view of the spectacular production, the feature of the night entertainment, as well as the races and varied attractions of the afternoon programme. Improvements on an extensive scale are being carried out in the grounds and buildings, including a Process Building which will show the product of many factories in process of manufacture; the prize list all round is increased, many new features added, and generally speaking the fair of 1909 will be bigger and better than ever.

LEADERS IN BOSTON'S WONDERFUL CIVIC UPLIFT MOVEMENT



R. N. WOODS, Social Settlement Worker. HENRY ABRAHAMS, Labor Leader JAS. J. STORROW, Leading Merchant BERNARD J. ROTHWELL. President Chamber of Commerce

Boston to give the toiler and his family a square deal, wants to rout out the tenements and give every laboring man his own home. In connection with this you will find a brilliant example of how much hope there is for a city when everybody works together.

You can't ask a man to tear down his tenements and turn out the occupants. You've got to show him how he won't lose any money by doing this. Here in Boston, through the wonderful committee, they are going to give prizes for the best plan for model houses for working men. They are going to select outlying districts where many of these homes can be built; they are going to get the street railway company to furnish excellent transportation to these districts; they are going to get the gas company and the electric company to supply these districts. Thus they are going to show the man who tears down his tenement where he can build nice clean homes that will bring him in more money than his foul tenements. And incidentally the city will be saving, for more pleasant purposes the hundreds of thousands of dollars that are now being spent annually in fighting tuberculosis.

Boston, in 1915, wants to exhibit, for instance, the home and life of John Hobbs, the labouring man. It wants to take visitors to John's bench and show them that the factory is sanitary and safe; that John is making good wages and that he is happy and contented; that he is in an insurance company that will protect him and his family when he is sick or when old age overtakes him. It wants to show that there are no children working in the factory and that no women are doing, for small wages, work which John ought to be given to do at fair wages; they want to show that John is smiling, happy and enthusiastic and full of hope, and they want to present for the inspection of the world at least half a million men just like John Hobbs. They want to take you out to John Hobbs' home in the suburbs and show you his boys and girls.

They want you, when you talk with John Hobbs' boy, to discover that the boy has real aims in life. He knows what he wants to do when he grows up; his teachers know it, too, and he is being trained for that thing. He knows whether he is strong physically. He probably has medals for athletic prowess in some direction, which he won in the vast system of athletic games which "Boston-1915" intends to establish for the physical development of future toilers.

At John Hobbs' home in 1915 Boston will want you to talk with John Hobbs' daughter. She knows how to cook, sew; she knows what meat and vegetables ought to cost: she knows how to make a comfortable home and how to keep herself and children healthy and happy. If Boston can go the limit, as it wants to, John Hobbs' daughter won't have the slightest thought of toiling in the business world. A good, old-fashioned home will be her dream, with a happy husband, plenty of little kiddies and a future for every one of them.

Edward A. Filene started the Boston movement. He saw all these various organizations pulling and tugging hopelessly at their various projects. As he looked at it the whole thing grew very ridiculous. Mr. Filene is a great organizer. He has a great co-operative women's store in Boston which is very successful, so little by little he worked toward a plan by which Boston meaning every man, woman and child in this city, might work together to make the city better. He began with the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants association. The two organiaztions and the Associated Boards of Trade saw his point and were merged. Then in the City club he found the Improvement association, the union men, the social workers. He got them interested. They all joined in. In this way most of the workaday interests were involved in the pull-together plan. Then the art club, the literary organizations, the music organizations were drawn in. Then private reformers were put to work. All of these interests formed a committee of 15 men. This committee decided that Boston must have some way of watching itself improve, so in March, 1908, at a dinner of 150 men, a platform of 16 planks for Boston's betterment was adopted, and it was decided that Boston should look itself over and should invite the people of other cities to do the same.

THE NEW COLLAR PIN

A breastplate of righteousness may have been quite au fait a century or more ago, but now it has moved up a few rounds on the ladder of fashion and to-day reposes directly under the curve of milady's chin.

Seen the new pins and thought they were belt pins, have you? Well that was a mistaken idea.

The shields, breastplates, slabs of metal—they are IN, and when a thing is that just wear it and bear it and smile at all who make sport of your adornment. For with a collar pin the the size of a cart wheel you're in style, and one in the heart of the fashion woman is secure.

ITEMS FROM ROUND LAKE

Examiner Special.

Round Lake, June [illegible]—Mr. Ferguson, of Norwood, has started a saw mill in this vicinity. A number of young men are employed in this work.

Among those who went to Ottawa on the excursion to the Experimental Farm were Mr. [illegible] White, of Belmont; Mr. H. Wilson, Belmont; and Mr. W. Brooks, Norwood, and Mr. Purdy, of Roseldale. They report having a trip well worth taking, and attend a [illegible] to Mr. J. J. Sexsmith, M.P., for East Peterborough, who showed them through the principal buildings of the city.

During the past week Mr. C. Knight, a mining engineer from Toronto, has been studying the ins and outs structure of rock of Round Lake. He boarded at "White Rock."

A picnic in the interests of the Sunday School was held on the shores of Round Lake, June [illegible].

Miss Edith White is visiting in Havelock at present.

The crops are looking well so far—and the prospect of the farmer is fairly bright.

Mr. J. C. Brown, Public School Inspector for Peterborough County, visited Round Lake School last week.

We regret to hear that Master Norman White, of Vancouver, B. C., who for the past year had been visiting at the home of his grandfather, Mr. M. White, of Round Lake, fell from a window about 15 feet from the ground, seriously injuring his head. Hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Miss M. Balfour, of Rush Point, is visiting at the home of Mr. J. Anderson, of Round Lake.

Mrs. A. Rogers has returned to her home here, after an extended visit with friends in Norwood and Havelock.

"AWAKE, O SLEEPER!"

PASTOR RUSSELL SPEAKS ON THE RESURRECTION.

Present Life Can Only Be a Period of Schooling For Something to Come—The Awakening Is to the Really Important Things About Us—Advancement of Our Age Has Brought Many Discontentments.

New Britain, Conn., June 20.—Pastor Russell of Brooklyn Tabernacle, addressed large audiences twice here to-day. The topic for one was, "Where are the dead?" We report the other one from the text given. He said:

Text, "Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light" (Ephesians v, 14).

The figures of Scripture are forceful as well as true. Our Creator speaks of the whole world being dead—because under sentence of death. More than this, through the fall our reasoning faculties are more or less unbalanced, some in one particular, others in another. Some have Hope disproportionately large, and are continually overestimating their possibilities. Others have the quantity of Hope proportionately small, and are continually discouraged and hindered from making the best use of their faculties. And thus it is with all of our talents. None of them could really be too large if the others were proportionately large. It is the mental balance, or poise, that constitutes a sound mind and judgment.

Viewed from the Creator's standpoint, our race is sadly unbalanced—greatly changed through the 6,000 years of the fall. Originally in the divine likeness, many of its gracious qualities and much of its balance have departed, and hence the scriptural assumption that the world is nine-tenths dead as respects its best qualities of mind and heart. And since death is a condition without consciousness, well illustrated by sleep, the Scriptures frequently refer to the world as being asleep. The gospel of Christ is a message for the awakening of some who are not too profoundly asleep. And even those awakened by the gospel message are intimated to be in danger of becoming overcharged — drowsy with the spirit of this world.

In one sense of the word, the world is very much awake—very full of activity—to-day as never before. Looking back a century, it is evident that the world was more asleep then than now. And yet this awakening has affected chiefly what might be termed the middle brain. The lower organs of the mind have never been idle. The higher organs of the brain are still dormant with the majority. Indeed it would appear as though the activities in the middle brain and in the animal passions of the lower brain have rather detracted from the upper or higher qualities of mind. Hence to all appearances mankind are more stupidly asleep to-day in respect to spiritual things than ever in the past. We are seeking to sound forth the message of the Lord, "Awake thou that sleepest," especially desiring to awake spiritual consciousness and responsibility and activity. Nevertheless, the Scriptures and experience forbid us to hope that a majority, or even a very large minority, will be awakened by anything that we can utter.

It is not for us to alarm, or threaten, or shake the world with fear of eternal torment. It is not for us to do evil that good may follow. It is not for us to awaken by such false alarms those who cannot be awakened by the Truth—by a truthful presentation of the divine character and the divine plan, and the duties and privileges proclaimed through the Gospel. It is for us to speak the message of the Lord, knowing that none will be able to see the beauties of the message except those who have the eye of faith.

Our Lord defines the second step to be that those who are awakened should arise from the dead — should separate themselves from the world, its aims, its objects, its methods. Our awakening signifies our coming to a consciousness of the actualities of our condition as individuals and as a race. As consciousness comes to us we look about and see the pell mell rush of humanity and ask ourselves, Why? What? Whither? We soon discover that the majority of those about us are practically unconscious as respects a future life—conscious only of their present existence, and worried and fretted because they cannot attain all of their ambitions, which are practically limited to the few years of the present life. As we become awake to the Lord's message we say with the poet,

Life is real, life is earnest,
And the grave is not its goal.

We begin to look beyond the grave, to realize that our Creator had a great purpose in our creation as a race, and that the present life consequently can be nothing more than a vestibule to the future possibility of life eternal. We note the tendency of our day to devote at least the first fifteen years of childhood to education in order to fit and prepare for the few remaining years of the present life. We conclude that if this be reasonable then surely all of the present life can be none too long for a course of schooling, and training, and preparation, for the life eternal. As our minds become awake to the realities of the situation from this standpoint, we determine to follow the injunction of our text—to arise from the dead—to follow no longer with those who live merely for the present life, and who ignore the future as not really believing in it.

This exhortation "Arise from the dead" evidently does not relate to actual resurrection from the dead, from which we would have no power to raise ourselves. The power of that resurrection we are assured is in the hands of God, and all we can have to do with it is to make such a preparation of heart as would, according to the divine terms, fit and prepare us for a share in the "better resurrection"—in the "First resurrection."

The real resurrection of the future is our only hope of life beyond the tomb, according to the Scriptures, but the thought of that resurrection is carried forward and the word resurrected used in a figurative sense in respect to the phenomenal change which may come to those who hear the Lord's voice in the present time and are awakened thereby. These may, through the operation of their wills undergo such a transformation, such a change, as is well represented figuratively by the expressions, "arise from the dead," "resurrection," etc.

Thus the Apostle suggests, "If then ye be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above" (Colossians ii, 1). Again he says, "But if the spirit of him that raised up Jesus from the dead dwell in you, he that raised up Christ from the dead shall also quicken your mortal bodies by his spirit that dwelleth in you" (Romans viii, 11). In this last text the Apostle likens the great transformation of the present life to a resurrection from the dead, and explains that none of us could have such a transformation of character except as we should receive the begetting of the holy Spirit, the spirit of Christ. That spirit—that holy mind or disposition—accepted by our wills should rule in our mortal bodies, however imperfect, however fallen, however dead they may be to the perfections and righteousness in which we were created as a race.

Because Christ died for human sins—"for the sins of the whole world"—therefore eventually an awakening from the dead will come to all mankind. Thus it is written, "The dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God; and they that hear (obey) shall live" (John v, 25). The masses of mankind do not hear the voice of the Lord at all in the present life; many of them die in infancy, and the majority are in heathenism. The time when all such shall hear will be during the Millennial Age, when all that are in their graves shall hear the command of the Son of Man and come forth—just as Jesus at the door of Lazarus' tomb commanded, "Lazarus, come forth! And he that was dead came forth." As the world is now counted dead from God's standpoint, so those in the Millennial Age which come forth from the tomb will still be dead in the sense that they will not have the perfection of life, and not be thoroughly awake intellectually. They will come forth from the tomb in order that they may hear the voice of God speaking peace through Jesus Christ—informing them that still they are sinners, and justly condemned to death and extinction, nevertheless God in mercy had provided a redemption through Jesus, and therefore they were awakened from the tomb and caused to hear the message of God's grace.

Our text, however, is not describing the future age, the Millennium, in which the Lord will speak so forcefully to the world that all will hear and be awakened and come to a knowledge of the truth. It is speaking of the present time when the god of this world, Satan, blinds the minds and stops the hearing of all mankind except a few. "Blessed are your eyes for they see, and your ears for they hear." The awakened ones of the present time are expected to have new desires, distinctly separate and apart from those which control the world in general, and these must be so strong as to lead them to a changed course in life—to rise, to take a higher plane of thought and action than that of the world in general. The desire to arise must be their own desire, prompted by the awakening which the Lord has granted them.

To those awakened ones who seek to "arise from the dead" world comes gradually the conviction that they have undertaken the impossible thing. They find, as the Apostle expresses it, To will is present with me, but how to perform the law of God perfectly I do not find. This was the condition of the Jews as a nation for more than sixteen centuries, from the time the Law was given at Mount Sinai until Christ came and "brought life and immortality to light through the gospel." The Law awakened many of the Jews to a realization that they were in the bonds of sin and death; it set before them the perfect standard of the divine law—love for God with all their heart, mind and strength, and love for their neighbor as for themselves; and promised them eternal life if they would arise from the dead to this grand development of character.

We are assured that many Jews strove to fulfill the conditions, only to find that they could not do the things which they desired, because "the reign of sin and death" in their bodies had perverted their powers and made it impossible for the higher organs of their nature to thoroughly dominate, subdue and control the lower organs. St. Paul, speaking for these representatively, cried out, "O wretched man that I am. Who shall deliver me from this dead body?" (Romans vii, 24.) I would like to "arise from the dead," I would like to live in newness of life, but I am bound down to the sinful condition by my physical frailties, and there is no one that can help me. Then he announces the message of the gospel, and points us to Christ as the one who gave him release, and who is willing to give release to all of those who desire to come unto the Father through him—release from the bondage of sin and death.

There is but the one way to attain this. After seeking to "arise from the dead," and finding ourselves unable to do so, our hearts cry out to the Lord,, and through his Word and providence we are directed to the Lord Jesus. Coming to him by faith we inquire, What shall we do that we may be saved from ourselves, from our own fallen conditions, from the death that is upon the world—how may we obtain eternal life? How shall we prepare ourselves for it? The answer comes that we are not only to believe on our Lord Jesus Christ as our Saviour, our Redeemer, but that additionally we will need him to be our guide and our helper, and that only those who enter the school of Christ to learn of him will be prepared for a share in his resurrection, the chief resurrection. We are assured that this resurrection change must begin in us now if it will be completed in the glorious transformation that will be granted to the elect at Christ's second coming.

There is, however, only the one way to enter the school of Christ, to become his pupils. In the Scriptures it is called the "narrow way," entered by a strait or difficult gate. Our Lord explained this when he said, "If any man will be my disciple let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me." Any who decline these terms are declining the only entrance conditions connected with the school of Christ, and hence decline all the blessed arrangements of this Gospel age. They decline to enter the list of those invited to be joint-heirs with Christ in his Kingdom—the very elect. Nor is it enough that we make the consecration, that we enter the gate, to gain the prize; we must continue in the narrow way to the end; we must keep awake; we must keep separate from the world, and keep in touch with our Redeemer, who becomes the Captain of our salvation.

A worldly adage has it, "Where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise." So with the world during the dark ages; it dreamed, and was measurably happy in its slumbers. In some respects it was happier than now. The awakening of the past century has not brought to the world blessing, contentment, happiness, but rather the reverse. Awakened aesthetic tastes call for satisfaction in dainties and luxuries which all cannot attain. While "Christendom" to-day is more comfortably housed, and better fed, and better clothed, than ever before, it is more wasteful, and peevish, and discontented, and unhappy, than ever before. Why? Because the selfish propensities are in control of the will, and the more they see, the more they know, the more they have, the more will they desire.

The suggestion then comes that awakening and knowledge are dangerous things to some under present conditions? We answer, Yes; the only safe prescription for those awakened is that which the Lord provides; namely, arise from the dead and have Christ give thee light, and follow that light. Otherwise the awakening is not profitable.

Awakened Christendom is on the verge of anarchy, but does not realize it. In connection with her awakening she has developed financial giants, who, discerning the vast possibilities of the hour, have seized, in various ways more or less legal and more or less just, the inventions and opportunities brought in by the awakening. These advantages have been capitalized, stocked, and trusted, in harmony with the general laws of our time, the laws of selfishness which govern both poor and rich. Under these conditions the financial giants control the world—all others to a greater or less extent do them homage and service willy nilly.

On the other hand, the masses, equally selfish but less fortunately situated, are becoming more and more awake to their rights and their wrongs, and their power through the ballot and otherwise. They, too, are organizing and federating, and growing in intelligence. The battle between these two great institutions is sure to come, and cannot be long deferred. Love on the part of one or the other, or both, would save the day, but more and more they are losing confidence in love, and are developing its opposite. Injustices on each side are magnified. Neither gives the other credit for any other principle or motive than avarice. The clash between the two will precipitate what the Scriptures designate as "A time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation" (Daniel xii, 1). Thank God for the Scriptural assurance that in the height of the trouble the Lord will bring deliverance by the establishment of his kingdom, for which still we pray, "Thy Kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as in heaven."

KING'S BODYGUARD.

Gentlemen-at-Arms at Palace Celebrate 400th Anniversary.

With the sole exception of the Yeomen of the Guard, the Honorable Corps of Gentlemen-at-Arms is the oldest military unit in the British service. Raised in the first year of the reign of King Henry VIII. as a corps of fifty gentlemen, the "pensioners" have ever since had the proud position of being the sovereign's nearest guard, and have a worthy record in peace and war. Their special duty is to protect the King's person in battle. In the 400 years of their existence their services have been needed on several occasions. At Edgehill they saved the lives of Charles I. and the Duke of York, though the Royal Standard was lost, and to this day the standard-bearer carries no standard, in memory of the occasion. The fourth centenary of the corps, the members of which are now selected from officers in the army and the marines with distinguished war service, several of them having the Victoria Cross, was celebrated with much ceremonial by a special thanksgiving and commemorative service in the Chapel Royal at St. James' Palace recently. The corps afterwards proceeded to Buckingham Palace, where they were inspected by the King, and afterwards were his guests at luncheon, though His Majesty was not actually present. It had been arranged that the inspection should take place in the grounds of the palace, but as there had been some rain in the morning and the grass was wet, and the members would have no opportunity of changing before luncheon, His Majesty decided to vary the program and hold the inspection in the Picture Gallery. The Corps was drawn up in line formation and received His Majesty with a royal salute when he appeared with his suite at a little before one o'clock. The King, who wore the uniform of a field marshal, was accompanied by the Prince of Wales, who was in general's uniform. Followed by the Prince of Wales and the members of the suite, His Majesty passed along the line and made a careful inspection of the corps. Then taking up a position in the middle of the gallery, he addressed the members at some length.

Red Geraniums.

Charles Dickens was extremely fond of red geraniums. It gave him the greatest pleasure to see them in the windows, for he said that it made even the poorest home look cheerful.

The Thermometer.

Sir Isaac Newton experimented with the thermometer, but his scale was not accepted. He also proposed to use "linseed" oil instead of alcohol, melting snow and the heat of the human body to be the extremes of heat and cold.

Skin Diseases.

A diseased or disfigured skin will always leave its stamp on the mind of the individual. Many people suffering from disfiguring skin diseases avoid society and lose all pride in their personal appearance. When the skin breaks out in eruptions and sores it is due entirely to an impure condition of the blood.

In all such cases Burdock Blood Bitters will quickly purify the blood and drive all the impurities out of the system.

ITCHING RASH CURED.

Mrs. J. J. Magee, Jr., Kinmount, Ont., writes: "In the spring of 1906 I was troubled with a Rash that broke out all over me. It was the worst on my face and head, had a dry, scaly top, and when I would get warm it would become very itchy. I tried the doctor's medicine but it did me no good, so I then got one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and before it was all used the Rash was entirely gone."

SORES ON FACE.

Mrs. Harvey Barkhouse, Gold River, N.S., writes: "I was greatly troubled with Sores on my face and finally became so bad I had to go to the doctor about it, but he could do nothing to help me.

"I thought about Burdock Blood Bitters and decided to try a bottle. I cannot recommend B.B.B. enough, for I had not taken all the bottle before my face was cured."

WORTH MOUNTAINS OF GOLD

During Change of Life, says Mrs. Chas. Barclay

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—MRS. CHAS. BARCLAY, R.F.D., Graniteville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures of female ills as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing female complaints such as inflammation, ulceration, local weaknesses, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life. It costs but little to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and, as Mrs. Barclay says, it is "worth mountains of gold" to suffering women.

COUNTY COUNCIL ADOPTS REPORTS OF VARIOUS COMMITTEES

The County Council concluded its session on Saturday morning, when the following reports were read and adopted:

In company with Messrs. Tucker, Heales, Shaw, Stewart and the Warden, I visited the new McColl's bridge recently built, as per order of Council 1908, and under the supervision of Mr. Tucker. The bridge is feet long, two abutments and one pier, built of stone with cedar casings, the superstructure also being built with cedar, the total cost being less than $400.00, a very satisfactory job.

Messrs. Warden Stewart, Shaw and myself visited the following bridges:

Burleigh Bridge.—We do not consider any repairs necessary.

Squaw River Bridge.—Our inspection revealed a stream 105 feet from bank to bank with a wooden bridge in the rough state. The condtion of the bridge appears very dilapidated. The bridge being low necessitated the chopping away of the needle-beam in order to enable the lumbermen to float their logs through under it. The support being destroyed and the bridge being rotten and being on the main road from Bobcaygeon to Buckhorn, in fact the only road and being over 100 feet long, we would recommend the assuming of the bridge by the County on condition that the Reeve of Harvey have the grant for 1909 applied towards the rebuilding of the bridge next winter.

Chemong Bridge.—The bridge requires considerable planking and repairing and we have prices for material but have taken no definite action with regard to purchasing of the same, but we would recommend that the commissioners in charge proceed to have the necessary repairs and supplies for the same attended to.

Lancaster Bridge. — The above bridge is a foot bridge, Victoria having a half interest in it. We would recommend that the Clerk notify Victoria County of the necessary repairs and if they sanction the same, that Mr. Perdue proceed to have the necessary repairs done, in conjunction with the representatives from Victoria County.

J. H. FIFE,
Ch. Roads and Bridges.

REPORT OF ROADS AND BRIDGES COMMITTEE

Your Committee recommend as follows:

1. That Squaw River bridge be assumed by the County and that steps be taken by a Committee appointed by the County Council to have the bridge rebuilt as soon as traffic would be the least suspended next winter, and that Messrs. Shaw, Perdue and Coben, together with the Chairman of the Roads and Bridges be a Committee to leave the work done and secure material, etc. Mr. Shaw to be Chairman of Special Committee.

2. That the reports of the several Councillors referring to bridges be received.

3. That the matter of replacing the posts and rails on approaches at Norwood Bridge be left in the hands of Mr. Breault.

4. That the bridge known as Davidson's Bridge, Asphodel, be assumed by the County and that we recommend the paying of Davidson's account, namely $5.00.

5. That Clause 11 of the Report of this Committee adopted in January last be received.

6. That the sum of $150.00 be granted towards repairing the Road from Gannons' to Chemong Bridge in Ennismore.

7. That the bridge known as Lily Lake Bridge in the Township of Smith be assumed by the County.

8. That Mr. Brown have the necessary repairs made to Boundary Bridge one half to be paid by this County.

9. That the sum of $100 be granted towards the rebuilding of Hyne's Bridge in Douro.

10. That the sum of $100 be granted to be expended on roads in Havelock Village.

11. That the Report of the Chairman be received.

12. That Mr. Stewart act in conjunction with Mr. Berry in painting the Wallace Bridge.

13. That it is the opinion of this Committee that the Provincial Government be urged to increase its proportion of allowance towards cost of County Roads from one-third to one-half.

14. That the Petition to the Provincial Government regarding the assessment of farm buildings be signed by Warden and Clerk and forwarded to the Government.

15. That no action be taken with reference to the Municipal Association application.

16. That the communications from outside Engineers be received and no action taken.

17. That the Township of Smith be allowed to lay out, open and establish roads in that part of the Township known as Chemong Park of a less width than 66 feet.

18. That the matter of the proposed construction of building an additional pier for Gannons' Bridge stand over until the fall session of this Council

19. That Mr. Graham be Commissioner to repair Lily Lake Bridge.

Respectfully submitted,
J. FIFE,
Chairman.

INTERESTING NEWS FROM WARSAW

Anniversary of Cottesloe Presbyterian Church Last Sunday—Visitors To The Village.

Examiner Special.

Warsaw, June 23.—Sunday being the anniversary of the opening of the Cottesloe Presbyterian Church special services was held; Rev. Dr. Marvin officiating.

Service was conducted by the Rev. P. W. Currie in the Methodist Church on Sunday evening.

The sad intelligence of the death of John Marr, which occurred at Lakefield on Friday, came as a great shock to his many friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. John Miles, Trent Bridge, were in town on Tuesday.

Mr. Anderson Isbister, Lakefield, was among those who spent Sunday in town.

Messrs. G. W. Reid and Edward Hawthorne, returned from a three weeks' trip to the Canadian West on Wednesday.

Mr. Hugh Kidd was in Lakefield on Sunday attending the Odd Fellows' ceremony in decorating the graves of deceased brethren.

Miss I. R. Selkirk and Miss M. Middleton were in the city on Tuesday.

Dr. Thomas Douglas, of Moose Jaw, Sask., who is East to attend the annual camp of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons, of which he is Honorary Captain, spent Sunday with acquaintances in the town.

Mr. G. L. McClennan, of the staff of the Bank of Montreal, Guelph, spent a few hours in town on Sunday.

Dr. Park, of the staff of the Peterborough Normal School, Mrs. Park, Miss M. Park, Miss Julia Choate, of the Conservatory of Music, and Mr. Barton Earle, Peterborough, were guests of Mr. S. F. Choate on Sunday.

Miss Ada Crossen, Peterborough, is spending a couple of weeks at her home here.

Misses Thos. Mark and W. J. Haight, Peterborough, were in town on business on Friday.

Messrs. W. L. Payne and Mr. J. W. Hall, of Smith, visited friends here on Saturday.

Mr. John Wasson, Peterborough, renewed acquaintances in the village on Saturday and Sunday.

Rev. Dr. Marvin, returned from Lindsay on Friday.

Mr. Dawson Tighe was in the city on Saturday.

Mr. Robt. Quinlan, Lakefield was in the town on Sunday.

Mr. Wm. Ackerman, Peterborough, spent a couple of days fishing on the river last week.

Messrs. Dr. Munro, Jos. Edwards, Levi Payne, and J. R. Selkirk, went on a fishing trip to Stony Lake on Wednesday.

Mrs. J. LeRush, Apsley, spent last week the guest of her mother, Mrs. W. H. Bell.

Mrs. R. Gunn, Buffalo, is visiting her brother, Mr. John Payne.

Messrs. Edward and James McIlvena, Apsley, were in town on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sanders left on Wednesday for Spokane, Wash. They will be joined at Toronto by Mrs. B. James and two daughters, and their son, Mr. Alfred Sanders, and will spend some time at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition at Seattle, Wash.

Miss Helen Coleman returned on Tuesday from Peterborough, where she spent a few days visiting friends.

ALFALFA SILAGE FOR SUMMER FEED

From Farm and Dairy.

A great many subjects of vital interest to the dairymen are discussed in Farm and Dairy. I would like to hear if any of my fellow subscribers have tried the following plan: Where we have but one silo and feed the corn ensilage all out by the time pasture is ready, how would it do to put a first cutting of alfalfa in the silo to be fed out in July, August and September? We are up against the proposition in this section of feeding our cattle at least 10 months out of the 12 each year.

The system I have mentioned would keep the silo practically occupied the year around. By the time alfalfa was fed out the last of September, the silo would be filled with corn. I think I saw an article in Farm and Dairy some time ago about Judge Clute experimenting on those lines, and I have noticed nothing since. Can you give me any information?—M. B. M., Trenton, Ont.

Your correspondent refers to a possible practice that will probably be much more common in the near future than it has been in the past. The most advantageous untilisation of the first cut of alfalfa and not infrequently of the earlier blossoming fields of red clover is quite a problem with quite a few farmers to-day. The silo offers the best solution. Either alfalfa or red clover may be safely and fairly easily ensiloed even though the weather be so uncertain as to render hay making exceedingly risky. Making alfalfa hay is quite difficult even under the most favorable weather conditions, it is quite impossible when rain falls every day or so, as is not infrequently the case in June.

There are two or three points to be observed in making alfalfa or clover ensilage. The material has to be run through the cut box. This is somewhat difficult, especially if the material is all wet from dew or rain. It should be ensiloed when at just the right state of maturity, that is when not over 10 per cent. of the plants are in bloom in the case of alfalfa and before any blossoms begin to show signs of ripening in the case of red clover. The stuff should be cut in either case when fairly free from rain or dew, then allowed to wilt for a few hours before hauling. Cutting with a blower will be found rather difficult. The chain elevator will prove more satisfactory. The blower pipe is likely to give trouble by plugging up. This is more especially the case when the forage is damp.—J. H. Grisdale, Agriculturist, C.E.F., Ottawa.

CULTURE OF THE CHERRY

From Farm and Dairy.

The cherry is one of our most acceptable fruits. On many of our farms a few trees are to be seen, and cherry picking time furnishes one of the delights of farm life. Where it will grow successfully, the cherry should be grown more extensively. It is one of the best fruits for home use, and can be made profitable as a sideline for market. From THE CANADIAN HORTICULTURIST the following article on its culture by Wm. Platts, jr., Welland Co., is taken:

"We prefer a clover sod for starting a cherry orchard. After you have cut your first crop of clover, plow the sod under thoroughly, cultivating it until the middle of October, then mark the ground out eighteen by twenty feet apart. We plant in the fall so that the ground will get thoroughly settled around the roots by spring, so that they get a good start before dry weather sets in.

"We think that a good one year old tree is the best to set out, because it makes a better start and is more sure to grow.

"We plant some vegetables or small fruits that take lots of cultivation between the rows so as to make a good growth each year, until the trees commence to bear well.

"We start pruning about the middle of March, keeping the trees headed low, and plow away from them just before they come in bloom. From this on keep the ground thoroughly cultivated, using the disc-harrow and the cultivator, until the crop is harvested.

"We generally have some good girls and boys to pick them and pay them fifteen cents a quart basket, using small step ladders, or standing on the ground, for being headed low, there is not much climbing to do. We sell the fruit to our nearest canning factory, which is located near Welland Ont., two and one-half miles from our orchard. After harvesting the fruit we spread manure, and then plow up to the trees for the coming winter."

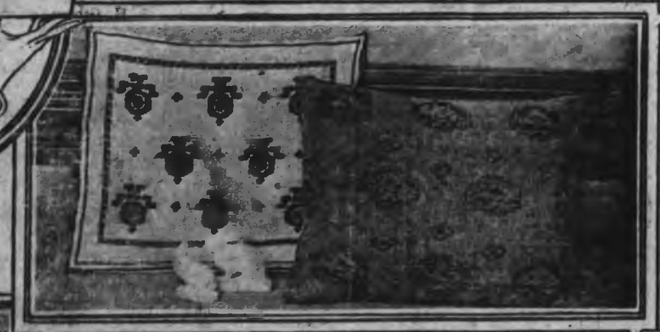
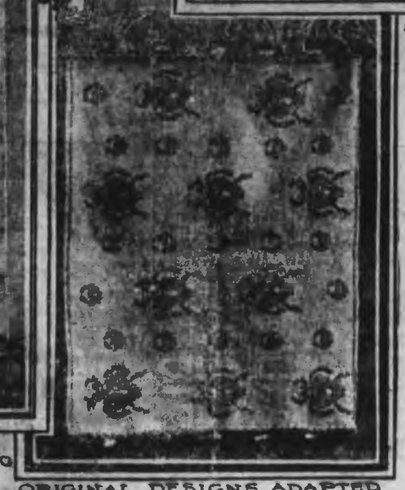
SUMMER FANCY WORK CLASSES for YOUNG GIRLS



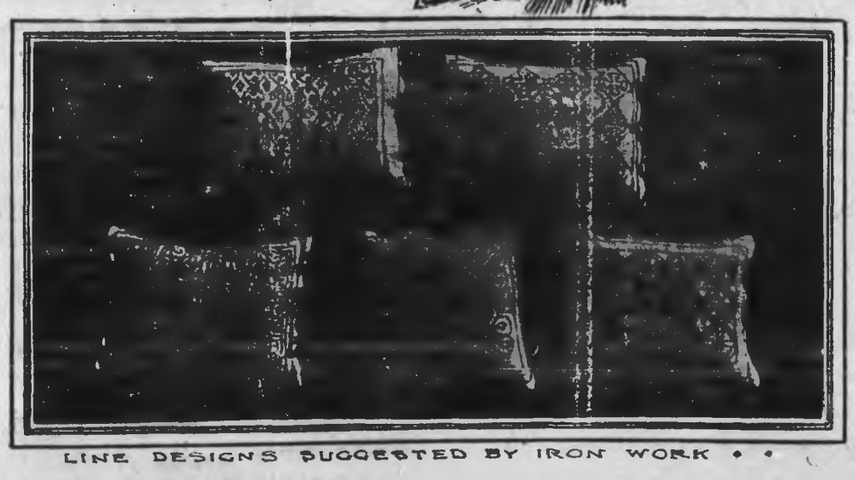
MOTIFS TAKEN FROM JAPANESE KIMONOS

A GROUP OF CRASH CHATELAINE BAGS

ELIZABETHAN BAGS IN ODD SHAPES - TABLE SCARF SHOWING DARNED WORK



ORIGINAL DESIGNS ADAPTED FROM TURKISH RUGS



LINE DESIGNS SUGGESTED BY IRON WORK

HAND made Russian crash, the same that can be bought in the shops for a shilling a yard, is being used as the foundation textile for the most artistic articles of fancy work this summer. The Elizabethan bags, particularly, are being made all over by young society girls, with whom the pretty fashion has spread apace.

Many art workers would spurn the hand made Russian crash because of its cheapness and in that it is too narrow for most large pieces, such as table covers, bed spreads and window draperies. But the same young woman, Miss Mary Bacon Jobes, an artist, who evolved the crash embroidery, has also invented the most ingenious method of putting the breadths together.

For porch work there is nothing half so stunning as these hand, work and handkerchief bags, resembling as they do those worn during the Elizabethan period. They have a novelty all their own. It is not the material alone that lends the work its especial value, although the soft cream gray tones of the Russian crash form a particularly artistic background for the workmanship put upon it. It is the combination of color and the harmonizing of the details that count for much.

Of the design and coloring it might be said right here that the young woman who designed the new work gets her designs wherever they are to be found. In this lies much of her success and originality.

"I am just as apt to get my design from a fine bit of ironwork as I am from a Turkish rug. Some comes from old English tombs, some from odd bits of Oriental embroidery and others from wall paper or silk. None is bought in the shops. These I adapt to the work in hand. It sounds difficult, but really it is most simple. For a girl who has not studied design let her get some paper, the sort that is squared off for the use of architects in drawing perspective elevations.

"Copy a motif on paper. The Moorish and Turkish patterns, especially, offer good material, and one motif will form the basis for an allover design, a border or for a central feature of some more elaborate pattern. However, the greater the simplicity the more effective will be the result.

"During the last year most of my inspiration came from a fine set of Japanese prints, the work of the best Nippon artists, loaned me by a friend. These have been used ad infinitum for the work of my pupils. It may not always be desirable to copy the design or coloring exactly, but one can indicate the motif and give the suggestion just the same. If a girl has none of these in her own home she can easily obtain access to them at the Lenox Library, where there is a fine collection, or at the high class art stores of the Japanese importing houses.

"There is something indescribably beautiful about the coloring of these prints. Soft dull greens, yellows and browns mingle together delightfully. So in this work it is always well to keep in close touch with the Japanese coloring, then one cannot get far away from the best standards. It may be that the coloring in the article under construction will be done in a higher key than the original. This, however, must depend on the room in which the cushion, table cover or drapery is to be used.

"I KEEP this suggestion ever before my girls. Get your idea where you can find it and adapt it to your work. Learn to think in different fabrics. Unfortunately, most girls who study art to-day think of design solely in respect to the especial field in which they are working. This narrows their horizon and ignits their vision. The perfection of art is to adapt design to any sort of work you may want to do. Then you are bound to be original.

"Draw your inspiration from everything within your reach. Do not look at embroidery for your inspiration. Look to embroidery for the stitch, then turn to nature or art for your inspiration. Take the design on the bags, for example. They have been adapted from various sources. It may be that the half wreath of leaves on one was suggested from the pattern on a Japanese kimono, the one with the birds from a Chinese mandarin's robe, and so on.

"Russian crash, as I said before, has the advantage of cheapness, but don't let this influence you in buying cheap working silks. The imported article is essential, for I find the native dyes very unsatisfactory. Sometimes I get my colors from an Oriental rug mender. Then you are pretty sure to get soft shades and fast colors. If I want a different toned background from that characteristic to the crash I dye it. It is not difficult to do and I'll warrant that once a girl takes up the art of dyeing textiles she will, if she have the artistic sense, want to go on with it.

"There are two men in New York making a specialty of artistic dyeing for its own sake. One is Albert Herter, who is doing some exquisite work, and Professor Pellew at Columbia University. The toning needed for the crash would not constitute a problem requiring expert assistance, however.

"If a darker tone of gray be desired for a divan cushion or a table cover, take the ordinary black dye bought in the shops and dilute it with water until only a suspicion of color remains. Or one can thin oil colors with naphtha as for stencilling, and considering the crash in the same light as one would water color paper, wash in as if preparing a background.

"It isn't necessary to stick to the crash as a textile. I have even used dress voiles. But right here let me say that deep thought must be put on the finish of the article to make it artistic, otherwise it will look like dress goods and nothing else. One scarf in particular which I have in mind bore a pattern adapted from an Oriental curtain. It was done in soft finish black silk. Now, if it had been hemmed the effect would have been clumsy and its appearance home made. From a bit of Oriental embroidery done on a species of scrim I got the idea of twisting the fringe and tying it in little knots close to the end. This transformed the scarf at once from a homely, inartistic piece into something odd and original.

"IN learning the crash embroidery I advise girls to begin with the pincushions first. They are done in line design and constitute the first step in the process. From a rug, wall paper or other source pick out a novel conventionalized motif and draw it on the crash, repeating it in allover design or simply in a motif. Do this in what is known as outline stitch. This sounds commonplace, for the atrocities committed in its name are legion. It is, however, quite capable of most artistic results if treated fairly.

"This places the design uppermost and the stitch secondary. At no time should one stitch for stitching's sake, the aim being to express the idea. Look on your work as a color scheme, a painting, and you have no idea what a different feeling you will have toward your work. I have seen this exemplified among my own girls. Some there have been who disliked embroidery of the old fashioned sort and found it extremely monotonous. But the moment they came to look on their work from the art standpoint it changed everything.

"Once the lesson taught in the pincushion design has been absorbed, then we may turn to the bags. Here the same outline stitch is used, but it is a lesson in repetition. It may be the same pattern developed will be used, but the design is outlined, not only once, but many times. This gives the filled in quality. It really throws us into the long and short stitch. The design here is treated in tints and not in line.

"The bags vary in size. Some are about eight inches in length by six and a half inches in width, some longer and others smaller. They may be cut according to fancy. Frequently an inch wide strip of goods is inserted between the front and the back to enlarge the capacity of the bag. The strip is apt to be covered by an interlacing of cord or by fancy stitches of embroidery. Silk is generally used, though frequently linen thread is combined with it, and in the case of a very coarse crash crewels are most effective.

"Get good foundation material and artistic colors. If these are right, though the pattern may not be all that could be desired, the result is bound to be satisfactory. On the contrary, the most artistic pattern will be spoiled if inartistic textile and poor colors are used.

"In cutting the bag it is best to leave plenty of material around the design for spacing. An added reason for this is that the material may fray.

"A FACTOR that adds more than all else to the beauty of the bag is its finish. Much of its artistic beauty depends on the small details, finishing, such as the cords and tassels or balls, the method of drawing the cord through and the rows of outlining that finish the design. One bag may have the draw string of silk cord, another of linen and silk twisted by hand, others white soutache braid with a touch of pretailing color run through. Occasionally the draw string will pass through clusters of double or triple bars at the top. Button moulds are sometimes covered with linen and then embroidered over with silk or wholly wrapped with embroidery stitches.

"In the bag with the turd design the textile is coarse white crash done in linen thread. The breasts of the birds, eyes and legs are in turquoise blue, the tail orange. A soft, natural gray outlines the whole. Over the side strip, between front and back, a gray and blue linen cord is laced. Here and there a few stitches of orange are introduced, especially where the cords cross. This brings in the three colors used in the design. A narrow white linen braid, through which a gray linen thread is run, forms the draw string. In this instance there are no ball ends, the cord being joined together in one piece. Where the two ends come together it is firmly wrapped with blue linen thread, then buttonholed over. The bars through which the string passes are blue with a touch of orange top and bottom.

"Another of the bags also with a bird design is done in crewels. Dull greens, browns, brilliant orange and pale yellow are used, though the brighter colors are all subservient to the brown tones. Couching cord, which is afterward buttonholed in brown crewel, is used for the draw string. Perfectly round buttons, like marbles, wholly covered with buttonhole stitch, form the ends. An endless variety of original combinations may be thought out by the embroiderer after a few trials.

"In some instances the background of the bag has been darned, leaving the pattern in relief. The darning is most effective and may be done in two ways. Either the background is darned in, leaving the pattern prominent, or else the pattern is darned, leaving the background plain. Occasionally, as in the case of the table runner, the background is darned in in the border, while the same motif carried up the side is itself darned.

"One important thing to take note of is the sort of hem you use in your table covers and scarfs. Be careful not to overpower or diminish your pattern. Try different width hems or bands to see whether a wider or a narrower one will look best. Try also to see whether you want one or two rows of outlining to enclose the design. One may do, or it may require two. It is this unexpectedness and originality that make the Oriental work so interesting.

"ANOTHER wholly new style of embroidery, at least its application to articles of household decoration is new, is the cut work. At the National History Museum you will see fine specimens of old German embroidery done in this style. Abroad it has long been used in the way of insets of lace for gowns, but not for table linens.

"If a girl is stencilling, the same patterns used for the one may be used for the other. It is not at all difficult to do. Take, for example, a creamy linen and draw your pattern across the end. Cut it out, following the lines closely. Add an underlay of a coarser and more loosely woven linen, baste it down and either buttonhole or embroider it over and over. If the material is very thin it should be both basted and hemmed before embroidering to stand washing.

"One girl recently made a charming bed spread of the Russian crash. It took three widths to make the spread wide enough. Each length was first hemstitched, then buttonholed, then fastened together with a feather stitch. This hand work gives an article a special value and differentiates it from the manufactured article found in the shop. In this case the linen was a soft gray, the underlay pink and the embroidery linen also pink. The same idea could be carried out in a lunch cloth with charming effect."

Furnishings for the Garden Studio

FLOOR coverings, furniture and picture frames which have become too shabby for a cottage located in a fashionable resort may be utilized for a garden studio if the young girl who expects to occupy it knows how to give directions for having such furnishings renovated.

Beginning with the faded or stained matting intended for the studio floor, the embryo housekeeper should have a maid restore its color by scrubbing it thoroughly with a strong solution of ordinary baking soda or salt in lukewarm water. Matting that has not received hard usage need only be thoroughly swept, gone over with a cloth wrung out of sweet milk and then wiped with very hot water.

Soiled willow and rattan furniture may be cleaned with white soap and warm water applied with a whiskbroom, rinsed, well wiped with a cloth and sun dried. To bleach such furniture have a lighted sulphur candle placed near the chair or table—before it has been dried after its soap and water bath—and keep both candle and furniture covered with a large dry goods box until the sulphur fumes have evaporated.

Soiled and sagging cane seats of chairs may be cleaned and made taut by having a maid turn the furniture upside down and wash the caning thoroughly with a solution of one teaspoonful of oxalic acid to a quart of warm water and then promptly rinsed with clear water.

Old mahogany furniture should never be painted or varnished, but should be cleaned with raw linseed oil and polished with softened beeswax applied with a piece of heavy woollen cloth. Finger marks may be removed with a piece of flannel dipped in paraffin and pencil scratches by rubbing the spot first with a piece of cut lemon and then with a cloth dipped in a little whiting.

Spots on varnished furniture may be removed by rubbing them with essence of peppermint or spirits of camphor and then with linseed or olive oil.

The faded leather covering of a sofa or chair may be brightened by going over it with a soft sponge squeezed nearly dry from hot soap suds, removing as much moisture as is possible by rubbing it with flannel, then polishing it briskly with a kerosene dampened piece of woollen goods and leaving the furniture in the open air until the odor of the oil has vanished. Any grease spots on leather may be treated with fuller's earth, which should be sprinkled over the place, left for a short time and then rubbed with benzine.

Tarnished brass or copper drawer handles and desk furnishings should be brightened with powdered bath brick or with the inside of a lemon rubbed on with flannel and polished with a piece of leather. After that the metal may be lacquered and kept bright with a clean, damp cloth.

Stale beer will remove fly specks from gilded picture frames, which may be brightened by going over them with a soft brush dipped in white of eggs mixed with a little baking soda.

To Keep Candles Upright.

AS every one knows, warm weather plays havoc with candles, causing them when used on the dinner table or about the room for illumination to take on a decided droop. This can be completely obviated by keeping the candles for several hours before they are to be used in the ice box, where they harden sufficiently to remain beautifully upright throughout the evening.

SOCIAL AMENITIES FOR THE SCHOOL GIRL

AT summer resorts where there is water one of the most popular meeting places of the young people is the yacht club, which is a centre of fun and activity for old and young, many elders being keen over yachting, while others enjoy the mere sitting about the club house as participants in its sociability.

Though forming a large part of the aggregation, young people are always conspicuous in a club house, and it behooves them to remember that they are in a public place where quiet manners are more becoming than are always necessary in the privacy of one's own home. "Rough house" and rowdyism generally are extremely bad form at all times, but particularly so in public places, though there are young people so thoughtless as to act as if a club house was made for their sole benefit and to conduct themselves there with a boisterousness which shows no consideration for those about them.

Girls should never go to a yacht club unchaperoned, and while there should never forget they have a chaperon, as some of them seem to do when they wander as far as possible from her protection. If you have been invited to go yachting, when you arrive in either a small or a large party at the club do not go racing off to the piazzas or the float, but remain with the party and follow the direction taken by the host or the hostess and the chaperon. The boat may not be in readiness and the host may wish the party to remain awhile about the club, in which case he will signify his desires to the chaperon, who in turn passes them on to you. On the other hand the boat may be ready and it will annoy the host exceedingly if you loiter about the club when he wishes to get you speedily aboard, while it always displeases the chaperon when her young charges exhibit a propensity to scatter.

Remember that on general principles when you are a guest it is always tactful to follow the leader, who naturally is the host or the hostess of the occasion, and that it really is most thoughtless and selfish when you do otherwise. If you have come to the club to go yachting and have a few moments to wait don't suggest things to do in the interim, and above all do not play the piano or start an impromptu dance. This is a noisy performance not agreeable to those sitting about the verandas, and as dancing is not the purpose for which you have come it is well to eliminate it.

Of course when you come to the club to dances, that is quite another matter and you dance to your heart's content, spending the time between the numbers on the programme out on the piazzas sitting or promenading, but always in proximity to your chaperon. Madame Grundy does not countenance your straying with an escort down into the grounds or off to the float or pier, or to sequestered upper balconies. When you promenade it is not necessary to remain literally in sight of your chaperon provided you do not leave the piazza where she is sitting and she sees you as you pass and repass. If you are offered refreshments by your escort between a dance always see that the same courtesy is extended to your chaperon. She may decline it, in which case it is quite proper for you and your partner to have it without her. When on a float waiting to get off to a yacht do not cause your chaperon anxiety by romping around or getting up excitement by seeing how near to the water's edge you can come without falling in. This may amuse you, but it gives her serious concern, for she is responsible for each one of you and consequently dreads to see you do hazardous things. Do not play about the boats at the float or handle any tempting looking paddles or oars. This is meddling with the property of others and we all know that is not a commendable thing to do.

Lost Energy

Restored by Psychine.

Mr. Geo. Pratt, of Clarkson, Ont., says: "Four years ago my son Wilbert was so run down, thin and emaciated, that we thought he was going into a decline and feared he would never pull through the severe cold of the winter months. The boy had no appetite and seemed to have lost all energy and interest in life. He was altogether in terribly bad shape. His condition caused us the gravest anxiety.

"Fortunately I procured PSYCHINE for him and this action gave him a new lease of life. It is really remarkable how rapidly this splendid medicine brought about a change. After taking one or two bottles he was hardly recognizable as the same youth. PSYCHINE effected a speedy cure and he was soon able to work about on the farm again. To-day he is a rugged young fellow, and if anything, stronger than his brothers. Nothing in the way of hard work seems to affect him. I cannot speak too highly of PSYCHINE. It certainly saved our boy and made a man of him."

Prevents the children taking cold, wards off that terrible malady La Grippe and completely fortifies them against disease. It should always be used for colds, a grippe, weariness, loss of appetite, etc. Send to Dr. T. A. SLOCUM, Limited, Spadina Ave., Toronto. Sold by all druggists and dealers, 50c and $1.00.

Celebration At Havelock July 1st Promises To Be Great Success

Engineer Bennett, Who Recently Was Badly Scalded, Progressing Favourably — Oddfellows Have Decoration Day.

OTHER ITEMS OF NEWS

Special to The Examiner.

Havelock, June 22.—Complete arrangements have been made (by the committee in charge), for the 1st of July celebration, and a splendid day's sport may be looked forward to. School children's parade, open for competition to the surrounding rural schools; a free-for-all horse race; a green horse race; a novelty horse race; football match, and baseball match; a large list of small sports. In the evening a grand concert will be held in the opera house, given mostly by local talent, assisted by the minstrel troop.

The marriage took place at Christ's Church, Campbellford, on Wednesday, June 16th, of Miss Martha Fisher, of Campbellford to Mr. Thos. Sexsmith, of Belmont, brother of Mr. Jno Sexsmith, M.P., Rev. Mr. Reid officiating, in the presence of only the friends of the contracting parties.

Inspector J. Coyle Brown visited the school here on Monday.

Mr. S. Wright, of town, has a live rattle snake, whech was sent to him by a friend in Muskoka. The reptile measures three and a half feet in length.

Someone, as yet not known, stuck a wire through the ventilation holes in St. Joyce's window on Tuesday night and abstracted three silk ties.

A number from town took in the excursion to Bobcaygeon Wednesday per C.P.R., given by the Presbyterian and Methodist Sunday schools of Norwood.

A strawberry lawn social will be held on Monday evning, June 28th on the manse grounds, and will be under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian Church. A first class programme will be provided and the Citizens' Band will be in attendance. This being the first of the season is sure to prove a grand success, weather permitting.

Engineer Thos. Bennett, who was severely scalded near Smith Falls recently, is progressing slowly, but surely, and fortunately there will be no disfigurement. Mr. Bennett will not be able to come home for some weeks yet.

Rev. C. W. Holdsworth and delegates Messrs. C. A. Ghent, Wm. Webb and Jno. Elmhirst, of Belmont, left on Tuesday to attend the Synod meeting at Toronto last week.

The Citizens' Band have provided themselves with natty white coats and new caps.

Mr. Chas. Carey, air-brake inspector on the C.P.R. and a former resident of Havelock, was in town on Tuesday.

Miss Ruby Complur, of Toronto, is the guest of Mrs. C. A. Ghent.

The pupils of Miss Todd's room held a most enjoyable picnic in the Park and Pleasure grounds on Friday afternoon last.

Mrs. L. E. Holland, of Kansas City Missouri, was the guest of her brother, Mr. J. A. Garratt, during the past week.

Mr. Booth, of Qu'Appelle, Sask., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Vanaraum.

Mrs. Alex. Smith is visiting with friends at St. Ala.

A large new bell for the Methodist Church arrived last week and will be placed next week. The bell weighs about 1,500 pounds and is a first-class one.

A spream pipe on engine No. 110 blew out at Tweed on Friday last burning Ed. Williams and Fireman Riley slightly. This is the same engine on which Mr. Thos. Bennett was scalded so badly, and was caused in the very same way.

A large number of the members of the I.O.O.F. marched to the cemetery on Wednesday night to decorate the graves of the departed members. The band headed the procession and rendered many beautiful selections suitable for the occasion.

Those who went from here with the soldiers to camp at Barriefield, Kingston were: Messrs. H. Barrie, A. Varty, C. Knox, J. Mackay, J. Curtis, R. Curry, W. Green, H. Thompson, H. Weese, S. Holcombe, R. Kitchen, R. Hart, I. Toofelt and W. Tufelt.

Havelock, June 23.—The Havelock Minstrels, which appeared in the Opera House on Friday evening last, delighted the large audience present, in the many choruses, songs, and witty jokes. Mr. Wallie Rose was highly appreciated in the many clever sleight of hand tricks, which he performed. Mr. Rose is a Havelock boy and his family reside here, but he himself has been in Collingwood the past few years.

The band rendered several selections during the evening. Proceeds amounted to $85.00, which will go to the Band.

The Council met Monday night at 7.30 in the Council Chamber. Present, Reeve Knox, Councillors Wood, Phillips, and McMaster.

Moved by Coun. Phillips and Wood that the following accounts be paid:

JOURNALISM IN AGRICULTURAL COLLEGES.

From Farm and Dairy.

At gatherings formal or informal, that person is in demand who can say the right thing at the right time and in the right way. Most colleges recognise the value of training students in speech making, and to that end give more or less instruction seeking to train their students in the art of public speaking. The Ontario Agricultural College, at Guelph, has for years given attention to developing this art amongst those who leave her halls. The instruction given has long been felt to be far from what its importance would warrant. In the last annual report of the College the Professor of English urges the appointment of an assistant who would be competent to take charge of the public speaking classes, and to assist in the other branches of the English department. In view of the demands that are upon the graduates of this college, requiring that they be able to impart the information that they have gained in a competent and acceptable manner, this recommendation should receive the favorable consideration of the Department of Agriculture.

While it is important that experts in agriculture and others who have had the advantage of college training, be able to speak well, it is much more important that they be able to write well. There is a constant call for experts in agriculture who can put up their thoughts on paper in an acceptable manner. Composition is already taught in the college, but there is a wide difference between instruction in ordinary composition and in journalism. In view of this fact it would be well to have classes in agricultural journalism organised at Guelph. The Canadian Horticulturist in a recent editorial made this suggestion. It should be acted upon. Many graduates of the Guelph College become connected with the agricultural press. This fact should be considered when making any changes in the English department. Where so many embryo journalists are in training as at Guelph, courses should be given in the history and principles of journalism, newspaper administration, illustration, photography, the libel law, news gathering, reporting, editorial writing and so forth, besides the academic branches of the study. Should it not be deemed expedient to establish a full course in agricultural journalism at once we would suggest that a course of lectures be arranged preliminary to the establishment of such a course. Prominent men and editors from the agricultural press could be secured to give these lectures..

Any instruction that might be given in journalism, while it would prove invaluable to students who may become journalists, it would also be of great assistance to many who accept other positions in professional agriculture, not to mention those students who go back to their farms and who should be able to teach others by writing for the press. Courses in journalism in our agricultural colleges would work a mighty influence in the spread of the gospel of scientific agriculture. Various colleges in the States have come to recognise the value of such training and have organised Departments of Journalism. We may well fall in line and start this work in our own colleges.

OSHAWA-BOWMANVILLE-NEWCASTLE FRUIT DISTRICT

From Farm and Dairy.

An excellent fruit district is situated between Oshawa and Newcastle, near the north shore of Lake Ontario. Large quantities of apples and other fruits are grown and, during the past four years, large numbers of new orchards have been planted. Recently, a representative of Farm and Dairy spent two or three days with the growers in that district and found them enthusiastic over the possibilities of the district for fruit growing. Most of the orchards looked well and showed the results of good care and attention. That it pays to give the orchard proper care was pointed out by many of the growers. A well known apple buyer of that district, Mr. Quick, of Bowmanville, stated that the best apples that were harvested last fall came from orchards that had been well cultivated throughout the season, which was very dry for many weeks.

A good crop of apples is looked for in the district with the exception of Baldwin which seem to be bearing irregularly. In some orchards this variety will be very light, while in others where it did not bear last year, a good yield is expected. Mr. W. H. Gibson, of Newcastle, told our representative that Spys will be generally good; Greenings, Russet, King, and Stark, heavy; Ben Davis, less than medium. Pears and plums had a full show of blossoms. Raspberries and blackberries promise well. The strawberry crop will be fairly good, except for the fact that the rows are rather narrow owing to the drought last season. Mr. Jas. K. Allen, of the same place stated that the crop in his orchard will not be up to the average. Mr E. C. Beman, of Bowmanville, stated that blossoming in his orchard was good and that the prospects for a crop are excellent for most varieties, Spys being particularly good, while Ben Davis is light. Mr. Elmer Lick, of Oshawa, also expects a good crop of apples, except in the case of Baldwins.

Our representative was told by Mr. Lick, who is the manager of the Oshawa Fruit Growers Limited, that that organisation is in a flourishing condition, and that its members in general are more than pleased with the results of co-operation. Some five years ago, growers in that locality were receiving at the most 75 cents to $1 a barrel for their apples, while those who became connected with the association are now realising between $2 and $3 for their output. The members find co-operation to aid them in not only securing more money for their fruit, but also in the management of their orchards. Co-operation has taught them the value of proper pruning and spraying, good packing and so forth.

Many growers in the district are practising thinning the fruit on the trees to get size and quality. A number of them gave their opinion of this operation to our representative, and an article on this subject will appear in an early issue of Farm and Dairy. Many other pointers were picked up on orchard cultivation, spraying, pruning, grafting and other lines of work that are necessary in the production of high grade fruit. These will be mentioned as opportunity permits in these columns.

SOME RATHER PLAIN WORDS

From Farm and Dairy.

Editor, Farm and Dairy,—Some one must have trod on Mr. Came's toes pretty hard from the sarcastic strain in which he writes in your issue of June 10th. He seems out of humor. He should not feel so hard toward we Ayrshire men because we have the easiest keepers on earth and we sometimes say so. If he does not believe me he can look at any mixed herd of cattle in Canada and by using his powers of observation he will know which are frames and which are cows.

It would appear that Mr. Came has missed his calling. I don't know what he is doing, but he should be lecturing on farm economy if he knows how to make his manure pay 80 per cent. of the cost of feed. Every one will not think as I do, therefore all will not keep Ayrshire cattle. But there is room enough in Canada for all, and if we cannot find the good ones now that the Government has instituted the Record of Performance tests, we are to be pitied, not blamed.

The main thing in dairying is to get a few good cows of some registered stock, then test them and build them up, not forgetting to feed and in a few years we can raise the average of about 3,000 lbs. to the cow as now, to twice or three times that amount in a season.

A thing of beauty is a joy forever and as I look at my little herd of Ayrshires (all babies), not a matured cow in the bunch and think that two years ago I was milking nine or 10 head of cows (?) and not getting as much milk as I am now from five, I begin to think it is true. There are grade cows that give milk as well as pure breds, and if you haven't the registered stock, get into a cow testing association and know what your own cows are doing. A good milk record enhances the value of a cow even if the government does not guarantee it.

In conclusion I would ask Mr Came if he won't try to get his neighbors to improve what stock they have and stop throwing stones at an honest Ayrshire cow.—F. L. Lear, Northumberland Co., Ont.

Crop Report Favorable.

Toronto, June 25.—The reports we have received as to crop conditions in the northwest continue very favorable," said D. R. Wilkie, general manager of the Imperial Bank to a reporter yesterday.

"Is there anything special to note?" he was asked.

"No, I can't say that there is. It rains one day and is sunshiny the next, and the result is just right. You may say that providence is doing the best possible for the crops."

U.S. Loses Millions in Revenue.

Washington, June 25.—Declaring that the American Tobacco Co. had been the recipient of twenty-one millions of dollars which otherwise would have gone into the national treasury, because of the failure of the Government to require a change in the size of tobacco packages when the war revenue law was repealed, Senator Beveridge yesterday spoke at length in support of his amendment correcting this omission.

Fined for Adulterating Milk.

Brockville, June 25.—F. H. Brenton, the official prosecutor for the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, prosecuted a patron of a cheese factory in the Napanee District for adulterating his milk. The offender was fined $60 and costs on two charges.

Similar prosecutions are pending in this eastern district.

American Civic Alliance.

Albany, N.Y., June 25.—The American Civic Alliance, with principal office in New York, was incorporated yesterday to secure co-operation among organisations working for civic betterment. Cardinal Gibbons, Henry Clews, Gage E. Tarbell, Nikola Tesla and John Wanamaker are among the incorporators.

Donation to Striking Hatters.

Syracuse, N.Y., June 25.—The International Boot and Shoe Workers, in convention here yesterday donated $10,000 to the United Hatters, to aid in the fight against the National Association of Hat Manufacturers. A price list committee, to establish wage rates in all districts, was established.

Babe's Escape From Lightning.

Woodstock, June 25.—During the heavy electrical storm at noon yesterday a lightning bolt entered the home of Frederick White, Riddell street, and passing over a baby in a cradle dissipated itself on the other side of the room.

Steamship Campania Total Wreck.

Montreal, June 25.—All efforts to raise the Quebec Steamship Co.'s steamer, the Campania, which went aground below Quebec last Thursday, have failed, and she has been abandoned to the underwriters.

Duties Increased.

Washington, June 25.—The Senate last night adopted amendments increasing the duty on shoes from 15 to 20 per cent. ad valorem, and increasing the duty on sole leather from 5 to 10 per cent. ad valorem, the lower figure representing the House rate in each case.

FARM CATTLE DECREASE

Drouth of Last Year is Responsible For a Marked Falling Off in Number of Animals on Farms in East —Milch Cows Scarce — Grain in the West is in Prosperous Condition, Says the Report.

Ottawa, June 25.—The census and statistics office has issued a report on the crops and live stock of Canada, as reported June 15. Wheat has a reported area of 7,750,000 acres, which is 1,340,000 acres more than last year. In the Maritime Provinces and Quebec there is little change, but in Ontario the area is less by 108,000 acres, of which 88,200 acres is fall wheat. Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta show an area of 6,878,000 acres, being 1,284,000 acres more than last year.

The condition of fall wheat on June 15 was 82.15, and of spring wheat 92.15 per cent. of standard for a full crop.

The area of oats in the Dominion is 9,322,600 acres, which is 1,361,500 acres more than last year, and its condition is reported as 93.32 per cent.

Barley, the cereal crop next in importance, has a total area of 1,864,900 acres, or 119,200 acres more than last year, and its condition is 91.49 per cent.

Mixed grains, with 582,000 acres, and hay and clover, with 8,210,200 acres, are practically of the same extent as last year. The former has a reported condition of 91.71 and the latter of 90.36 per cent.

The province showing the largest area of oats is Ontario, with 3,142,200 acres, and also the largest area of hay and clover, with 3,535,600 acres. Quebec is next highest in hay and clover, with 2,923,600 acres. This province has also 1,574,100 acres in oats. Saskatchewan has 1,847,000 acres in oats. Saskatchewan has 1,847,000 acres in oats; Manitoba, 1,390,000 acres and Alberta, 820,000 acres.

At the end of June, 1908, there were 122,398 farms in the Province of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, and at the end of 1908 homesteads entered, less all cancellations, increased the number to 190,234, or by 10,853,760 acres. In Manitoba the net increase of the two and one-half years was 4,393; in Saskatchewan 41,423 acres, and in Alberta 22,020 acres, but these figures do not take account of farm lands purchased from railway companies and other corporations in the same period. The large increases in Saskatchewan have been made in the regions south of the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and in the eastern ranges of townships north of the railway.

The drouth of summer and autumn was less severe last year than in 1907, but it had the effect of again reducing the numbers of farm animals in the older provinces. In the whole of Canada, horses exceed the number of last year by 14,324, whilst milch cows are less by 68,440; other horned cattle by 245,057; sheep by 126,014 and swine by 457,349.

The largest falling off in the east occurred in Quebec and Ontario. In Quebec less milch cows by 28,317, other horned cattle by 45,706; sheep by 39,650 and swine by 81,284. In Ontario, horses are less by 28,018, milch cows by 41,268, other horned cattle by 144, 685; sheep by 86,688 and swine by 361,613.

In Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta the number of horses is more this year than a year ago by 43,278, milch cows by 4,731 and sheep by 22,844. Horned cattle other than milch cows decreased in these provinces during the year by 34,482 and swine by 6,121.

Honors For Hamonic.

May Have Coadjutor Bishop.

Ottawa, June 25.—The Anglican Synod of Ottawa yesterday evening passed a canon providing for the election of a coadjutor bishop at any time when the executive considers such a step necessary.

Young Wife Gets Alimony.

Cobourg, June 25.—Appleby v. Appleby, in an action for alimony, was heard by Justice Riddell. It was an action brought by the newly-wedded wife of Alex. B. Appleby, hide dealer of Cobourg. Mrs. Appleby alleg that did not conduce to wedded happiness. Plaintiff has been residing temporarily with defendant's father and mother. Judgment was entered for Mrs. Appleby, with costs.

Free Drinks on Cars.

Toronto, June 25.—The Ontario Railway and Municipal Board has promulgated a regulation requiring electric railway companies to provide radial cars, running 20 miles or more a day, with a water cooler and drinking utensils and to keep a supply of drinking water therein for the use of passengers and trainmen.

This regulation does not apply to street railways in towns and cities.

No Benefit to Canada.

Ottawa, June 25.—The reduction by the United States Senate finance committee of duty on improved lumber from $2 to $1.50 a thousand will be of no appreciable advantage to lumber in this part of Canada.

Prospector Drowned.

Cobalt, June 25.—Whilst in a canoe about six miles from Gowganda, on the route to Elk Lake, Edmund Lapririe, the brother of the proprietor of the Prospect Hotel at Gowganda, was thrown out and drowned.

Sultan Victorious.

Tangier, Morocco, June 25.—The troops of the Sultan have been victorious in an important engagement fought outside of Yez with the rebel army under Bu Amarnani at Rochi.

BIRTH DAY HONORS ARE ANNOUNCED

Decorations For Five Canadians Are Announced From London.

SCOTT A KNIGHT BACHELOR

Ex-Secretary of State is the Only "Sir" in the List—Deputy Ministers Butler and Newcombe Are Given Decoration of C. M. G. and Imperial Service Order Goes to W. J. Gerald and Geo. Ross.

London, June 25.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Royal "Birthday Honors" announced yesterday, include the following Canadians:

To be Knight Bachelor—Hon. R. W. Scott, C.M.G., former Secretary of State; still a member of the Senate.

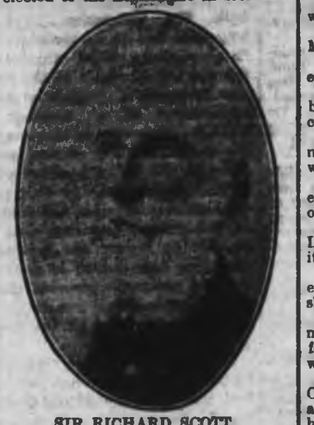
To be Companion of St. Michael and St. George—Edmund Leslie Newcombe, Deputy Minister of Justice.

Matthew J. Butler, Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals, and member of the Intercolonial Railway Commission.

To receive the Imperial Service Order—Wm. John Gerald, Deputy Minister of Inland Revenue.

George Ross, Dominion superintendent of postoffices.

The title of Knight Bachelor carries with it the prefix Sir. There is no decoration attached. Hon. Richard W. Scott, K.C., LL.D., upon whom it is conferred is one of Canada's grand old politicians. Born at Prescott, in 1825, he studied law in Toronto and was called to the bar in 1848. He was mayor of Ottawa in 1858, and elected to the Legislature in 1863 and



SIR RICHARD SCOTT.

1867. In 1871 he was Speaker of the Legislature, and later commissioner of crown lands. In 1873 he joined the Mackenzie administration (Federal) and from 1874-8 was Secretary of State. In 1874 he was called to the Senate. In 1886 he was re-appointed Secretary of State, retiring previous to last year's general election. He was the author of the Scott Act temperance measure.

The order Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George is the third grade in that series. E. L. Newcombe, upon whom it has been conferred, was born at Cornwallis, N.S., in 1859; educated at Dalhousie College, and University of Halifax, and was called to the bar in 1883. He was at one time lecturer on marine insurance in Dalhousie Law School, and was a governor of the university and president of the Alumni Association until his appointment as Deputy Minister of Justice, in 1893, in which same year he was admitted to the Ontario bar and created a Q.C. by the Earl of Aberdeen. In 1895 he went to England on copyright matters, and he has appeared for Canada before the Privy Council.

Matthew J. Butler is an expert railway man, who is a graduate of Toronto University. He was born in Deseronto, and began his railway career in 1879 as transit man on the K. & P. Railway, and later he held high posts on the several railways in the United States and Canada, and in 1904 became assistant chief engineer of the National Transcontinental Railway. In 1905 he became Deputy Minister of Railways. A few weeks ago he was appointed to the newly-organized I. C. R. Commission.

The Imperial Service Order was instituted in the coronation year of King Edward, and is restricted to the civil service, the number not to exceed 250 in the home and 175 in the colonial service. There is a medallion badge to wear on the left breast, bearing on one side the royal cipher, and on the other the words "for faithful service." It is a decoration for long and distinguished service.

George C. Ross joined the postal service on June 14, 1875, in the City of Hamilton, as a fourth-class clerk. He rose steadily through all branches of the service, becoming superintendent at Hamilton, and in 1900 was transferred to Toronto as assistant postmaster. Two years later he was made chief postoffice inspector by Sir William Mulock, and at the present time is chief postoffice superintendent for the Dominion of Canada, with headquarters at Toronto. Under instructions from the Department, Mr. Ross has devoted a great deal of attention to the organizing rural mail delivery throughout Canada.

Knighthoods for Astors.

London, June 25.—Among the birthday honors announced yesterday are knighthoods for Arthur Wing Pinero, dramatist; Beerholm Tree, the actor; Henry W. Lucy, journalist, who as "Toby M. P." has delighted readers of Punch for years; and F. J. Campbell, principal of the Royal Normal College and Academy of Music for the Blind.

A HUGE PARADE.

St. Jean Baptiste Day is Honored by French in Montreal.

Montreal, June 25.—Passing through the closely-packed streets, accompanied by bands and representatives of almost every society in Montreal, the big St. Jean Baptiste Day parade was watched by nearly fifty thousand people along the different streets of the city. The parade, which was of almost unparalleled length and magnificence, took an hour and a half to pass a given point, and was invested with the pomp and solemnity which French Canada lends to its greatest public feast day.

A succession of artisan societies and lodges, intermingled with bands of gorgeous horsemen with the scarlet, green or gold cape, and the hat with regal ostrich plumes, preceded by a number of cars, showed artisans at work. An allegorical car with the Chevalier De Laval seated upon an upturned canoe, surrounded by a body of snowshoers, singing their club song, followed by the representation of the early days in Canada with the cottage of the settler, the primitive log cabin and old spinning wheel. Warriors of old Ponce De Leon's days followed. Representations of the priests' teaching the Indians with Souart, the first schoolmaster in Canada, were well received.

J. P. Morgan is making personal efforts to have U. S. Steel stock listed on the Paris Bourse.

Fort William is now using its Loch Lomond water service, which is gravitated a distance of seven miles.

Sergt. Wilkinson was badly wounded by the explosion of a 12-pound shell at Workpoint Barracks, B.C.

The establishment of the Government drydock at Quebec is said to be for the purpose of accommodating war ships when necessary.

The action brought on behalf of the Czar against Ivan Proskowreakoff, a defaulting governor, at Winnipeg, has been settled by compromise.

The Bishop of Niagara consecrated Christ's Church Cathedral at Hamilton, and received congratulations from many quarters on the thirteenth anniversary of his election to the See.

Pulled Man After Him.

London, June 25.—James Allgrove, a laborer employed on the Murray Shoe Co.'s new building, fell off the scaffolding yesterday afternoon and in falling he pulled down with him another man, George Moore, the distance to the ground being thirty feet. They landed on the G.T.R. track which runs close to the building. Allgrove got off comparatively well, while Moore had his right arm and leg broken, his mouth and head badly cut, and he also sustained serious internal injuries.

Runaway Auto Accident.

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., June 25.—Mrs. John Matthews, wife of the superintendent of the Dupont Powder Works at Wilmington, Del., was instantly killed in an automobile accident. Mrs. Matthews was with her husband and daughter and two nephews and two nieces on a trip to the Berkshires. All were thrown out, when control of the car was lost and ran at a mile a minute speed when descending Delevan Hill, the machine turning completely over when a tire burst. Mrs. Matthews was thrown against a tree

Sixteen Buried Under Grain.

Montreal, June 25.—Sixteen coal trimmers were buried for four hours under 30,000 bushels of wheat in the hold of the Lake Manitoba Wednesday night and barely escaped with their lives. They were only saved by the anxiety of a boarding-house keeper, who sent to the ship to ask when his gang was going to eat. Steam shovels were put at work and the men were found crowded together below a pipe leading to the outer air. They were all safe, but weak from the terrible heat.

Twelve Miners Fall 315 Feet.

Terre Haute, Ind., June 25.—Twelve foreign miners were badly injured yesterday when a cage at the Klondyke Coal Mine fell from the pit opening to the bottom of the shaft, a distance of 315 feet.

The cage going up became fast when the cable became entangled, and an hour elapsed before a rescue party could be sent down.

C.N.R. Comes In Useful.

Winnipeg, Man., June 25.—No. 97 westbound is running in two sections, first being about twelve hours late, leaving here yesterday morning instead of Wednesday evening. Delay was caused by another sinking of the bridge work over a fill-in at Hawk Lake, near Kenora. Traffic will again have to be sent over the Canadian Northern.

Crazed Man's Deed.

Winnipeg, June 25.—Mrs. Gust Benikson was killed at Preston, Minn., Wednesday night by her crazed husband, while trying to shield her twelve-year-old son from death at his father's hands. The crazed man then went into the woods and shot himself. Seven children survive, the youngest being six months old.

Two Cars Telescoped.

Haileybury, June 25.—The Cobalt special was wrecked at Haileybury siding yesterday. Two freight cars were telescoped. The fireman jumped and got a sprained leg and a brakeman was cut about the face. The engine was smashed badly in front.

IS CHARGED WITH THEFT

Young Man Arrested Yesterday—Alleged to Have Stolen Carpenter's Tools Last October.

HE WAS REMANDED

A young man appeared before Magistrate Kemble, at the police court this morning charged with the theft of a brace and a bit, an augur, and a wrench, the property of George E. Baptie, of Lakefield, during the month of October last. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for the prisoner, but deferred election until Wednesday next. The accused was remanded until then.

The young man was arrested yesterday at the Cordage Works by P. C. Meharry. He claims that he bought the tools.

DROVE AT TOO FAST A PACE

Reckless Driver Had To Pay A Fine in Police Court This Morning—Was Arrested Last Evening.

PLEADED GUILTY

A young man employed as an orderly to one of the officers at the camp at Nassau was fined two dollars and costs amounting to $5.75, at the police court this morning. He pleaded guilty to having furiously driven a horse in approaching a crossing on George street last evening. He was arrested by Police Officers Newhall and Meagher, and was kept in custody during the night. He paid his fine forthwith and was allowed to go.

WHERE IS THIS GAMBLING HOUSE? POLICE WOULD LIKE TO KNOW

Here is the picture of a gambling house, just as it is night after night when the tiger is getting the money of the victims. There is every device in it to separate the gamester from his cash.

Where is it? Police in half a dozen cities have the photograph and all are scanning the faces trying to find a familiar one.

Secrecy nowadays is the only weapon of the big gambler. It is this secrecy that keeps the crowbar and axe of the raider from their doors, while the unwary can enter.

In the foreground is a dice table, with all modern "improvements." Nearby is a faro "layout," but it is different from the faro the Western miners played in the '49 days.

Beautiful mirrors and paintings make it hard for any observer to see the secret trap doors or any scheme by which he might not get what all gamers want—an "even break." Even with this the gamblers can make money, but in a place like the one pictured the player has practically no chance.

Where is the gambling house, and and who runs it? An Englishman lost a fortune in it and took the picture herewith reproduced, and had it published in an English magazine, as a "typical American gambling house."

C.P.R. FIREMAN WAS INJURED

Arthur Turriff, of Toronto Junction, Met With Accident at Local Station This Morning—Was Fireman on Freight

FINGERS BADLY HURT

Arthur Turriff, of Toronto Junction, fireman on the C. P. R., met with an exceedingly painful accident this morning at the local station. He was fixing the bell on the engine, which is run by steam, when he caught the fingers of his right hand in the crank. They were badly bruised and cut. The injury was dressed by Dr. Gray and the young man returned to his home on the first train to Toronto. He will be unable to work for several days.

CONVICTED OF COMMON ASSAULT SENTENCED TO A MONTH IN JAIL

Jury Last Evening Returned a Verdict of Guilty in Case of Albert Craig, Charged With Assaulting Assistant Fire Chief Grange.

CHAPMAN NOT GUILTY

In the charges against Albert Craig and Harry Chapman for assaulting Assistant Fire Chief Grange, doing actual bodily harm, on February 27th, which came on for hearing in the June sessions of the County Court, the jury last evening returned a verdict of guilty of common assault in the case of Craig and in the case of Chapman a verdict of not guilty. The jury was out about two hours and in the verdict against Craig attached a strong recommendation for mercy. Mr. F. D. Kerr defended the accused.

His Honour acquitted Chapman and sentenced Craig to one month in gaol with hard labour.

A number of witnesses were called for the Crown and a good case was presented. The defence admitted that Craig was guilty of common assault but not of the more serious charge, viz., assault, doing bodily harm. Chapman pleaded not guilty.

The evidence was all in yesterday morning and immediately upon court resuming counsel addressed the jury followed by the judge's summing up.

Judge's Address

In addressing the jury His Honour Judge O'Connell gave the case a very fair and impartial explanation. The charge was one of committing an assault causing bodily harm. He explained the difference between common assault and the charge in this case. He said that any person who assisted in any way in assault was equally guilty with the one who committed the actual deed. His Honour then took up the evidence which had been produced. He referred to the document the firemen had sent to the council objecting to Grange as assistant chief. This itself showed some indication of dissatisfaction in the fire department. This might be taken as a motive to committing the offence Still in a case of assault a motive was not so particular as the principal in the asmt. In conclusion His Honour said both men could be found guilty, or one guilty and the other not, or both might be guilty of common assault or that one was and the other was not, or one may be guilty of common assault and the other guilty of assault causing bodily harm.

The jury retired at five minutes past four.

HELD LAWN SOCIAL

Successful Event Under Auspices of St. John's A.Y.P.A. Last Evening.

The lawn social given on St. John's Church green last evening under the auspices of the Young People's Society was a great success and very enjoyable. The attendance was large and the ice cream, strawberries and candy that were for sale, at the prettily decorated booths were quickly disposed of. The lawn was prettily illuminated with electric lights. A splendid musical programme was given by the Grand Opera House orchestra under the direction of Mr. R. J. Devey.

The funds derived from the affair will be donated towards furnishing the upper room in the new vestry used by the lady members of the choir.

REV. A. H. BRACE PRAISES BATTERY

Cobourg, June 22.—I visited the military camp to-day to give my old friends a welcome to Cobourg. The boys looked every inch soldiers and were already enjoying camp life. They arrived last night at 6:45 in splendid form, having made a record march, not leaving Peterborough till 8:15 in the morning and resting the horses two hours at Baileyboro. They stood the journey like veterans, not a man fell out of ranks all day. All were up bright and early this morning full of vim and ready for the day's manoeuvres.

We were heartily received by Major Young and Captain Ackerman, who rode up to us on magnicent chargers. The boys looked well. They manned the gun carriages and fell into line. They are a fine lot of fellows and are a credit to the progressive city. We will do our best to take care of them and make them happy while in Cobourg.

HAD A CLOSE CALL

Canoe and Yacht Very Nearly Collided on River Last Evening.

An upset on the Otonabee river was narrowly averted last evening and had it not been for the timely action of a young man in the stern of the canoe, the craft would have been overturned and two people would have had an unexpected dip in the water. The accident would have been due to the careless handling of a young man in a gasoline launch. He had two lights on his boat and then apparently could not see where he was going. He made straight towards the canoe and paid little heed to yells to him to watch where he was going.

The young man in the stern of the canoe quickly dropped his paddle caught the bow of the yacht and shoved it away or a collision would have taken place. Launch owners should be more careful and pay more attention to the wheel and what is ahead of them.

THIRTEEN CASES BEING TRIED BEFORE JUDGE O'CONNELL

Division Court is being held to-day before His Honour Deputy Judge O'Connell. There are thirteen cases being tried, most of which are for small sums mostly including the collection of accounts.

TO ACT AS INTERPRETER IN THE GYPSY TRIAL

Authorities Have Been Fortunate in Securing the Services of a Man Who Knows Language of Nomads.

DR. PELKEY WILL ACT

The authorities have been fortunate in securing the services of an interpreter for service at the trial of the gypsies which commences on Monday. While the Mexicans have a smattering of English the service of a man who understands their language will expediate matters considerably. Such a person had been secured in a lucky manner, owing to the arrival in the city of Dr. Pelkey, of Ottawa, representing the Pacific Medicine Company.

Dr. Pelkey has spent fifteen years in Mexico and understands the language of the gypsies thoroughly. He entered into conversation with them the other day and in this way the authorities learned that he could speak the dialect fluently and have induced him to act as court interpreter during the trial.

He states that the gypsies are a very low class of people and are not thought much of in Mexico.

STOLE VEGETABLES

Two Youths in Court for Theft of Onions and Radishes.

Two youths were charged at the police court with stealing onions and radishes from a garden yesterday afternoon. No information was laid against them but they were brought before the magistrate and after hearing some good advice, were allowed to go with a warning. They were kept at the Children's Shelter over night.

THE SPRINGVILLE LAWN SOCIAL WAS A SUCCESS

Most Enjoyable Affair Held Last Night Under Auspices of the Presbyterian Church.

57th BAND PRESENT

Springville, June 24.—Perfect June weather favoured the annual lawn social of the Springville Presbyterian Church held here to-night and the affair was in every way a grand success. Rev. Dr. Marsh and the members of his congregation had made careful preparations for the reception of their guests and they must feel like congratulating themselves upon the great success that attended their efforts. The attendance was large, and that the visitors enjoyed themselves was evidenced by the laughter and buzz of gay talk that hummed over the beautiful grounds. The 57th Regimental Band of Peterborough was present and the musical programme they rendered was one of the most enjoyable features of a delightful evening. The band was in splendid form and was generous with its music, the numbers rendered being greatly appreciated by the audience. For several years the band has been rendering the music for the annual social here and their playing has always proved a treat. During the evening a number of brief but enjoyable addresses were given, among the speakers being Mr. Gomm, of Pontypool, Mr. E. L. Goodwill, of Peterborough, Rev. Mr. Wetherill and Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P., all of whom congratulated the people of the Springville church on the most successful outcome of their social.

The receipts were very gratifying, and altogether the affair was one of the most successful and enjoyable in the history of the congregation.

Municipalities Unite To Fight Septic Tank Royalty Demand

The East City septic, or sedimentation, tank question involving a demand for royalty by the Cameron Tank Company of Chicago, is not a matter of mere local import, some fifteen or twenty Ontario municipalities being subjected to a similar demand, and these are making common cause in challenge of the Chicago people's claim.

Yesterday, Alderman Phelan, chairman of the Board of Works, and the City Solicitor, Mr. Hall, were in Toronto to attend a meeting of representatives of several—twelve or fifteen—towns and cities, which have installed septic tanks similar to that erected in Peterborough, and have been asked to consider the payment of royalty. Mayor Stevely of London was made chairman, and Mr. W. D. Chipman, C.E., secretary, of the conference, which discussed the situation and adjourned to meet again early in July. In the meantime the Provincial Government will be interviewed in regard to the matter.

WHAT THE EXAMINER SPORTING EXTRA WILL CONTAIN TO-MORROW

Lacrosse.—Montreal at Shamrocks; Torontos at Cornwall.

Baseball.—American, National, and Eastern League games.

Local Baseball.—Senior City League, double header, T. A. S. vs. Park Street; West Ends vs. Strathconas.

All these events, as well as other important doings in the athletic world, will be reported at length in the Examiner's Sporting Extra, which will be printed as usual to-morrow night at 7.30 o'clock. The reports of the local baseball games, which have proved a popular feature, will, as usual, give the box score and the game by innings. Watch for the Examiner extra.

MR. HADDOW IN CHARGE

Will Take the Pulpit at Park St. Church in the Absence of the Pastor.

The Rev. W. C. Riddiford and family, of Park St. Baptist Church, will spend the month of July at Grimsby Park. During the pastor's absence, Mr. Alex. Haddow who won the Governor-General's gold medal, at Woodstock College this year, and also the Hiram Calvin Scholarship, will take charge of the church work, and supply the pulpit. Mr. Haddow is a member of Park St., nad the church is just proud to have such capable young men among its membership.

FARMERS' EXCURSION

To Jubilee Point Yesterday Was A Great Success.

The annual farmers' excursion took place down the river to Jubilee Point yesterday. A fairly large number took in the event and the day was spent most pleasantly, an orchestra on board provided music for dancing and also at the pavilion at the resort. At the Point short but interesting addresses were made by Messrs. W. L. Smith, editor of the Farmers' Sun; Mr. Lockie Wilson, Provincial Superintendent of Agricultural Fairs; R. N. Scott, Warden of the County, and others.

The excursionists returned home early in the evening.

HER BABY HAD ECZEMA

Mrs. F. Clark, Belmont, Man., writes:—"My baby had eczema on her ear. The sore was very bad and nothing seemed to help her. Hearing of some remarkable cures Dr. Chase's Ointment had made we began using it and with the third application the sore began to heal. The cure was thorough and complete and we give all credit to Dr. Chase's Ointment."

Story of the Man Who Did Much for the Little Children the Way of Preserving Their Lives

WORK IS APPRECIATED

(By Phil Sims.)

Paris, June 25.—This one saved the lives of 5,000 babies this city alone during 1908. He died. Though dead, it may said that he is still saving lives over 2,000 children of Paris, during the first five months of 1909, their lives to him.

He said: "To instruct the is good, but to instruct mothers the most important of all educational work, for what's the use having schools for children the children die because of the ignorance of their mothers."

Prof. Pierre Budin said he went to work. He in Paris a "school for Being a physician himself, he ed a small body of volunteer who agreed to give part of the time each week to the cause of saving the lives of babies — that children from birth to the age 2 years. That was 10 years ago. First there was only one small resau. Here, each day, two or three practitioners (the doctors taking turn about) had "office hours," mothers were invited to bring their babies for examination and treatment. They came in droves. Infants were weighed, their little ailments were diagnosed and remedies prescribed.

But that was only a very small part of the work.

While babies were cared for in this manner, the mothers were instructed in the art of caring for their own. When baby acted in this way it meant so and so. When it has colic, do this or do that. Hold baby in this manner; never the other way. Feed it on this food or that. Take it out in the open. In fact, mothers were taught the thousand and one little details of the proper care for babies.

This opened up another channel for doing good. Proper food being half the battle with babies, and milk being the principal commodity of food, pure milk was urged as an absolute necessity for the little ones.

In 10 years the death rate of babies between the ages mentioned has dropped from about 10,000 per year to not more than 5,000.

The mothers schools are now in all the principal cities of France and in every instance the result has been about in the ratio shown by the Paris figures.

A monument is now building in Paris to the memory of Dr. Budin. Ex-President Loubet, Dr. Henri de Rothschild and other notables are leaders in the movement.

MEDDLING AND MARRING.

Those Canadians who concern themselves so industriously with regulating the domestic affairs of the Mother country are travelling outside their sphere altogether. They practically dictate the fiscal policy Great Britain must adopt to save the Empire from destruction. Beyond the impertinence of their action they fail to see what it logically leads to. If Canada meddles with and seeks to dictate the fiscal policy the Mother lows that the Mother Country can not be prevented from imposing upon Canada the fiscal policy the Mother Country might think best adapted to our needs; an absurd and impossible situation to imagine. The key note of imperial unity is the freedom of each member to manage its own domestic affairs, to frame the fiscal or other policy best adapted to meet the needs of individual cases. Sir Wilfrid Laurier has emphatically expressed this doctrine, and the greatest of the home statesmen have endorsed it. The man that minds his own business stands to prosper and at the same time he avoids rebuffs. The fiscal policy-mongers might as well take the lesson to heart. They will never succeed in neutralizing a policy of independent action on the part of the members of the empire in matters of domestic concern, and their pretended solicitude for adding to the solidurity of the empire will derive importance in proportion to its failure of realization.

ST. JEAN BAPTISTE.

Yesterday, June 24th, our French-Canadian fellow citizens celebrated, throughout the Province of Quebec their national holiday, the fete of St. Jean Baptiste, with great eclat and enthusiasm. That our compatriots on this day especially hold in heart and mind their mother country is an evidence that their hearts are in the right place. As the English, Irish and Scotch elements of our mixed population and citizenship celebrate their national days as do those of French extraction and in no case, in no sense, does this celebration detract from their common loyalty to Canada, their adoptive home. True loyalty is not a mere sentiment; it is an element of character and the man that holds the country of his ancestry in loyal remembrance is all the better qualified to feel and show loyalty for the country whose citizenship he enjoys—and strengthens. All nationalities in Canada appreciate the privileges and advantages of Canadian citizenship and the incidental membership of the family of the Empire; and no none more than the French-Canadians, who find under the flag of the Empire the civil privileges necessary to the largest measure of freedom and the advantages that involves, and also freedom to worship and pray—the highest degree of civil and religious liberty. The latter is especially dear to them for in the home land there has been in these latter days a sad departure from the traditions of loyalty to religion, so that the French-Canadians in honouring the home land think more of the France of the glorious past than of the present, though in this case they cherish the sentiment of Cowper in his Task—"England with all thy faults I love thee still."

We in Ontario can join with our compatriots of Quebec in their rejoicings on their national day. We have a common citizenship, common national aims and ambitions; we can respect each others opinions and mutually concede their tenure. We can all live in harmony and work in harmony for the advancement and upbuilding of Canada, whose prosperity and political unity are advanced and strengthened in proportion as we respect and love each other as fellow citizens of the same glorious country and great Empire.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The wheat acreage of Saskatchewan is 10.86 per cent. greater than last year—1908, it was 3,703,563 and in 1909 it is 3,912,497.

Canada's national revenue is, remarks the Canadian Courier, rapidly expanding. The glorious days of 1907 are to be duplicated in 1909. This should make us happy, at a time when the United States is worrying about new taxes on incomes and corporation dividends. The United States tariff is now so high that it stops trade and decreases the customs revenue. Great Britain also is worrying over new taxes and a heavy deficit. Comparatively speaking, Canada is in a very happy position, her revenues being greater than her ordinary expenditures.

FORESTS OF ONTARIO

The great forest areas of Ontario consist of pine, red and white, spruce, balsam, jackpine and tamarack up to the height of land; and the slope towards Hudson Bay, black and white spruce and jackpine predominate. The hardwoods in this district are ample, yellow and white birch, with ash, and burr and red oak. In southwestern Ontario hardwoods such as oak, walnut, white ash, hickory, &c., were found but this forest has almost wholly disappeared.

In 1907 the total cut of pine, white and red, was 784,079,743 feet board measure, including 1,053,187 feet of squared timber. Mixed species including spruce, balsam, jackpine, cedar, &c., total 86,136750 feet board measure. Railway ties, mostly tamarack and cedar, with some jackpine, make 66,000,000 fete board measure. Pulpwood, mostly spruce and balsam, is given at 71,135 cords. The only hardwoods which appear in the returns are ash, birch and elm with a total of 2,455 cubic feet.

The area under license in 1907 was 18,730 square miles or 11,987,200 acres, and the area in Forest Reserves and Parks was 18,325 square miles or 11,728,000 acres, but these areas overlap to some extent.

The forest area of the province has been variously estimated. The only attempt at a systematic examination of the timber of which the results are available is that made by the expeditions sent out by the provincial government in 1900, which estimated the quantity of pulpwood on Crown lands at 288,000,000 cords. The provincial government officials estimate the pine on Crown lands at 10,000,000 feet board measure and a similar quantity on lands under license. They also estimate the timber area outside the forest reserves at 70,000,000 acres.—Forestry Branch Bulletin, No. 4.

WHAT DEATH DUTIES MEAN.

The debate over the Lloyd-George budget has developed many striking arguments for and against the British Chancellor's financial proposals. None of his new taxes have been more hotly debated than the increased death duties. Writing on this subject a leading authority in England on economic subjects, Mr. L. G. Chiozza Money, who represents North Paddington in the British House of Commons, asks people in Great Britain, especially persons of wealth, to bear in mind four facts.

1. About 700,000 persons die in the United Kingdom every year.

2. Only 80,000 persons out of the 700,000 possesses property worth the attention of the Government.

3. These 80,000 persons leave property aggregating about $1,500,000,000.

4. Of the billion and a half of dollars thus left a full billion is left by only 4,000 persons.

The United Kingdom has a total population considerably over 40,000,000, and it follows that 40,000,000 people each year are in a position to observe a transfer to new owners of property, amounting to a billion and a half dollars, which was left by the 80,000 persons who had died. The mass of the nation, to put the case more strongly, which has from the individual standpoint comparatively little accumulated wealth, is in a position to observe that a billion dollars in property annually passes from 4,000 dead persons to as many or more living ones who did nothing whatever to earn the billion.

The situation has social as well as economic aspects. In any given year, the 40,000,000 who inherit omparatively nothing are immensely stronger, by mere weight of numbers than the few thousands who inherit the billion or the larger number who get the billion and a half. How does it happen that this vast sum is annually transferred from one set of owners to another set, according to the mere say-so of dead men or the directions embodied in statutes, without the slightest social upheavel or disturbance. The answer to this question may be found in what the English economist referred to, Mr. Chiozza Money, presents as the true view of a death duty. "It represents," he says, "a specific payment in respect of a specific benefit received by an inheritor. That specific benefit is the peaceful inheritance of another person's property under the protection of the state. If there were no State to protect, the property could not be inherited without force to assert that the wishes of the deceased should prevail."

Nor is it in the least obscure that an estate of great size finds this protection by the State more valuable than does a small estate, for the reason that small holdings of property in private hands excite less hostility in society as a whole than large holdings. It follows that death duties graduated according to the amount of the estate are ustified either as fair compensation to the State for the exercise of its powers in guaranteeing a peaceful transfer or as a contribution to the support of the State in proportion to the value of the services rendered by it to private holders of wealth.—Ottawa Free Press.

FINANCIAL REPORT OF COUNTY COUNCIL

The following is the report and request of the Chairman of the Finance Committee of the County Council for 1909:

Notwithstanding the fact that a current deficit to the amount of $918.31 appeared from a current standpoint at the end of 1908 chargeable to the General County Rate, I am pleased to state that with your co-operation for the balance of the year the same rate as last year, or in other words the rate of 1903, 1904, 1905, 1906, 1908, will meet all general current expenses, namely: 2 4-5 mills on the dollar and I would respectfully ask you to make provision for the levying of the same for 1909, the amount required being $22,817.47.

Owing to considerable permanent improvements having been done and now under way at the County House of Refuge, the rate for the last two years being adequate for current purposes, practically speaking, covered the same, but as stated the permanent improvements are responsible for a deficit, therefore in order to provide funds to meet the shortage, namely: $1,056.72, I would ask you to provide for the sum of $5,704.36, which will require a rate of 70-100 of one mill on the dollar for House of Refuge purposes for 1909.

The equivalent to the Government School Grant being $1,173.00, will require a rate of sixteen and one-eighth one hundredths of a mill on the dollar on the sections enjoying said grant.

Respectfully submitted,
(Signed) A. BREAULT,
Chairman Finance Committee.

Following is the report of the Committee on Finance presented to the County Council.

The Finance Committee recommend as follows:

1. That the report of the chairman and estimates for the year be received and adopted, and that the rates as set for in his report be adopted, namely: General rate 2 4-5 mills; House of Refuge rate, 70-100ths of a mill, and equivalent to Government School grant, 148-800ths of a mill.

2. That the payments set forth in Schedule "A," being payments made under warden's or other contract, be confirmed save account of Peterborough Review of $29.00, which is referred to County Solicitor for consideration.

3. That the accounts set forth in Schedule "B," be paid.

4. That the payments of $200.00 referred to in resolution of the Council of 20th June, 1908, regarding the Horticultural Society, be paid when approved by the Treasurer and Solicitor.

5. That the account of St. John's Industrial School for maintenance of J. J. Lapointe, be paid.

6. That the Warden and County Treasurer be authorized on behalf of the municipality to execute such bond as may be required by the Traders' Bank to indemnify them against payment over to this municipality of the moneys deposited by the late J. Farthing in the bank, and which are payable to the county under agreement with him.

7. That the Board of Management of the House of Refuge be authorized to purchase a plot of land in the Lakefield cemetery with full power to act.

8. That East Peterborough Agricultural Society and the West Peterborough Industrial Society be granted each $100.00, and the Lakefield, Keene, Kinmount and Lakehurst societies be granted $25.00 each.

9. That if the Lakehurst Society does not have an exhibition this year the amount of above grant to the society be expended upon the Mississaugua Bridge and that Mr. Shaw be commissioner.

10. That a speical grant of $100.00 be made to the Townships of Belmont and Methuen to assist in defraying expenses of recent small pox epidemic provided the Province of Ontario grant $300.00 toward the same purpose.

11. That no action be taken on application from Secretary of Winter Fair and of National Sanitorium Association.

Respectfully submitted,
A. BREAULT,
Chairman.

Peterborough, June, 1909.

FIREMAN REID LEAVES THE HOSPITAL AFTER LONG TERM

Many will remember of an accident some three weeks ago, in which a young fireman on the C. P. R. had his head severely hurt and very little hope was entertained for his recovery. The details of the affair are somewhat as follows:

George Reid, a fireman, in some way lost his balance and fell from the engine; his foot caught and he was dragged along with his head bumping on the ties. After a short period of this terrible experience his foot became free and he fell beside the track. This happened as the train was leaving Myrtle, on the morning of May 31st, and the unfortunate man was brought to this city and removed to the Nicholls Hospital, where Dr. Gray has been in attendance. Very little hope was held out for his recovery, as his head was badly injured and the brain affected. There was a bad cut on his side and his face was very much bruised and torn.

A specialist was brought down from Toronto, and his report was not very favourable, and it was feared that Mr. Reid would not regin his mental balance. For a period of sixteen days he was in a sort of stupor with intervals of activity, when he was somewhat unruly and boards had to be placed on the side of his cot to keep him in. Even with these in place he would attempt to climb out, if not kept under surveillance, and he always said he would get out of the place. He had to be constantly watched or he would remove the bandages from his head and pick the sore spots on his face, and thus his improvement was not as rapid as if he had been aware of what he was doing.

During all this time he believed he was in Toronto and his conversation, if such it can be called, was both incoherent and irrelevant. The poor fello wgave some annoyance to the nurses, but he was in no way to blame for it.

It was the 31st of May that he was brought to the hospital and this afternoon he left for his home in Windsor. In an interview to-day at noon he says he remembers nothing as to what happened after he left a small flag-station near Myrtle, till about ten days ago, when something seemed to snap in his head and he realized his position. After that he gave less trouble to his attendants and was easy to look after. He can give no account as to how the accident happened and that part of his life is a blank so far as his memory of the events is concerned. For the past few days he has been able to be around, but he is rather weak yet, and it will be at least two months before he can resume work. Considering the pummelling which he received when being dragged along on the ties, his recovery is indeed marvelous. As the result of his experience he will bear a few scars, but he feels grateful for his escape.

Mr. Reid is loud in his praise of the treatment and attention he received while in the hospital and says, he owes his life to prompt action in bringing him here.

One of those who took a personal interest in Mr. Reid was Mr. W. S. Dodds, C.P.R. depot agent, who took him into the station this afternoon, to go to his home on the 4.38.

COURT BRIDGENORTH'S TRIP TO FENELON FALLS A SUCCESS

Examiner Special:

Bridgenorth, June 23.—This morning the steamer Stoney Lake arrived in port to carry an excursion to Fenelon Falls. This was the ever-popular outing of Court Bridgenorth, No. 315, C.O.F., and the boat was loaded to its full capacity. They left the wharf at 8 o'clock with the weather in a very pleasant mood, and returned at seven in the evening. An orchestra was on board and provided excellent music for the dancers on board. Everyone was highly delighted with the trip and a larger boat will be required next year. The stay at Fenelon Falls was sufficient to see the beauties of that growing resort. The country at the present time presents a splendid appearance and an excursion at this season has features which are absent later on.

The store on board the Stoney Lake was conducted by members of the Court and was so well patronized that it was a good source of revenue.

Financially, the excursion was a huge success and the results are very gratifying. The net proceeds after all expenses are paid will be in the neighbourhood of $70.00 and this sum will be of great assistance in the purchase of the new Foresters' hall. The committee, consisting of Messrs. T. N. Kelly, Jas. Cullen and T. Jopling are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts to provide a good outing for the people of this locality.

Another Argument In Favour Of Municipal Owned Power

The following letter from Mr. R. J. McLaughlin, K.C., of Lindsay and Toronto, is self-explanatory:

S. R. Armstrong Esq., City Clerk,
Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir,—There is one matter which I have neglected to mention heretofore. It is this, if the City of Peterborough had Burleigh Falls developed and 3,500 horse power transmitted and transformed for delivery in the city, experience shows that you could market a great deal more power. In this connection I am enclosing you herewith an extract from the "Canada Electric News," from a paper which was read before the National Electric Light Association, which shows that for the reasons stated therein, for the 3,500 horse power you could probably market and obtain payment for nearly double that amount. The additional power that you would be able to sell would a great deal more than cover your cost of distribution so that if you chose to give the power to users at the net price heretofore mentioned by us, $7.60 per horse power, the additional power you could market would much more than cover your expense of distribution and you could have a handsome profit. It is this factor that enable power companies to make the large profits that they have often made. You may also sell power restricted for use to periods when the street load is not on, or practically have your street lighting without cost.

Yours very truly,

R. J. McLAUGHLIN.

of the Detroit Edison Company, in a paper read before the National Electric Light Association entitled "Some Electrictl Power Experiences," (see Canada Electrical News), state—

"Observations taken in 100 factories at odd times show that only an average 50 per cent. of all the machines will be loaded at any one time, because operators preparing work or adjusting machines are idle, or for the moment away from the machines.

"This statement to a manufacturer will not often be credited until he has proven it by observation. The fact is, however, well known to our selling force, and is considered when specifying motors required and in estimating probable costs, and the saving of expense with metered central station drive against other power due to this condition, is a good selling point."

SETTLEMENT WORK DISCUSSED

Miss Jane Addams Tells of the Slums of Chicago.

LADY GREY OPENS SESSION

Regular Meetings of Quinquennial Are Begun at Toronto and Delegates Are Welcomed by Her Excellency —Great Chicago Woman at Head of Hull House Addresses the Meeting Last Night.

Toronto, June 25.—Toronto undoubtedly appreciated the presence of one of the great women of the world at the meeting of the International Congress in convocation hall last night, when Jane Addams of Hull House, Chicago, rose to address the largest audience the congress so far has attracted.

There were but a few men present, but the applause from the ladies made up in duration what it lacked in masculine vigor.

Miss Harriett Marion Maclean, professor in Delphic College, Philadelphia, had already spoken on social conditions among working women and remarked upon the difficulty of preceding one who knew more of the subject than anyone else in the world.

It was her easy mastery of the question that lent absorbing interest to Miss Addams' address. A real Deborah with the tenderness of a Dorcas, she has lived the life and knows the doctrine.

She wondered why the subject of the settlements had been thrust into the middle of a program of music and literature, but undertook to do the best she could in such untoward company, but before she ended it was felt that the music and the literature were not so far amiss. The settlement idea, started in London 25 years ago, consists of having a group of educated persons live in an industrial neighborhood, bringing into it from without all they can of civic valor.

Hull House sits in a locality where 23 nationalities may be found touching elbows, and it is the aim of the settlement to interpret these people to the rest of the city and to each other. Great care has to be taken that the children do not contract a superficial Americanism and learn to despise their parents.

It was one of the beautiful points of the address, Miss Addams' illustration of the consistent efforts made to reveal the parents to their own children. They have established a labor museum, where Italian and Greek and Assyrian and Irish and Dutch and all the other men and women place examples of the handicrafts of their own peasant days. Those who can weave or spin, and dye, the workers in pottery, wood, metal, show something of the charm of their native background, in which the life of American cities is so sadly lacking.

Lieut.-Governor Gibson presided and the Countess of Grey, the Countess of Aberdeen, Lady Edgar and many other distinguished ladies sat on the platform. Dr. Albert Ham with the St. James' Church choir contributed a number of examples of English Church music at the opening of the meeting.

The congress was formally opened in convocation hall yesterday by Her Excellency, Countess Grey.

Lady Edgar, president of the Canadian National Council, was in the chair, and on the platform with her were Countess Grey; Her Excellency, Lady Aberdeen, president of the International Council; Mrs. J. M. Gibson and Lady Sibyl Grey.

Countess Grey, as honorary president of the Canadian Council, in welcoming the delegates to Canada, spoke in part as follows:

"You come at a time when the greatness of our Canadian destiny is assured to us, and yet at a time when the lines of our national development are not so stereotyped as to prevent our adoption of the best methods of social organization, as may be suggested by the experience of other countries."

Lady Aberdeen also spoke briefly in appreciation of the hospitality of the Canadian people and ended by welcoming the congress to the "feast of fat things."

Nine sections of the congress met in various parts of the university buildings morning and afternoon.

BLACKMAILER SHOT.

Chicago Boy Is Killed Trying to Extort Money.

Chicago, June 25.—Rudolph Berndt, 14 years of age, was killed by the police Wednesday night, following an attempt on his part to imitate "blackhand" methods and get money by means of threatening letters. He was shot on a lonely street corner just after he had seized a package supposed to contain $15,000.

J. E. Crossfeldt, a wealthy wholesale grocer, received a threatening letter, demanding that he take $15,000 in two packages to Desplines street and Grand avenue. Crossfeldt was threatened with death if he failed to comply.

Detectives watched with him on the appointed night. No one appeared. Threats by telephone followed and another meeting was appointed. Policemen were hidden, and as Crossfeldt approached the place a boy stepped out of a doorway and asked, "Is this Mr. Crossfeldt?" The grocer replied in the affirmative, and the boy snatched the package from his hand and fled. Detective Weinrich, who was across the street, fired two shots. One hit the boy and he fell fatally wounded. As he lay on the sidewalk he tried to shoot the detective. At the hospital he implicated his cousin, Alfred Hasse, 16 years old, in the plot.

Crossfeldt went to the hospital and the dying boy said: "Please Mr. Crossfeldt, forgive me, and kiss me before I die."

Happy Quebec.

Montreal, June 25.—La Presse yesterday evening, discussing the position of the French people, says: "It is our joy to belong to two supremeties, that of the church, which is the kingdom of ideas, and that of Great Britain, which is the kingdom of good sense and of liberty."

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Steady—Hogs 5c to 10c Lower at Buffalo.

LONDON, June 24.—London cables for cattle are firm, at 12½c to 14½c per lb. for Canadian steers, dressed weight; refrigerator beef in quoted at 10½c to 10½c per lb.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, June 24.—The railways reported 104 carloads of live stock at the City Market for Wednesday and Thursday, consisting of 1341 cattle, 2014 hogs, 995 sheep and lambs, and 350 calves.

Exporters.

There were few exporters offered; a few lots sold from $5.25 to $5.50 per cwt. for steers picked from loads of butchers. Export bulls sold at $4.75 to $5.25.

Butchers.

Choice picked lots sold from $5.75 to $6, in fact one load of 25 butchers of extra quality, 1155 lbs. each, were sold by James McLaughlin to Tucker Bros. of Smith's Falls at $6 per cwt. for their own butcher stall. Loads of good butchers sold from $5.50 to $5.65; medium, $5.20 to $5.40; common, $4.50 to $5.15; cows, $3.25 to $4.70; bulls, $3.50 to $4.50.

Stockers and Feeders.

Harry Murby reports trade in stockers and feders, as being about steady at last week's prices. Mr. Murby bought 200 cattle during the week as follows: Feeders, 800 to 900 lbs. each, at $4 to $4.50; stockers, 400 to 700 lbs. each, at $3 to $3.60 per cwt. The prospects are for lower prices should a heavy delivery occur.

Milkers and Springers.

There was a fair supply of milkers and springers, but not a large number of good to choice. There was a moderately good demand, but nothing exciting, and prices ruled about steady, ranging from $35 to $55 for common light cows, and $40 to $60 for medium to good, and choice at $65 to $80.

Veal Calves.

A moderate supply of veal calves sold at $5 to $6 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

One thousand sheep and lambs sold at following quotations: Export ewes, heavy, $5 to $5.75; export ewes, light, $4 to $4.50; rams and culls, $3 to $3.25 per cwt. Spring lambs, 8c to 9c per lb., but not many got the latter price, as lambs have got to come down nin price as the season advances, as larger numbers are coming forward.

Hogs.

Hog prices have again advanced. Selects sold at $6.40 per cwt. fed and watered at the market, and $7.25 to $7.35 f.o.b. cars at country points.

Died Unnoticed by Wife's Side.

Saratoga, N.Y., June 25.—While riding in his automobile, William Berney, an artist of New York City, was stricken with cerebral apoplexy and died before his wife, who was at his side, noticed that he was ill. Not until the machine suddenly swerved from the road did Mrs. Berney realize that her husband, who was acting as chauffeur, was dead. She jumped in time to save herself from injury and the machine topple over in a ditch and was wrecked.

Subsidies Discontinued.

Ottawa, June 25.—The subsidies for the steamship service with New Zealand which has been carried on for the past two years by the Alley Steamship Line, with an annual subsidy of $100,000, each Dominion contributing $50,000, have been discontinued. About ninety per cent. of Canada's trade goes via New York, and the balance from British Columbia can be handled via San Francisco. The service last year cost the Government about one dollar in subsidy for every seven dollars' worth of freight carried.

If You Rid Poisons FROM THE BLOOD

By enriching the blood and kidneys, you will be freed of pains, aches and the tired spring feeling.

Poisons only accumulate in the blood. Pains and aches have the same cause.

Poisons only accumulate in the blood when the liver and kidneys get torpid and slow in action and when, as a result, the bowels become constipated.

Get the liver and kidneys working right and away go the poisons. That is their work, to rid the blood of poisons.

When they fail because of the excessive accumulation of poisons in the spring, use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and they will soon resume their natural functions with renewed energy and vigour.

No other organs of the body can filter the poisons from the blood so you must get the liver and kidneys active if you are going to restore healthful digestion, regular bowel action and free the body of pains, aches and feelings of fatigue and depressing.

It is only natural that the liver and kidneys should give out in the spring, when the blood is usually loaded with impurities, but you can quickly and certainly set them right by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

This is the greatest of spring medicines because it is unique in its direct and combined action on the liver and kidneys.

Put it to the test this spring, and you you will be astonished at its wonderful prompt and thorough action on the digestive and excretory systems. You can be certain that it will move the bowels, awaken the action of the liver and kidneys and completely purify the blood. One pill a dose, 25c a box, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

To Reach Churchies in West.

London, June 25.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—An informal conference was held at the offices of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel to consider a movement for advising and helping those churchmen who emigrate to Canada. The trend of discussion pointed to the necessity of the Canadian church appointing a central secretary, whose business will be to advise churchmen where to settle where they will be in touch with the ministration of the church. A representation to this effect will be made to the primate of all Canada.

There is a general feeling that Archbishop Lloyd, who really inspired the conference, should head the scheme.

Can Catch Their Trains.

Ottawa, June 25.—The order-in-council recently passed fixing the hours of the civil service from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. has been slightly amended. In case of officials who had made arrangements for the summer and who have to catch trains at five o'clock up the Gatineau, it will be in the power of the Deputy Minister to modify the time arrangement for this year only. Also, higher officials will be relieved of the necessity of signing the attendance book. This also applies to private secretaries of Ministers and stenographers attached to a Minister's office.

SUMMER CARE OF CHICKS

From Farm and Dairy.

J. Marsy, Simcoe Co., Ont.

The hen will probably leave her chicks when they are six or eight weeks old. To keep the little chicks warm and to mother them at night, it is a good plan to make a frame, and stretch canvas across it. Sew pieces of flannel to the canvas from the under side. The chicks feel the flannel on their backs as they cuddle in; this contrivance also keeps in the warm air, and the chicks are protected from chills. This frame should be aired daily in the sunlight. Keep fresh, clean material for the chicks to rest upon at night.

Examine your chicks for head lice. These are their worst enemies. Head lice quickly kill the chicks unless looked after. Dusting powders have very little effect on head lice. The best remedy is to use common lard, adding one-twentieth part kerosene oil. Rub this mixture on the entire head. For a chick a week or 10 days old one-quarter of a teaspoonful of the lard should be rubbed well into the down on the head. Apply the ointment first to the neck, work it forward to the bill, then smooth down the neck from the bill. You thus smother the lice and they quickly die.

Coops should be cleaned twice a week or oftener. Apply kerosene or some other preventive to the coops to keep them from being overrun with lice in warm weather. Keep pure fresh water before your chicks and change it three or four times a day if you wish them to grow.

ALL THE JOYS OF OUTDOOR LIFE ARE EMBODIED IN THE Y. M. C. A. BOYS' DEP'T CAMP

Now is the time when the boy is longing to get away from the heat of the city, after the exminations are over. We see large numbers of boys going off to the woods, or sitting at the side of the river, enjoying the cool breezes and getting next to nature.

Without a doubt, a fe wweeks of a growing boy's time spent as near the wild and nature as possible, affords not only a recreation, but a basis for healthful growth that places a boy far in advance of the one who in the same class does not have the same opportunity to live with Nature. The boy, who is not endowed with animal spirits is lacking in the first requisites for a perfect young manhood; he needs physical development. In the camp he is free to receive from Nature the benefits she delights to give. Let him dress in an athletic suit, minus shoes, if he wishes, and give his skin a chance to breathe the fresh air. You may call him an Indian if you wish, but let him gain the health and strength that only a free outdoor life can give. It is well to encourge athletic field games that develop self control, but give him an opportunity to tramp through the woods, looking for something. Give him a definite aim, whether a rock, or plant or Indian relic—it little matters—but on his return to camp he will be physically tired and very hungry, and possessed with the consciousness that he has learned something. The period for sleep should be long. A healthy boy, physically weary and not mentally fagged ,will, like the farmer boy, fall asleep at taps or before, and sleep till reveille is sounded in the morning. For evening entertainment in camp there are concerts, camp fires, marshmellow roasts, mock trials, and numerous other things.

In no station in life can a man come into closer touch with a boy than out in the open, away from the restriction and formalities of city life. He can there help the boy to get along with his fellows, to adjust himself to circumstances, and to know that his life may be a factor for good in the world.

This year the Y. M. C. A. Boys' Camp promises to be the best in the history of the Association. The camp will be held at Sandy Point, Clear Lake, from July 19 to 31st. Sandy Point has a safe sandy beach for swimming, and miles of water for boating and fishing. It has a good field for baseball and other sports, and is without a doubt the best spot on the lakes for a boys' camp. This camp is for boys who are members of the Y. M. C. A. and who are 12 years old or over.

The boys will be under the constant supervision of the officers of the Association, assisted by young men of character and ability, who are interested in the development of a manly character among boys.

The purpose is to give a boy a happy, healthy vacation, and an outdoor life brim full of fun and sport, under the most wholesome influences and surroundings.

The cook house, which is a very important feature in camp, will be well looked after. A competent cook will be in charge, and an abundant supply of good, wholesome food will be supplied three times a day. We know the eating capacity of a boy in camp, especially after a long tramp, or a good swim, and we will have everything that a boy likes to eat.

The party will leave the Wolfe St. wharf on Monday morning at 7.30, and go by steamer over the lift lock and arrive at Sandy Point about 11 a.m., when the boys will put up their tnts and make everything ready for a long stay under canvas.

Any boy who wants to go to camp can get all necessary information from Mr. G. T. Evans, Boys' Secretary, and as all applications must be in by Saturday, July 3rd, boys would do well to come in as soon as possible.

NEWS FROM THE FRONT

What the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons Are Doing in Camp at Nassau.

Special to The Examiner.

Nassau, June 24.—Hot, hotter and pretty near hottest. We're here to stay the specified time in spite of the weather.

Another most successful day has passed without any casualties whatever, and the best of order and discipline still prevail.

To-day, Squadrons A, C and D had sub-target practice and the first trial was satisfactory. As Squadron B had practice on Wednesday, all in camp have now had instruction in this department.

Another strong feature of the Nassau field is to be taken advantage of to-morrow. A high ridge skirts the field on the west side and range shooting will be introduced. On account of the height and extent of the hill there will be absolutely no danger to anyone outside the grounds. The residents in the district may be alarmed at the boom of musketry, but no leaden missiles can go astray.

The Rations

So far as this branch is concerned no better pleased set of men ever was in camp. Many say that this feature is exceptionally good this year and this reflects credit on the Peterborough men who furnish the supplies. The bread, groceries and vegetables are all brought in by E. F. Mason & Co., and the meat by H. P. Kennedy. Besides being fresh and wholesome, the rations are served up in proper style which is to the credit of the cooks—Messrs. J. Dudley, W. Lynn, A. Mitchell and N. Benway.

Each squadron has a cookery which consists of a range, a table and a larder.

The cooks are using the supplies economically and are establishing a good record. The fuel consists of four-foot hardwood which was chopped up with an axe but to-day a cross-cut saw was introduced and is quite an improvement. A few bucksaws and saw horses would be still better.

Three good square meals a day are served and in order that the public may know what the fare for a cavalryman is, a menu card is given: Breakfast—bread and butter, meat, cheese, coffee. Dinner—Potatoes, bread and butter, meat and soup, tea. Supper—Bread and butter, jam, cheese, tea.

A large dining tent has been placed on that side of the camp next to the river, and a smaller tent a few yards away serves as a kitchen in which Mr. Coleman prepares and dispenses an abundant supply of eatables in grand style. This is the officers' mess tent.

Although the early part of the evening was warm, a number of the boys indulged in a game of football and had a merry time. It seems that the sporting element will always crop up even in a camp where men are being trained for war.

About sunset when the temperature had fallen a few degrees, Dr. Douglas, the medical officer gave the ambulance corps a light drill and they showed both speed and intelligence in their work.

It has leaked out that when a small detachment from B Squadron was down town the other evening, Corporal Farrell, who is the giant of this squadron did some kind of stunt like carrying a rail on his back and it proved quite an attraction.

The big announcement for Friday is the officers' excursion to Stony Lake. The steamer "Bessie Butler" will leave the Nassau wharf at 5 p.m. and proceed to Stony Lake, where the officers will have an opportunity of viewing this popular resort in the cool of the evening and the return trip will be a moonlight affair. With the fine weather now prevailing a most pleasant outing will be enjoyed by all on board.

THE PAINS OF THE AGED

Are usually due to the tendency of the kidneys to wear out as age advances, giving rise to the accumulation of poisons in the blood and causing backache, lumbago, aching limbs and rheumatism. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are particularly prized by aged people because they can be relied upon to invigorate the action of the liver, kidneys and bowels, and so remove the cause of pains and aches.

REV. J. GOFORTH GIVES MESSAGE

The attendance at the special services being held in St. Paul's Church by Rev. J. Goforth, of China, was decidedly better last night than it has been so far. The message was a most heart-searching one. It would be difficult to give any adequate idea of the address unless it were reported word by word. And even then there would be lacking the personality of the speaker, the intense earnestness of manner, and the accent of the voice that often gives added meaning to a word. He spoke last night on prayer and illustrated his remarks by a number of incidents taken from his experience in the great revival in China. He mentioned nine things which we must learn and practice in the school of prayer: Reverence, Confession, Restitution, Forgiveness, Thanksgiving, Unity, Faith, Submission, Petition. Under each of these words he spoke truths of deep spiritual significance. Particularly applicable, even to Peterborough and church conditions here, were his words on the need of a forgiving spirit if we would pray the prayer of faith—indeed if we would be heard of God at all. God will not hear us if we hate one another, if we do not forgive those who may have injured us, and if we are not reconciled to our brother. How can God bless a church where there are envyings and strife among its members, and where there are jealousies and hatred?

A true mark of belonging to Christ at all is that we shall exercise the forgiving Spirit of Christ. The petition of the Lord's prayer which deals with forgiveness makes it quite clear that God can not, will not, forgive us unless we forgive others. This is what hinders prayer—an unforgiving spirit. And if we would see God's power in our midst we must hasten to be reconciled to our enemy, and be ready to forgive the greatest injustice that may be done us.

It is the same with restitution. The law of Christ demands not only that the man who stole steals no more, but that he restore that which he unjustly took. Numerous instances were given where men in the recent revival in China, were convinced of sin and immediately sought those whom they had defrauded and not only restored all, but restored with interest. The confession of such sin and the restitution which followed was always followed by an outpouring of God's Spirit and many conversions. So will it be here. Let God's people be just, let them confess their sin and get right with God and the unsaved wrold will soon see that there is something in Christianity.

BRIDGENORTH NEWS

Examiner Special.

Bridgenorth, June 23.—Summer is here. The village is looking at its best. The Park is beginning to liven up as quite a number of Americans are here for a try at the fish. A good number of both bass and 'lunge have been caught since the season came in.

Several of the cottages are having additions built to them and the prospects for this popular resort is very bright.

Mr. Ernest Telford, who has been ill for the past week, is recovering rapidly, and will soon be able to return to work.

The Steamer Manita has commenced her regular return trips from Bobcaygeon to Burleigh Falls, calling at Chemong Park both morning and evening. This is a splendid trip, which is becoming very popular and the boat service is much appreciated by tourists and others.

Bridgenorth, June 24.—Miss Alma Bell returned to-day, after spending two weeks in Peterborough with her cousins, the Misses McIllmoyle.

This morning the Canadian Foresters' excursion set sail for Fenelon Falls at 8:00, per steamer Stoney Lake with a record crowd.

The surrounding country is looking good as the crops are growing splendidly, and the pasture lots have a wealth of fodder which is increasing the output of the cheese factory.

On Monday, last Mr. and Mrs. James McGarvey left for Muskoka, where they are in charge of a tourist hotel. They have both had experience in this line of business and will no doubt make a success of the enterprise.

A SUMMER EXPERIMENT

They rented a cottage together, the Joneses and Skraggses, and said: "We'll share in the cost and we'll split in the work and each one shall make his own bed.

'Twill be easy to do, and I'm sure we will find that housework will seem just like play."

So with this understanding they packed up their trunks and together they journeyed away.

At first things went smoothly a week or two passed, then clouds in the distance appeared.

Mrs. Jones told her hubby that mean Mrs. Skraggs used to sneak when the table was cleared.

Though it wasn't her night to wipe dishes, of course, she might help put them away.

As she always did when 'twas Mrs. Skraggs' turn, a fact she could truthfully say.

Then Mrs. Skraggs said she was sick of her job, beacuse Mrs. Jones seemed to think

She had nothing to do but look pretty while she slaved the summer away at the sink;

And Jones disliked Skraggs because he wouldn't clean his share of the fish that they caught,

And Skraggs had a notion that Jones wouldn't go for water the times that he ought.

Ere a month had gone by Mrs. Jones started in to tell Mrs. Skraggs a few things.

And Mrs. Skraggs straightway unburdened her mind of a few disagreeable flings.

WEDDING BELLS

DUMBLE—STEWART

The marriage of Miss Mary Stewart, daughter of the late Robert Stewart of St. Mary's, to Mr. Clarence A. Dumble, K.C., of Peterborough, took place very quietly on Wednesday, June 23rd, at Westminster Church, Winnipeg, in the presence of a few intimate friends. Rev. Dr. McKinnon performed the marriage ceremony. The bride, who was unattended, looked charming in her going-away dress of navy blue panama worsted with anethyst hat. On their return from the honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Dumble will reside in Langside street, Winnipeg.—Toronto Star.

HAWTHORNE—MONK

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday afternoon at St. John's Church between Mary Beatrice, fifth daughter of Thomas and Amy Hawthorne, of 102½ Gladstone avenue, and Thomas Monk, of this city.

Both bride and bridegroom are Old Country people but have been residents of this city for more than three years, both being natives of the old Carpet Borough, of Kidderminster. Great interest was taken in this happy event by the employees of the Brinton Carpet Co., their fellow-workers contributing heartily to the numerous useful presents, among them being one from the women of the finishing department, a handsome clock. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a gold pendant and the bride's gift to the groom was a very pretty gold Albert, while the bridegroom's gift to Miss Harriet Downman, the chief bridesmaid, was a pretty pearl brooch and rose bud hat pin. The bride wore a charming gown of cream eoliene de soie, trimmed with old lace and was given away by her father. She also wore a spray of orange blossoms from the Old Country underneath her large white picture hat, and carried a large shower bouquet of pink and white carnations.

A pretty dinner and tea service from the Brussells department, and a handsome Axminster rug and arm chair from the Axminster dept. Miss Lily Hawthorne's present to the bride was a set of nickel plated irons; Mr. James Hawthorne, curtain stretcher and dryer; Mr. T. Stonet, a handsome biscuit jar; Miss Downman, a handsome set of fruit dishes; Mrs. James Hawthorne, a handsome present of dessert cutlery; Mrs. Alfred Aston, a pretty set of carvers; Miss Nellie Hawthorne, table linen and doylies; father and mother, cheque; Mrs. Farmer, salad bowl and side dishes and other useful presents.

McILMOYL—EDMISON.

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Wm. Edmison, Bridgenorth, when her youngest daughter, Lillie, was united in holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Frank McIlmoyl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. McIlmoyl, Selwyn. The ceremony was performed at 6.30 o'clock, by the Rev. J. R. Bonner of Gilmour, Memorial Church, in the drawing room, which was tastefully decorated with ferns and orange blossoms.

The bride looked charming in a gown of white glory cloth, which was beautifully made and trimmed with Irish hand-made lace and insertion, and was attended by her niece, who was also tastefully dressed in white organdie trimmed with lace and insertion, while Mr. Almond Galvin, cousin of the groom, acted as best man, and Miss Stinson, cousin of the bride, played the wedding march

A large number of most beautiful presents were received by Mr. and Mrs. McIlmoyl, showing the high esteem in which they are held by their many friends.

The bride's going-away suit was of blue cloth, with hat to match and white net waist over silk.

The evening was pleasantly spent in music and games, after which the bride and groom left for their future home at Selwyn.

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM GRAHAM

A very sad death occurred Monday, June 21st, of Mr. W. Graham, only son of Mr. Samuel Graham, of the 12th line of Cavan. The deceased had been a sufferer since last December with throat trouble, but death come unexpected as he was only confined to his bed since last Friday. Besides his father and mother, he leaves two sisters, Mrs. J. Widdis, Emily, and Miss Nettie at home to mourn the loss of a kind and affectionate brother. The deceased was well and favourably known through Cavan and was a consistent member of Ebenezer Methodist Church, where he attended service and Sunday School all his life. He was 28 years of age and his many friends unite in extending their deepest sympathy to the bereaved family. The funeral took place on Wednesday, at two o'clock, from his late residence, 12th line, Cavan.

MRS. WM. FOSTER

At the age of 55 years, Mrs. Wm. Foster passed away at her home just north of Jackson Park. She has been in poor health for some time and the end came peacefully last night. Besides her husband there is a large family left to mourn her loss and to them the sympathy of the community is extended.

The funeral will be to-day at 3:00 p.m., the services at the house being conducted by Rev. Canon Davidson and Rev. Mr. McPhee. The remains will be shipped by C.P.R. to Fowlerville, Mich, where interment will take place to-morrow.

THE LEBRUN PARTY RETURNED HOME

They Report a Jolly Time and Great Sport With the Black Bass.

The last of the Le Brun-Stony Lake party, who have been having "a whale of a time" the past ten days on the fishing grounds tributary to "Bellechasse" cottage, arrived in the city last night. They were accompanied by their host, under whose grand generalship the members of the party have voted him "a jolly good fellow." The health of the Upper Stony Lake waters was clearly demonstrated by the vivacity of the party and their sunburnt countenances. They were just in that happy condition the poet must have tried to describe when he wrote:

"I've no quarrel with the lapwing if it wants another crest,
And to me it is no matter how the burnished dove is dressed,
And I'd let the young man's fancy turn the way it wants to turn,
And not kick, whatever happened—
no, I wouldn't give a "dern."

The black bass fishing was the best they ever had enjoyed. The luck was great and the size of the fish away above the average—"nothing small" about any of them.

HAVELOCK ITEMS OF INTEREST

Havelock, June 25.—Turn out and root for Havelock in the Bowmanville-Havelock game at the park here on Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. It is bound to be a battle royal. Goals count on the round, and both teams will endeavour to establish a good lead, but the locals are confident of putting it all over the boys from the west, as this is the last game in the league that will be seen here, and as the locals will have to face a heavy expenditure, when they go to Bowmanville to play the return game, it is earnestly expected that the citizens will turn out in large numbers to help the boys along. The boys have played good ball this season, and are deserving of support for the splendid showing they have already made.

Miss Florence McWilliams, of Marmora, is spending the week in town, the guest of her sister, Miss Winnie McWilliams.

The engagement is announced of Miss Margaret Amelia Fraser, daughter of Mrs. Thos. Fraser, Calgary, Alta., and of the late Mr. Thos. Fraser, of Norwood, to Mr. Frederic Victor Hollands, of Saskatoon, Sask. The wedding to take place in July.

Miss Loretta Bennett was the accompanist (at the minstrel entertainment Friday evening last) and performed that difficult and arduous duty in a most masterly manner and sympathetic interpretation.

Mr. Harry Cameron spent Tuesday with friends at Peterborough.

The Rose launch "Cursus" conveyed a merry party from Trent Bridge to Haley Falls on Sunday.

Mrs. Christie and son, of Toronto, paid a business trip to Trent Bridge last week in view of preparation for the summer outing at their pretty summer cottage in the Grove. They will take possession the first week in July.

At the regular meting of the school board on Wednesday night last, it was decided after some discussion, to engage two high school teachers instead of one. The board are now advertising for the teachers, and their action is provoking considerable discussion among the taxpayers.

The Norwood Board of Education recently extended a vote of appreciation to Mr. Jas. Thompson, M.P.P., of Toronto, for his services in securing the establishment of a Department of Agriculture in connection with their high school.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

SIR MARTIN, "THE HORSE THAT FELL"

SIR MARTIN, "SKEETS" MARTIN UP.

Had Sir Martin, Louis Winan's Ogden-Lady Stirling American bred colt, not been knocked off his pins in the English Derby, another story MIGHT have been written of the running of that classic this year. Winans bought Sir Martin from John Madden and his early performances made him a well played Derby choice. Had he won, the bookmakers on the other side would have lost a million dollars.

JOE KELLEY HASN'T GIVEN UP HOPE AND SAYS LEAFS WILL DO BETTER IN FUTURE

Toronto, June 24. — Manager Joseph Kelly and his bunch of hired men arrived this morning at 11.30 from Newark, not a bit daunted by the hard luck which the team met with in the series away from home.

With the team were the three new men, Fallon, Pfeffer, and "Doc." Newton. Vaughan, who has been secured from the New York Americans, will arrive in the city to-morrow.

"The team is in pretty good shape now," said Manager Kelley shortly after his arrival. "We ought to take the majority of the games from now out, if we can shake the hard luck hoodoo which has been following us. The team has been playing pretty good ball on the trip, even though we did but five out of the fourteen games played. That was a very hard game to lose yesterday.

"We were pretty well broken up when we went away. Lundgren would not get into condition, and Durham was not in any shape at all, and we were pretty shy on pitchers. Then Mahling was sick, and we had to bring Weidensaul in from the field and put the "Kid" in the field for a while. Mahling has not been a well man for some time, and he will benefit by a rest. He is a grand ball-player when he is right. Vaughan will likely be here in time to play in to-morrow's games. He will play at short.

"Fallon is playing great ball in the outfield, and if he keeps on as he has begun he is a permanency."

"How about this pitcher Wilson of the New York Americans?"

"We have not decided yet whether we want him or not. The story that we have secured him is not right. We will see how we get along with the five men we have. The staff looks pretty strong now with McGinley Rudolph, Kellogg, Newton, and Pfeffer."

Vaughan a College Star.

Vaughan, the new infielder, was secured from Manager Stallings of the New York Americans. He will replace Mahling at short and the "Kid" will go to right field.

Vaughan is a college man, and attracted the attention of Arthur Irwin, who was scouting for the Highlanders. He is from Princeton, and was the best infielder and hitter in the big eastern universities last season. The newcomer is a shortstop, although he has been used at second base by New York.

Changes in The Team.

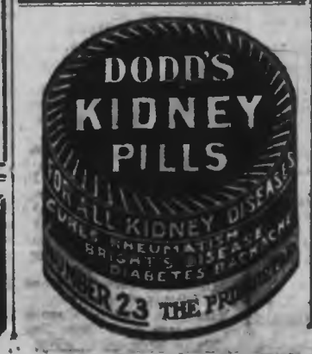
Since the team left town on its last trip the following players have had the "kibosh" put on them:

Goode, sold to Troy, N. Y.
Lundgren, sold to Kansas City.
Durham, sent back to New York Nationals.
Moffitt, released to South Bend.
Duggleby released outright.

New players secured are: Pitchers: Pfeffer from Baltimore, Newton from New York Americans; Infielder Vaughan from New York Americans; Outfielder Fallon, from Montreal.

Phyle Out For the Season.

"Home Run Bill" Phyle will be out of the game for this season, so Jimmy Frick will be a fixture at the third cushion. "Bill" had his knee examined yesterday by Dr. Bruce and the doctor said he would be lucky if he could play within a year. He recommended him to give the leg a complete rest for at least twelve months. The film underneath the knee pan of the wrenched knee is still much inflamed.



A CRACK POLE VAULTER

This splendid photograph of Scott, the Leland Stanford vaulter, was taken at the western conference track and field meet, Chicago, while he was clearing the bar in his winning vault of 11 feet 10 inches.

GREAT BALL EXPECTED IN TO-MORROW'S LEAGUE GAMES

To-morrow's games in the Senior City Baseball League should attract the biggest crowd of the season, in view of the fact that the teams have now rounded into shape and should play splendid ball throughout. The fans have appreciated the article dished out so far, but something a little better should be given to-morrow, jdging by the form the players, have been showing in practice this week. The warm weather has loosened up the teams, and they will be there with the inside article.

The 2 o'clock struggle will bring together for the first time this season the unbeaten T. A. S. and Jack Pilling's Park St. A. C. aggregation, and the clash should be worth seeing. With a shifted line-up and a week's hard practice the Park Street nine should be full of ginger to-morrow, and the Abstainers will have to be on their toes all along the chapter to stall off the Southerners.

Manager Quinlan is counting on making it three straight wins for the first round, and will do the box work for his team, while the line-up will be the same that trimmed the Straths last Saturday.

For the second time this season the West Ends and Strathconas will fight it out in the second game. When the two teams met before a balloon ascension by the Straths, in the ninth, gave the Oldham kindergartens a chance to steal five runs without a hit and walked off with the game just when the Straths were packing away a victory in their bat bag. The Commissioners claim that to-morrow there will be a different story to tell, and that they are through losing. "It's a climb back to the top for ours," said their manager last night. On the other hand Manager Oldham says his team needs the game to keep them in second position, and he will take no chances of being caught with a weak line-up. It should be a rattling contest with honours about even throughout the piece. If the Straths find themselves they will make it interesting, and they say that they have buried the hoodoo.

The teams will line up as follows in the second game:

Strathcona—Wilson, c.; Hickey, Mahoney, Gorham, or Ferguson, p.; Heaslip, 1b.; Weatherstone or Wettlauffer, 2b.; Kendry, ss.; Craig, 3b.; Shaw, Curtis, Dusty, or Guerin, out field.

HAVELOCK EXCITED OVER THE BIG FINAL FOOTBALL GAME

Special to The Examiner.

This hot spell of weather has boiled the Midland Football League down to two teams. Bowmanville and Havelock are the only bones left in the soup now, and they are sweating hard every night to be in condition for Saturday's struggle at Havelock at 1:30 p.m. The western aggregation will take a ten-mile drive to Burketon and go by C.P.R., passing through here on the 11:26. This game is the first of home and home matches for the championship of the Midland League and the honour of holding the Stratton trophy for a year. This will be a battle of the giants and will no doubt attract a great crowd down in the railway town, where the football germ has a strong grip. This will be a good opportunity to observe the brand of football played in the eastern and western sections of this League. A competent referee will handle the game and keep the players right down to business all the way along.

SCOTS BEAT BRINTONS TWO GOALS TO NIL IN SOCCER GAME

The Scotch boys in town with the following line-up managed to down the Brinton Carpet Works team in a game of football at the latters' own battle grounds last night.

Goal—J. Galbraith.
Back—Donaldson.
Half backs—Elliott, Reid, Barr.
Right wing—Lorimer, Thompson.
Centre—Reid.

The game was well contested in the first half, the Scotties having very much the best of the argument, and when half time was called, were leading 2—0.

The second half opened by the Brinton boys hustling to level things up a bit, but the Scotch brigade were all there, a goal each being the result of the second half.

All of the Scots played good football.

TO-MORROW'S GAMES WILL BE PLAYED AT RIVERSIDE

To-morrow's games in the Senior City League will be played at Riverside Park, as usual. While the owners of the grounds and the teams of the League have not come to a definite agreement as to terms, it has been decided, however, to play to-morrow's games at the grounds across the river and further arrangements will be made later as to the balance of the schedule. There should be a big crowd on hand to-morrow, as the games will undoubtedly be the best of the season.

LAWN BOWLING.

Probably two of the best games yet played this season on the local green were played last evening in the Frost Trophy series, and particularly the games between Skips McIlroy and Pratt, the game not being won or lost 'til the last bowl was played. The following is the score for games played last evening:

Skip W. E. McIlroy (13) Skip T. Ed. Pratt (15).

Skip R. M. Waddell (17) Skip D. H. Koneghan (4).

The Tennis Courts are getting in great shape, and a big bunch of the members were out yesterday for a game.

There was something doing all the way.

LOCAL BASEBALL

The T.A.S. ball team will line up as follows in their League game to-morrow:

"A WOMAN'S INTRIGUE"
This beautifully coloured picture tells an interesting story of the mean things a woman will at times do to one who will not return her love, and the honour, and faithfulness of the man whose love is sincere.

"PHYSICAL CULTURE"
A very funny picture showing how a man goes almost crazy over Physical Culture, and nearly drives everyone else crazy also, a picture to drive away the blues.

"A WOMAN'S HEART"
This pathetic little drama tells a story of a man divorced and married again, and called to the death bed of his first wife, and the troubles and joys that followed. It is a most beautifully coloured picture and one to please everyone

"PROFITABLE MARRIAGE"
An extremely funny picture, showing the trouble a young man has in getting money from his uncle, how he succeeds by getting married, and the extremely happy result of this marriage.

ROSIE, THE YOUNG QUEEN OF THE PICTURESQUE GYPSIES

The above picture of Rosie the Gypsy Queen was taken in the local gaol yard on Monday last, shortly after the arrest of the band. She is a typical sample of the nomads who are attracting so much attention just now. Their camp, on the extension of George street, is visited each evening by literally thousands of people, and, as a drawing card, the Mexicans would give a circus a good argument. Rosie's subjects are beginning to resent this invasion each night, and the Queen herself sides in with her subjects in the matter. Last night the gypsies adopted the water cure to repel boarders, and every one that got too close to the caravans was reminded of the fact by a deluge of water, sometimes hot and sometimes cold, the temperature being regulated by the time the particular kettle in question had been on the fire. One young man, in the glory of a new Summer suit, was buried beneath an avalanche of wate last night, and threatened to take legal proceedings against the tribe. His complaint was met with the statement that the authorities had given them permission to use water to keep the curious people away.

SHORTHAND HAS BEEN USED BY INDIANS IN A PAPER

Kamloops and Douglas River Bands of Indians Publish Newspaper Called "Wawa" — Wonderful Strides Have Been Made in Their Culture.

A VERY INTERESTING STORY

Probably the only tribe of real Indian writers in the world who contribute and subscribe to the queerest newspaper now being published are those belonging to the Kamloops and Douglas River bands living in the interior of British Columbia. Over 2,000 of these natives have mastered the art, and regularly read all the news pertaining to the tribe and individuals in their curious journal, called the "Kamloops Wawa." Bible, hymn and prayer book are likewise printed in this sign language. The following interesting article is by Lillian E. Zeh, in the Toronto Globe:

"This extraordinary advance in Indian culture was brought about through the effort of a French Catholic missionary, Father Le Jeune, sent out from Brittany a few years ago. Kamloops, the headquarters of Father Le Jeune is some 300 miles and more northeast from Victoria, the capital of British Columbia. Just across the river a few miles from the town, is the main Indian village or rancherie. Here the natives congregate in large numbers at certain seasons for this is the important centre of Indian life for some 50 or 100 miles around. The occupation is principally hunting, fishing and ranching, and farming on a limited scale. Prior to the appearance of the priest, the Shamans, pretenders at the curing of disease, claiming, by aid of supernatural or magic powers, to be able to ward off evil spirits and prevent sickness, completely held the people in their superstitious and powerful grasp. Besides hindering their progress in religious matters, a good deal of property was squeezed from the people by their misleading influence. These so-called magical prophets fled at the coming of the French priest, who fully exposed their tricks and false creed to the Indians, and before he began his educational work the tribes of this locality living along the canyons and banks of the Thomson and Fraser rivers in British Columbia were unable to write their language, and had no written literature, although each possessed a language which has an extensive mythology, which was preserved by oral tradition.

Advance of Education.

To-day nearly all the different tribes, some half dozen or more, are writing letters to one another in the several languages, reading a newspaper, Bibles and Song books, all by means of shorthand. Father Le Jeune found that to be successful in his mission it would be absolutely necessary to devise a system of communication both to arouse and gain their interest by placing instructive printed matter in their hands. Having no written language or grammar of their own, he conceived the novel and useful idea of teaching the Indians of the various tribes to write either language, and showed them a sign to represent each sound which they uttered in pronouncing their words. The signs were simply the shorthand symbols of the Duplovin phonographic system. After working out an Indian vocabularly containing all the all the words most commonly employed in every day usage in his shorthand signs, the priest in early fall, when the village was thickly populated, first showed and explained his system to one of the bright Indian boys. He took to it intuitively and set to work to decipher some Indian prayer which the Father gave him. Before Christmas he had pretty thoroughly learned the art of writing his language, and, being so pleased with his rapid success, he set to work at once to instruct his friends. The new "talk language" created widespread interest and the Indians were all eager to learn it. Soon the young as well as the adult members of each habitation for miles around were engaged in practising the new method of communication.

Study at Nights.

A glimpse at night into one of the homes of these Indians, some of whom lived in wigwams made of poles covered with mats, birch bark dwellings, log cabins, and where the women still use stone implements to prepare and scrape deer skins, showed the family grouped around eagerly bent on learning shorthand and it was indeed an odd and unique sight. During the first few months of their schooling it was found that as soon as a few Indans of a camp had learned to read and write shorthand they were extremely anxious to teach the whole community. Consequently Father Le Jeune taught a few members of each village and left it to them to teach their neighbours. They made rather slow progress in the summertime, owing to the fact that they were off at work, ranching and picking berries, but in the winter when they returned home they devoted whole nights to study and in this way made excellent progress and soon became proficient. After about 500 or more had mastered this system, it became necessary that their interest be retained by placing reading matter before them and thus was one of the purposes of the priest realised, for he wished them to be able to read the Bible as well as other religious books. His task was to provide this literature printed in the characters of the system.

Father Le Jeune was not satisfied with teaching his Indian parishioners to write letters in their own language by means of shorthand and to read a paper in their native tongue, but he had published various parts of the Bible in nine different languages spoken by the several tribes in this region, using the same method, and still is labouring on additional publications. Shorthand, he claims, is so many times simpler than English orthography that he takes no credit to himself for this wonderfully novel work of being the first to teach these natives to write.

FOSTER PREDICTS COOL WAVE COMMENCING IMMEDIATELY

Washington, D.C., June 26.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbance to cross continent 24 to 28, warm wave 23 to 27, cool wave, 26 to 30. This disturbance was expected to bring a period of warm temperatures; not excessive, but favourable to crops where moisture may be sufficient.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about 28, cross Pacific slope by close of 29, great central valleys 30 to July 2, eastern states 3. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about 28, great central valleys 30, eastern states July 2. Cool wave will cross Pacific Slope about July 1, great Central Valleys 3, eastern states 5.

This disturbance will cause very hot weather. The warm wave will not hold on long, but it will cause things to sizzle, and will be the warmest part of July. A great cool wave will follow, the temperatures going much below normal. Severe storms may be expected about the time the hot wave arrives. Following this disturbance the trend of temperature will be downward till about July 20.

The changes in weather features of July will be slow and with the exception of the first and last weeks of the month, sizzling weather with slow moving storms or storms centres will be the rule. About the middle of the month, while the unusual summer weather averts are slowly creeping along a series of severe storms will break loose and rip things furiously. That period will be worth watching and future bulletins will discuss it. Crop weather of July is expected to be fairly good, except for much rain in the cotton states and a little too dry in some of the western states. Temperatures will average above normal in the Dakotas and below in the western states.

The astronomers who have proposed to communicate with Mars by reflecting sunlight through the agency of mirros seem to have overlooked one important fact. At the times of these near approaches of Mars that planet can be seen only during the night, when there is no sunlight to be reflected.

It is said that Professor Pickering estimated the cost of these mirrors at ten million dollars. Mary Proctor, a well known astronomical writer, daughter of the late Professor Proctor, and many other scientists have discussed this mirror proposition publicly. Seems as bad an error as the first railroad bridge at Cincinnati. After the bridge was completed the civil engineers found that the roads on opposite sides of the river were not of the same gauge. Robinson Crusoe's canoe cost him a year's work and then he could not get it to the sea.

I am of the opinion that the scheme of signalling to Mars is a wild eyed proposition, but if such a thing be possible it must come through electric signals when Mars is in electrical touch with the earth. Astronomers are spending much time and money on speculative astronomy and very little, if any good can come of such work.

CAUSE OF FALLING HAIR.

Dandruff, Which is a Germ Disease—Kills the Germ.

Falling hair is caused by dandruff, which is a germ disease. The germ in burrowing into the root of the hair, where it destroys the vitality of the hair, causing the hair to fall out, digs up the cuticule in little scales, called dandruff or scurf. You can't stop the falling hair without curing the dandruff, and you can't cure the dandruff without killing the dandruff germ. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Newbro's Herpicide is the only hair preparation that kills the dandruff germ. Herpicide is also a delightful hair dressing. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

SIR NIGEL

BY A. CONAN DOYLE.

Copyright 1905, 1906, by A. Conan Doyle.

"Nay, not so fast, dame, not so fast, I pray you!" cried the stout summoner, whose face had resumed its natural color, now that he had a woman to deal with. "There is a law of England, mark you, and there are those who serve and uphold it, who are the true men and the King's own lieges. Such a one am I. Then again, there are those who take such as me and transfer, carry or convey us into a bog or morass. Such a one is this graceless old man with the ax, whom I have seen already this day. There are also those who tear, destroy or scatter the papers of the law, of which this young man is the chief. Therefore, I would rede you, dame, not to rail against us, but to understand that we are the King's men on the King's own service."

"What then is your errand in this house at this hour of the night?"

The summoner cleared his throat pompously, and turning his parchment to the light of the cressets he read out a long document in Norman-French, couched in such a style and such a language that the most involved and foolish of our forms were simplicity itself compared to those by which the men of the long gown made a mystery of that which of all things on earth should be the plainest and the most simple. Despair fell cold upon Nigel's heart and blanched the face of the old dame as they listened to the dread catalogue of claims and suits and issues, questions of peccary and turbary, of house-bote and fire-bote, which ended by a demand for all the lands, hereditaments, tenements, messuages and curtilages, which made up their worldly all.

Nigel, still bound, had been paced with his back against the iron coffer, whence he heard with dry lips and moist brow this doom of his house. Now he broke in on the recital with a vehemence which made the summoner jump:

"You shall rue what you have done this night!" he cried. "Poor as we are, we have our friends who will not see us wronged, and I will plead my cause before the King's own majesty at Windsor, that he, who saw the father die, may know what things are done in his royal name against the son. But these matters are to be settled in course of law in the King's courts, and now will you excuse yourself for this assault upon my house and person?"

"Nay, that is another matter," said the sacrist. "The question of debt may indeed be an affair of a civil court. But it is a crime against the law and an act of the Devil which comes within the jurisdiction of the Abbey Court of Waverley when you dare to lay hands upon the summoner or his papers."

"Indeed, he speaks truth," cried the official. "I know no blacker sin."

"Therefore," said the stern monk, "it is the order of the holy father Abbot that you sleep this night in the Abbey cell, and that to-morrow you be brought before him at the court held in the chapter-house so that you receive the fit punishment for this and the many other violent and froward deeds which you have wrought upon the servants of Holy Church. Enough is now said, worthy master summoner. Archers, remove your prisoner!"

As Nigel was lifted up by four stout archers, the Dame Ermyntrude would have rushed to his aid, but the sacrist thrust her back.

"Stand off, proud woman! Let the law take its course, and learn to humble your heart before the power of Holy Church. Has your life not taught its lesson, you, whose horn was exalted among the highest and will soon not have a roof above your gray hairs? Stand back, I say, lest I lay a curse upon you!"

The old dame flamed suddenly into white wrath as she stood before the angry monk: "Listen to me while I lay a curse upon you and yours!" she cried as she raised her shriveled arms and blighted him with her flashing eyes: "As you have done to the house of Loring, so may God do to you, until your power is swept from the land of England, and of your great Abbey of Waverley there is nothing left but a pile of gray stones in a green meadow! I see it! I see it! With my old eyes I see it! From scullion to Abbot and from cellar to tower, may Waverley and all within it droop and wither from this night on!"

The monk, hard as he was, quailed before the frantic figure and the bitter, burning words. Already the summoner and the archers with their prisoner were clear of the house. He turned and with a clang he shut the heavy door behind him.

CHAPTER V.

The law of the Middle Ages, shrouded as it was in old Norman-French dialect, and abounding in uncouth and incomprehensible terms, in deodands and heriots, in infang and outfang, was a fearsome weapon in the hands of those who knew how to use it. It was not for nothing that the first act of the rebel commoners was to hew off the head of the Lord Chancellor. In an age when few knew how to read or to write, these mystic phrases and intricate forms, with the parchments and seals which were their outward expression, struck cold terror into hearts which were steeled against mere physical danger.

Even young Nigel Loring's blithe and elastic spirit was chilled as he lay that night in the penal cell of Waverley and pondered over the absolute ruin which threatened his house from a source against which all his courage was of no avail. As well take up sword and shield to defend himself against the black death, as against this blight of Holy Church. He was powerless in the grip of the Abbey. Already they had shorn off a field here and a grove there, and now in one sweep they would take in the rest, and where then was the home of the Lorings, and where should Lady Ermyntrude lay her aged head, or his old retainers, broken and spent, eke out the balance of their days? He shivered as he thought of it.

It was very well for him to threaten to carry the matter before the King, but it was years since royal Edward had heard the name of Loring, and Nigel knew that the memory of princes was a short one. Besides, the Church was the ruling power in the palace as well as in the cottage, and it was only for very good cause that a King could be expected to cross the purposes of so high a prelate as the Abbot of Waverley, as long as they came within the scope of the law. Where then was he to look for help? With the simple and practical piety of the age, he prayed for the aid of his own particular saints: of Saint Paul, whose adventures by land and sea had always endeared him; of Saint George, who had gained much honorable advancement from the Dragon; and of Saint Thomas, who was a gentleman of coat-armor, who would understand and help a person of gentle blood. Then, much comforted by his naive orisons he enjoyed the sleep of youth and health until the entrance of the lay brother with the bread and small beer, which served as breakfast, in the morning.

The Abbey court sat in the chapter-house at the canonical hour of tierce, which was nine in the forenoon. At all times the function was a solemn one, even when the culprit might be a villain who was taken poaching on the Abbey estate, or a chapman who had given false measure from his biased scales. But now, when a man of noble birth was to be tried, the whole legal and ecclesiastical ceremony was carried out with every detail, grotesque or impressive, which the full ritual prescribed. The distant roll of church music and the slow tolling of the Abbey bell; the white-robed brethren, two and two, walked thrice round the hall singing the "Benedicite" and the "Veni, Creator" before they settled in their places at the desks on either side. Then in turn each high officer of the Abbey from below upward, the almoner, the lector, the chaplain, the subprior and the prior, swept to their wonted places.

Finally there came the grim sacrist, with demure triumph upon his downcast features, and at his heels Abbot John himself, slow and dignified, with pompous walk and solemn, composed face, his iron-beaded rosary swinging from his waist, his breviary in his hand, and his lips muttering as he hurried through his office for the day. He knelt at his high pre-dieu; the brethren, at a signal from the prior, prostrated themselves upon the floor, and the low deep voices rolled in prayer, echoed back from the arched and vaulted roof like the wash of waves from an ocean cavern. Finally the monks resumed their seats; there entered clerks in seemly black with pens and parchment; the red-velveted summoner appeared to tell his tale; Nigel was led in with archers pressing close around him; and then, with much calling of old French and much legal incantation and mystery, the court of the Abbey was open for business.

It was the sacrist who first advanced to the oaken desk reserved for the witnesses and expounded in hard, dry, mechanical fashion the many claims which the House of Waverley had against the family of Loring. Some generations back in return for money advanced or for spiritual favor received the Loring of the day had admitted that his estate had certain feudal duties toward the Abbey. The sacrist held up the crackling yellow parchment with swinging leaden seals on which the claim was based. Amid the obligations was that of escuage, by which the price of a knight's fee should be paid every year. No such price had been paid, nor had any service been done. The accumulated years came now to a greater sum than the fee simple of the estate. There were other claims also. The sacrist called for his books, and with thin, sallow forefinger he tracked them down: dues for this, and tallage for that, so many shillings this year, and so many marks that one. Some of it occurred before Nigel was born: some of it when he was but a child. The accounts had been checked and certified by the sergeant of the law.

Nigel listened to the dread recital, and felt like some young stag who stands at bay with brave pose and heart of fire, but who sees himself compassed round and knows clearly that there is no escape. With his bold young face, his steady blue eyes, and the proud poise of his head, he was a worthy scion of the old house, and the sun, shining through the high oriel window, and showing up the stained and threadbare condition of his once rich doublet, seemed to illuminate the fallen fortunes of his family.

The sacrist had finished his exposition, and the sergeant-at-law was about to conclude a case which Nigel could in no way controvert, when help came to him from an unexpected quarter. It may have been a certain malignity with which the sacrist urged his suit, it may have been a diplomatic dislike to driving matters to extremes, or it may have been some genuine impulse of kindliness, for Abbot John was choleric but easily appeased. Whatever the cause, the result was that a white plump hand, raised in the air with a gesture of authority, showed that the case was at an end.

"Our brother sacrist hath done his duty in urging this suit," said he, "for the worldly wealth of this Abbey is placed in his pious keeping, and it is to him that we should look if we suffered in such ways, for we are but the trustees of those who come after us. But to my keeping has been consigned that which is more precious still, the inner spirit and high repute of those who follow the rule of Saint Bernard. Now it has ever been our endeavor, since first our saintly founder went down into the valley of Clairvaux and built himself a cell there, that we should set an example to all men in gentleness and humility. For this reason it is that we built our houses in lowly places, that we have no tower to our Abbey churches, and that no finery and no metal, save only iron or lead, come within our walls. A brother shall eat from a wooden platter, drink from an iron cup, and light himself from a leaden sconce. Surely it is not for such an order who await the exaltation which is promised to the humble, to judge their own case and so acquire the lands of their neighbor! If our cause be just, as indeed I believe that it is, then it were better that it be judged at the King's assises at Guildford, and so I decree that the case be now dismissed from the Abbey court so that it can be heard elsewhere."

Nigel breathed a prayer to the three sturdy saints who had stood by him so manfully and well in the hour of his need. "Abbot John," said he, "I never thought that any man of my name would utter thanks to a Cistercian of Waverley; but by Saint Paul! you have spoken like a man this day for it would indeed be to play with cogged dice if the Abbey's case is to be tried in the Abbey court."

The eighty white-clad brethren looked with half resentful, half amused eyes as they listened to this frank address to one who, in their small lives, seemed to be the direct vicegerent of Heaven. The archers had stood back from Nigel, as though he was at liberty to go, when the loud voice of the summoner broke in upon the silence:

"If it please you, holy father Abbot," cried the voice, "this decision of yours is indeed secundum legem and intra vires so far as the civil suit is concerned which lies between this person and the Abbey. That is your affair; but it is I, Joseph the summoner, who have been grievously and criminally mishandled, my writs, papers and indentures destroyed, my authority flouted, and my person dragged through a bog, quagmire or morass, so that my velvet gabardine and silver badge of office were lost and are, as I verily believe, in the morass, quagmire or bog aforementioned, which is the same bog, morass——"

"Enough!" cried the Abbot sternly. "Lay aside this foolish fashion of speech and say straitly what you desire."

"Holy father, I have been the officer of the King's law no less than the servant of Holy Church, and I have been let, hindered and assaulted in the performance of my lawful and proper duties, whilst my papers, drawn in the King's name, have been shended and rended and cast to the wind. Therefore, I demand justice upon this man in the Abbey court, the said assault having been committed within the banlieue of the Abbey's jurisdiction."

"What have you to say to this, brother sacrist?" asked the Abbot in some perplexity.

"I would say, father, that it is within our power to deal gently and charitably with all that concerns ourselves, but that where the King's officer is concerned we are wanting in our duty if we give him less than the protection that he demands. I would remind you also, holy father, that this is not the first of this man's violence, but that he has before now beaten our servants, defied our authority, and put pike in the Abbot's own fish-pond."

The prelate's heavy cheeks flushed with anger as this old grievance came fresh into his mind. His eyes hardened as he looked at the prisoner. "Tell me, Squire Nigel, did you indeed put pike in the pond?"

The young man drew himself proudly up. "Ere I answer such a question, father Abbot, do you answer one from me, and tell me what the monks of Waverley have ever done for me that I should hold my hand when I could injure them?"

A low murmur ran round the room, partly wonder at his frankness, and partly anger at his boldness.

The Abbot settled down in his seat as one who has made up his mind. "Let the case of the summoner be laid before me," said he. "Justice shall be done, and the offender shall be punished, be he noble or simple. Let the plaint be brought before the court."

The tale of the summoner, though rambling and filled with endless legal retteration, was only too clear in its essence. Red Swire, with his angry face framed in white bristles, was led in, and confessed to his ill treatment of the official. A second culprit a little wiry nut-brown archer from Churt had aided and abetted in the deed. Both of them were ready to declare that young Squire Nigel Loring knew nothing of the matter. But then there was the awkward incident of the tearing of the writs. Nigel, to whom a lie was an impossibility, had to admit that with his own hands he had shredded those august documents. As to an excuse or an explanation, he was too proud to advance any. A cloud gathered over the brow of the Abbot, and the sacrist gazed with an ironical smile at the prisoner, while a solemn hush fell over the chapter-house as the case ended and only judgment remained.

"Squire Nigel," said the Abbot, "it was for you, who are, as all men know, of ancient lineage in this land, to give a fair example by which others should set their conduct. Instead of this, your manor-house has ever been a centre for the stirring up of strife, and now not content with your harsh showing toward us, the Cistercian monks of Waverley you have even marked your contempt for the King's law and through your servants have mishandled the person of his messenger. For such offences it is in my power to call the spiritual terrors of the Church upon your head, and yet I would not be harsh with you, seeing that you are young, and that even last week you saved the life of a servant of the Abbey when in peril. Therefore, it is by temporal and carnal means that I will use my power to tame your overbold spirit, and to chasten that headstrong and violent humor which has caused such scandal in your dealings with our Abbey. Bread and water for six weeks from now to the Feast of Saint Benedict, with a daily exhortation from our chaplain, the pious Father Ambrose, may still avail to bend the stiff neck and to soften the hard heart."

At this ignominious sentence by which the proud heir of the house of Loring would share the fate of the meanest village poacher, the hot blood of Nigel rushed to his face, and his eye glanced round him with a gleam which said more plainly than words that there could be no tame acceptance of such a doom. Twice he tried to speak, and twice his anger and his shame held the words in his throat.

"I am no subject of yours, proud Abbot!" he cried at last. "My house has ever been vavasor to the King. I deny the power of you and your court to lay sentence upon me. Punish these your own monks, who pamper at your frown, but do not dare to lay your hand upon him who fears you not, for he is a free man, and the peer of any save only the King himself."

The Abbot seemed for an instant taken aback by these bold words, and by the high and strenuous voice in which they were uttered. But the sterner sacrist came as ever to stiffen his will. He held up the old parchment in his hand.

"The Lorings were indeed vavasors to the King," said he; "but here is the very seal of Eustace Loring which shows that he made himself vassal to the Abbey and held his land from it."

"Because he was gentle," cried Nigel, "because he had no thought of trick or guile."

"Nay!" said the summoner. "If my voice may be heard, father Abbot, upon a point of the law, it is of no weight what the causes may have been why a deed is subscribed, signed or confirmed, but a court is concerned only with the terms, articles, covenants and contracts of the said deed."

"Besides," said the sacrist, "sentence is passed by the Abbey court, and there is an end of its honor and good name if it be not upheld."

"Brother sacrist," said the Abbot angrily, "methinks you show overmuch zeal in this case, and certes, we are well able to uphold the dignity and honor of the Abbey court without any rede of thine. As to you, worthy summoner, you will give your opinion when we crave for it, and not before, or you may yourself get some touch of the power of our tribunal. But your case hath been tried, Squire Loring, and judgment given. I have no more to say."

FRIGHTFUL STOMACH TROUBLE

For Four Long Years He Suffered—Then "Fruit-a-tives" Brought Relief.

Stratford Centre, Wolfe Co., Que. May 11th, 1908.

I have been completely cured of a frightful condition of my stomach through this wonderful medicine, "Fruit-a-tives." I suffered for four long years with this trouble. My head ached incessantly. I could not eat anything but what I suffered awful pains from indigest! I used every known remedy and was treated by physicians, but the dyspepsia and headaches persisted in spite of the treatment.

I was told to try "Fruit-a-tives," and I sent for six boxes, and this was the only medicine that did me any good. I am now entirely well, I can eat ordinary food and I never have a headache, and for this relief I thank this wonderful remedy "Fruit-a-tives." My case is well known in this vicinity and you may publish this statement.

LIGHT WITHOUT HEAT

The Puzzle of the Tiny Firefly and the Mighty Comet.

EACH HOLDS THE SECRET.

It is a Mystery to Science, and the Man Who is Able to Penetrate That Mystery Will Be in a Position to Revolutionize This Planet of Ours.

This is not an Aesop fable, although it has a moral.

There are two things in whose presence science stands wondering and abashed—the little glowworm (or the yet tinier firefly) and the mighty comet arching the sky with its glimmering train. Each of them holds the same secret—how to make light without heat. The man who gets that secret will revolutionize the planet.

The late president of the Royal Astronomical Society of Great Britain referred to the value of the comet's secret in his retiring address. He thought that we do not sufficiently appreciate the wondrous spectacle of a comet's tail. It shows us hundreds of billions of cubic miles of space simultaneously glowing with luminosity whose origin is a mystery.

It is a gigantic experiment in a branch of physics of which we as yet know very little. The comet is immersed in what we may well regard as a vacuum; at least it is a far more perfect vacuum than we can produce. Yet the persistent glow of the comet's tail shows that there is no real vacuum there, but a vast quantity of extremely attenuated matter which no doubt is the cause of the luminosity.

We ought, Professor Newall thinks, to awake to the importance of this hint. "Who knows," he says, "whether, if we could discover a method of disrupting gases and vapors in ultra vacuous spaces artificially maintained on earth, we should not have a method of artificial illumination as economical as that of the glowworm and as brilliant as is needed for our nocturnal life?"

This thing may really be within our reach, although at the present time we cannot even suggest to ourselves exactly how it is to be attained. But the tendency of recent investigation is in that direction. As Sir John Herschel said of another discovery which was just at the door, "We can feel it trembling along the farreaching line of our analysis."

There are not a few men, who are regarded by their harder headed scientific brethren as "dreamers," who picture to themselves a fast coming time when we shall not only obtain light at as cheap a rate as the firefly has it, but when we shall have tapped the exhaustless stores of energy that sleep all around us in nature.

We are like one in a dream suspended in the midst of a vast workshop crowded with multitudinous machines, all whirling and fluttering in a storm of energies, but which he can neither control nor understand. If we could see these things they might terrify us, as the dreamer is terrified by the whirring belts and spinning wheels of his vision, seeming to grasp at his life.

If the scientific investigator needs to establish a raison d'etre in the eyes of the public, which cannot follow either his processes or his results, he has only to point to the fact that the greatest practical discoveries of modern times have come out of the laboratories from things as incomprehensible to the unlisted as so much magic. It is a well known fact that the growing might of Germany springs from her devotion to "pure research."

Referring again to the pregnant hint of the comet, Professor Newall is clearly right in saying, "Here is a theme that should stir up the most commercial mind in the support of astronomy."—Garrett P. Serviss in New York American.

Paradoxical.

Reporter—What do you mean by saying that I use "paradoxical expressions?" Editor—I mean that you say impossible things. This story of yours, for instance, contains the phrase "bagpipe music."—Cleveland Leader.

Packing a Trunk.

"My dear, I cannot get any more things in, and yet everything in the trunk is absolutely indispensable."

"Yes, but the question is, 'Which of the absolutely indispensable things can we do without?'"

NAGGING LUMBAGO

When your back is sore and lame, when it hurts to stoop over, to lift, to straighten up after bending down—that's a sure sign of lameness in the muscles that can be relieved and cured by "Nerviline." Rub it over the back and sides, the more rubbing the better. Let the pain-destroying properties of Nerviline sink through all the cords and muscles that are lame—tension and stiffness will ease off—lameness will disappear after the third application.

Nerviline

Although absolutely sure to cure the aches of sciatica and lumbago, it is well to assist Nerviline by putting on a Nerviline Porous Plaster, which will continue to supply warmth and protection to the tender spot and thereby prevent a relapse.

Remember this: There is no muscular ache or pain, no strain, swelling, sprain, or external soreness, that the Nerviline Treatment can't cure. Nerviline Plasters 25c each and large 25c bottles of Nerviline are sold by all dealers.

The Oriental Mind.

Frederic R. Isham, the author, told the following to illustrate the double dyed duplicity of the oriental mind. Mr. Isham was in Pekin. Passing the arch to the Baron von Kettler, supposed to be an arch of contrition for the foul assassination of that brave official, the novelist asked a Chinaman who spoke a little English:

"You know why this monument was erected, I suppose?"

"Oh, yes," was the ready reply in dialect, "to commemorate a triumphal deed, the death of a very powerful foreigner!"

"Commemorate! And is that"—in amazement—"what the people generally think was the purpose of this monument?"

"Why not?" The Celestial's face was immovable, but a suggestion of sardonic humor seemed to flash from his slant eyes. "Chinese people much likee monument."

And, indeed, they seemed to bask in the shade of it with much satisfaction.

Venetian Coffee Houses.

The first cup of coffee was drunk in Europe at Venice toward the end of the sixteenth century. The Venetian chronicler Morosini in his records of the events in the year 1585 mentions the beverage called "cavee" drunk by the Turks and noted for its anti-soporific qualities. In the year 1591 a Venetian doctor introduced the berries from Egypt, taught his countrymen how to crush them and brew the beverage, and the use of coffee soon became general—so much so, in fact, that Venice was full of coffee houses where the people idled away their days drinking the aromatic beverage. A peculiarity of the Venetian coffee houses was that their patrons did not pay for each cup of coffee they drank, but settled their bills for all the coffee consumed at the end of each year. The regular price of a cup of coffee was 5 soldi, about 2½ cents, and in some of the old cafes of Venice today the same price is still charged.—New York Sun.

Awkward Compliment.

There is such a thing as being too persistently complimentary. A candid and well meaning professor who had witnessed the performance of a little play in a private house in which his hostess had taken the leading part met the lady as she came from behind the curtain.

"Madam," he said, rushing up to her, "you played excellently. That part fits you to perfection."

"Oh, no, professor," said the lady modestly. "A young and pretty woman is needed for that part."

"But, madam," persisted the professor, "you have positively proved the contrary!"—Pearson's Weekly.

Blamed the Planets.

In the middle of the fourteenth century in Paris a new ordinance enjoining the cleansing of the streets and the shutting up of swine was carefully neglected, as usual, and a terrible plague was the consequence. The faculty of medicine, called upon for a remedy by the king, sent to inform him after long discussion that the plague was the result of a hostile conjunction of the planets Mars and Jupiter.

The Cause of Drafts.

Why is it that windows and doors are frequently ill fitting? There is nothing wrong with the wood itself, nor with the workmanship, as a rule, nor with the fit, at the outset at least, but the whole trouble is due to the wood being unseasoned, or, rather, only partially seasoned, at the time it is made up.—Timber.

Optimistic.

"Is Jones an optimist?"

"Is he? He found a ticket entitling him to a chance in an automobile drawing the other day, and he is building a garage."—Boston Transcript.

Reminders.

Mrs.—He said I reminded him of a Greek goddess. Mr.—Huh! Mrs.—What do I remind you of? Mr.—Of every darned thing I overlook that you ask me to do.—Cleveland Leader.

The temple of fame stands upon the grave. The flame that burns upon its altars is kindled from the ashes of dead men.

Scant Working Clothes.

In Singapore and Penang may be seen people from almost every part of the globe and representatives of almost every race except our North American Indians. The greater proportion of Malays, East Indians and Cingalese, with their bronze black skins, make the Chinese and Japanese seem almost like white people. Each wears the costume of his native country in so far as he wears anything, but eight out of every ten persons to be seen consider themselves sufficiently well dressed when they have a yard or two of cheesecloth twisted about their loins. This fashion of dress applies to the workmen of all nationalities, whether Malay, African, Indian, Chinese or other. The Indian of the better class, whether Hindoo or Parsee, dresses as he would at home. The Cingalese wears fine robes and a comb encircling his crown. The Englishman of course has the usual ill fitting clothes and a pith helmet to prevent sunstroke. The tourist, who has taken advice from many sources as to his outfit, helps to make the picture complete.—Denver Post.

Two Bootblacks.

The bootblacks had no regular stand, but each had his box slung over his shoulder and, standing on the curbstone, solicited the passersby to stop and have a shine. Each boy had one "call."

The cry of the first boy was "Shine your boots here!" It announced the simple fact that he was prepared to shine their boots. The cry of the second boy was "Get your Sunday shine!"

It was then Saturday afternoon, and the hour was 4 o'clock. This second boy employed imagination. He related one attraction to another; he joined facts together. His four simple words told all that the first boy said and a great deal more. It conveyed the information not simply that he was there to shine shoes, but that tomorrow was Sunday; that it was likely to be a pleasant day; that he as a bootblack realized they would need an extra good shine.

Was it merely good luck that this boy secured twice the business of the other?—Lorin F. Deland in Atlantic.

Perfectly Correct.

A young minister in the course of an eloquent sermon on the pomps and vanities of the world staggered his congregation by exclaiming:

"Here am I standing, preaching to you with only half a shirt on my back, while you sit there covered with gewgaws and other baubles."

The next day a parcel containing several brand new shirts was left at his house by one of his hearers, a kind hearted old lady. Meeting the donor a few days afterward, he thanked her exceedingly, but expressed much surprise at receiving such an unexpected gift.

"Oh," said the lady, "you mentioned in your sermon on Sunday that you had only half a shirt on your back."

"Quite true," added his reverence, "but you seem to forget that the other half was in front."—London Answers.

How to Prove Coins.

The lady behind the counter at one of the London stores wrote out the bill for my purchases on a little manifolding book, which reproduced her writing by means of a carbon paper on the page below. Then she took the half sovereign I tendered in payment and, placing it on the upper page, pressed it hard down with her thumb. I asked the reason. "We have instructions," she explained, "to take the impression of any coin received by means of the carbon paper in the book. See (turning to the duplicate of my bill); there's the impression of your half sovereign. You couldn't very well think you'd given me a sovereign after seeing that, could you? You'd be surprised," she said, "how often we have to show our books to people to convince them we've not made a mistake."—Manchester Guardian.

Out of Line.

An enlisted man at the post at Fort Leavenworth was ordered to the range for the first time for target drill. Out of twenty-one chances the newcomer made never a hit.

"Oh, you dub!" exclaimed an officer standing near. "You've missed the target every time! What's the matter?"

"Well, sir," answered the recruit nonchalantly, "the only reason I can think of at present is that the person who set up my target hasn't placed it in a straight line from here."

Modern Buildings.

Probably not one out of every 10,000 buildings standing in all parts of the world and built by modern masons will be standing 500 years hence. We do not know how to put stones and bricks together as the ancients did, and consequently the buildings we raise nowadays are really mere temporary structures and will be in ruins when the ancient buildings of Greece and Egypt, built thousands of years ago, are in as good condition as they are now.

Marquis.

The designation marquis is the second in the five orders of English nobility. The term originally indicated persons who had the care of the marches of a country. The word marches in the plural of mark, which in its political sense signifies boundaries. Such were the lands on the borders of England and Scotland and of England and Wales.

Early Football Players.

Football was for many years the national game of Florence. The season was from January to March, and the ladies and gentlemen of Florence and the populace as well were wont to assemble on the Piazza Santa Gioce to witness the game, which was called "calcio," from the word meaning "to kick." The last game was played in 1739.

WOULD YOU CONVICT ON CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE?

A CHANCE SHOT

A TRUE STORY

Copyright, 1909, by the New York Herald Co. All Rights Reserved.

EUGENE A. PHILBIN, formerly District Attorney of New York county, says:—

"It is difficult to lay down hard and fast statements concerning circumstantial evidence as opposed to evidence direct, since each case takes its own peculiar form and must be approached in a different way. I believe, however, that circumstantial evidence is perfectly safe and that it has the advantage in that it does not so freely admit of perjury.

"When two or three witnesses swear to having seen the actual transaction in question it is quite conceivable that they have invented the story deliberately. You may say that the same is conceivable concerning a witness who presents a circumstance, but here is the distinction:—In a case of circumstantial evidence the links in the chain usually are supplied by many unrelated individuals, each testifying to a separate, simple fact. The safety is in the number of them.

"It is practically impossible that there should be understanding among so many persons for purposes of perjury. A circumstance is picked up here, another there, many miles away, and in order to convict there must be no single flaw, no contradiction in the whole collection of statements. When a case of circumstantial evidence is complete—and it must be so to stand—when it points to only one possible end, that of guilt, there is no reason to distrust it."

HATE as primitive as in the age of crawling things brought the two young men, with tense, ready muscles and out thrust jaws, face to face and eager for battle. A motive old as life itself impelled them each toward the other's throat—the disputed favor of a woman. And here intruded the note of a higher development and civilization, for instead of standing aside in savage content the woman threw herself between the two.

With hands outstretched she mutely motioned them apart. For a second they hesitated, then obeyed the pleading, impartial gesture. Thereafter each took his leave formally and left her, white faced and alert, among the shadows on the porch. Tyler was the first to go, and he awaited Bell at the garden gate. Their figures stood clear in the moonlight and the girl watched anxiously, but the red flood of instant r[illegible] and left them fiercely cold and restrained.

"George Bell," said Tyler, "this is no place for a settlement, but I'll make it my business to see that you answer to me some time."

The other, without pausing, moved past through the gate, but turned at the other side.

"I reckon you know where to find me when you're ready, John Tyler. We'll arrange our little differences where we won't be interrupted and whenever you're lookin' for some trouble."

"That's me," remarked Tyler briefly.

They parted, one walking toward the town, the other toward his tethered horse at the post, without a backward glance. The girl, who had listened intently, remained until the footsteps of Tyler had died away down the path and Bell's mount had vanished over a swelling rise. Then, filled with a dread she felt powerless to remove, she hurried into her home, closing the door.

It was a Sunday night when the cartel of defiance, in accepted Kentucky manner, was exchanged between the rival admirers of Elsa McDonald. The quarrel had been a matter of slow growth, the outcome of the Blue Grass beauty's coquetry and frequent meetings on contested ground. She had given neither particular encouragement, but each grew to believe himself obstructed and slandered by the other, after their common persistence had driven other candidates from the field. The cause of their enmity had played the familiar game, and at first with safety. But these were men of the soil, virile, masterful, impatient, and the inevitable spark had been struck.

Tyler lived in the town, on the outskirts of which stood the McDonald place. Bell, recently fallen heir to a considerable estate and breeding farm, occupied his family mansion [illegible]nt six miles distant along the county road.

Early on the following Thursday morning the employes on the Bell farm, swarming to work from breakfast, found the favorite horse of their employer, the one he most frequently rode, standing outside the gate to the stable yard, lathered and exhausted. The animal was spattered with mud, part of the bridle had been torn away, the girth had loosened and the saddle hung awry against one flank with dragging stirrup. The stableman, stepping by force of habit to adjust the displacement even before he had exclaimed upon the singularity of it, cried out as he placed a hand upon the pommel. The saddle leather on the right side was streaked and splashed with blood.

The Man Hunt.

The alarm spread with scarce a word spoken, and men about the place were being collected by the overseer of the farm, Mason, before the stableman had removed the broken bridle. It was a matter calling for instant action, and action was something that Mason understood. A few sharp questions brought out that young Bell had started out the preceding evening about seven o'clock, heading at a brisk gallop toward the town.

"There's only one place he'd be like to go on that road, 'less he passed it," was the stableman's comment.

"And that's to the McDonalds," added the overseer. "He hasn't missed a week time out of mind [illegible] that girl."

Four of the farm hands, under the lead of Mason, quickly saddled and mounted, and the group made off down the highway at top speed. They drew rein before the McDonald house while the family was still at breakfast, and the overseer, hat in hand, walked into the room without ceremony.

"Beg pardon, Miss McDonald," he asked abruptly, "but did Mr. Bell come to see you last night?"

The young woman, startled and coloring under the sudden question, answered that she had not seen Bell since Sunday night. The man turned to her father with his word of explanation.

"He started, I suppose, for your place last night. His horse came home this morning with blood on the saddle. There's been some devilry between there and here."

McDonald instantly volunteered his services, and the men left the house. The girl, alone with her mother, sat with compressed lips and flushed cheeks. For her the affair had a greater significance than she cared to acknowledge. There was an element of fear and self-reproach in her reflections, but she was not given to subtleties and she set herself to await the outcome of the search.

While one of the farmhands pressed forward into the town to notify the authorities of the facts the rest of the party was split up under the direction of Mason, and the laborious work of investigation along five miles or more of road was begun. It was evident that Bell's thoroughbred had travelled far and through rough country, but the natural supposition was that its wanderings had been those of a riderless steed. The thought of foul play was uppermost, and the likeliest spot for violence was along the highway. Within a few hours nearly a hundred of the townsmen, mounted and afoot, came to aid the searchers. The day closed barren of results.

The task was resumed the next day, and the next. Public excitement, which had ranged high with the first word of murder, began to subside. It was advanced as possible that the wealthy young landowner had left the country for a lark, or perhaps was being held for ransom. No one could suggest a feud in which he might have become involved. The residents of the village returned to their accustomed round, only Mason and his handful of assistants clinging to a wearying and seemingly hopeless search. The overseer, having examined every foot of the roadway and its fringes, widened the strip of ground to be covered on both sides and caused his men to ride up and down the length as if following successive furrows. This led them ultimately into the woods on either side.

The first few fruitless days wore out Mason's impatience and it became after that a matter of dogged loyalty. He let it be known that he would pursue his tactics for a month if there were need, or until some word or a clew to the whereabouts of Bell came to light. One other member of the community, Elsa McDonald, followed the progress of Mason's work with an interest equal to his own.

Finding the Body.

It was a full week after the Thursday on which the horse had returned without his owner when the discovery was made. Mason himself came upon it. The body of George Bell was found in a heavily wooded section about a hundred rods off the road and midway between his own home and that of the McDonalds. It had been divested of coat, shirt and boots. There was a wound almost as large as the palm of a hand under the left shoulder blade. Subsequent medical investigation showed that the contents of both barrels of a shotgun had practically torn away the left side.

Rigid examination of the spot failed to reveal any clew. The revolver which Bell had been known to carry was missing, as was the belt from which the holster had hung at the back of the right hip. No trace could be found of the missing garments. A small sum of money and a pocket knife, completing the inventory of what the young man was known to have had with him, were gone. The autopsy established that death must have been instantaneous. The course taken by the shot had been on an upward angle toward the opposite shoulder. From this it appeared beyond all question that the victim had been murdered while riding his horse and oblivious to danger.

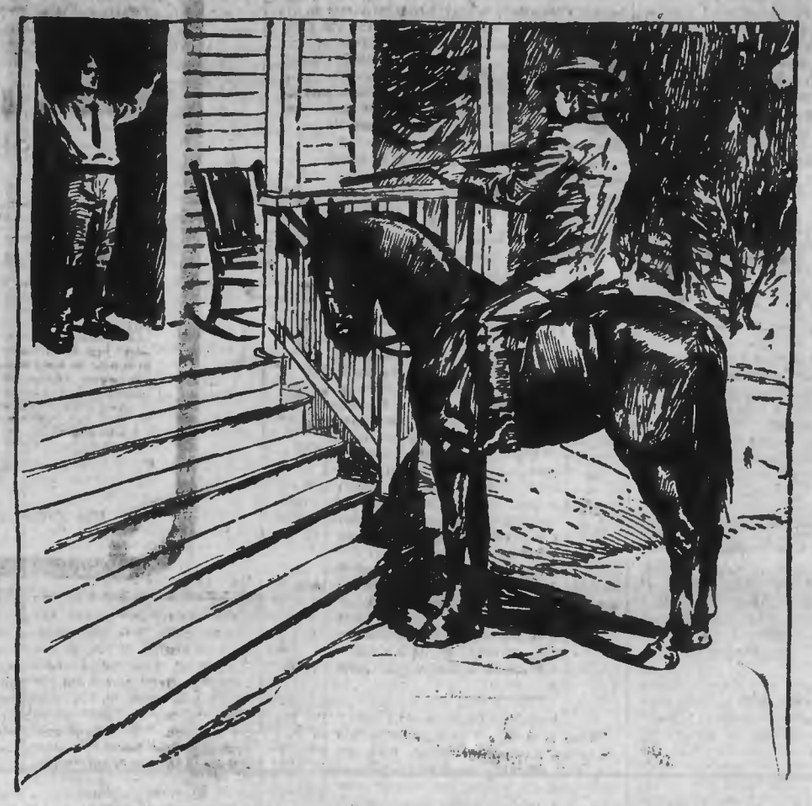
Mason made a close inspection of the features of the surrounding ground. He found that almost in a straight cast to the highway a thick clump of bushes grew on both sides of the ditch, affording a close covert, against which wagon wheels brushed in transit. There could have been designed no better place for the ambushing of an unsuspecting traveller. He sought for marks that might have been left by a concealed assassin, but could discover none. He was more successful in finding proof that the body had been dragged directly from the road to its hiding place. In the dust of the wagon track stains were easily obliterated, but through the thick, close woven underbrush he discovered frequent marks of blood. He noted as worthy of remembrance that the Wednesday night in question had been misty and overcast. When he left the spot the overseer had a clear picture of the method by which the murderer had accomplished the crime.

While the Coroner's jury was hearing the case the next day a buggy drove up to the town hall. From it alighted Elsa McDonald, and the crowd made room for her as she moved into the building and sought entrance to the room in which the inquest was being held. She was agitated and under stress of deep emotion, but there was no hesitation in her manner. During the time since the disappearance of Bell she had taken herself severely to task. She had formed the resolution to tell everything she knew if there should prove to be a fatal outcome to the mystery, and she was now present to keep that resolve. The Coroner had been notified of her desire to appear as a witness and she was called to the stand.

Without pose or sentimentalism she related the course of differences between Bell and Tyler and the scene on her porch. She repeated the phrases with which the men had parted, holding threat of a speedy settlement of scores. Her recital was brief and dramatic, and the crowd sat breathless while she described her postponement of a furious quarrel by stepping between the enemies. When she came to an end with Tyler's phrase, "You'll have to answer to me some time," there was a stir in the room, and several men started quietly and unobtrusively for the doors.

His Inward Rage.

The movement did not escape the quick eye of the Sheriff. He whispered a moment with three of his deputies and despatched them hurriedly. After further testimony by Mason and members of his party the Coroner called for Tyler. There was no response. One of the Sheriff's men returned and the Coroner was informed that deputies had visited the Tyler home, but could not find the young man. It further had been learned that Tyler had not been at his home for about a week.



THE YOUNG MAN STOOD STARING AT THE WARLIKE APPARITION.

Mason was a man whose most marked characteristic was a need of rendering absolute fidelity to some one. His relations with Bell had been closer than those of master and man and he had accorded to his employer unreserved devotion. The tragic death of the young landowner filled him with slow burning rage and the unreserved determination to devote himself to applying what assistance lay in his power toward the ends of justice. His mind was rather narrow but intensive and he possessed an admirable power of application. Meanwhile he was just and clear headed and was not the one to allow one set of appearances to outbalance another in favor of vengeance. He did not merely demand of himself that some one must suffer for this thing, but that the guilty man must suffer.

It was this quiet, strong, forceful personality that now became dominant in the case. He followed the obvious track indicated by the testimony of Elsa McDonald and applied himself to tracing Tyler's relations with Bell. He learned, in the first place, that there had been no opportunity for a meeting between the rivals after the throwing down of the gauntlet up to the time when Bell left his farm on Wednesday evening for the purpose, so far as could be judged, of visiting the girl. Neither of them had been seen at the McDonald house after Sunday night. His inquiry was then directed toward discovery of any communication that might have passed between them, for it ran in his mind that a place of meeting had been appointed at which they were to submit their quarrel to the arbitrament of personal combat. The precision with which Bell had been waylaid argued, to Mason's mind, that Tyler knew where and at what time to expect his enemy.

The intelligent, clear eyed quality of the man instinctively found its complement in Elsa McDonald before he had taken many steps into the affair. Her attitude toward the case was much the same as his own, and although she had not loved Bell she felt a loyalty to his memory not unmixed with a desire to remove the shadow of reproach cast by her unthinking aggravation of a quarrel. If Tyler were innocent it was in her interest to prove him so. In any event she wanted the truth as keenly as did Mason.

The overseer visited her immediately after the inquest and obtained from her all details that might have a bearing on the crime. She supplied one fact of first importance. She said that on Tuesday she had received a note from Bell announcing that he would call to see her on Wednesday in the hope of finding her at home. Might it not be that some one had obtained word of the young man's movements from this note? She added that she suspected one of her servants, a negro, of aiding Tyler in his courtship through information concerning the McDonald family and its affairs.

Pursuing the investigation, Mason questioned the negro and elicited the fact that he had been employed in some such capacity by Tyler. Under pressure he admitted that the kitchen of the McDonald place was a busy clearing house for gossip; that rumors of an impending quarrel between the suitors had been discussed and that one of the maids had learned of Bell's intended visit to her mistress. This bit of news, he said, being of the kind which he had communicated to Tyler on several occasions, he had sought that young man on Tuesday night and informed him concerning the note.

Here was an important advance into the surrounding circumstances. Tyler, already stamped as Bell's enemy, was now clearly indicated as one of the very few persons who could have known beforehand of the plans of the land owner and the time at which he would be likely to pass along the road.

While engaged in these preliminaries the overseer had not neglected to keep an eye upon the pursuit of Tyler which was being pushed by the Sheriff and his aids. There had been no result. No one had seen him leave the town, nor could any member of his family give information as to the exact time of his departure or his present whereabouts.

Fifty Dollars for the Hint.

Gaining no further result from inquiries into the complications that had preceded the murder, Mason now threw his own work parallel with that upon which the Sheriff was engaged. He saw some possibility of aid in the negro who had acted as Tyler's spy. The man had been discharged following the revelation of his secret transactions, and the overseer sought him out.

"Have you any idea what has become of Tyler?" was his direct question.

"No more'n you," came the sullen answer.

"Look here, you're out of work, aren't you?"

"Yes, I am, 'cause I couldn't hold my blamed tongue. I ain't goin' to make no more plays like that."

"Well," said Mason, "it's pretty clear you haven't got much to expect from Tyler now. Here's fifty dollars. You get it the minute Tyler is landed in jail. I don't know and don't care, just now, whether he's innocent or guilty. What I want is to get him."

The negro glanced at the money but made no reply. The next day he sought the overseer.

"Have you looked fo' him at his uncle's house, 'bout ten miles down river?"

Ten minutes later Mason was galloping, rifle in hand, down the river road in the direction indicated by the negro. He had known in a vague way that Tyler's uncle lived in the county, but no one among the authorities had thought to look for him at such a place. They inclined to the belief that he had taken to the mountains or had headed for Louisville.

Mason rode up to the home of Benjamin Tyler, a tobacco planter, in the early afternoon. He did not dismount, but thrust his horse close in to the steps, thus bringing himself on a level with the porch and directly before the door. He waited until the clatter of his arrival should bring him a response, alert for danger and with his weapon ready in the crook of his elbow. There came leisurely footsteps along the hall inside, and a figure appeared in the doorway. Mason's rifle came to his shoulder in a flash, and it was along the steady sights that he opened the conversation.

The young man stood leaning with a hand on either side of the doorway, and staring at the warlike apparition thus suddenly projected from the sunshine of a summer day. Finally, having adjusted himself in some part to the situation, he spoke with a hard smile.

"What's wrong, Mason; taken to stickin' up folks for a livin'."

"Don't try to work that game with me," said the overseer, sharply. "You know well enough what I'm here for. I'm a deputy sheriff, and I arrest you for the murder of George Bell."

Tyler started slightly and then sneered.

"I don't know what you're talkin' about. Mother do you, I reckon. If you'd given me half a chance you wouldn't be sittin' there so easy with your gun. Well, what next? Want my roll? 'Taint very big."

Mason did not restrain a grim smile of admiration.

"You're smart, Johnny," he said. "I'd never be the one to deny it. Just march over and turn your back to me, and keep your arms lifted. That's it. Likely little pop shooter you got there."

It was growing dusk when the townspeople flocked to the street to watch the passing of a strange little cavalcade. Tyler sat on Mason's horse with his arms bound behind him. The overseer walked ahead, holding the bridle over his arm, and with his rifle at a trail.

Weaving the Web.

With the prisoner safely in jail Mason and the Sheriff made the trip to Benjamin Tyler's again the next day to gather facts as to his nephew's arrival there. The planter said that on the Wednesday night of Bell's disappearance John Tyler had ridden up to his door about eleven o'clock. The young man, he said, carried no baggage, but announced that he had come to stay for several days, declaring that he was tired of town life. The two had talked for some time. The elder man admitted that his nephew looked worried and tired and ill at ease.

"What has he been doin' since he came?" asked Mason.

The visitor had been fishing and shooting, the planter said. He had been out of the house much of the time.

"What arms did he bring with him?"

"A shotgun and a revolver."

The shotgun, a double barrelled weapon, was discovered in the house, as were a number of cartridges. When these were examined on return to town it was found that the shot exactly corresponded in size with that taken from the body of Bell.

There remained but two more links in the case against Tyler. One of these was supplied by a knife found in his possession when he was searched at the jail. Mason and others at the Bell mansion could swear that it was identical with the one belonging to their employer which he had carried with him, customarily, every day.

The trial of John Tyler, which took place at Louisville, was carried to a speedy and satisfactory conclusion. The general good character of the accused afforded practically the only basis for the defense. An attempt at an alibi was demolished by the final circumstance in Mason's structure of evidence. Three men were put upon the stand and swore to having seen Tyler, on horseback, at different points along the road between the Bell and McDonald residences early on the evening of the murder.

The jury was out only thirty minutes, returning with a verdict of "guilty." The date for execution was set eight weeks off.

* * * * * * *

During his interval of imprisonment Tyler was visited one day by Elsa McDonald, who had urged her father to accompany her to the city once more after the trial for this purpose. The convict was sullen and answered her questions shortly or not at all. The ordeal through which he had passed had wrought a strange change in him. He seemed to have retained no affection for the woman to whom he had been utterly devoted but a short time before. He had shrunken from his former strength and it was feared by the prison authorities that he had developed consumption.

The girl had undertaken the mission for but one purpose—to hear from the lips of the condemned man a confession that would set at rest all fear of a possible wrong. She found that she could make no impression upon Tyler. After repeated questioning he avowed his innocence, but without fire and in a mechanical manner. To her instinct, however, there crept the beginning of a doubt as to the man's guilt. With eyes fixed intently upon him she demanded a full, inner conviction that she was looking at the murderer of George Bell. But the response she could gain from herself was halting. She was not satisfied.

She was able to induce her father to obtain the services of a Louisville detective, Kittredge, a middle aged man of ripe experience and a long record of successes. Kittredge returned to the town with them and was placed in possession of all the facts. His instructions from Elsa McDonald were to go over the crime in all its details in a final attempt to discover some flaw in the case or some mitigating circumstance that might have been overlooked. The detective was not hopeful of uncovering fresh material after such a lapse of time, but applied himself to the task.

The Vital Discovery.

For two weeks there was no result from the supplementary investigation. McDonald, who had yielded to his daughter's whim in recognition of the importance of the question to her, began to grumble at the useless trouble and expense. Even Kittredge wished to give over an undertaking that seemed to include no promise of satisfaction for his employer.

Three days before the date appointed for Tyler's execution the detective announced a discovery. In making random inquiry along the Ohio River about half a mile from the scene of the crime he had caught mention of a ramshackle houseboat, occupied by a party of negroes which had been seen moored to the bank in the vicinity during the week of the murder. The occupants of the boat, as he learned, were a worthless and savage lot, who had lived upon the proceeds of raids through farms and plantations during their progress down stream.

The clew did not offer much, but Kittredge, at Elsa's urging, proceeded down the river in an attempt to discover the houseboat. He obtained word of it at a town twenty miles below. There had been a fight among the negroes on board. One of them had been shot in the knee and thrown overboard. He had been rescued and taken to a hospital, where it had been necessary to amputate his leg. He was now convalescent. Following the fight the houseboat had been run down by a steamer and all the remaining occupants had been drowned. Knowledge of this, however, had been kept from the patient.

Kittredge, with but two days left for his purpose, determined upon a desperate, random thrust, knowing that this was his last hope. He caused a physician and a nurse to be present and approached the negro who lay on his cot.

"Johnson," he said, "I've got the whole outfit, and what do you suppose they're trying to do? They've cooked up a story that you did the killing all alone."

The sufferer rolled his eyes upon the detective.

"They is, huh? Well, I guess I kin fix 'm. They done kill him theyse'fs when they was lookin' fo' a pig to steal. I was soun' asleep on bo'd, I was. Every one of 'm was in it but me. They tried to kill me 'cause they was afraid I'd tell on 'm."

There was quick work getting the facts before the Governor together with a petition for a reprieve, but Elsa McDonald had the satisfaction of knowing that delay had been granted when the morning set for the execution dawned. Later Johnson was carefully examined and was able to prove to the satisfaction of the authorities that his companions had murdered Bell.

Tyler had had no thought of waylaying his rival. His threat had been intended to mean that at some time suitable to both they should fight for the girl, with fists for weapons. He had been on the road on the night of the murder. His inability to win Elsa had made him distraught and nervous and he had been seized with a sudden impulse to leave her behind and to attempt to forget his infatuation. Yielding to this he had stopped at his home only long enough to take his shotgun, with an eye to possible hunting trips, and had galloped to his uncle's place. The pocketknife he carried was not Bell's but his own, a duplicate of the other. It was true that he had been informed of Bell's intention to visit the McDonald place, but he formed no plan to molest him.

The negro criminals, it appeared, had gone ashore on a raid. One of them carried a shotgun. When near the road they had heard an approaching horse. Murder and robbery had been planned and carried out.

When these facts were made clear Tyler was pardoned. It was too late. He had developed a fatal disease in prison and he wasted rapidly to his end. Elsa McDonald did what she could to make him comfortable during his last few months and to repay, in some part, for her share in the disaster that had come upon him.

CRUELTIES IN CHINA.

Torture of Prisoners Carried to Point of Refinement.

HOME OF THE WATER DEATH.

A Worse Infliction Than That of Being Tied to a Beam by the Thumbs and Big Toes—The Bastinado and Flogging With Split Bamboo.

China is a land of contradictions and mysteries. It bristles with surprises. The phlegmatic nature of its natives is in marked contrast to their inherent cruelty.

"What a poor, weak looking baby!" you might say to a Chinaman about his offspring, and he will merely shrug his shoulders in reply. Meet him in a month's time and ask him how the youngster is getting on.

"The disease was a fatal one," he will answer, with another significant shrug. If the child were a girl you could safely draw your own conclusions as to its fate. John Chinaman has no use for deformed or very sickly children, particularly girls.

Torture of prisoners has been carried to a point of refinement. One of the most terrible was surely the cage in which a man was placed so that his head just protruded at the top, while his toes only touched the ground sufficiently to prevent dislocation of the neck.

His hands were bound behind him so that he could not relieve himself, and he was left to be jeered at by the public until hunger and exhaustion put an end to his sufferings.

The day of the bastinado, too, is by no means over. The prisoner is strung up in a reverse condition, and the naked soles of his feet are pounded with a cane, with the result that the victim seldom recovers.

But the more common form of flogging is to beat the thighs with the concave side of a split bamboo, which cuts at every stroke into the flesh.

China, by the way, was the home of that terrible death by water drops. The victim's head was placed on a low bard, block, and drops of water at short intervals were allowed to fall from a height on to his forehead—a far, far worse infliction than that of being tied to a beam by the thumbs and big toes.

The cangue is regarded as a comparatively mild sort of punishment. This consists of a wooden collar, about four feet square and four inches thick, which is placed over the prisoner's head, so that its full weight falls on the shoulders.

A description of the offense is also attached to the victim's body, and as he cannot feed himself he has to rely on the public for sustenance.

Conservative to a degree, it is not surprising to find that the wheelbarrow as a passenger conveyance is still in vogue, as, too, is the ferry, consisting of a light canoe, towed across the water by a number of swimmers.

Machinery for the most part is despised, and the mill, still used for winnowing the staple diet, rice, is of the simplest and most out of date description possible.

The rice is placed in a cement basin, over which is a heavy stone at the end of a long lever. This is worked up and down by two boards, in the form of a cross, attached to the axle of a huge hand turned wheel.

For simplicity of keeping a city informed of the time Canton would be hard to beat. In one of the temples are four large earthen jars on successive shelves.

Water descends by slow drops from one to the other, a brass scale on a float in the bottom one indicating as it rises the hour of the day.

At 5 o'clock every afternoon the lowest jar is emptied and the upper one refilled. On the outside walls of the city are displayed boards with the number of the hour on them, so that all may see. And this has gone on without a break since 1321.

Funerals appear almost a mockery to the visitor. If money can be freely spent a manager is appointed, and from the highways and the byways street boys and beggars are collected, dressed up in amazing costumes, supplied with dazzling umbrellas, standards and boards, which are carried over their shoulders in a long straggle.

Others carry small houses and carts made of card paper, horses, men, women, etc., indicative of the dead one's treasures, and these, with heaps of paper coins and paper money, are burnt at the grave so that they may be enjoyed in the life beyond.

Hired mourners with cymbals, gongs and wind instruments keep up a continuous swirl of howls and noises, to which is added the boohoo, boohoo, of an ear racking form worked something like a garden hose.

Women are regarded as nothing in China. They are brought up in ignorance of the world outside, the one object of their life being to get married and have sons to follow the fathers. A girl is not even allowed to look upon her husband until she is actually wedded.—London Ladies' Field.

THE SOLDIER'S SLANG

Army Vernacular as Odd as That of the Navy.

MANY QUEER EXPRESSIONS.

A Man Just Enlisted Is Called "a Rooky," and Men Who Enlist at the Beginning of Winter and Desert in the Spring Are Called "Snowbirds."

The army has just as odd a vernacular as the navy. To the uninitiated some army expressions would convey little or no sense, as, for example, if a soldier were heard to say, "The top told me to report for kitchen police and help skin the spuds for slum for supper." the hearer would have several guesses before he would come anywhere near what this meant in the patter of the barracks.

In plain language, it means that the first sergeant (the ranking or orderly sergeant) had told him to report to the cook to assist him in peeling the potatoes to make the hash or stew for supper. Hash or stew is always "slum," and the first sergeant is "the top;" "kitchen police," a man who assists the cook in the preparation of meals and the washing of dishes, pans, etc.

A man who has just enlisted or has not yet been in the ranks long enough to be considered a full fledged soldier, having learned all his duties, is called "a rooky," and woe be unto the "rooky" who gets "fresh" before an old sergeant who has been in the ranks since before the fresh "rooky" was born! He will be told in any but gentle terms by the old timer: "Shut up and go about your work. Your name is not yet dry on your enlistment paper!" meaning that when he was sworn in and promised to serve for three years and obey the "orders of the president and the officers appointed over him" he had signed his name to this paper and the signature had not had time to get dry.

When a man says he is going to "take on" or "take to another blanket," he means that he is going to reenlist. The government, in the clothing allowance for each man, provides a blanket; hence the term to "take another blanket."

The guardhouse is called "the mill." Some ill behaved soldier away back in the past (the term is a very old one) no doubt thought his term in the guardhouse ground out toward its end very slowly, so he applied this now much used name to the prison of the garrison.

When "the top" says, "Get your blanket and go to the mill," the soldier knows he is in for a tour of duty in the guardhouse, and his blanket means one or more nights, for in that much to be avoided place nothing is supplied in the way of comforts, and each occupant carries with him his blanket, or more if he has them, to make his rest more comfortable.

All meals are called "chuck," and along toward mealtime the expression, "Is it not time for chuck call to blow?" is heard very frequently.

"Snowbirds" are men who enlist in the winter about the time snow begins to fall and the real snowbird puts in its appearance and desert in the spring when the robin appears. They "take on" only to tide over the winter with its discomforts.

The oldest man in the company is "dad" and the youngest "the kid."

Any deserter is called a "skipper."

Two men who share the same small tent or whose bunks are side by side in the barrack room are called "bunkies." This ancient term originated in the days of the very old army, when the bunks were "built for two" and two men slept side by side on a mattress filled with straw and one blanket apiece, much different from today, when each man has his hair mattress, pillow, sheets and blankets. A "bunky" always has a chew or filling for a pipe for his mate, when he might tell another man that he has not enough weed to "put under your nail."

All fines received from a court are called "blind," so that a man who received ten days in the guardhouse and a fine of $5 would tell his comrades that he "got ten days in the mill and five blind."

The commanding officer of a company or the post is always the "old man." If he is not liked other terms, not parlor talk, are used.

All field musicians are called "wind jammers" on account of their jamming of wind into the trumpet that calls the men to labor or rest.

Every man on the completion of his term of enlistment is given a discharge. At the bottom of his paper in olden times was a space in which the character borne by the man during his term of enlistment was written. If his service had been bad this part of the discharge was cut off, and it was called "a bobtail." In speaking of the length of time a man has to serve before he has completed his term of enlistment the term "butt" means less than a year. So to say he has a year and a little less than two years he would say "a year and a butt."

There are a number of men in the ranks who save their money and lend it to others. The rate is very high. If a man borrows $2 he must pay $4 at pay day. This is called "cent per cent." The term "one more skinch on the White House" means that the man has completed one more tour of guard duty consisting of twenty-four hours.

Many of these terms quoted are of very old origin, so old that if you ask the oldest man in an organization when he heard it first he will probably tell you, "Oh, it was used when I took my first blanket."—Major B. W. Atkinson in New York Tribune.

Nervous, Tired, Anxious, Thin

What causes nervous collapse? Most people say worry, anxiety, brooding, but these are simply the outcomes of a lowered physical condition. When strong we throw them off, but when run down they hold us if by chains.

The true cause of nervous collapse is in the blood. When thin and watery it contains no nourishment for the nerves, no support for the muscles—result is collapse.

The truest food for the nerves is the nourishing blood that Ferrozone forms. Ferrozone builds up the nervous and depressed, not by stimulation, but by the surer way of adding flesh, blood, and sinew. The whole system is vitalized; the nerves are fortified—you can sleep, work hard, and be free from brooding anxiety.

FERROZONE Makes Health

No health winner so certain as Ferrozone, no nerve strengthener more potent, no system tonic so well adapted to the wants of the rundown, nervous, or sleepless. Ferrozone is certain to cure if you give it a chance. 50c per box or six boxes for $2.50 at all dealers.

Dear Sirs,—I have just received the suit that I ordered from you and is fine just like a glove. I am perfectly satisfied. If I had a suit of clothes made here in my city like the one you made for me it would cost me not less than $20 to $25.

I thank you very much, and hope you will hear from me soon for another order. If you have any samples for fancy vests I wish you would send me some, if it is not too much trouble.

Thanking you once more for the fine-fitting suit of clothes and your prompt attention, I remain,
Yours very truly,

FROM AN OLD COUNTRY CUSTOMER.

(copy.) Box 735, Moose Jaw, Sask., Canada.

Dear Sirs,—Will you kindly forward me, at the above address, a few samples of cloth, fine quality, medium prices and terms to Colonial customers. During my stay at Penzance, Cornwall, England, I had several parcels from you, with which I was very pleased; in fact, one coat I am still wearing for rough work here, though I wore it for two years in the Old Country to business, and have now been in this country nine months.

Hoping to hear from you at an early date; assuring you I should want Spring Suitings.—I remain, dear Sirs, yours truly,

Messrs. Curzon Bros.,
60 & 62 City-road, London, Eng.

Dear Sirs,—It is with the greatest of pleasure that I send this letter to acknowledge the receipt of suit.

I must say that I am greatly pleased with the correct cut, style, and fit of the suit, and I was surprised at the promptness with which you carried out the order. You certainly deserve the greatest credit for the perfect manner in which you handle mail orders.

I showed the suit around among my friends, and they were surprised at the cheapness, quality, and fit, and asked me how to send. Of course, I willingly told them, with the consideration of handling them my self could send for goods.

I must certainly say with assurance that you can depend on my future custom, as suits of that description are sold in Canada at $25 and $30. I shall endeavour to get as many orders for you as I can, feeling assured then they will receive entire satisfaction.—I remain, your highly satisfied customer, (Signed) FRANK BARBER.

USUAL SATISFACTION.

(copy.) c/o Jas. Gillies, Esq., Antrim, Ont.

Gentlemen,—I received the suit safely last week, and, as usual, it is perfectly satisfactory. The style and fit are perfect. I have shown it to my friends here, and they are perfectly astonished at its cheapness.

Thanking you for the prompt manner in which you have executed my orders, I am, yours truly, (Signed) WM. C. HAYWARD.

REPEAT ORDER.

(copy.) Amelinburg, Ontario, Canada.

Dear Sirs,—Re Order No. A 6200.

Above suit was duly received. All were highly pleased with it when the former one. Material is first class, fit perfect, workmanship the highest. Have therefore handed your firm to several others, as they could find no reason for complaining; they think for themselves. Will probably order again soon. Could you quote me a fashionable suit without further advertisement? If not, please say what sum it is necessary. Are you still allowing cash in trade? I always in stock, and would like to send him the cost of same please?
Yours very truly,
(Signed) JOS. BARNES.

"A WONDER FOR THE PRICE."

POSITION FOR SLEEP.

A Variety of Opinions Among Eminent French Medical Men.

A number of eminent French medical men have given their opinion to the Matin of Paris on what they consider the healthiest position for sleep.

Dr. Delorme, army medical inspector, declares that the natural position is to lie flat on one's back. Professor Debone and Dr. Davenieres of the School of Hygiene are of the same opinion and point out that lying on either side causes pressure of the arm, which may eventually bring about paralysis.

Dr. Landouzy of the medical faculty says that the best position is the most comfortable position, and this is acquired by habit. It would be well, however, to accustom oneself to sleep on the right side. Dr. Letulle, of the Medical academy maintains emphatically that the sleeper should always lie on the right side and thus avoid indigestion and heart troubles.

In startling contradiction comes a statement from a heart specialist, Dr. Huchard: "I always sleep on my left side, and I think it is quite immaterial whether you lie on your left or right side. The idea, however, that those who cannot lie on the left side suffer from heart affection is quite erroneous."

What Brown Did.

Mrs. and Mr. Brown—that isn't the usual way of putting it, but it was the way they ranked—had been invited to a party where, Mrs. Brown understood, there was to be a host of literary lions. Mrs. Brown is an extremely handsome woman and just enough of a coquette to attract men about her wherever she goes.

Not long after they had arrived Mrs. Brown had four men around her, while Brown was pretending to be interested in some books scattered around on a corner table. Mrs. Brown inquired of the men in turn as to just what sort of literature they produced. One confessed he was a coffee broker, another was a doctor, the third was a machinery salesman. The fourth man admitted cheerfully that his only service to literature was reading books and newspapers. At this point Brown joined the group, and the coffee broker suggested to the lady that she might ask the newcomer what he did.

"Oh," remarked Mrs. Brown, placing B. at once in the discard, "he's my husband."—Exchange.

His Little Joke.

It was just two years after their wedding.

"George," she said romantically as she gazed at the fantastic pictures the red coals formed, "do you remember our courting days?"

George laughed teasingly.

"No, my dear. I do not."

She looked up with a hurt expression.

"George, do you mean to sit there and say you do not remember our courting days? Why, I am shocked at your coldness."

"No, dear; I do not remember our courting days because only night watchmen have to do their courting in the daytime. But I do remember our courting nights, and they were delightful, pet."

But she said he was too horrid for anything.—Chicago News.

Delaware's Circular Boundary.

The northern boundary line of Delaware is circular because the charter given to Penn states that Pennsylvania was to be "bounded on the east by the Delaware river from twelve miles distant north of Newcastle town until the three and fortieth degree of north latitude" and that the southern boundary was to be "a circle drawn at twelve miles distant from the town of Newcastle northward and westward until the fortieth degree of north latitude and then by a straight line westward." This makes a circular boundary for northern Delaware unavoidable, and the facts above set forth explain a geographical curiosity that has puzzled many students.

Domestic Economy.

"Nora, was that the coal man I saw making love to you yesterday evening?"

"Yes, ma'am, but I 'ope, ma'am"—

"Does he love you very much, Nora?"

"'E says 'e does, ma'am."

"Devotedly?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Well, you tell him that unless he gives us better weight than he has been doing we shall get our coal elsewhere."—London Illustrated Bits.

Within Her Means.

A pretty little girl of three years was in a drug store with her mother. Being attracted by something in the showcase, she asked what it was. The clerk replied, "That is a scent bag."

"How cheap!" replied the little girl. "I'll take two!"—Lippincott's.

The Reason Why This Trademark and This Razor Are "Known The World Over"

The chief reason is that the "GILLETTE" meets the requirements of every shaver the world over for a quick—simple—easy—comfortable shave.

The best proof that the "GILLETTE" is the highest type of perfection in razors is, that the men of all civilized lands now demand the "GILLETTE" Razor and the "New Process" Blades.

The men of Canada are especially well pleased with the "GILLETTE," and take not a little pride in the fact that it is made by Canadians in the Canadian factory at Montreal.

You can examine the "Gillette" at your Jewelers or Druggists—at Cutlery or Hardware dealers—or at any Sporting Goods or Departmental Store. Standard sets $5—for sale everywhere.

GIFT OF LANGUAGE.

Advantages of the Man Who is Able to Talk Well.

There is no other one thing which enables us to make so good an impression, especially upon those who do not know us thoroughly, as the ability to converse well. A man who can talk well, who has the art of putting things in an attractive way, who can interest others immediately by his power of speech, has a very great advantage over one who may know more than he, but who cannot express himself with ease or eloquence.

You may be a good singer, a fine artist, you may have a great many accomplishments which people occasionally see or enjoy, you may have a very beautiful home and a lot of property which comparatively few people ever know about, but if you are a good conversee every one you meet recognizes and appreciates your art. Everybody you converse with feels the influence of your skill and charm.

In other words, there is no accomplishment, no attainment, which you can use so constantly and effectively which will give so much pleasure to your friends as fine conversation. There is no doubt that the gift of language was intended to be a much greater accomplishment than the majority of us have ever made of it.—Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine.

PAPER AND CANVAS.

An Anecdote of Turner, the Great Landscape Painter.

In a book entitled "Stories of the English Artists" R. Davies and C. Hunt tell an interesting anecdote of Turner, the great landscape painter. He disliked to part with his pictures and when he sold one invariably wore a look of dejection and oppression. If a friend asked him what was the matter he would sorrowfully explain, "I've lost one of my children this week."

Once a rich Birmingham manufacturer, Gillott by name, introduced himself to the painter and stated that he had come to buy.

"Don't want to sell" or some such laconic rebuff was the answer.

The manufacturer then drew from his pocket a bundle of banknotes, about £5,000 worth.

"Mere paper," observed Turner, with grim humor, a little softened, however, and evidently enjoying the joke.

"To be bartered for mere canvas," replied the persistent Gillott, waving his hand at the "Building of Carthage" and its companions.

This tone of cool depreciation seemed to have a happy effect, and finally Gillott departed with some £5,000 worth of Turner's pictures.

A Strenuous Wooer.

"The Reminiscences of Bismarck" contains an account of his courtship. He was a young Prussian officer when he first met Johanna von Puttkamer, but he made application at once to her father for permission to pay his addresses. Aghast at Bismarck's proposal, the old gentleman did not absolutely decline it. Instead he wrote giving permission to pay a sort of "visit of inspection" at the Puttkamer home. Bismarck hastened to Reinfeld. The whole Puttkamer family was lined up to greet him. The father and mother glared at him solemnly, and Johanna herself stood between them, her eyes cast modestly downward. With the swift, whirlwind decision that scored Bismarck his later political triumphs he carried the situation by storm. Galloping up the driveway, he leaped from his horse, ran forward and flung his arms around Johanna, taking no heed of her scandalized parents and catching her to his breast and covering her blushing face with kisses. After that there could be no talk of "probation" or "waiting." The betrothal was necessarily an accepted fact.

Satisfied Each Side.

Nearer seven feet tall than six was the father of the present earl of Enniskillen. He was a magistrate and a mighty fox hunter. He used to come to the "justice room" ready dressed for hunting quite early in the morning, in order to hear cases before he started off to the meet. His practice was to hear the plaintiff and then horsewhip the defendant, abusing him for behaving in such a blackguardly manner. Then he heard the defendant and afterward horsewhipped the plaintiff. It is said that both parties left the court perfectly satisfied, each saying that the other had been horsewhipped by his honor.—London Graphic.

As Good as He Gave.

"Here is my seat, madam, but candor compels me to say that I think you are as well able to stand as I am."

"Politeness compels me to say 'Thank you, sir.'"—New York Journal.

IN HIGH ALTITUDES.

The Most Common Ways in Which the Heart is Affected.

Dr. I. N. Hall, writing in the American Journal of the Medical Sciences, says that the dangers to the heart in high altitudes are the same as in other places, but are greatly exaggerated in some directions. The troubles most common and serious, he says, relate to inflammation of the heart muscle, hardening of the arteries and dilation of the heart.

The principle applied in this: The heart and lungs have an increase of functional work with each added degree of elevation and the consequent decrease in atmospheric pressure. To meet the increased demand on the circulation the heart must enlarge if the usual amount of exercise is taken. It is not unusual for acute dilation of the heart to occur after slight effort on the part of those whose arteries have begun to harden and who long have been accustomed to atmospheric pressure at the sea level. The trouble with those who suffer in high altitude, the writer declares, is that they try to do too much at first when they feel invigorated by the bracing atmosphere.

Dr. Hall adds that even an ascent in a railway train may be fatal to those who have but a narrow margin of heart strength, or the slightest exertion at such a time may produce angina pectoris. The average case of well compensated valvular disease will do as well at a high altitude as anywhere else if the patient observes proper precautions. In such a climate he is less susceptible to acute rheumatism.

The Elephant's Sense.

Why an elephant should be afraid of a mouse is a mystery. Some have doubted the generosity of the elephant because of his aversion to small animals, but none can doubt his intelligence. Buffon, notwithstanding his idea of the mere mechanism of animals, spoke of the elephant as at the same time a "miracle of intelligence and a monster of matter." Ernest Menault happily referred to him as the animal that carried his nose in his hand; hence the marvelous intelligence of his trunk. The senses of touch and smell co-operate. The nerves which extend through his trunk are so numerous that they equal in number all those distributed over the rest of the body. The elephant can keep perfect time to music. He has the ear perfectly organized, and the hearing is extremely fine. The eye of the elephant is distinguished from that of other animals by the pathetic expression of sentiment. Take him all in all, naturalists agree that he is the most intelligent of animals. And why should he be afraid of a mouse?—Exchange.

Not For Him.

"Mean thing!" exclaimed Mrs. Newlived. "It's just brutal of you to call it 'this stuff.' You said you'd be glad if I baked my own bread"—

"Yes, dear," replied the great brute "but I didn't say I wanted you to bake mine."—Catholic Standard and Times.

They Often Do.

"Neither is the hostess."

"They're quarreling it out," explained an observant guest.—Washington Herald.

Tat For Tit.

They were sitting out in the conservatory. Sam sat on the sofa, and Sally sat on Sam, but it was all right, for he had just asked her to marry him. She had said, "I don't care if I do," and thus they were engaged.

"Sam, dear," she began, "am I the only girl"—

"Now, look here, Sally," he interrupted, "don't ask me if you're the only girl I ever loved. You know as well as I do"—

"Oh, that wasn't the question at all, Sam," she answered. "I was going to ask if I was the only girl who would have you."—London Answers.

Difficult Advice.

Mrs. Rayce was talking to another young woman at a tea.

"How decidedly better off a man would be," said the other young woman, "if he would only take his wife's advice!"

"Quite true, my dear," said Mrs. Rayce. "I've advised my George time and time again not to bet on horses that don't win, but he will do it."

Why He Quit.

"So you abandoned the simple style of spelling?"

"Yes," responded the former advocate of the fad. "I found it so difficult to make people understand that I knew better."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any doctor. I know that my home treatment is a safe and sure cure for Leucorrhœa or Whitish discharge, Ulceration, Displacement or Falling of the Womb, Profuse, Scanty or Painful Periods, Uterine or Ovarian Tumors or Growths, Dizziness in the head, back and bowels, bearing down feelings, nervousness, creeping feeling up the spine, melancholy, desire to cry, hot flashes, weariness, kidney and bladder troubles where caused by weakness peculiar to our sex.

I want to send you a complete 10 days' treatment entirely free to prove to you that you can cure yourself at home, easily, quickly and surely. Remember, that it will cost you nothing to give the treatment a complete trial; and if you should wish to continue, it will cost you only about 12 cents a week, or less than two cents a day. It will not interfere with your work or occupation. Just send me your name and address, tell me how you suffer, if you wish, and I will send you the treatment for your case, entirely free, in plain wrapper, by return mail. I will also send you free of cost, my book—"WOMAN'S OWN MEDICAL ADVISER" with explanatory illustrations showing why women suffer, and how they can easily cure themselves at home. Every woman should have it and learn to think for herself. Then when the doctor says—"You must have your operation," you can decide for yourself. Thousands of women have cured themselves with my home remedy. It cures all, old or young. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain a simple home treatment which speedily and effectually cures Leucorrhœa, Green Sickness, and Painful or Irregular Menstruation in Young Ladies. Pimples and bad health always result from its use.

Wherever you live, I can refer you to ladies of your own locality who knew and willgladly tell any sufferer that this Home Treatment really cures all women's diseases and makes women well, strong, healthy and robust. Just send me your address, and the free ten days' treatment is yours, also the book. Write to-day, as you may not see this offer again. Address:

A LUCKY SHOT.

Exciting Incident of a Lion Hunt in East Africa.

In the Wide World Magazine there is an exciting account of a lion hunt in British East Africa. The party consisted of Walter Cooper, Captain H. and his sister. The young lady captured four lions, while the men slew five between them. The tenth lion was killed through its desire to capture a native carrier who, realizing that things were becoming too warm for him, had bolted. The following is the account of the misfortune which befell the lion through his attempt to slay the haste of the native:

The lioness, attracted by the sight of the fleeing man, swerved off suddenly and made after the fugitive. The man had not more than twenty yards start, and the great brute rapidly overtook him. Miss H. fired again, and we men both fired as well, but we were not near enough to make a good running shot. The wretched man, with a courage born of desperation, turned at the last moment and hit at the lioness with his rifle. The blow fell a bit short, and the enraged brute, snapping at what came nearest, caught the weapon in her mouth at the muzzle. The pace at which she was traveling was so great that Hassan was hurled backward, and in falling his finger caught the triggers, letting off both barrels. By the most extraordinary piece of luck the rifle was pointing straight down the beast's throat at the moment, and down she went, with her head nearly shot away, right on top of him.

Notorious Women Gamblers.

One of the most notorious female gamblers of the eighteenth century was Miss Pelham, the daughter of the English prime minister. She not only ruined herself at cards, but would have beggared her sister Mary as well had not their friends intervened and insisted on the sisters separating. Horace Walpole gives a pitiful account of "poor Miss Pelham sitting up all night at the club without a woman, losing hundreds a night and her temper, beating her head and making a scene before the young men and the waiters." Another writer says that the unhappy woman often played cards with the tears streaming down her cheeks.

Lady Mary Compton, an old maiden lady, a contemporary of Miss Pelham and, like her, addicted to gambling, had the same propensity to tears. When she lost, we are told, she wept bitterly—"not for the loss itself," she was careful to explain, "but for the unkindness of the cards."

A Bank of Brides.

Simla, the summer capital of the Indian empire, is a pretty pine treed place well up in the foothills of the Himalayas. A feature of Simla life is the annual fair held by the native hills people, an attractive item of which is a "bank of brides" in an amphitheater, where all numbers of young women who thus calmly announce that they are candidates for hymeneal honors. Some of these aspirants to matrimony so patiently awaiting a choosing are quite pretty and have intelligent faces, but those of Mongol caste must needs linger long for a partner if personal beauty enters into the equation.

Love in a Flat.

"May I kiss you?"

The girl hastily consulted a document.

"You may," she said.

"Why did you consult that paper?"

"To see if there is anything in our lease prohibiting it."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Nice Discrimination.

"Stop!" cried an author to a maid servant. "What papers are you burning there?"

"It's all right, sir," was the reply. "These are only the old sheets covered with writing. I 'aven't touched the clean ones!"

Extinct.

"Bessie," said the teacher of the class which taught all about birds—in the school prospectus it was called the "ornithological division"—"give me the name of one bird which is now extinct."

Bessie wrinkled her brows.

"What's extinct, please?" she asked.

"No longer existent," explained the teacher. "Can you name one?"

"Yes," piped Bessie readily. "Dick."

"Dick—Dick?" repeated the teacher. "And what kind of bird is a 'Dick,' please?"

"Our canary," answered Bessie. "The cat extincted him."

MODERN TROGLODYTES.

The Matmatas, the Cave Dwellers of Tunisia, Africa.

One of the strangest of capital cities is that of the troglodytes, or Matmatas, the cave dwellers of Tunisia, Africa. It contains about 3,000 inhabitants, and the principle of its architecture is to dig into the earth rather than to build upon it. These troglodytes are to be found between the town of Gabes, on the Tunisian coast, and the sand hills of the Sahara. The country is a high, rocky plateau, barren, sun baked and swept by the simoom. When a Matmata wants a new dwelling he chooses his spot, traces a circle and then digs until he has reached the desired depth, which varies according to the number of stories he requires.

The rooms consist of caves hollowed out in the sides of the circular pit, the bottom of which forms a patio, or courtyard, which is the usual feature of a Moorish house. Besides the rooms, a passage is also dug, communicating with the outside world, and a door is made at the outer end.

The soil, which is a kind of malleable clay, is easily cut and lends itself well to excavation, the roof of each room requiring no support as long as it is arched. These underground dwellings are not damp.—Chicago News.

A Question of Color.

The enormous difficulties of color terminology are illustrated by a customer's "exact statement of her requirements" in a large Deansgate establishment one day. "Something in blue taffeta silk, please. I don't want anything as dark as navy blue nor anything as light as Cambridge blue, but something darker than Eton blue and yet a little off from an electric blue and hardly a sky blue—more like a robin's egg blue and yet not quite so light, but not an indigo blue, but something like this tint; I think they call it morning glory blue, which is something like a turquoise blue and yet not quite so light as that and yet not so dark quite as this aquamarine blue nor so light as baby blue. Now, if you have anything in the shade I have described, please show it to me." The intelligent assistant unrolled a length, a cross between the blue devils and the deep sea, with the remark: "This is the shade of blue you require, madam. It is called 'London milk!'"—Dyer and Calico Printer.

Got It Free.

A good old preacher who had decided to leave an unremunerative charge, finding it impossible to collect his salary, said in his farewell sermon: "I have little more to add, dear brethren, save this—you were all in favor of free salvation, and the manner in which you have treated me proves that you have got it!"

Would Seem Not.

"In these stories of the middle ages we always read about the hero's good right arm."

"Well?"

"Was there never a southpaw knight?"—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The right word is always a power and communicates its definiteness to our action.—Eliot.

Wives and Mothers Suffer With Backache

Constantly on their feet, attending to the wants of a large and exacting family, women often break down with nervous exhaustion.

In the stores, factories, and on a farm are weak, ailing women, dragged down with torturing backache and bearing down pains.

Such suffering isn't natural, but it's dangerous, because due to diseased kidneys.

The dizziness, insomnia, deranged menses, and other symptoms of kidney complaint can't cure themselves, they require the assistance of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which go direct to the seat of the trouble.

DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS CURE ALL WOMAN'S ILLS

To give vitality and power to the kidneys, to lend aid to the bladder and liver, to free the blood of poisons, probably there is no remedy so successful as Dr. Hamilton's Pills. For all womanly irregularities their merit is well known. Recommended for girls and women of all ages. 25 cents per box at all dealers. Refuse any substitute for Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

FIRE INSURANCE

"Two years ago an Ontario Market Gardener saved four cents an ounce on the cost of half a pound of Cabbage Seed. In the fall he admitted that he was over $100 to the bad on the crop because the bargain seed had lacked vitality. Thirty-two cents saved—one hundred dollars lost. WAS IT WORTH WHILE?

Charging the Enemy

By MARTHA McC.-WILLIAMS.

Old Gib Ezell went swinging and stumping upon his crutches down the street and up the steps of his store. It was the biggest store in town, though not the smartest. Joe Beenam, who had opened up the spring before, just across the street, was running old Gib hard in groceries and hardware and leaving him out of sight when it came to knickknacks or dry goods pure and simple.

A man who half knew looked after old Gib, then across at the sign of his young rival, and murmured half to himself, "What a pity!" Another man who knew also looked, listened to the exclamation and answered it, sticking out his chin as he spoke, "Better say, 'What a shame!'"

"What's a shame, doc?" a third said, coming up behind them. Dr. Waters smiled half grimly. "I'm not quite sure. It seems to be the hitch in the course of a true love," he answered.

Lew Bayne, the man who had spoken first, shook his head energetically. "I meant that poor old fellow's legs," he said. "I suppose, doc, it's certain he'll never walk again."

"Now you've got me," the doctor protested. "I'd risk my professional reputation that fall he got on the sleety pavement did no worse harm to his shrunken shanks than bark them up pretty generally. There were bruises, of course, and on the shoulder and side as well. I told him he'd be out and about in plenty of time for the Christmas trade, but from the first he stood me up and down that he'd never take another steady step, and so far, I'm bound to admit, he was right. There's nothing on earth the matter with his legs—nothing at least that I or the other doctors can see. Against that there is the fact that the minute he tries to stand on them they do the joint rule act—double under him as though they hadn't strength to bear up a spider. The trouble must lie in the nerves. If that's what you meant, I agree with you that it's a pity. I thought you had reference to the trick he's played on Joe Beenam."

"What is it?" asked Merton, the third of the group. "You know I've been away six months. Tell me all about it."

"Not much to tell," Dr. Waters said. "You know Florrie Ezell"—

"I ought to, considering she sent me away," Merton broke in ruefully. "You don't mean Joe is gone on her like the rest of us? I thought"—

"You've hit it," the doctor said. "Joe did stand out mighty well against the prevailing infection, but a man never knows what's coming to him until it hits him square in the face."

"Land! To think of Joe, the 'bomb-proof,' we called him!" Merton chuckled. "How did it happen? Tell me all about it."

Merton, a newly evolved drummer, had given what he would have called "a comprehensive order." Dr. Waters also chuckled as he answered, nodding his head by way of emphasizing his points: "Well, you see, it's this way: The hour struck for Joe when he saw Florrie Ezell swirling around, a blue tarlatan angel, in a waltz with Bob Acton at the Patton's party. Florrie's a pretty girl anyway you see her. That night she was particularly fetching. But that wasn't the thing. I insist Joe's time had come. He knew it. Soon as the waltz was over he froze to Florrie—didn't get a yard away from her all the evening."

"It was a freezing time, as I remember," Lew Bayne interrupted, with a laugh—"Indian summer up to dusk, then a cold rain that turned to sleet in short order. Say, didn't old Gib get his fall that very night?"

"I'm coming to that if you'll wait," the doctor ran on. "I tell you that was a sleet to remember. Joe, of course, wouldn't let Florrie walk home, though the Ezell house is only six blocks from the Pattons'. No, siree! He telephoned for the finest rig at the liver stable and bundled all that blue tarlatan in it as snug as you please. I heard Florrie protesting that she ought really to wait for papa, but we all persuaded her papa wouldn't think of risking himself upon pavement like glass. We ought to have known better. Old Gib always does the thing that any other man would let alone."

"Bet a hat he came," Merton said, chuckling more than ever.

"You win—from yourself," Dr. Waters answered. "He came, he didn't see his daughter, he went back swearing like a trooper, though he is a deacon, and he fell right before Master Joe's fine rig, coming back from leaving Miss Florrie safe at the gate. Of course Joe picked him up and carried him home. Equally, of course, old Gib hates him for doing it. By the time I got to him next morning he was fully persuaded Joe was at the bottom of his fall, with Florrie as accessory; said they ran away and left him, hoping he'd break his neck, so Joe could have both his daughter and his store. You know he didn't take overkindly to competition anyway"—

"That he didn't! Why, he even wrote to our credit man to keep a peeled eye on Joe," Merton interrupted.

"That's like him," Dr. Waters said. "I tell you, boys, nature must work along a certain line of compensation. I'm sure she slapped into old Gib all the small meannesses due to two generations of Ezells—it may even be three. His father was a fine man, and his daughter is just as good a woman as ever was made."

"About Joe, now?" Merton queried. Dr. Waters frowned.

"Joe courted Florrie with such a rush that in a week they were engaged. Then he went right in to old Gib and had it out with him; told him all about himself and his business, in and out, up and down, but the substance of it was he wanted Florrie for his wife and would do whatever old Gib said if only he could get her. And then the old crocodile pretended to cry; said Florrie was all he had to live for; he hoped Joe wouldn't press him for an answer then, nor, indeed, talk of an engagement until he was either dead or himself again. You know how soft hearted old Joe is and how he hangs on to his word once he passes it. Of course he promised, never mistrusting the old wretch was playing him. So there you are! Florrie's worrying and losing color because Joe only speaks when they pass by, but doesn't come to the house. Joe's about desperate, and old Gib is fattening and getting ten years younger—on spite and crutches. What the end is to be nobody can guess."

"Can old Gib be shamming?" Merton asked. Dr. Waters shook his head. "I thought so at first," he said. "But if he is it beats anything in the books. There's certainly nothing wrong with his legs, except that they're a bit flabby. It's equally as certain he can't walk on them. I think sometimes he has hypnotised himself. If it was just deceit and what I call cussedness, I would have been able before this to take him off his guard."

"Well, I can at least go over and condole with Joe," Merton said, stepping across the street. "And maybe sympathy will be worth an order," he called back over his shoulder as he struck the store steps.

* * * * * * *

Although it was late March it was still nipping cold. A red fire roared in the base burner inside old Gib's store. Old Gib himself sat close beside it, his eye ranging all the miscellaneous merchandise which crowded shelves and floor. His three clerks had been on the jump all morning, but toward noon there came a lull. He was about to send two of them off to dinner when the door opened wide and Merton came through, with Joe Beenam in his wake and Dr. Waters and Lew Bayne marching solemnly behind. Joe's face was white, his eyes brilliant, his figure tense in every line. Indeed, he looked desperate, and his voice rang hard as he said, stopping short three feet away:

"Mr. Ezell, I have come to ask you, here in the presence of these witnesses to release me from my promise. You know well how it was given—with a total misapprehension of the truth."

"You mean you want to take my daughter as well as my trade and leave me, a cripple, to starve!" old Gib roared.

Joe set his teeth. "I mean nothing of the sort!" he said. "Give me your daughter and our home shall be yours. I will serve and care for you as I would for my own father."

"You won't get the chance," old Gib sneered.

Joe half turned to his friends and whispered sepulchrally: "Go away! Quick!"

"Going to murder me, hey?" old Gib sniffed.

Joe stood very straight. The others had slunk toward the door, with the awed clerks huddling after. They heard Joe shout:

"It is not murder! I shall give my life to free Florrie from your intolerable tyranny!"

Then they saw him fling wide the stove door and dash into it what seemed like several pounds of gunpowder.

Old Gib saw it too. With one wild, whooping yell he leaped from his chair regardless of crutches, of everything but flight, rushed madly for the door, darted through it and did not pause until he came panting and trembling to his own gate. As he clung there the others overtook him, as breathless as himself betwixt running and laughing.

Dr. Waters made a low bow. "If I had thought three pounds of black sand would be so effectual I would have had you well long ago," he said.

Merton dragged Joe forward. "If you want to kick anybody, kick me," he said to old Gib. "I put this lad," patting Joe's shoulder, "up to playing you that trick."

"Humph! I knew he didn't have the brains for it himself," old Gib snorted. But, though he had found his legs, he was none the less old Gib. The fact was proved by his letting Joe and Florrie marry almost out of hand and presenting them with both his store and his blessing.

WEAK LUNGS, CATARRH, BRONCHITIS, HAWKING.

Even Though Head and Throat Are Diseased From Neglected Colds, Cure is Certain.

Hundreds die of chronic catarrh that could be cured by persevering with a remedy of real merit. Look for these symptoms in your own case—they all mean Catarrh in some form:
"Is your voice rough?"
"Do you cough up phlegm?"
"Is your nose stuffed up?"
"Do you snore at night?"
"Does your nose itch and burn?"
"Have you frontal headaches?"
"Do your eyes pain?"
"Is it a dryness in your throat?"
"Do you sneeze, hawk, cough?"
"Have you droppings in throat?"
"Are you losing sense of taste?"
"Have you stomach nausea?"

Catarrh has been pronounced a disease caused and maintained by germ life, and, like other diseases where germs are present, is impossible to be cured by the ordinary constitutional medicines.

Hundreds of different remedies have been tried. Inhalers which produced steam, vapors and sprays were introduced, but turned out useless, as the vapor condensed and the medicaments were left deposited in the large bronchial tubes long before the air reached the smaller cells of the lungs.

Catarrhozone

is the only germicide ever found volatile enough to impregnate every particle of air breathed, yet leaving it FREE from moisture, thus enabling this powerful germ destroyer to reach every part of the air passages in the head, throat, and lungs, where it at once kills the bacilli that cause catarrh, asthma, bronchitis, colds, etc.

It cures by inhalation, and because it cannot fail to reach the seat of the disease. It is guaranteed, and incurs not the slightest danger of inconvenience to the patient.

BEGIN TREATMENT NOW.

Catarrhozone is absolutely certain to reach the source of the disease. It possesses marvelous healing properties, and quickly restores the raw, congested membranes to a normal, healthy condition. In a few breaths it clears away all foul mucous discharges, and quickly allays coughing, headache, pain over the eyes, and the manifold unpleasant symptoms of catarrh, bronchitis, asthma, coughing, sore throat and colds.

QUICK CURE IS GUARANTEED.

Now, bear in mind, you breathe Catarrhozone. Do you not think this is a rational method of treatment—a reasonable way of reaching the diseased surfaces, which lie so far in the cavity of the body or of the head that they can be reached in no other way?

You cannot possibly fail to obtain quick cure if you will use Catarrhozone. Two months treatment, absolutely guaranteed, costs $1.00, smaller size, 50c., at all dealers in medicine.

Water Vapor on Mars.

The much debated question of the existence of water vapor in the atmosphere of Mars appears to have been settled in the affirmative by the observations of V. M. Slipher, corroborated by those of Dr. F. W. Very, who estimates that Mars has in its atmosphere about 75 per cent more water vapor than exists in the air over Flagstaff, Ariz., in the month of January. Mr. Slipher concludes that these observations favor the view that the white caps about Mars' poles are composed of snow rather than of hoarfrost. The prevalent conditions on Mars, says Dr. Very, are those of a mild but desert climate, such as Professor Percival Lowell has asserted exists there.

A Simpler Way.

"Of course she'll break his will?"
"No. He didn't make any."
"What?"
"That's right. She got all the stuff away from him before he died."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

On the Cars of New York.

The surface cars of New York carry on each line as different a nationality as if each belonged to a different country. On the Eighth avenue line there are mostly colored people; on the Sixth avenue they are largely Americans, if there are any Americans in New York; on the Broadway cars there are stylishly dressed New Yorkers; on the Third avenue Irish and Jewish people predominate, on the Second avenue Jewish, Italian, Hungarian, Swedish and German, while on the surface cars that run along Avenue A you see every foreign nationality under the sun, all bareheaded.—New York Press.

Vain Regrets.

"That man Biffin lacks courage and energy."
"Yes, confound him!"
"Why do you say that?"
"Because he was courting my wife long before I met her. If he had had a little more courage and energy— But what's the use of talking about it now?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

What Rules the World.

When Napoleon caused the names of his dead soldiers to be inscribed on the face of Pompey's pillar, some one criticised the act as "a mere bit of imagination." "That is true," replied Napoleon, "but imagination rules the world."—Atlantic.

Compensation.

A young cadet was complaining of the tight fit of his uniform.

"Why, father," he declared, "the collar presses my Adam's apple so hard I can taste cider!"—Harper's Weekly.

I'll Explain Why I Always Drive a GENDRON

"You see the breaking of the springs causes us baby drivers more trouble than any other weakness in carriage cars.
But there is no spring weakness in the GENDRON car.
Note that double curve. It is exclusive with the GENDRON
It so distributes the strain that the spring never breaks.
And then the wheels,—you see they are specially welded, and cannot warp or break.
Note also that little rubber cap over the nut of the axle. Sometimes when I have a restless passenger, I want to drive the car around the house without scratching the furniture—it is a little point, but a good one. The materials for all the GENDRON cars are the very best in the bodies, tops and every other part. There is style and service in every GENDRON model—Canadian made—so that any unexpected accident can be easily remedied."

Dyeing Real Flowers.

"Every once in awhile some florist gets busy and puts some odd colored blossoms in his window as an extra attraction to the display," said a clubman. "I just noticed one down the street. It consisted of a bunch of impossibly green carnations. At first glance a good many people thought they were made of paper, but they got interested when they found out that they were 'natural.' Now, anybody who wants to have any of these freak flowers can get them by buying some kind of aniline ink, any color desired. Carnations are the easiest to color—white ones, of course. Put their stems in a glass filled with ink. Their stems are soft, and in a short while the larger veins in their petals are filled with the ink. Don't let them absorb too much color. They are prettier with just so much. Then remove them and put them in a vase of salt water. Lilies of the valley lend themselves to this scheme also. In fact, any white, soft stemmed flower may be used."—Philadelphia Record.

Famous Golf Match.

A projected golf match between two well known amateurs and a leading member of the London stock exchange for a stake of £500 recalls the famous foursome in which the Duke of York, afterward James II., took a prominent part on the Leith links in the year 1682. It was really an international contest, in which the duke, with John Patersone, a golfing shoemaker of great repute, championed Scotland against two noblemen of England, a heavy wager depending on the issue. The duke and the cobbler had an easy victory, thanks largely to the man of the last, and John Patersone's share of the stakes was so substantial that he was able to build a goodly house in the Canongate, in a wall of which the duke caused a stone to be placed bearing the Patersone arms with the motto "Far and sure," a tribute to the cobbler's driving powers. Patersone's house, we understand, survives today. —Westminster Gazette.

Foiled.

Noiselessly, but with all his might, the burglar tugged at the dressing table drawer. In vain. It refused to open. He tugged again.

"Give it another jerk," said a voice behind him.

The burglar turned.

The owner of the house was sitting up in bed and looking at him with an expression of the deepest interest on his face.

"Jerk it again. There's a lot of valuable property in that drawer, but we haven't been able to open it since the damp weather began. If you can pull it out I'll give you a handsome royalty on everything that's"—

But the burglar had jumped out through the window, taking a part of the sash with him.—Exchange.

Military System.

The Way Germany Handles Her Reserves in Case of War.

Nobody who has visited Germany can fail to have been struck by the large official signboards at the entry to each town or village. These contain full information as to exactly which official in the community to apply to should the magic word "mobilise" be spoken.

Wherever the German sovereign may chance to be when the order to mobilise is given—assuming, of course, that he is not out of the country—he has only got to ask the first inhabitant or walk to the end of the village and look at the directions on the signboard to find out his own particular place in the military scheme. He will see that he must go to Herr Schmidt, at 40 Schwarze street. Herr Schmidt will tell him exactly to which town he has to go in order to rejoin his own unit and, what is still more important, will give him the money and the railway pass to take him there.

Arrived at his destination, he will find his uniform, arms and accoutrements piled neatly in a heap, with a label bearing his name and regimental number on the top of the heap. He has only to put it on and take his place among the comrades with whom he did his military service some years ago.

This destination was arranged upon many years back, and the exact time schedule for marching and railway journeys was compiled long since.

The Basques.

An Interesting People Who Are a Puzzle Among Nations.

The Basque provinces lie in the north of Spain, and, although for centuries students have tried to trace the real origin of the people and find a key to their language, they have failed to do so.

All other known tongues spoken by the sons of men have been shown to possess a common origin, traceable to the Arabic and Semitic. But the Basque language has entirely resisted the philologist. In some aspects the vernacular shows traces of a Chinese admixture. In others it is clear that North American Indian terms are native to it. It also shows traces of barbaric languages spoken on the east coast of Africa.

The people themselves bear physiological traits found in those who speak the said tongues. The native name of Basqueland is Euskuara, and their motto is "Irurachat," or "Three in One." Nor is their political structure anything like that of any known political body, though they belong, of course, to Spain. Each Basque province is governed by a parliament composed of representatives—selected partly by election, partly by lot—among the householders of each country parish or town. Their laws are essentially peculiar to themselves and are conceived on no known code either of ancient or mediaeval times. They are a puzzle among nations and number half a million all told.

Paper Which is Waterproof.

In Japan there is a paper made which is impervious to water, being made of bamboo fibers and eucalyptus mixed with the fibers of the gampi and some other shrubs. The fibers are first torn apart, made dry, cleaned and scraped, boiled in a weak lye and thoroughly washed in water, after which they are beaten and then mixed with certain roots made into a viscous state. A solution containing resin, caoutchouc and camphor is also added. A sort of pulp is thus formed and then made into sheets, which are run through a calendering machine heated to various temperatures. The result is that a paper is produced which is exceedingly tough, light and which may be washed. The Japanese use it for leather imitations and india rubber.—Pathfinder.

Not Piety, but Pork.

The following bit of humor is taken from "The Farringdons," an English romance. The speakers are Mrs. Bateson and Mrs. Hankey, worthy wives, but not altogether above feeling a certain pleasure in showing up the ways of husbands:

"They've no sense, men haven't," said Mrs. Hankey; "that's what's the matter with them."

"You never spoke a truer word, Mrs. Hankey," replied Mrs. Bateson. "The very best of them don't properly know the difference between their souls and their stomachs, and they fancy they are a-wrestling with their doubts when really it is their dinners that are wrestling with them.

"Now, take Bateson himself," continued Mrs. Bateson. "A kinder husband or better Christian never drew breath, yet so sure as he touches a bit of pork he begins to worry himself about the salvation of his soul till there's no living with him. And then he'll sit in the front parlor and engage in prayer for hours at a time till I says to him:

"'Bateson,' says I, 'I'd be ashamed to go troubling the Lord with a prayer when a pinch of carbonate of soda would set things straight again!'"

How He Knew.

"My wife took me to the orchestra concert last night, and I think they played Wagner."

"What makes you think so?"

"Why, a big bunch of plaster fell from the ceiling into the middle aisle during the concert, and a man who was sleeping near me woke up and said 'Wagner!'"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Old Cadiz.

Once Richer Than London, Its Chief Business Now is Salt.

Of Cadiz, De Amicis said, "It is best described by spotting the word 'white' with a white pencil on blue paper."

Under the noonday sun, rises from the lofty Torre de Vigia, the mediaeval watchtower in the center of the city, its buildings are dazzling and almost encircled by the blue sea. A long, narrow isthmus like the stem of a pipe leads from San Fernando, on the mainland. Cadiz rests on the bowl of the pipe—yes, a pure white meerschaum without coloring, though 3,000 years old.

Americans may justly regard this new dominant place with compassion, because it grew to greatness by its commerce with the new world—while Spain ruled the American—and then fell away into decay on the loss of the western possessions.

It was great before Rome was founded. And as late as 1770 it was wealthier than London. Commerce has ever been its life. Today its chief business is the production of salt for export. This humble staple, evaporated in countless shallow lagoons in wide spreading marshes, still keeps Cadiz in touch with the new world, as most of the salt is shipped to South America.

The natives pronounce Cadiz with "z" silent and "a" very broad—"Ca-di." That has always been its name, with slight variations. Its Phoenician and Tyrian founders called it Gadir, a castle of fishmen. The Romans called it Gades. The Arabs had it Kadis.—Detroit News-Tribune.

Her Question.

In Spite of the Old Lady's Care She Managed to Blunder.

The daughters of a certain charming old lady in Washington are frequently much upset by the odd social blunders of their parent, whose failings in this respect are, however, more than offset by her kindliness of manner.

Among the callers to the house of this family was a Mrs. Farrell, who, after some years of widowhood, again married, this time becoming the wife of a Mr. Meggs.

"If you love us, mother," said one of the girls when the newly married lady's card had been brought in one afternoon shortly after the completion of the honeymoon, "don't make the mistake of calling her Mrs. Farrell."

The mother solemnly promised to commit no faux pas and as she went downstairs was heard to repeat to herself, "Meggs—Meggs—Meggs—not Farrell."

At the conclusion of the call the old lady was met at the head of the stairs by the daughter, who at once observed an ominous expression of despondency on the old lady's face.

"Oh, mother," she exclaimed, "surely you didn't"—

"No, Clara," replied the mother emphatically, "I didn't. I was so careful to call her Mrs. Meggs all the time."

"Well, what's the trouble, then?"

"Oh, dear!" murmured the kindly old lady, as she sank into a chair. "It was awful of me, I know! When I greeted her I said: 'I am glad to see you, Mrs. Meggs. How is Mr. Farrell?'"—Harper's Weekly.

How Faraday Refused a Pension.

Lord Melbourne once announced to Faraday that it was his pleasing duty to offer him a pension, but, he added, "I suppose all this science is humbug." Faraday at once replied, "If that is your opinion, my lord, I decline the pension," and retired. Melbourne, on meeting some of his colleagues, said: "I have had a strange thing happen. A man has declined a pension." But these gentlemen knew Faraday's position and reputation better than the premier and urged him to rectify the blunder. Faraday was again interviewed, but Melbourne was obliged to retract and apologise before the pension was accepted.

Northern Australia.

Australia's huge northern territory has a tropical, almost an equatorial, climate, and the heat is very enervating to Europeans. Its capital, Palmerston, contains more Chinese than Caucasians. The former are the ruling race and the employers; the whites are the servile and the employed. Large herds of buffaloes roam about the silent plains of this enormous territory, which would be a sportsman's paradise but for the wild natives, who are exceptionally fierce and treacherous and have killed a number of the hunters who came to hunt the buffaloes.

His Marathon Record.

"Colonel," asked the beautiful girl, "did you ever ride a horse ninety miles in three days?"

"No," replied the veteran of two wars, "but I once ran twenty miles in about thirty minutes, which, I think, was going some, considering the fact that the underbrush was thick, and I was in so much of a hurry that I forgot to throw away a knapsack that weighed nearly fifty pounds."

Counts Up.

"My dear," he said in a mildly reproachful tone, "I have no doubt at all that you are a good bargain hunter and that you always get really excellent bargains, but you get too many of them."

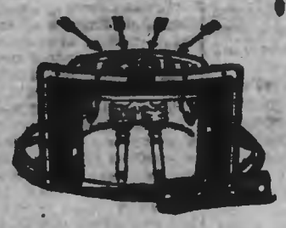
No Reason.

She—I think you might stop smoking when you heard me say I don't like it.

He—That's no reason. I heard you say you didn't like to be kissed.—Boston Transcript.

The Hecla Furnace

These Grate Bars Clean Your Fire Without A Poker



Because each of these four Grate Bars can be shaken separately. When the outer edge of a fire is dead, shake only the outer grate bars. When the outer edge needs a hard shaking, and the center only a few twists, you can clean each part of the fire of all the ashes and clinkers, without turning good coal down into the ash pan. This saves the fire—saves coal—saves sifting ashes—and, of course, one grate is much easier to turn than four geared together.

"Hecla" Individual Grate Bar is only one of a score of improvements possessed by this furnace alone.

The "Hecla" Fused Joints, for instance, insure the Furnace being dust, smoke and gas proof. The joints are fused, making them solid and absolutely airtight.

Our catalogue will tell you more of these and other exclusive features, which make the "Hecla" the safest and most sanitary warm air furnace on the market. Write today for free copy. 80

Royal Maids.

When They Wish to Marry They Must Do the Proposing.

When a reigning queen is to be married she must be the one to broach the subject first to her future consort. The same rule holds good with regard to all royal ladies who marry commoners.

The late Queen Victoria has told how she managed to "put the question" to Prince Albert—how she first showed him Windsor and its beauties and the distant landscape and then said, "All this may be yours." The queen of Holland on a like occasion simply sent a sprig of white heather, begging Prince Henry to look out its meaning in a book of flowers and their meanings. The Duchess of Argyll took the following means of proposing to the Marquis of Lorne: She was about to attend a state ball and gave it out that she would choose as her partner for the first dance the man she intended to honor. She selected the marquis, who subsequently became her husband.

But perhaps the most interesting of all ways chosen was that of the Duchess of Fife. She took the earl, as he then was, to a drawer and showed him its contents. There he saw a number of trifles he had given her at different times, including sprigs of several kinds of flowers, now dead, he had picked for her at various times. He was much impressed at the sight, nor did it require words on her part to make her meaning plain.—London Answers.

Adenoids.

The Way These Growths Endanger the Health of Children.

Adenoids are curious little cauliflower-like growths which appear at the junction of the nasal cavity and the pharynx. They are often observed at birth, but they seldom cause discomfort until some months later. Then they interfere with respiration and cause the baby to be restless. It tosses in its sleep and wakens suddenly, crying out as if in distress.

If adenoids are permitted to remain they deform the mouth, teeth, throat, chest and face. At their worst they produce pop eyes and what is called a frog face. They cause mouth breathing, with all its attendant evils. They open the way for a hundred and one ills, from rupture of the eardrum, running from the ears, coughs and tonsilitis to pulmonary tuberculosis.

A slight operation suffices to remove them. The baby suffers little pain and loses little blood. Out they come, and with them the overgrown tonsils that commonly accompany them. If they are suffered to remain they may never be discovered. But it is certain that in one way or another, directly or indirectly, they will cause damage.—Dr. Leonard Keene Hirshbergin in Delineator.

Yarmouth's Narrow Street.

Kitty Witches row, Great Yarmouth, can justly claim to be the narrowest street in the world, the entrance at one end being only twenty-nine inches and at the other fifty-six inches. It gives some idea of the width when one mentions that neighbors can shake hands and put out each other's candles across the street! Why these rows have been so constructed has given rise to a good deal of discussion. Some writers give the reason that when there was a very high tide the water might flow through them; others, in the event of an invasion they would prove an excellent means of defense or that the ground plans of the rows were suggested by the fishermen's nets, which, spread on the dunes to dry, had a narrow pathway left between them, which represented the rows. Yarmouth has 145 rows, and their total length exceeds seven miles, Kitty Witches being the most interesting and the narrowest of all.

ELSIE SIGEL'S DEATH A WARNING AGAINST LURE OF CHINESE

ATTENDED CANADIAN COAL MEN'S ASSOCIATION CONVENTION

Local Merchants Who Went To the Gathering Held At Buffalo, N. Y., This Week---Many Matters of Interest to Coal Men Discussed---Given Splendid Entertainment.

Messrs. J. E. A. Fitzgerald, William Scott, A. Weir, and Ald. Buller, of Lizzie Scott, and Ald. Buller was the local coal merchants, returned last night from Buffalo, N.Y., where they had been attending the annual convention of the Canadian Coal Merchants' Association. Mr. Scott was accompanied by his daughter, Miss accompanied by Mrs. Buller and Miss Buller.

The Association met Thursday and Friday and to-day. Matters of interest to coal men were discussed and arrangements for the best methods of the transportation of coal were decided upon. At this annual gathering business is also combined with pleasure, and the visitors to Buffalo were given a most cordial reception and were pleasantly entertained by the coal merchants of that city. The gentlemen were given a grand banquet at the Hotel Iroquois and all enjoyed an outing at Crystal Beach. In addition to this pleasure the visiting ladies were given an automible trip around the city, the trip being conducted by a committee of Buffalo ladies.

TROUBLES AND HARDSHIPS OF THE PROSPECTORS UP IN GOW GANDA

Vividly Portrayed In An Interesting Article by Correspondent —Roads in Bad Shape—Black Flies Extremely Thick.

SHOULD OPEN ROAD

The following interesting article written by a correspondent from Elk Lake City vividly portrays some of the troubles and hardships of prospectors in Gowganda:

Last week I went in to Gowganda over the canoe route from here. The canoe part of it is all right up the Montreal River into Stony Creek and through Obushkong Lake. There is a transportation company, with canoes at either side of the portages, and passengers who go in with hand baggage get through with one night on the way. I had a canoe for personal use on Gowganda Lake, a tent and a quantity of supplies. This meant going over the portages twice. There are 19 of them between Indian Chutes, 12 miles up the Montreal River from here, and Gowganda Lake. It was hard work. One of the portages is a mile and three-quarters in length and several are half a mile. For the most part they are not cut out. The trail lies along fallen timber three or four feet from the ground, and the long procession of packers toil and struggle with the difficulties in their way. It would not seem to be a very onerous, merely a necessary thing, for the Ontario Government to put a gang of cheppers on these trails to cut thorough the fallen timber. But the government is looking to the transportation company to do the business for nothing, and the transportation company sees no future for its operations, as next year may see a new route into Gowganda from the line of the C. N. R. It is saumed that if Mackenzie and Mann will build within 35 miles of Gowganda this year, the Ontario Government will finish the way in with a waggon road. That scheme will be taking away a great deal of the business of the T. and N. O.; but it is the custom for governments carrying on a railway business to cut their own throats. Meanwhile, no one gives a thought to the prospectors. The government takes their fees and gives them nothing in return. What all enduring mortals these men are. They will pack 100 to 150 pounds over these infernal portages and take their lives in their hands ten times a day trying to run their canoes a little further up into the rapids. Many of them have lost their supplies this year and a few their lives.

However, hard as the way into Gowganda is, the overland trail out to Elk City is ten times worse. It is the custom for one man to pack 50 pounds over this trail and spend one night on the road. The distance is 35 miles. I have just come out over it. I will remember the experience as long as I live. The entire distance is a blackened wilderness, bush fires having swept it this week. As I came along the trail was burning on both sides in some places, and there was not a little danger. This trail is also in a most damnable state. It runs through swamp after swamp, and I waded up to my knees. Yet a hundred men pass over it every day. The mail is carried in by relays of carriers on foot. They tried two horses at fairly long stretches of the way, but the carcases of the unfortunate animals lie on the mountain side foul sights enough to the passers by. The Dominion Government gives a good price to the contractor for carrying the mails and thinks that a sufficient contribution to the public good. The Ontario Government is supposed to have a large appropriation at its disposal for the improvement of the Gowganda road; but with characteristic John Sandfield economy, does not spend it. The contractor, David Conroy, has already spent a couple of thousand dollars corduroying the most impassable swamps. Last night I entered one of the bunk houses for the road-making gang. It is in charge of a French-Canadian, by name Chalut, who deserves a hero medal for the manner in which he faced the fire that swept round his cabin the previous day. Nearby there was a lot of dynamite, which Chalut dropped in the lake in the intervals of spilling water buckets round his habitation.

I have visited many of the mines and properties on the west shore of Gowganda Lake, near Gowganda Town, on the trail to Elk Lake. The mining is in practically all cases in the diabase. There is no doubt that these mines are valuable properties. Gowganda is a permanency and a tremendous addition to the wealth of Ontario.

MUST GET LAUNCHES UP CANAL EARLY

Peterborough people who spend the summer at Stony Lake, and who have launches here which they desire to take up the lakes are adviseb to see that their craft are taken up the canal as soon as possible, preferably on Monday as after that date it is liable to prove difficult navigation for small craft. Three drives of logs are coming down and when once they are let into the river small boats will be practically cut off until they are through. One drive is between Lakefield and Young's Point, a second just above the point and the third at Burleigh. The first of these will probably be in the river below Lakefield by Tuesday next.

WELL KNOWN SPEAKERS

A Series of Special Meetings are Being Arranged for in Bethany Tabernacle

A series of special meetings is being arranged for, to be held in Bethany Tabernacle beginning on Wednesday evening, June 30th, and continuing each afternoon and evening during the week.

It is expected that a number of speakers from the annual Canadian Convention of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, which opens in Toronto to-day, will be present and take part in the meetings.

Rev. Dr. Zimmerman and Mr. or Mrs. Evans from the Soudan, Africa, are to be here for the first three days, and the Rev. A. B. Simpson, of New York, President of the Society will be for Friday evening, July 2nd. Other speakers will be announced later, but it is hoped that the Rev. Hudson Ballard, late of Los Angelos, will be here for Saturday and Sunday.

THE HEART A GREAT WORKER

What a wonder is the heart! Day and night it works away pumping tons of blood through the body and never tires or wears out so long as it is supplied with rich, red blood, such as is formed by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. While sending supplies of nutrition to other parts of the body the heart renews and rebuilds its own wasted cells and so retains health and strength.

MANY WOMEN HAVE BEEN VERY STRANGELY FASCINATED

Murdered New York Girl Not the Only Woman Who Has Fallen A Victim to the Wiles of the Almond-eyed Orientals---Better Dead Than Married to A Chinaman Says the Oldest Chinese Mission Worker---The Attraction of the Sunday School---A warning to Other Girls.

CHINESE BEDROOM OF WM. LEON, THE AMERICANIZED CHINAMAN, AS IT LOOKED WHEN THE MUTILATED BODY OF MISS ELSIE SIGEL WAS DISCOVERED. THE TRUNK INTO WHICH THE BODY HAD BEEN CRAMMED IS SEEN BACK OF THE BED. THE PORTRAIT IS THAT OF LEON, WHOM MISS SIGEL LOVED, AND WHO IS SOUGHT BY THE POLICE OF THE COUNTRY.

MISS ELSIE SIGEL, DRAWN FROM A DESCRIPTION OF THE MURDERED GIRL FURNISHED BY MRS. FLORENCE TODD, THE NEW YORK CHINESE MISSION WORKER.

By W. G. Shepherd.

New York, June 26.—The murder of Elsie Sigel, the Chinese mission worker, brings up again the old-time mystery of the fascination the oriental character has for white women.

"I would rather see my daughter dead—if I had one—than married to a Chinaman," said Mrs. Florence Todd, oldest Chinese mission worker in New York, to me, as we sat in a chop suey house in Chinatown. She was having her dinner, using chopsticks, after a day's work in her Chinese rescue home, across Mott street.

"Elsie Sigel used to come to the rescue home very often. She spoke to me many times about Leon, whom the police say strangled her and hid her body in a trunk in his room.

"I didn't think she was in love with him. She was such a devout mission worker, and she declared so many times that God had called her to help save the souls of the Chinamen, that I thought her infatuation for Leon was only the love that a teacher might have for her pupil.

"I don't believe in young girls teaching Chinamen. The oriental character seems to hold a fascination for young American girls, after they once come in contact with it.

"I think it is dangerous for white girls to go to Chinese chop suey houses or on slumming trips to Chinese sections. There is something so bland and attractive about a Chinaman, especially after he is partially educated, that the attraction is full of danger."

The Sigel case is the first known in New York of a white girl's love for a Chinaman leading to murder.

Many of these love cases have arisen and ended in that matrimony which, Mrs. Florence Todd says, is worse than death.

Twenty years ago, in Brooklyn, a white girl in a Chinese Sunday school married one of her pupils and the public protest was great.

Later the frequency of these cases caused public sentiment against the intermarriage to wane.

In Brooklyn and New York in 1903 three white girls who were Sunday school workers married Chinamen.

One of these girls was Mae A. Vorhees, a beautiful Brooklyn society girl, who became the wife of Chan K. Kew, who is a graduate lawyer and serves as interpreter in New York courts.

Kew was so wealthy he gave his wife a deed to an apartment house.

The New York police are not very considerate of women who engage in the Chinese mission work. The police say the Chinamen go to Sunday school only to learn English and to associate with well-bred white girls.

"When a Catholic priest came down here into Chinatown to work," said Officer Aaronson, a Chinatown policeman, "the China boys asked him why he didn't start a Sunday school. He rented a room and began Sunday school work. One day he asked a Chinaman who had suggested the Sunday school, why the Chinamen didn't attend."

"You no hab got Melican girl teacher," replied the Chinaman, suggestively. The priest closed the Sunday school.

The police say the Chinese Sunday school boys always fool their teachers and that many of them live fast lives, in spite of their reputations for long, sincere and loud prayers at the missions.

The women who work in the mis-

CONVICT WHITEWASHED HIS CLOTHES AND MADE ESCAPE

Prisoner Sent Out To Whitewash Fence at Bracebridge Painted His Trousers and Shoes White and Successfully Got Away---Has Not Been Found.

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Bracebridge, June 26.—Bracebridge is laughing still over the device used by a prisoner in the gaol to escape, this week. The man was sent out to whitewash the jail fence, and getting a whiff of liberty bethought himself how he might take himself off without danger of capture. Seized of a brilliant idea, he swiftly whitewashed his convict trousers, then his shoes; scaled the wall in a moment and in a short time was walking down Main street effectually disguised as a summer visitor. The town is full of tourists, but this particular one cannot be located at present.

FORMER CAVAN LADY BADLY HURT IN WEST

The following despatch refers to a daughter of Mr. Robert Vance, Ida, Cavan Township, Miss Adda Vance, who was married three years ago to Dr. Howson, and went west:

Stettler, Alta., June 21.—Sunday a somewhat serious accident happened to Mrs. Howson, wife of Dr. Howson, of Stettler. With the doctor she was driving out to Buffalo lake. The lady was driving at the time, the doctor having got out to open a gate, and the team ran away. Mrs. Howson was thrown out and sustained a broken arm and sprained wrist. The injured lady was conveyed to town.

PLEASANTLY ENTERTAINED

Young Ladies of Robert Fair and Co. had Enjoyable Evening.

The young ladies of Robt. Fair & Co.'s store were pleasantly entertained last evening by Miss Florence Butcher at her beautiful home, Burnham street. Tea was served on the lawn after which the evening was most enjoyably spent, Mr. Butcher placing his speedy little launch at their disposal and a delightful time was spent on the river.

AGAIN REMANDED

Boys Charged With Theft Appeared in Court Yesterday.

Wesley Crowter and a young man by the name of Keegan appeared before Magistrate Dumble at the police court yesterday afternoon, charged with the theft of a watch and five dollars. Mr. F. D. Kerr appeared for Crowter, and Mr. G. N. Gordon for Keegan. The case was again remanded until Saturday next. The authorities are endeavouring to find two other boys said to be implicated in the theft, and cannot proceed with the trial until they are found. The two were allowed to go on their promise to appear when called.

DRAGOONS AT ST. LUKE'S

Cavalrymen Will Attend Divine Service To-morrow Morning.

The officers and men of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons, who are in annual camp at Nassau, will parade to St. Luke's Church for Divine service to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock.

The soldiers will be brought down the canal by steamer to the lift-lock, and will leave that point at 10.40. The officers of the 57th Regiment are requested to meet the Dragoons at the lift-lock and march with them to the church. A band of the 57th will provide music for the march. The rector of St. Luke's, Dr. Langfeldt, is Hon. Captain and Chaplain of the Dragoons. A special military service has been arranged.

HOW CROUP IS DREADED

If there is any warning use Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and prevent the terrible struggle of the little one for breath. If you know nothing of it till the struggle comes, cause the child to vomit and then use Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine frequently in small doses to prevent repeated attacks. This great medicine is wonderfully effective in curing croup and bronchitis.

WERE DISORDERLY AT GYPSY CAMP---WERE FINED IN COURT

Four Young Men Drove Down Last Evening in a Cab and Created a Disturbance—Police Called and Arrested Them.

GYPSY GIRL TESTIFIED

Every night, large numbers of [illegible] have been visiting the gypsies at their encampment at the extension of George street, much to the annoyance of the latter. Last evening four young men drove down in a cab and by their [illegible] conduct became such a nuisance that the police had to be called. Three of them were placed under [illegible]. Two of them, N. T. Moore and [illegible] Chatterson were each fined [illegible] while the other two were discharged.

One of the gypsy women [illegible] as a witness. She [illegible] three of them having been drunk and particularly boisterous in their conduct. She claimed that they used much bad language and made improper proposals to the women.

Messrs. George Mitchell and Harry Dunlop, who have been appointed to preserve law and order in the camp, gave evidence as to the conduct of the men. They were talking to the women and looking into the tents after having been told to get away.

For the defence, both Moore and Chatterson emphatically denied the statements of the gypsy woman. Moore claimed that she wanted to tell his fortune. He refused to allow her. They were corroborated in their story by the hack driver.

His Worship imposed a light fine.

THE CHOIR EXCURSION

St. John's Choristers had an Enjoyable Time at Stony Lake Yesterday.

St. John's choir, the Chancel Guild, and many of the church officers had a splendid day's sail to Burleigh Falls and Mount Julian yesterday on the steamer "Water Lily. The party numbering 90 with Messrs. H. W. Morphet and R. J. Devey in charge, left Wolfe Street Landing at 8 a.m. arriving at Burleigh at noon. Lunching at the Royal hotel, the party next sailed to Mount Julian, where races and sports were held. A baseball match, married and single, resulted in a win for the married men by 2 to 0. The steamer was again boarded at 4 p.m. when tea provided by Coleman Bros. was served. A most enjoyable day's pleasure ending at 8 p.m., the choir boys giving volleys of cheers for those who had helped them to a happy day.

Mr. H. Long brought along a goodly supply of ice cream and Messrs. Conway, Coulthard, F. Linton and R. Palmer contributed to the prize list. The weather was lovely and Captain Frawer and his staff were most courteous in their efforts for the comfort of the party on the steamer.

MET WITH ACCIDENT

Young Italian Injured on C.P.R. Yesterday

A young Italian employed on the gravel train on the C. P. R. met with an accident about four miles from the city yesterday afternoon. He was struck by some apparatus utilised for lifting gravel and his limbs were badly bruised. He was brought to the city and taken to St. Joseph's hospital in the Dan Spence ambulance, where he ws attended by Dr. Gray, the C. P. R. physician.

Motor Boat Races A Feature Of The T.A.S. Pic-nic July 1

A decided specialty in connection with the T.A.S. sports on Dominion Day will be the motor boat races. The first event will be a race limited to crafts of 5 h.p. and under, for a handsome pennant already donated. In order to bring the speedy boats down the river a second event open to all boats will be run off. The motor boat races will begin promptly at 8 o'clock and will be judged by Mr. R.M. Roy, who handled last year's races in a most satisfactory manner.

CHURCH UNION

At the recent June synods and conferences, the question of Church Union was thoroughly threshed out, with, apparently, a small yield of grain in the way of practical results. To the eye of the onlooker church union still remains a problem to be solved. Such results are not unexpected; for three difficult questions loom out of the situation—is church union practicable. If practicable, is it desirable. If effected would it be permanent? As to its practicability there seem to be obstacles, in the way of mutual surrender. In religious matters if in any, conscience plays its part and the initial step to church union, sacrifice of conscientious scruples, appears to be the most difficult to take. And this represents only a small portion of the ground to be covered in the way of compromise. As to the desirability; this is less questionable, but would the spirit of righteous rivalry now shown by the separated church systems be proportionately multiplied in the united body? Would the same rivalry in advancing the bounds of the Kingdom be concentrated in the new body? As to the question of permanency, history furnishes the answer. When the Wesley revival took place in England his followers broke away from the parent Church and established a separate church organization. This did not not remain united. How many distinct bodies of Methodists are there now? This is imputed as no blame, it is a necessary fault in an organization where the human element is a factor. In the Presbyterian Church there have been divisions. In the Church of England there are different schools of thought and different organizations have been evolved. If the whole of the Protestant denominations were united to-morrow, how long would the organization retain its organic integrity. How long before church union would again be a live question? There would be factions and parties developed—men who are too good for the church and must have a wider measure of freedom in a little sect of their own. If the present church organizations, supposed to be animated by common sympathies and life-long association cannot hold their people and prevent schisms and sects, how can a united church composed of a heterogeneous membership with varied traditions, and differing sympathies be expected to resist conditions that, under more favourable circumstances, were irresistible? These suggestions indicate how much is to be accomplished before church union becomes an accomplished fact. The churches are doing a great work now but are capable of greater things. If each in its sphere developed the full measure of its capabilities, and agreed to divide the field fairly to prevent overlapping of effort, little would probably be heard of church union except in the spirit which can be one even under diverse organic existence.

BEAUTIFY THE CITY.

In many population centres it is the practice to erect monuments to citizens who have rendered the city or state distinguished service of some kind. Peterborough has one or two of these monuments, one, especially, in Central Park, to the memory of Captain Brown, who laid down his life in the service of his native land.

There is, however, another monument less known, but greatly significant. It is erected in the middle of the pavement o nthe west side of Reid, corner of Dalhousie street. It is a monument to General Inefficiency, whose work throughout the city is in many places in evidence in the form of strabismic pavements—cross-eyed as to alignment and level, and other contributions to ugliness. This monument to General Inefficiency is moderate in size and height. It is in the form of a hydrant, placed in the middle of the line of a five-foot concrete pavement. When the water mains were laid on this street it was unbuilt and the hydrant was placed upon the line where a pavement was afterwards constructed—last summer. The Board of Works, instead of having the hydrant shifted to its proper position, as the Water Commissioners, who do things on business principles, would promptly have done on application, had the pavement built on either side of the hydrant, and the latter surrounded with a temporary platform of planking. There it stands to this day as much in place as a telephone pole would be in the middle of a race track. Any person running in the darkness—to escape a shower or something of that kind, runs the risk at the same time of being disembowelled by coming in contact with this hydrant, or having bones broken. Of course the city would be liable, and, as we have plenty of money to pay damages, the thing could be easily smoothed over—the suffering of the sufferer not necessarily being of any account. Of course the accident and bill of damages might be avoided by doing the thing right in the first place. But that would be the establishment of a precedent which would not meet the approval of General Inefficiency.

Why in heaven's name are these things done? If subordinates are at fault why do those in authority permit it? It is all owing to the lack of system and lack of attention to the public interest. This is not the only example. When Gilmour street was treated to gravel two summers ago a telephone or similar pole was left in the highway ,opposite number 571. It stood in the wheelway, 3½ feet from the edge of the pavement, which is outside the tree line. The pole is a dangerous obstacle and some of these dusky evenings there will be a "mix-up" between buggies and auto-cars, and somebody will be hurled against this outstanding pole, and killed, or maimed, and the city will have to pay the shot.

If any person deliberately planted a pole in similar relation to the pavement in any city or town, he should be given six months in jail. Yet the Board of Works people deliberately allowed this obstruction to stay where it was and is yet, though all that was necessary to do was to notify the Company interested and it would be removed,, without cost to the city.

The beauty of a city consists largely in the beauty—uniformity and symmetry of its streets and the necessary objects placed upon them—pavements, hydrants, poles, etc. Poles are hideous enough in any form, but when they are planted in the middle of streets or at awkward angles of slope their ugliness is emphasized by their obstructiveness.

When citizens ask the Board of Works for material to build or level a boulevard they are told—by understrippers anyway —that the city has no responsibility in respect of boulevards and that citizens must do these things themselves.

This is the wrong view to take. The city is responsible for the care and beautification of the streets and public places. In towns and cities where the authorities are civilised and alive, the street authorities not only help construct boulevards, but build concrete curbs to protect them from wheels and permit the formation of effective gutters. This is great encouragement to citizens to keep boulevards in front of their places in trim and tidy condition to the general enhancement of the beauty of the streets of the town and city as a whole.

But we can't expect things like these in Peterborough when places capable of being made beauty spots are neglected. Take the little triangular plot at the intersection of Charlotte, Park and Downie streets. For years the town was urged to plant it with trees. This was carlessly done, the trees left unprotected and were killed and replanted. By this means enough trees have been planted upon this spot, to cover ten acres —if they had all grown. It was owing solely, almost, to the late James L. Hughes, who lived in the vicinity, that the trees growing there to-day are living. He watered them and cared for them, and after much asking, got the city to put in a water service and place a fence round the plot, till the trees were grown. Now, the trees are flourishing, but the little park is as much neglected as the old Methodist cemetery in the north of the city. The grass is growing rank and wild, instead of being properly mown and watered. How do you think the city looks after this pleasure park? Instead of having the turf shaved by a lawn mower, a bony horse is smuggled in to crop the grass and leave the rank tufts and weeds to flourish unmolested.

This park should be thrown open, the trees trimmed, the grass cut, and seats provided. It would make a splendid place for people who are out for pleasure to wait for the street cars, or to meet for friendly gossip in the hot summer evenings.

At different points the whole length of Park street there are similar plots which could be made not only splendid little beauty spots, but delightful resting places. If the city would do their share, show an interest and provide for protection, the residents in the vicinity would gladly help and the general public would help protect these places; but when they see them neglected, unkempt, weed grown, and converted into horse pastures, and become like a dog that's got a bad name — everbody feels free to administer a kick and make these potential beauty spots a dumping ground and a medium of thoughtless vandalism.

We can never have beautiful streets till the city authorities change their policy and help the citizens by their co-operation for the general and universal attainment of beautiful streets and public places.

The thing is so easily done—doing it is all that is needed. We might have a Park Commission. There are citizens public spirited and capable, who would serve without fee, finding their reward in the beautification of the city which would result from doing things that cost little or nothing and restraining the city council from doing things that cost money and mean disfigurement and injury. If a Park Commission would do as well in its sphere as does the Water Commission the appearance of the city would be revolutionized for the better in a single season.

EVEN A CONSERVATIVE

Much has been said about the manner of dealing with the public domain. It has been charged in the House that Liberals secured large areas of the public domain. When a Conservative got a good share of the people's property there was very little said about it. Here is a case that is not without interest. One of the Tory members who denounced legitimate transactions as graft when the name of a Liberal was connected with them was Saml. Barker, Conservative M.P. for Hamilton. A dispatch dated Vancouver, June 21 reads as follows:

> "I am going to inspect 20,000 acres of coal lands in the Telkwa Valley secured several years ago by a Toronto and Hamilton syndicate, in which I am interested," said Mr. Samuel Barker, M.P., of Hamilton.

This is one of the Conservative members who deprecated the ownership of public lands by a Liberal—one of the men whose voice was loudest in denunciation of certain gentlemen who had acquired public lands by paying a fair price for them. One of the critics who proceeded upon the assumption that any negotiation with the Government must necessarily be a grafting operation, and yet we find that he informs the press that he is interested in the ownership of 20,000 acres of coal lands in the West. It is not even suggested that there is anything wrong in the transaction, but it is pointed out that should a Liberal member of the House admit to the public press that he is interested in a syndicate owing 20,000 acres of coal lands, it would immediately be referred to by Mr. Barker, his party friends, and the party press as a startling instance of graft.

CANADIAN VS. U. S. METHODS

(London Advertiser.)

The manner in which the Dominion department of railways and canals is now dealing with the wreck in the Soo Canal locks signally illustrates the modern Canadian way of doing things, and sets an example of efficiency in governmental methods which United States journals are compelled to admit is worthy of being copied on that side of the border.

The Syracuse Post-Standard is particularly struck with the alacrity shown by the department at Ottawa in connection with the unfortunate accident referred to. It points out that simultaneously with the announcement of the disaster came word that "repairs on the damaged Soo canal are already under way and will be rushed to completion." The Post-Standard proceeds to compare this business way of doing things with Washington red-tape methods, as shown in connection with the recent tremendous ice gorge in the Niagara River which entailed much injury to property and imminently threatened vastly greater damage. When Washington was appealed to, a day or more was spent in an effort to determine to which particular federal department the work should go; another day was lost in grave discussion of governmental jurisdiction, and finally, though the damage, actual and impending, steadily grew, tardy word came from the national capital that there was no money available and nothing could be done.

Meantime, Governor Hughes, of New York, recognized the emergency, and commendably irreverent of red tape, gave peremptory instruction to the proper state officials to "blow out the ice gorge with dynamite." Thus it happened that while the devotees of official regularity in Washington were, still uncertainly scratching their heads, the gorged Niagara channel had been cleared and an appalling danger removed.

The Post-Standard considers the two incidents worth pondering, as they serve to demonstrate that there is no basis for the charge of "slowness" sometimes made in the United States against Canadians. As to the methods of government in Canada, the Syracuse paper says the charge is not and never has been true. "We of the United States," it continues, "should know and for our own warning in commercial and agricultural competition need to know, that there is no more practical or businesslike administration of public affairs in any country on earth than is consistently illustrated in the administrat ion of the Dominion of Canada. Without noise of trumpets, without any lost motion, there has within recent years been created in the Canadian Northwest a veritable new agricultural world; while the transportation facilities of the Dominion from sea to sea have increased in efficiency and achievement by leaps and bounds."

NO FAVOURITISM

The Department of Justice should inquire into the state of the law and the power of the courts to grant a stay of procedeings or otherwise interfere where sentence of death has been passed upon a murderer.

In this country, no matter how high local feeling may run when a crime has been committed, people have so great a confidence in the regular processes of justice, that there is no thought of lynching. Even in the presence of so revolting a crime as that committed by a negro near Stratford, the neighbours were content to capture the monster and hand him over to the county constable without any resort to violence. This popular confidence in the machinery of justice should not be shaken.

It seems necessary that the extent to which there can be legal interference with or without interruption of the carrying out of a sentence of capital punishment, should be clearly defined, so that there will be no suspicion that the ingenuity of a lawyer can save a guilty man, or that the putting up of money for a law fight, or the enlisting of political, social, or any other influences, can defer the penalty until such times as the people shall have forgotten the crime and the criminal, and will not object if he gets off easily.

We cannot preserve that fine respect for law on which we so much pride ourselves unless we preserve also the solid grounds on which that respect was built up.—London Advertiser.

DAUGHTER OF MRS. SAMUELLE VIGNEAU.

MRS. SAMUELLE VIGNEAU, Amherst, Isle de La Magdaline, Can., writes:

"I write to tell you that I am perfectly well. I took only three bottles of your Peruna according to your advice and the directions in your book, and it restored my health.

"It also cured my daughter, who is 16 years old. She took one bottle according to directions. I assure you that no doctor is equal to your book and your advice. I have recommended your remedy to a number of persons."

A Woman's Remedy.

Mrs. A. E. Stouffer, Capioma, Kansas, writes:

"Peruna has given me health and strength; it is the best medicine that was ever made for women. My friends say they never saw such a change in a woman. I cannot say too much for Peruna."

LOCAL OPTION CAMPAIGN.

The matter appearing in this space from time to time is furnished by the Temperance and Moral Reform League of this City, who have arranged for its Publication.

THREATENING PETERBOROUGH MERCHANTS

The sooner the hotel keepers of Peterboro, who have been privately threatening Peterboro merchants and others with retaliation or loss of trade if they continue to support Local Option, change their tactics, the better it will be for the hotel keepers who are concerned. The City Temperance League has received reports from a number of sources of instances where hotel keepers, who have been doing business with certain well known people in Peterboro for years, have actually withdrawn or threatened to withdraw their trade unless the parties they deal with agreed not to support Local Option This is a serious matter. It is a question if it is not bribery. This is a free country. Attempts to bulldoze and force men to vote a certain way are sure to prove disastrous to those who attempt it. How would the hotel keepers like to find an effort being made to coerce or frighten them into voting the other way?

If the hotelkeepers who are concerned would only stop and think for a few minutes, they, themselves, would see the folly of such tactics. There are only 23 license holders in Peterboro. There are two or three thousand temperance advocates at least. If these temperance advocates find, as they are beginning to find, that certain milk dealers, merchants and others are losing the trade of the hotel keepers because they support Local Option, it will not take the temperance people long to turn trade to these people. The result soon would be that the people who lost the trade of the saloon interests would gain an infinitely larger trade from the temperance people. This is not a game that the temperance people would like to play. It will, however, be only natural for them to support those who support them.

It would be an easy matter, also, for the temperance people to turn more trade away from the few hotels who are offending in this matter than the hotels have ever given to the people who they are trying to hit. The hotel keepers should come out in the open and fight fairly and not attempt to accomplish their ends by such means as some of them have been attempting.

LAW ENFORCEMENT AT LAKEFIELD.

Those people who have been claiming that Local Option is not a success in Lakefield because liquor can be purchased there should notice the troubles that are following some at least of those in Lakefield who are attempting to break the law. Only a few weeks ago a hotel keeper in Lakefield was fined rather heavily for keeping liquor on his premises. This week License Inspector Jos. Stewart visited the place of this hotel keeper unexpectedly and seized a barrel of whiskey. This means that this hotel keeper is to be again prosecuted and probably heavily fined.

Unfortunately the charge against this man is only one of keeping liquor on his premises. Could he be convicted of selling liquor, he would, on the second conviction be sent to jail for four months, without the option of a fine. License Inspector Stewart has been doing good work in Lakefield and someone is sure to be sent to jail sooner or later if the law continues to be violated.

DEATHS FROM LIQUOR IN PETERBORO.

Were a wild animal to get loose on the streets of Peterboro and kill one or two people, steps would be taken immediately to kill it in turn. Every person in the city would be unanmous that such a creature should be put out of existence. Liquor kills people in Peterboro every little while, as coroner's inquests are held, but we hear but little of these cases, the public does not realize the terribleness of the monster that is at work in the city.

If these citizens of Peterboro who are interested in this matter were to make a few inquiries from the nurses and doctors, who know what goes on in the alcoholic wards of the two Peterboro hospitals, they would gain information that would make them determined to drive the liquor curse out of the city. Men have died in the city hospitals in the "horrors" through excessive indulgence in drink and their deaths have been of the most fearful description. Instead of being destroyed quickly as they would have been had a wild animal attacked them, their deaths, in some cases, have been prolonged for days and often weeks during much of which they have suffered more than is entailed in a score of natural deaths. The best thing we can do with the liquor traffic in Peterboro is to drive it out of the city by voting for Local Option next January.

If we find, after we get local option that the liquor men or others are attempting to sell liquor on the sly, we must do with them what we would do with any other law breaker, fine and imprison them. It is time for us to show the men interested in the liquor business that they must obey the law just as everyone else is expected to.

FUNDS FOR THE CAMPAIGN.

Announcements have been made from the pulpits, in most of the city churches, inviting the members to contribute to the funds of the Local Option campaign. One man in Peterboro has offered to give $120 to the Local Option cause. Other generous contributions have been received. One poor woman, whose husband drinks, has given five dollars. This is a significant feature of the fight, and it is one that, possibly is striking more terror into the hearts of the supporters of the liquor interests than any other one thing. After suffering patiently for years the evils inflicted by the liquor traffic, the people are arising in their might and are determined to wipe it out of existence. They are willing to suffer in the cause, and incidentally to subscribe the money that is needed to oppress this giant evil. This is because they know that they have right on their side, and right is might. If God be for us, who can be against us?

The supporters of the liquor traffic know that public opinion is against them. They know that people do not like it to be known that they are on their side. They have to pay and pay heavily to get people to work for them, and often then they find that they cannot depend upon the loyal support of their workers. One bartender in Peterboro has announced his intention to vote for local option.

There are hundreds in Peterboro who are willing to work on the temperance side without payment. This is one of the reasons why every person seems convinced that local option will carry in Peterboro next January.

THE KANSAS CITY LAW.

Governor Hoch, of Kansas, said many strong things in favour of the prohibitory law of his State. The liquor party denounced him as a fanatic. His term of office has gone by, and Governor Stubbs has taken his place. Does the change of administration indicate a change of public opinion? A St. Louis paper wrote the new Executive, asking him to make a statement concerning the prohibitory law and its effect on revenue and taxes. Governor Stubbs replied as follows:

"Prohibition has been successful in 90 per cent. of the State for many years. An illegal license system was maintained in several cities, sanctioned by a false sentiment, but that has been effectively crushed and no longer exists. The State and local governments has so long done without revenues from the liquor traffic that no one now in the public service can tell whether it was an inconvenience to do without this revenue. There is no deficit. Crime, of course, has largely decreased, and it has been our invariable experience that laxity in the enforcement of the prohibitory law has been followed with an increase of crime and police and court costs. This is axiomatic, and never disputed in Kansas."

THE ORIGIN OF THE BRIDAL CUSTOMS OF PRESENT DAY

Traditions About Veils, Wedding Rings and Gifts, Old Shoes and Days of the Week---Some Superstitions for the June Bride.

By Jeannette Young Norton

Happy is the wooing
That is not long in doing.

Wedding customs have varied with changing periods and people as the centuries have moved. The wedding ring, made of iron, copper, brass, leather, sedge and adamant, seems to have figured in the ceremony as far back as Bible times, the first record of it being found in Genesis IV., where Tubal Cain, "the instructor of every kind of artificer," is mentioned.

The gimmal ring of old was cunningly devised in two fitted sections, and at the wedding service it was divided, one half for the bride and the other half for the bridegroom. The ring finger has also remained the same, having been chosen as the least active finger and therefore the safest to wear the ring upon; and also for the sentimental reason that it is supposed to contain a blood vein that connects directly with the heart; so—

As your wedding ring wears
You'll live out your cares.

The origin of the wedding veil is a matter of some dispute; the Crusaders are said to have brought it to Western Europe, and others say that it comes from the Greeks and Romans, who were entirely unshrouded during the bridal ceremony by a flaming yellow veil. However that may be, Margaret Tudor on her marriage to James of Scotland is said to have worn the first wedding veil in Western Europe. Elizabeth Stuart wore flowing hair with a chaplet of coloured flowers on her head. In the reign of George III. both veils and wreaths were quite out of fashion for a time, flowing hair confined with gold and pearl bandeaux or fillets being the proper thing.

The Duchess of Gloucester and the Earl of Waldegrave were married on May 16, 1759, and it is recorded that "she wore a white and silver brocaded gown and a large hat, which she wore at the wedding dinner, and there was neither form nor indecency present, as there was met with generally on such occasions; and they also went on a wedding trip unaccompanied in their own carriage."

The veil and housewife's cap are of the same origin, and the bride is supposed to lay aside the one to don the other. All the wedding wreaths were made of myrtle and olive leaves and coloured flowers until the orange blossoms, first worn by Saracens as emblems of fecundity, were introduced. The trousseau, jewel gift from the bridegroom to the bride has taken the place of the "dow purse," which in days of old was the first instalment of the wife's "pin money."

Matrons of honour are of Anglo-Saxon custom, while bridesmaids and men as attendants are equally time honoured, and flower girls and pages are as old as royalty itself.

The honeymoon, so called, in a period lasting in different lands from one week to thirty days. The rice-throwing upon the couple is a symbol of the saying, "increase and multiply."

The handful of wheat sars carried in the hand of the bride is a symbol of the prosperity and thrift she brings to her new home, and it is still typified among the Germans, who always take a loaf of bread with them to a new home as insuring the prosperity with which the home is to be blessed.

The throwing of old shoes after the carriage of the bride is really a casting off of frivolity and the sign of taking on the new maternal dignity. Throwing away of pins of the wedding veil is to insure the happiness of wedded life and typifies the putting away forever of the last symbol of maidenhood.

The real wedding cake is not a fruit cake, but is several cakes put together with almond paste and sugar icing.

The month of May has always borne a tradition of being unlucky for weddings, as has also Sunday, from an ancient ecclesiastical law which also forbids marriages in Lent and between Rogation and Trinity Sundays.

Marry in Lent and you'll live to repent;
Marry in May and you'll rue the day.

If a bride be given to superstition she can dwell on the following and arrange her wedding day accordingly:

"Monday for wealth, Tuesday for health, Wednesday best of all; Thursday for crosses, Friday for losses, and Saturday no luck at all."

Then there is the old fad of wearing the yellow garter for luck, and the old blue bow is religiously worn by brides versed in wedding lore: "Something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue." The saying, "Happy is the bride the sun shines on," makes every bride study the sky anxiously on her wedding morn.

If the veil is of tulle there is an unwritten law that it must fall to the end of the train, with the corners rounded to hang well at the sides. If it is of real lace then a point or scallop rests lightly upon the hair, and it may be worn with or without the tulle foundation.

A widow upon second marriage is not supposed to wear a veil, but in the case of a church wedding a real lace veil may be worn in the style of a court head-dress.

Source of Misery PROTRUDING PILES

Read the evidence that this distressing ailment is cured by DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Some people find it hard to believe that anything short of a surgical operation will cure protruding piles. The doctors have brought about this belief. There is any amount of proof that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a positive cure for this as well as all other forms of piles.

Captain Wm. Smith, Retelmuka, B. C., writes:

"It is with much pleasure I state that I have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for itching, protruding piles of many years standing, and it has completely cured me. I had previously tried many other remedies but they did me no good. I would strongly recommend this Ointment to those suffering from this complaint, for it is a good and genuine cure."

Mrs. Captain Gunnasmith, Salvation Army, Essex, Ont., writes:

"It is with pleasure that I write to you in praise of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Two years ago I was taken with a severe attack of protruding piles and became so bad that I had to keep my bed and could lie in no position except on my stomach. Doctors could give me no help and the various oils and ointments used proved of no avail.

"One Saturday night when I was suffering untold agony my husband went to the drug store for a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, which I had heard of as a cure for piles. Although I had almost given up hope, to the wonder of those around me, I was able to be up on Monday and have had no difficulty from piles since. As a treatment for all kinds of sores and bursts, Dr. Chase's Ointment works like magic."

PROMINENT BOSTON CITIZENS ARE PLANNING NEW LIFE FOR THAT CITY

There, Millionaires, Labourers, Merchants, Reformers, and all Classes, Have United to Make Their City a Better Place in Which to Live.

DETAILS OF THE PLAN

(By W. G. Shepherd.)

Boston, Mass., June 23.—Boston has found out what is the matter with itself. Other cities have probably done the same thing, more or less. But Boston has gone a step further. It is making one vast, tremendous pull-together effort to set itself right.

It believes it can succeed. Can it? Well, Boston — which means all of its leaders in every walk of life — is so sure of its success that it is going to make an exhibition of itself in 1915.

Other American cities grow, like Topsy, in a topsy-turvy fashion.

Boston has grown the same way but it's tired of it.

"Cities the world over," says Edward A. Filene, head of the Boston movement, "have in the past grown unguided, but a change has come in the world. Cities are being planned now."

And the thing in Boston that thrills you is this planning. Who can be the architect of a city?

Not business men alone; not experts; not millionaires; not partmakers, but the people.

And the wonderful thing in Boston is that they have found the way in which all the people can work together. They are going to work desperately for the next six years, and in 1915 they are going to invite the people of the country to Boston. They are going to exhibit their city, their city government, their mayor, their factories, their wharves, their parks, their homes for laboring men, their city indebtedness, their business houses, their schools — the whole city in its every aspect..

The first thing that Boston discovered in preparing for the coming exhibition of itself is that the backbone of the city is not its business interests, but its toilers.

The first thing to do in Boston — they all admit it, bankers, heads of public service corporations, manufacturers, all of the men who are commonly called "the kid glove element" — is to give the toiler plenty of wages, so that he will be happy and hopeful and have a chance to save and to keep his family happy and healthy, and give his children a sensible education.

On the committee of 15 men, who are known as directors of "Boston-1915," you will find Henry Abrahams secretary of the Boston Labor Union, and Arthur M. Huddell, vice-president of International Union of Steam Engineers, and Richard C. Cabot, M.D., a blue blood, who is in social service here, and Louis D. Brandeis, who is an arbitrator between labor and capital, and Robt. N. Woods, who is head of the South-end house. Thus one-third of the committee represents the element of the toiler.

They have gone pretty deeply into the business of trying to make the toiler happy. They're working with the toiler of the future — the boy who is in school. And, by the way, isn't it another sign of Boston's sagacity that one of its first efforts should be directed towards it schools which are the basis of our civilisation?

The Boston-1915 committee is helping to establish a system whereby every schoolboy shall be studied for the purpose of discovering what he is best fitted to do in life.

PLEDGE BOSTON CITIZENS SIGN

This pledge is sent to every civic organization in Boston. The organization pledges itself to help 1915, and then each individual member who pleases signs the pledge.

I believe all citizens should unite definitely to work for their city, and therefore pledge such service as I can give to Boston-1915. I am specially interested in .....

PAINTING OLD HOUSE COST THIS MAN ABOUT $30,000

Examiner Special.

Bangor, Me., June 24.—The costliest job of house painting on record hereabouts is reported by a Northeast Harbour man, who lost a fortune through his anxiety to make improvements upon his residence and his poor opinion of Northeast Harbour [illegible]. This man concluded some years ago that his house, then white, would look a great deal better if painted a sort of canary colour, with pea green trimmings. He hadn't the money to pay for the paint or work, but he had plenty of land, being in fact land poor. To a friend from Ellsworth the Northeast Harbour man said:

"Here, Jim, I need $50 the worst way. Now, you give me the $50 and I'll give you a deed to that pasture lot down there to the shore."

And Jim said, after some thoughtful inspection of the land: "Well, John, bein's it's you, an' you want the money, an' it's a consid'rable bit o' pastur'—well, here's your money, an' get the deed."

So the pasture lot changed hands. The white house was painted what the neighbours described as "light yailer." Summer visitors subsequently came and Northeast Harbour began to hump itself and get rich. The man who got the pasture lot sold a half interest in it to another Ellsworth man for $1,250, and then, not long afterward, the two got $2,500 to bind an option on the land at the price of $10,000, the deposit to be forfeited in case of no sale. There was no sale and the owners of the land pocketed the $2,500. Last summer they sold a quarter of the land for $7,500 to a New York man, who built a fine cottage there, and to-day they are asking $25,000 for the remaining three-quarters.

The man who painted his house at this great cost says that the sea waves are positively gay compared with him. "More than $30,000 for paintin' that ramshackle of a house!" he exclaimed. "Now, if I'd had more sense and less style I might have a yot and a team o' speckled hosses an' be a swellin' 'round with them big bugs—yes, sirree."

Asbestos, The Mineral Of Mystery, Soft As Silk; Fire-proof As Platinum

The mystery of the mineral kingdom is asbestos. It is, in fact, so much of a puzzle that many scientists look upon it as a sort of link between the mineral and the vegetable world. It might be said to resemble a mineralogical vegetable, possessing the curious properties found in both; for it is at once fibrous and crystalline, elastic and brittle, heavy as a rock when taken from the mines, but light as spun silk when treated mechanically.

Soft, delicate almost as a cobweb, the fibres of this strange mineral are so nearly indestructible that they have withstood the action of the elements since the world began. Through all the countless ages, during which the hardest rocks surrounding it have changed their characters, this geological freak has remained intact, having successfully resisted the assaults of fire, acids and time.

One is accustomed to think of asbestos as a very modern discovery, and in fact its commercial utility dates back hardly longer than a quarter of a century. But historians are pretty well agreed that the strange mineral was known thousands of years prior to the Christian era, being prized by the ancients more as an article of extreme luxury or as a most wonderful and interesting curiosity than as something of practical utility.

Ancients Used It.

There is much evidence, however, that the Egyptians of the earlier Pharaoh dynasties, engaged as they were in commerce with the Athenians, built up a considerable industry in the manufacture of what were known as "cere cloths"—garments in which the mummified dead were wrapped for preservation. There is a specimen of asbestos texile in the museum of the Vatican Library, moreover, which was unearthed in Rome in the eighteenth century.

It is highly probable, say modern authorities, that the spinning of asbestos for lamp wicks was also one of the earlier uses to which this Grecian asbestos was put. The never-dying lamps of the Vestal Virgins were probably equipped with such wicks. Both Estrabo and Plutarch refer to these lamps as being perpetual, because of the wicks remaining unconsumed, while Pausaias, Pliny, Theophrastus, and other Greek and Roman writers refer constantly to both lamp wicks and napkins as being made of "crystalline flax," a substance which can have been none other than asbestos.

Pliny Tells Of It.

Pliny in particular specifically describes napkins as being placed over a charcoal brasier and emerging from this treatment much fairer and whiter than they could have been had they been washed in water and bleached in the sunshine.

So well known, indeed, was the mysterious non-heat conducting mineral in those early times that some historians have suggested that Shadrach, Mesach and Abednego, whom biblical history describes as having survived the ordeal of Nebuchadnezzar's fiery furnace, were clothed in heavy asbestos before the ordeal began.

Be that as it may, the fact is well authenticated that the corpses of early kings and heroes were wrapped in incombustible blankets in order to separate their ashes from those of the funeral pyre..

The well-known story of a later date which relates how Charlemagne amused and astonished his guests after dinner by having the tablecloth thrown into the fire and then drawn out again, clean and white, but still uninjured, points undoubtedly to the use of asbestos as a texile material.

Strange as it may appear, however, the spinning and weaving of asbestos cloth is to have become a lost art for the next thousand years. No evidence of such an industry appears in modern writings until the early seventies of the nineteenth century, when experiments for using it commercially were made in Switzerland. Shortly after this the first specimens of a very fine, white asbestos, mined in Canada, were exhibited in London. They attracted little serious attention at the time, however, and it was not until 1878 that Canadian asbestos began to be mined on a large scale. Since then the Black Lake region of Quebec has been found to produce the first fibre in the world, and now nearly 90 per cent. of all the asbestos used comes from the Dominion. Deposits are found, however, all over the world, notably in South Africa, but none of them produces the white fibre of the Canadian mines, their colour ranging from blue and green to the recently discovered and very beautiful pink asbestos of India.

The spinning and weaving of asbestos has offered many difficulties, as the asbestos fibres have no rough surface like wool or cotton, but are very smooth and thus have a tendency to slip by one another when twisted and subject to tension. An admixture of vegetable or animal fibre was therefore often necessary, but while these facilitated the manufacturing operations, they impaired the fire resistance of the fabric, and special machinery and ingenious devices had to be invented to enable the successful spinning of a pure asbestos yarn; it is, however, now possible to make a single asbestos thread a mile in length which weighs but a pound and a half.

Asbestos paint, plaster, flooring ceiling and wall decorations, asbestos lumber, tiles, slabs, and even asbestos lumber, are now used largely in making buildings fireproof, and whole blocks of buildings made entirely of these asbestos materials have been erected within recent years in the newer American cities.

WEAK, TIRED GIRLS

Will Find Health and Strength Through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

There is a time in the life of every girl when the strain upon her blood becomes too great; when she grows weak; has headaches and backaches; when dizziness seizes her and she becomes extremely miserable. That is the time of life she needs a tonic—a medicine that will not fail to enrich her blood and give her strength to withstand the changes through which she is passing. Such a tonic is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. They have raised thousands of growing girls out of the depths of misery and despair to a full enjoyment of good health and strength. Among those who have found good health through these Pills is Miss Suddard, of Haldimand, Que., concerning whose case her mother writes as follows:—"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been a great benefit to my daughter who was weak and miserable. She was pale, easily tired and was bothered with indigestion. The use of the Pills has brought back her health, and made her strong and active. I am very grateful for what this wonderful medicine has done for her."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the greatest blood builder known to medical science. That is why they cure anaemia, rheumatism, heart palpitation, indigestion, neuralgia, etc. That is why they are of such value to women and girls during the changes through which they pass from girlhood to maturity. The pills are sold by all medicine dealers or direct by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MANY WOMEN HAVE BEEN VERY STRANGELY FASCINATED

sions always take the part of the Chinamen when they are in trouble with the police.

In October, 1903, a beautiful girl, well-dressed, called at a New York police station to see Charley Shue, who had been arrested, charged with a serious offense against a girl of 14 years.

"The police ought to have spanked the girl instead of paying any attention to her story," said the young woman. "Charley wouldn't have done such a thing. And if he did the girl tempted him."

At another time, when 20 Chinamen were arrested as the result of stories told by young girls, the station houses were literally flooded with flowers, dainty victuals and cigarets that were brought to them by well-dressed white women who claimed to be interested in Chinese mission work.

These women argued with Captain Buchanan of the police station that if "our boys are guilty it is the fault of the girls."

When the Chinaman were tried the court room was thronged with well-dressed women.

Magistrate Furlong became angry at them. Said he, in open court:

"The Chinese Sunday school is simply a makeshift for these fellows to acquire a knowledge of English. I haven't any patience with this mandlin sympathy which induces missions and Sunday schools to send their young women here with fruits, flowers and cigarets for these Mongolians. I deplore the sickly condition of American womanhood that permits itself to be led into such folly."

Women mission workers who think they get to the bottom of the Chinese character are badly fooled, say the New York police. Chinamen who seem to tell their teachers all about their lives and relations belong to secret Chinese societies.

The high caste Chinamen flock to the Sunday school that has the prettiest teacher. If a low caste Chinaman begins to gain the sympathy of the teacher one of the high caste men will go to him, according to a policeman in Chinatown, and tell him to stay away from Sunday school. And the pretty Sunday school teacher will wonder why she has lost another pupil.

Two weeks ago, Captain Galvin of the district in which Chinatown is situated ordered all the white girls on Mott street to move. Over 200 girls left quarters which they had been occupying with Chinamen.

There is a police rule in Chinatown now that only white girls who are the wives of Chinamen can live in the district. Chinamen who have white wives are supposed to be so grateful for this police favour that they will reciprocate by preventing the sale of opium to white girls who come into the district.

In spite of this rule there are hundreds of white girls of various social degrees who visit Chinatown nightly.

WAS PLENTY OF BUTTER TO-DAY

The Market Report for To-day. Eggs Brought 19c and 20c.

A trip up the winding stair at the market this morning revealed the fact that butter is coming in in large quantities at a price ranging from 21c to 23c per lb., while the figure for eggs hovered around 19 and 20c a dozen. Dressed chickens were more plentiful than a week ago and there were birds to suit everyone. Some real Spring ones were worth 45c per pair, while some of last year's growth brought 45 and 50c each. A nice pork ham was noticed and the price attached was 15c per lb. A few ducks were on view at favourable figures.

The produce on the outside was not very abundant, but the prices were firm with potatoes at $1.00 to $1.20 per bag. Six loads were on sale. The price varied with the size; the small ones at $7.50 per pair, and some fine large ones at twice that amount. The average figure was $4.00 apiece.

Hay was still at $14 for the loose article, while in package form it was worth a dollar more.

Live hogs bring $7.75 and on account of the hot weather none of the dressed variety are being handled by the farmers.

Weekly Concert By Band Was Much Appreciated

The biggest crowd of the season was attracted to Victoria Park last evening by the weekly concert of the 57th Regimental Band, the park being crowded with citizens who heard the band give one of the best programmes of the series. It was varied enough to suit everyone, containing a number of standard selections as well as music of a lighter type, being sufficient to demonstrate the versality of the band and please the tremendous audience.

The programme included the ever popular "Poet and Peasant," overture, given for the grst time this season and the band has never played Supe's grand number better. Their work was in this number well worth the walk to the park. Two other splendid numbers were a hymn and "Religioso," march, two sacred numbers that were grandly rendered. In the first the band gave the effect of a magnificent church organ responding to the hands of a master player.

Of the popular music, the Von Tilzer song hit medley, "Don't Take Me Home," made a big hit, as did the eccentric patrol, "Old Folks on Parade," which had to be repeated in response to an encore.

The fantasia on "My Old Kentucky Home," was another number that was splendidly rendered and well received.

A couple of lively marches were the other numbers of a most artistic programme.

WIFE SAYS INHERITANCE RUINED HER HUSBAND

Declares He Ceased to Work, Took to Drink and Threatened to Kill Her---His Brother Followed Suit and Died of Dissipation.

Examiner Special.

Cincinnati, June 24.—The danger in inherited fortunes to persons who have had to live frugally has been illustrated here by the declarations of Mrs. Anna Roberts, who is suing her husband, Thomas R. Roberts, for alimony. She says that when he was left a fortune of $100,000 less than a year ago by his father, who, prior to his death, had hoarded up his wealth and allowed his sons to earn their own living, her husband immediately quit work and has been dissipating ever since and scattering his fortune as fast as possible.

She says her husband was a sober and industrious man up to the date of his father's death, July 1, 1908. His father was Edward Roberts, head of the wholesale and retail lumber firm of E. Roberts & Co., of East Court street. Thomas Roberts worked for his father when he was married to Miss Anna Spaulding, of Covington, Ky., on March 18, 1895.

His salary was small, and his father allowed him to make his own way in the world. He proved a sober and industrious man, and they raised a family of four children, three girls and a boy—Stella, aged twenty-two; May, twenty; Florence, eighteen, and Thomas H., now eleven years of age.

All Sons Treated Alike

Thomas Roberts was one of five sons, all of whom were treated much the same by their father. Shortly before the death of the parent Charles Roberts died, leaving three children. Then followed the death of the father on July 1, 1908, and this resulted in his property being distributed to the sons living—Edward J., David M., Thomas R. and George W.—and the children of the deceased son.

The elder Roberts left no will, and Attorney William M. Kemper and George W. Roberts were appointed to administer the estate. It was then that the large fortune was discovered. It was known that Roberts had left a large estate, but when it was discovered to be worth in the neighbourhood of half a million the sons were themselves greatly surprised.

The distribution gave to each son and to the children of the deceased son, Charles, about $100,000, and in the suit for alimony Mrs. Roberts alleges that her husband's estate is now worth about $85,000. She alleges that ever since the death of his father her husband has been drinking to excess, and when in his cups he is most abusive toward her. She says that he would remain away from home for days at a time, during which he would drink to excess, returning home in a condition bordering upon insanity, she charges, and it would be necessary to send him to a hospital, where he would remain for weeks at a time recovering from the effects of his spree, only to start drinking again when he left the hospital.

Says Her Life Was Threatened

Their son is a nervous little fellow, and she says that the actions of Roberts have made the child ill. On May 8 last Roberts threatened to end her life if she entered their home on Kenilworth avenue, Norwood, again, she charges, and she went to the home of her mother, in Covington, where, a few days ago, she says, Roberts came, and, drawing a revolver, threatened to kill his wife. Mrs. Roberts struggled with him and managed to wrest the weapon from his hands, and prevented him from carrying out his threat.

Then Mrs. Roberts consulted Attorney Louis J. Dolle, and the alimony suit was prepared and filed. The suit asked for an injunction preventing Roberts from interfering with his wife or their children and completely tying up all of his property, both real and personal. Judge Warner granted an injunction as prayed for. Mrs. Roberts also asks for temporary alimony and a receiver to take charge of her husband's estate, and this matter the Court allowed to go over for future action.

The property tied up is as follows: Cash in the First National Bank, four shares of Fifth-Third National Bank stock, 462 shares of Cincinnati Street Railway stock, 40 shares Baldwin Piano Company stock, 290 shares of Cincinnati Gas and Electric Company stock, 20 shares of South Covington and Newport Street Railway stock and 10 shares of Ford-Johnson Company stock. Besides this is an interest in the East Court street property and his property in Norwood.

Two Tragic Deaths

The filing of the alimony suit, recalls the tragic death of David M. Roberts and his wife, Jennie, which occurred less than two months after the death of the elder Roberts. David Roberts was a brother of Thomas R. Roberts, and he also came into a one-fifth share of the estate of his father. Shortly after the father's death, and before his estate had been distributed, David M. Roberts was living with his wife and three children in a squalid home at 1545 John street.

David, like his brother Thomas, quit work after his father's death the moment he was able to secure any money from the estate. He also began to dissipate and trouble followed immediately. His wife, Jennie Roberts, complained several times of his drinking and of his treatment of her, and on the night of Aug. 16 she was found in her home in an unconscious condition and suffering from the effects of a terrible beating she had received from her husband.

Mrs. Roberts was removed to the City Hospital, where she died the following morning, and her husband was arrested and charged with her murder. He declared that he remembered nothing of what he had done, and his condition bore him out, for he was a physical wreck from drink. He was held to the Grand Jury, the Coroner's verdict charged him with his wife's death, and while in the county jail delirium tremens developed, followed by pneumonia. He was removed to the City Hospital, where he died on Aug. 22, just a week after his wife's death.

The three children of the couple were taken charge of by relatives, and Attorney W. M. Kemper named as administrator of the estate.

CHUCK CONNORS TELLS STORY OF LIFE OF ANOTHER SUNDAY SCHOOL GIRL IN CHINATOWN

New York, June 26.—"I've seen a lot o' goils like Elsie Sigel hike in and beat it from Chinatown—come fr'm good homes 'n poor hames and go to h—, always de same h—," said Chuck Connors, "mayor" of Chinatown.

Chuck Connors is a man with a hard face, who speaks a hard language and has known a hard life.

He has seen the seamy side of Bowery life for 30 years. He is crude and vulgar. But Chuck Connors has a big heart, big and red and pulsating, and in his curious way he has done much good among his kind in the evil haunts of the district over which he rules as "mayor."

Seated in the back room of Barney Flynn's Bowery saloon, Chuck Connors shook his head sadly at the mention of Elsie Sigel's name, and discoursed as follows: "I seen her many a time in Mott and Pell-sts., sometimes with her oid loidy and udder times wid a chink. Dat little skoit was lgke a bunch o' little goils I've seen blow into Chinatown. Her heart was in de right place, an' say! You can bet dat when dey put up de barrier in dis here mission race she got away ahead o' de bunch and started to lead de field. But dey got 'er d' same as dey get 'em all.

"Dere is a whole lot queer about dese chinks. De women, dey get crazy 'bout dem slant eyes, and when anybody gets to hittin' de hop dese chinks smoke it's all off den.

"Say! Dere was a swell skoit come down here a few years ago, an' she took up wit' a high bindin' chink in an old dump down on Pell-st. She was a quiet kid and we didn't tink much of her, an' nobody knew nuttin' 'bout her hist'ry. Den she got sick and it was de gallopin' con for her—she was a lunger for fair—and my wife Nellie she went in to take a look at her. She found de poor little kid a-cryin' her lamps out, all wrapped up on an old musty flop.

"Dis here kid seen her finish ahead of her, I guess, 'cause she got mushy all of a sudden and spieled it all out to Nellie. She used to be a Sunday school woiker, too, and had a swell dump up near Central Park, she said. She met up wit' a bloke what t'rew her down and got her head twisted. Den she went to the bad.

"It's soit'nly a quick change from Central Park down to 11th st., from 14th-st. to the Bowery, and then down to Chinatown, when a foolish little kid like dat gets bughouse notions in her coco. She made it in less than a year.

"Well, Nellie, she tole me about it, and I couldn't get it off my noodle.

"A couple o' days later I sent me wife down to see de poor little t'ing again, and ast her where her home was. She didn't want to tell, but a long time dere wasn't no actions Nellie kind o' conned her to tell it. Well, not spielin' out the phony bunk or anything like dat, I just want to say I sneaked up to Central park and beat it for dat house where dis skoit's ole man and her old woman lived. Den I told her old man where de goil was. Honest, I to't her old loidy would bawl her lamps out.

CHUCK CONNORS,
Mayor of New York's Chinatown.

"I hung aroun' de house and fer but bawlin' goin' on. Den I says to d' old man, I says, 'you'd better cut out de tears and get heavy on the way if you want to get dat little goil out o' dat chink's joint an' see her alive agsin.

"De old man hung back fer a minute an' I seen maybe dat he didn't want her—dat he didn't want her now dat she was spoiled. An' I up and says to him: 'Ye don't want her, eh? You don't want yer own flesh and blood just because she's spoiled? If yer'd a kep' out your han' for her when she was slippin' mebbe she wouldn't be there tonight,' says I, just like dat.

"'If you don' wan her, den,' I says, 'I'll turn her over to de cops, 'cause I ain't a goin' to see a goil like dat havin' de' raisin' she 's got with that finish in that stinkin' bed.'

"Well, say! Mebbe you don't t'ink dat ole guy didn't get a hump on den. He got a swell rig, all shined up like a hearse, and pulled me in wit' 'im, and we beat it dwon to Pell-st. We hiked to dat chink's room and dere was de goil all alone. She sen it was her dad wit' me, and she jist let out one cry and shut her eyes.

"Then the ole man he put her in a blanket and put her in the cab an' drove away as fast as dem nags could step. I ain't heard o' nuthin' more 'bout the skoit, but she didn't die in no musty bed. That's a cinch!

"A woman dat would let her kid come down here and mix it up wit' dat Sunday School bunch o' chinks ain't right in her noodle, dat's what she ain't.

"It's tough enough when dey git the wrong hunch and sneak down dere demselves. It don't make no difference where they come from, dey all get to de same place."

AROUND THE WORLD IN THIRTY DAYS

Newest Travel Figures by Which it Appears That the Globe Might be Encircled in a Single Month---Jules Verne's Romance is Now Easily Eclipsed.

To get around the world in thirty days seems no longer to be a dream of the future, but a feat that may be accomplished by any one who has the time, money and inclination to do it.

"Around the world in eighty days" was the slogan of globe trotters after Jules Verne's novel by that title appeared. When Nellie Bly made the trip from the New York World in sixty-seven days in 1890 it was hailed as a remarkable achievement. The best record up to date is forty-one days, made in 1906. Two years ago the New York World planned a trip around the globe which could have been made in thirty-seven. To-day, however, he trip can be made in thirty days if all the connections be made and no accidents or drawbacks of any kind be encountered.

The cutting down in time is due to several causes. The most important is the completion of the double tracking of the Trans-Siberian Railroad and the construction of a new railroad from Harbin to Fusan by way of Mukden, Wiju and Seoul. This saves several days. The clipping of one day from the trip across the Atlantic and two days across the Pacific by the Mauretania and Empress of Japan, respectively, makes the trip materially shorter, and the new trains which make the run between New York and Seattle in ninety-six hours cut down the number of hours in crossing this continent. In addition, the time required to make he journey from Berlin to Moscow has been shortened by five hours in the past two years. The saving of a few hours here and there does not seem very important, but taken altogether it shortens the trip by at least a day. Of course, if a single connection be missed he trip cannot be made in thirty days, and may actually require forty or forty-five days, but none of the connections are figured so close that they ought not to be made under ordinary circumstances.

AROUND THE WORLD IN THIRTY DAYS.

First Day—
Leave New York at 10 A.M. on Wednesday.

Fifth Day—
Arrive Liverpool before noon on Monday; London at 4 P.M. Leave London at 8.35 P.M. via Flushing.

Sixth Day—
Arrive eBrlin at 6.30 P.M. on Tuesday. Leave Berlin at 9 P.M. for Moscow.

Eighth Day—
Arrive Moscow at 3 P.M. on Thursday. Leave at 7 P.M. for Harbin.

Fourteenth aDy—
Arrive Harbin before noon on Wednesday. Leave Harbin at noon for Pusan.

Fifteenth Day—
Arrive Pusan at noon Thursday. Leave for Yokohama at 8 P.M.

Sixteenth Day—
Arrive Yokohama at 8 A.M. onFriday. Leave at 10 A.M. for Seattle.

Twenty-sixth Day—
Arrive Seattle before noon on Monday of the second week. Leave for New York at 4 P.M.

Thirtieth Day—
Arrive in New York at 7.30 P.M. on the following Friday.

In order to make a trip around the world in thity days it is necessay to leave New York at 10 a.m. on a Wednesday on board the Mauretania. This brings you to Liverpool by noon on the following Monday and into London by 4 o'clock the same afternoon. It is not necessary to leave London until 8.35 p.m. Monday night by the Flushing route for Berlin, so there are several hours of leeway. Berlin is reached at 6.30 p.m. on Tuesday. The running time between Berlin and Moscow is now but forty-tw ohours, so that if you leave Berlin at 9 p.m. on Tuesday, Moscow is reached at 3 p.m. on Thursday. The fastest train on the Trans-Siberian Railroad leaves Moscow at 7 p.m. on Thursday night, so that here again there are several hours of leeway. This is essential as the trains between Berlin and Moscow invariably run a few hours late.

Now that the Trans-Siberian Railroad has been double-tracked for a considerable portion of its distance the trip to Harbin can be made in five and a half days. Allowing for delays en route Harbin will be reached on the following Wednesday morning. There is now a railroad in operation from Harbin to Fusan by way of Mukden, Wiju and Seoul, and this distance can be covered in less than twenty-four hours. Accordingly Fusan should be reached on Thursday morning. Here a steamer can be caught for Shimonoseki, and form there a train to Yokohama, the entire trip from Fusan taking less than a day. It is necessary to arrive in Yokohama on a Friday in order to catch one of the Empress steamers for Seattle. So far the trip has required only sixteen days and if Yokohama be reached on this schedule the remainedr of the journey is easy. Ten days are required to make the journey to Seattle and four days across the continent to New York—a total of thirty adys around the world.

The most difficult part of the journey, and, in fact, the only part on which there is any great danger of mising connections, is between Harbin and Fusan. This is a comparatively short disance, but the trains do not run regularly, and in order to make connections it might be necesary to charter a train at great expense. The run can be made in twelve hours, however, and as twenty-four hours have been allowed, the chances are very good for making it. There are daily steamers between Fusan and Shimonoseki and trains every few hours between the latter city and Yokohama, so that even if a few hours be lost the trip can be completed in the thirty-day limit.

No one has attempted to circle the globe in thirty days, but it can be done on paper in that time, and experienced travellers and transportation men agree that it is possible—if the connections can be made.

It will undoubtedly be attempted soon, for the expense of making it is not great the time necessary is short. According to an estimate made by a transportation official of the Trans-Siberian Railroad the actual fares for the trip come to $603.50. At least $500 should be allowed for incidentals and other travelling expenses. The trip could be attempted comfortably on $1,500. For an exciting way to spend a month's vacation it would be unequalled and if accomplished within the time limit it would bring unusual distinction to the successful globe trotter.

What Rufus Harris Says of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

After Trying Five Doctors for His Kidney Disease He Found Relief in the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Hurdville, Ont., June 25.—(Special)—"After trying five doctors for Kidney Trouble, from which I had suffered for three years, I find that Dodd's Kidney Pills relieve me best of all. If I keep on feeling as I have since I began taking Dodd's Kidney Pills I shall be well pleased and I am hoping they will cure me."

So says Rufus Harris, well known in this village. "I had stiffness in the joints," he continues, "cramps in the muscles, backache and was heavy and sleepy after meals. I was depressed and low spirited, perspired freely, was often dizzy and always thirsty, but since taking Dodd's Kidnew Pills I am feleing very good."

If you have any of the symptoms, Mr. Harris tells of, it is time for you to beware. They are the symptoms of Kidney Disease and may be the forerunners of Rheumatism, Dropsy, Lumbago, Heart Disease, or even the dread Bright's Disease itself. Take warning and guard against suffering or even death itself by putting the Kidneys in good working order with Dodd's Kidney Pills.

BUSINESS CONTINUED AS FORMERLY

Although death has removed Mr. James Authors, the founder of the firm Authors & Cox, Manufacturers of Artificial Limbs, Trusses and Deformity Appliances, the business will go on as formerly, under the management of Mr. T. J. Le Cras, Mr. Authors' son-in-law, who has been actively engaged in the management of the business since Mr. Authors' retirement from active business life some years ago.

Mr. Le Cras has had a wide experience in the manufacture and fitting of artificial limbs, trusses and deformity appliances extending over 26 years, part of which has been in the United States, but latterly, for the past ten years, he has been associated with this firm, and closely identified with its conduct. Mr. Le Cras has a firm grasp of all the details of the business, both scientific and mechanical, having worked up from the bench and later carried on careful scientific and anatomical studies, which thoroughly fit him for properly applying such knowledge as he has acquired.

Patrons of this enterprising firm are assured of the same careful and expert attention and superior workmanship in everything of their manufacture that has marked their past dealings. Their factory is up-to-date in every respect, all the latest and best machinery for their purpose having been installed, and only competent, trained men are employed.

THE CABLE RATES WERE DISCUSSED

Imperial Press Conference is in Favor of Wireless.

FEARS FOREIGN INFLUX

Sir Hugh Graham is Anxious to Keep Immigration as Much as Possible Among the British — Nicholls of Winnipeg Disagrees — Discussion Will Wait on Preston Asquith — Graphic's Views.

London, June 26.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Imperial Press Conference met yesterday to consider the report of the committee on cable rates, Hon. H. L. W. Lawson presiding.

The chairman submitted the committee's recommendations, which urged the Governments of the Empire to increase the means and reduce the cost of imperial electric communications, and asking Premier Asquith to receive a deputation; it also emphasized the necessity of linking up the different parts of the Empire with wireless services.

One positive result, said Mr. Lawson, had been reached. Mr. Baxendale, on behalf of the Pacific Cable Board, had stated that the board would unconditionally reduce their rates on press messages by half. The New Zealand Government would do the same regarding terminal charges. It is believed the Australian Government will do the same.

It was resolved that the committee, with the addition of Lord Northcliffe, Mr. Dafoe of Winnipeg, Mr. Spencer of The Westminster Gazette, Mr. Donald of The Chronicle, and others, should wait upon Mr. Asquith.

Moberley Bell pointed out that the concession by the Pacific board reduced the press rate from one shilling to 91-2d. Mr. Bell added that the Canadian authorities would also be asked by the board to reduce their charges.

P. D. Ross, Ottawa, reintroduced his resolution favoring state-owned electric connection between Canada and Britain, and remarked that in view of wireless telegraphy, he would be making a great mistake if he used the words "state-owned cable."

Signor Marconi had informed the committee that morning that by August next he would be able to give a service of 15,000 words daily at half the cable rates. It was state-owned communication, however, which would ensure a reduction in rates. The rates were kept high by combines. The representative of the Anglo-American Co. had informed Moberley Bell that his company was willing to reduce the present rates by half, but could not because of arrangements with other companies.

Signor Marconi thought it would be injudicious for Governments to enter into a scheme of state-owned cables without first investigating the merits of wireless communication. The cost of equipping two stations for communication over a distance already tested of 3,000 miles, would be $500,000. The speed transmission at present is 25 words a minute, but by duplexing he hoped to make it fifty (applause) if service increased. His company would be prepared to reduce the cost of press messages to twopence a word.

Messrs. Kiffin, Thomas and Cunningham opposed the resolution, but it later carried unanimously.

J. S. Brierly said the reduction announced by the Pacific board was the strongest argument in favor of the Ross resolution. They could not look for reduction across the Atlantic under present circumstances. How long would it be tolerable for Canadians to pay fivepence across the Atlantic, while Australians were paying twopence across the Pacific.

Maitland Park proposed a resolution in favor of state-owned electric communication with South Africa, and said the Union Government would certainly give a subsidy for this purpose.

Sir Hugh Graham moved a resolution concerning emigration, and said there was not a question of greater importance than the maintenance of British sentiment in Canada. The majority of the population of Canada was now overwhelmingly British, but foreign immigration was seriously threatening that majority. A serious effort would be made in Canada to commemorate the conference by organizing an association of leading journalists and public-spirited citizens to strengthen and stimulate existing organizations in order that desirable emigrants may receive the utmost encouragement. He moved a resolution to the effect that the press should co-operate in the wise direction of emigration.

The chairman and J. A. Macdonald (Toronto) gave the proposition the heartiest sympathy and Mr. Nicholls (Winnipeg) declared that foreign immigrants in Western Canada, as citizens was absolutely all right.

Fully Justifies Its Existence.

London, June 26.—The Daily Graphic says that the press conference has achieved something substantial by persuading the Pacific Cable Board to reduce rates. If this example is followed by the other cable companies the conference will have fully justified its all too ephemeral existence.

Boy's Tragic Death.

Owen Sound, Ont., June 26.—While handling a small rifle in the back yard of his home Franklin Packham, aged 15, only child of James H. Packham, B.A., commercial master of the Owen Sound Collegiate Institute, shot himself through the head and died shortly after. The bullet entered at the right temple and lodged at the base of the brain. He was able to walk into the house and tell his mother what had happened, and then lapsed into unconsciousness.

Swept 2,000 Feet to Death.

Ottawa, June 26.—Dr. W. F. King has received a message telling of the death of a young man named Sheppard, a member of one of the parties engaged in the survey of the Alaskan boundaries.

Sheppard was carried by an avalanche from a mountain peak two thousand feet to a valley below.

MONUMENT HAS BEEN COMMENCED

Corner-Stone of the Lafontaine Memorial is Laid.

TRIED TO CEMENT RACES

Senator Dandurand at Montreal Ceremony Declares That Great Statesman's Ideal of a United Canada Is Being Forget by Present Day Educationalists — Monk and Bourassa Also Speak.

Montreal, June 26.—French-Canadians dearly love oratory, and they had it to their hearts' content yesterday.

The occasion was the laying of the cornerstone of the Lafontaine monument in Lafontaine Park, presided over by Sir Alphonse Pelletier, Lieutenant-Governor of the province.

Senator Dandurand said that Lafontaine strove for a good understanding between the English and French, and then said that the educators of to-day did not do their duty in this respect. The French-Canadian and English-speaking youths were brought up as strangers, and instead of teaching mutual respect, suspicions and distrust were the result of present day education.

Henri Bourassa sought to show that while it was true that Lafontaine had done great work, he could not have succeeded had it not been for Papineau years before. Louis Hippolyte Lafontaine had retired disgusted from public life at the early age of 53 because, as he wrote to Judge Berthelot at the time, every member from Lower Canada, except perhaps one or two, wanted to enter the Cabinet. They had gained responsible Government, but it had all degenerated into a race for place and power.

F. D. Monk claimed that Lafontaine was the real founder of responsible Government.

The proceedings were naturally conducted in French, but the committee paid a high honor to an English-speaking Canadian, John Boyd, the well-known Canadian poet, by requesting him to read a poetical tribute in English to the memory of Lafontaine, which was received with great enthusiasm. Mr. Boyd before reading his tribute, in a few remarks which were loudly applauded, said: "The name of Lafontaine should be an inspiration to all Canadians. The work that he accomplished in association with that other great Canadian, Robert Baldwin, is known to you all. But it is the great lesson of their lives that we should take to heart to-day. And what is that lesson? I cannot in this connection do better than to quote the words of that distinguished Canadian educationist and historian, Prof. Leacock, summing up the careers of those two great men says: 'To find a real basis of political union between French and British Canada, to substitute for the strife of unreconciled races the fellow-citizenship of "two great peoples, and to set up in the foremost of British colonies an example of self-government that should prove the lasting basis of empire—this was the completed work by which they had amply earned the rest of eventide after the day of toil.'"

He hoped to see the day when a monument would also rise to the memory of Sir George Etienne Cartier.

Blew Up the House.

Ottawa, June 26.—In the County Police Court yesterday afternoon Geo. Deltour and Victor Lacoste were committed for trial on the charge of dynamiting, with intent to murder, the dwelling of Moise Laporte, on the Montreal road, just outside the city limits, two weeks ago, in which at the time eleven people were asleep. The house was practically destroyed by an explosion of dynamite, but the inmates all escaped. At the trial yesterday Victor Deltour turned King's evidence. He declared that Victor Lacasse, who lives near the scene of the outrage, had admitted to him that he had wrecked the house, and had warned him to say nothing about it.

Asquith Loses Ministers.

London, June 26.—The resignations of two members of the Government were announced last night.

Ostensibly they were handed in on account of ill-health, but it is believed they were due partly to the disapproval of the budget.

Lord Fitzmaurice, as chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, is succeeded by Herbert Louis Samuel, Under Secretary for Home Affairs, who thus is promoted to Cabinet rank. Thomas P. Buchanan, Parliamentary secretary to the Indian Office, is the other to retire.

The latter is succeeded by the master of Elibank, Alexander W. C. O. Murray.

Appointed to the Senate.

Ottawa, June 26.—Hon. Arthur Boyer of Montreal, formerly member of the Quebec Government without portfolio, has been appointed to the vacancy in the Senate caused by the death of Senator Thibaudeau. The appointment was made at yesterday's meeting of the Cabinet, and the honor was entirely unsolicited. In fact no applications for the vacant Senatorship were received from anyone by the Government.

Powers to Desert Crete.

Paris, June 26.—According to The Temps, the four protecting powers of Crete, France, Great Britain, Russia and Italy, have reached complete accord with regard to the future of this island. They have decided to withdraw the international troops from Crete on July 27. At the same time they urge the Cretans, Turkey and Greece to remain calm.

Gen. Bingham Sues.

New York, June 26.—Police Commissioner Bingham yesterday brought suit against Supreme Court Justice William J. Gaynor, claiming $100,000 damages for defamation of character in letters criticising the commissioner.

SOCIETY PET WAS SHOT DEAD

Supposed Murderer of Baltimore Woman Shot by Police.

MAY HAVE BEEN BROKER

Body of Mrs. Gilbert Woodill is Found in the River and Man Passing as Reporter Is Suspected—While Resisting Arrest He Is Killed — Identified as Noted Broker of New York.

Baltimore, Md., June 26.—The body of a woman, weighted with an iron kettle filled with bricks, that drifted ashore on Broad Creek, Talbot County, Wednesday, it developed was that of Mrs. Gilbert Woodill, a beautiful and accomplished young woman, of well-established social position in Maryland and California, and a ward of Lyman J. Gage, formerly secretary of the treasury.

A man who gave the name of Emmit E. Roberts, a newspaper man and special writer, was shot and killed early yesterday in resisting arrest. He was charged with the murder.

It is now believed he was "Lame Bob" Eastman, a Wall street broker, who failed last year with $200,000 liabilities.

Mrs. Woodill was about twenty years old and was noted among a large circle of acquaintances on the eastern shore for her charming manner and brilliant accomplishments. According to stories she had told friends, she had never been told who her father was. She was adopted at the age of three. At fifteen she was sent to Paris to study music by Mr. Gage. At sixteen she was secretly married to a Boston osteopath, whom she soon divorced, and thirty days later married Gilbert Woodill of Los Angeles, Cal.

Roberts or Eastman, was shot to death on the river, his motor boat having been pursued by a sheriff's posse. He opened fire when called on to surrender, and fell under the police fusilade. A bottle of poison and several letters were found in his pockets. One letter, addressed to Minnie Brandome, a New York actress, intimated that he would suicide and asked her to take charge of the body. It added that he had been out in a boat with four men and two women, that all had been drunk except himself and one girl and that one of the women struck another over the head with a wine bottle and killed her.

Widow Sues for $10,000.

"WOMEN!"

"Are You Nervous?"

The results of modern civilization are evidenced in an increase of nervous disorders. It could not be otherwise with the way we eat, drink, lose sleep, and keep up a continual round of excitement. The work, the worry, the excitement, all tell upon the nerves till they cry out in revolt, and will not be placated till a remedy such as

MILBURN'S

come along with their nerve-strengthening and energizing properties, and restore them to their normal condition.

Mrs. Wm. Levi, Markdale, Ont., writes: "I had for several years been troubled with nervousness, and, like many others, spent lots of money on medicine that did me no good. I was so bad that the least noise would make me jump and my heart would thump so you could hear it plainly and I could not lie on my left side at night. I saw a few testimonials of others and decided to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and to my great joy and surprise they completely cured me and it only took six boxes to do it. I have a neighbor, Mrs. Rickett, and I induced her to try them and they effected a cure. I can endorse their use for anyone afflicted as I was."

Price, 50 cents a box, 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited Toronto, Ont.

Before the Fire— or After?

WHEN are you going to find out whether the fire insurance you have paid for is really good or not—before or after the fire which makes it due or payable? You cannot change it after the fire. It will be too late then; but before the fire, you can readily at no extra cost select an insurance company whose record and strength guarantee the liberal fulfillment of its obligations.

Upon Foundations of Commercial Honour

The Hartford Fire Insurance Company

has built up the largest fire insurance business in the United States. It has paid more than $125,000,000 to its policyholders. Its popularity is the reward of merit, and the result of nearly a century of honourable dealings with its patrons. It has published a book "Fire Prevention and Fire Insurance", which contains in separate chapters valuable information for Householders, Merchants and Manufacturers. It ought to be in the hands of every property owner in America. It may save you thousands of dollars, no matter in what company you are insured. It is free. Send for it.

NEWS FROM THE FRONT

What the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons Are Doing in Camp at Nassau.

Special to The Examiner.

Nassau, June 25, 1909.

"When the cat's away
The mice may play."

That old saying has no significance in this camp for the officers were all away and the men were just goodie, goodie. This morning is a most delightful one and everybody is happy. The officers are on an outing to Stony Lake on the steamer Bessie Butler, and the men are divided in their recreation. About twenty-five are playing football, and a large detachment is down at the city to the "57th" band concert in Victoria Park.

In the forenoon there was the usual regimental drill which is getting better every day.

Shooting at the Ranges

A new feature was introduced today as the first practice in shooting at the ranges was held this afternoon. Squadron A, B and C took a try at the 200 yard range and some splendid work was done.

In order to get extra efficiency pay the regulations say that out of a possible 35 points, third-year men must make a score of 30 points and second-year men 25 points and first-year men 16 points.

As one would naturally expect accuracy in shooting is a very desirable and necessary accomplishment for the soldier. When nations go to war and spend enormous sums in equipping an army the opposing forces are not out for a pin-pong game but the essential thing is to put the other fellow out of business for keeps.

In the present age armies try to keep at long range and the men that can shoot straight are the real goods.

On Saturday the regimental drill and target practice will be continued.

The health of the camp is still at the top notch, and the horses are looking well on 12 pounds of hay and 10 pounds of oats as supplied by Mr. Roland Denne.

The horses in a cavalry camp occupy very little space when they are "stabled" and the method of securing them is as simple as it is effective. A row of stakes is planted at intervals of about seven feet and a rope is stretched along and fastened to these stakes.

The halters of the horses are attached to this rope about five feet apart, which gives ample space. Any chance of the horses swinging around and doing damage with their heels is obviated by a very simple little device. What is known as a heel-strap put around one hind leg just above the hoof. To this strap, which is quite loose, a small rope is attached and extends to a stake some five feet away. The hay is spread on the ground and the oats are fed in nose-bags and there is no waste whatever.

On Saturday it is the intention to have the four squadrons go down to the city and give the public an opportunity of seeing the Dragoons in marching order and also of giving the cavalrymen a chance to see the city. That's what is called hitting two men with one bullet.

The worthy chaplain, Captain Langfeldt always evinces the desire to see to the welfare of everybody in camp and has extended an invitation to the regiment to attend service at St. Luke's Church on Sunday. The arrangements for this have been completed and the whole regiment will go down by boat to the Lift Lock, where they will disembark and parade to the church for the morning service.

Master Painters' Convention Here Will Be The Best Yet

Painters' and Decorators' Journal Gives Some Interesting Particulars of the Big Gathering in Peterborough in July. Prominent Men Are Coming.

WILL BE PROFITABLE

The current number of the Canadian Painter and Decorator contains some interesting information of the Master Painters' Convention to be held here at the end of next month. That paper, which is the official organ of the Master Painters, says:

"Of course you are all going to the convention of the Master House Painters' and Decorators' Association of Canada, which takes place in the City of Peterborough on the 27th, 28th, and 29th of July.

From what we can gather it is likely to be the most successful convention yet held. The local Association are bound that it shall be the best yet and Peterborough has a way of making things go when they take hold of them.

The City of Peterborough itself is well worth a visit. It is beautifully situated on the Otonabee River, and is quite a railroad centre, both the G. T. R. and the C. P. R. running into it. There are a number of large manufacturing concerns situated there, besides many other attractions, such as the liftlock, etc.

Then there is the programme, which should prove of the greatest interest to the master painters of Canada. It just bristles with live topics and these subjects are to be dealt with by men who know whereof they speak, having put in many years as practical painters.

But in addition to all the foregoing good things it yet remains for the best to be said and that is that ex-International President Dewar, of Pittsburg, and ex-International Secretary W. E. Wall, of Somerville, Mass., have both signified their intention to be present. There are perhaps no two men on this continent and in the world for that matter, who are more conversant with every phase of the painting business than the two gentlemen just named. They are men of large calibre and have both written and spoken extensively on matters affecting the welfare of the trade. It will pay the master painters to come many miles for the privilege of seeing and hearing two such eminent leaders of the craft."

July 1st Outing Of T.A.S. Will Be Marked By Good Programme

A large crowd of men are putting the finishing touches on the grounds at T.A.S. Park this afternoon in preparation for the big list of sports to be run off on that day. The athletic events held yearly under the auspices of the T.A.S. have always attracted the largest number of people, and brought together the best athletes in the county and no pains are being spared to get the grounds in as good shape as possible. The T.A.S. tug-of-team is out with a challenge to all comers and several lively pulls are anticipated. The Abstainers will be captained by Geo. Ahearn, who is a past master in the game and he promises to trot out a team that will pull any outfit in the county. The prize list is filling up rapidly and will close on Tuesday night. A prize list will be printed and distributed throughout the city on Wednesday in order to give prospective entries a chance to get a line on the prizes to be captured.

ENJOYABLE OUTING

Business Men's Trip to Rice Lake Yesterday Afternoon.

The business men's outing down the river to Highland Park yesterday afternoon was one of the most delightful trips of the season. About one hundred and fifty of the city's business men took in the event and a thoroughly enjoyable time was spent. On arrival at Harwood on Rice Lake an appetising supper was served, after which the return sail was made home, music and song by several on board greatly enhancing the pleasure.

There are over 220 cups of "Salada" Tea to the pound; consequently at 40 cents per pound, the consumer receives tea at the low cost of one-fifth of a cent a cup. There are few other beverages so economical and as healthful as "Salada" Tea. 78

300 EXCURSIONISTS IN TOWN

Three hundred excursionists arrived in the city to-day on a special C. P. R. train from Toronto. The train arrived here shortly before eleven o'clock. The excursion was run under the auspices of the Woodmen of the World of Toronto. An exceptionally low rate of one dollar and ten cents, return, no doubt induced many to come and the visitors have the privilege of remaining over until Monday night.

OBITUARY.

MRS. WM. FOSTER.

On Thursday evening, June 24th, Jane Kearney, the beloved wife of Mr. William Foster, who lives north of Jackson Park, passed away.

The deceased was born at Streetsville, Ont., in 1854, and in 1878 was married at Brussels, Ont., since which time Mr. and Mrs. Foster have lived in the vicinity of Peterborough. She was a loving wife and mother, a kind and thoughtful friend and neighbour, and will be missed by many. During her last illness, which was painful and trying, she was most patient, and without murmur; though at times she long to be released from her sufferings and at rest with her Lord. Friends and neighbours waited with loving hearts and hands to minister any help or comfort within their power, which kindness is much appreciated by the members of the family.

Mrs. Foster was a member of St. John's Church, and the funeral service was conducted by the Rev. Canon Davidson on Friday afternoon; her remains being taken, by special request, to be buried beside her father and mother in Michigan.

ANXIOUS MOMENTS FOR YOUNG MOTHERS

The hot weather months are an anxious time for all mothers, but particularly for young mothers. They are the most fatal time of the year for babies and young children, because of the great prevalence of stomach and bowel troubles. These come almost without warning and often before the mother realises that there is danger the little one may be beyond aid. No other medicine can equal Baby's Own Tablets in promptly curing bowel and stomach troubles and an occasional dose given the well child will keep the stomach and bowels free from offending matter and ensure good health to the child. Therefore the Tablets should always be kept in the home as they may be the means of saving a little life. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Conveyances will leave the Peterborough Armouries on Tuesday evening next at 7.45 for the purpose of providing transportation for all officers of the 57th Regiment who intend visiting the camp of the 3rd Dragoons on that evening. 2-149

THE CANOE COMPANY MAKES SHIPMENT

The Peterborough Canoe Company shipped that handsome big steam yacht "Solid Comfort" to a gentleman in Winnipeg yesterday. The boat is 40 feet long, and will carry about 50 people. It is all finished in quarter cut oak, and has all modern improvements. In fact it is one of the handsomest and staunchest yachts ever turned out of Peterborough.

WHAT THE EXAMINER SPORTING EXTRA WILL CONTAIN TO-NIGHT

Lacrosse.—Montreal at Shamrocks; Torontos at Corwall.

Baseball.—American, National, and Eastern League games.

Local Baseball.—Senior City League, double header, T. A. S. vs. Park street; West Ends vs. Strathconas.

All these events, as well as other important doings in the athletic world, will be reported at length in the Examiner's Sporting Extra which will be printed as usual to-night at 7.30 o'clock. The reports of the local baseball games, which have proved a popular feature, will, as usual, give the box score and the game by innings. Watch for the Examiner extra.

MANY SCRAPPERS WILL "GO" IN SAN FRANCISCO THIS YEAR

CROSS WELCH WOLGAST ATTELL NELSON RETCHELL MORTON HYLAND NEIL JOHNSON REYES.

San Francisco will be the battle ground of many important ring engagements within the next few months and four championships are scheduled on the Western slope.

Beginning with the Monte Attell-Frankie Neil go on June 19, big matches will be pulled off at intervals until Ketchell and Johnston make the big noise late in October.

Nelson and Johnny Thompson travel 45 rounds July 9. Papke and Ketchell may go it again July 5; Johnson and Kaufmann are billed for the latter part of July or Labor Day; Nelson and Freddy Welch may be hooked up if Croffreth can arrange it, and Cross wants a crack at the Dane over a 45-round route. Every one of the crowd will get into a fight ere the snow flies.

WINNING IN 10 SECONDS FLAT MAKES KANSAS SPRINTER SMILE

FRANK T. HADDOCK.

Lawrenceburg, Kas., June 26.—It is possible that the Sunflower state will develop the man to beat the 100-yard mark of 9 4-5 seconds, the goal of ambitious sprinters.

In Frank T. Haddock the University of Kansas has a sprinter of wonderful speed and staying quality, who has won in 10 seconds flat, and who has run in the classic in 9 4-5 in private.

Haddock won the hundred in the Missouri Valley track meet at Des Moines in even time, after a bad get away. He is 19, and with two years to develop under competent trainers, it will surprise no one who has watched him perform if he creates new time. That Haddock was well within himself when he won at Des Moines is apparent from the photograph, which shows him with a smile instead of that strained, agonizing look so often noted on men finishing a bruisig race.

LILLIAN RUSSELL IS TO START A RACING STABLE

Noted American Actress, Who Played Here in "Wildfire" During the Past Theatrical Season, is to Embark in Turf Venture---Will Buy Some Horses in France.

Examiner Special.

New York, June 24.—Lillian Russell is going into the racing game. This she said when, arrayed, in a most fetching American made gown of nearly black material, with a white stripe running through it, she sailed on the New York yesterday forenoon. The actress, who has had a very successful season in "Wildfire" wore a big white hat, with a large white veil lashing it down.

Her daughter, Dorothy, was there, and Dorothy, who is not going to Europe, wept copious tears.

There was a tiny Japanese spaniel with the party that Miss Russell wanted to take abroad, but she had failed to comply with the English laws and take out a license to carry the dog into Great Britain. So Miss Dorothy had to take the spaniel home.

Miss Russell again preached her little sermon on the superiority from every point of view of American costumes.

"I buy all my costumes in this country," she said, "because they are cheaper, better, more reliable, smarter and better fitting.

"I brighten up on ideas in Paris, yes. But in Paris people say to me, "What a smart costume that is! Where did you get it?" They say this because the costume is newer, different from and better than the Parisian article. This is because it comes from America."

Of her racing ambitions Miss Russell said:

"The racing game in this country has lost its interest from the betting standpoint. I am keen on the racing output of 'Gene Leigh's stables in France. I am going to buy some of his horses first—two or three fillies. I shall race them in France and then bring them to this country. That will keep up my interest in racing and make it worth while."

Of her theatrical prospects she said:

"I have a new play, "The Widow's Mite," a very clever, rather strong, play of the Wall street sort. I have also another play by George Broadhurst, dealing with Washington life. I can use the second piece if necessary."

ASSORTED LINE OF CHATTER KEEP BATTERS GUESSING

Cornelius McGillicuddy is neither ashamed of his good old-fashioned Christian name nor of his poetical patronymic. The fans and the base ball writers abbreviated the name to plain "Connie Mack," and in signing his name to hotel registers and to contracts the foxy leader of the Athletics goes further and makes it "C. Mack."

They call him "the old fox of base ball," and in this particular case "old fox" is a compliment. Connie Mack, like Charley Comiskey, knows base ball from both the box office and diamond angle of vision. He has made a comfortable fortune out of base ball—and he has won pennants.

It was as catcher of the Pittsburg team, back in the old days, that the old-time fans best remember Connie. He was not a showy backstop, like Ewing or Kelly, but he was a great one. No catcher ever exceeded him in ability to "jolly" the batters on the opposing team into hitting at bad ones.

Burkett, McAleer, Wallace and the other old-timers used to go to the bench after striking out or popping a baby fly, fairly cursing themselves for having paid heed to Connie's chatter.

"I'll always remember the first time Connie got me," said Hughey Jennings. "It was also the first time I had ever seen Mack. He was behind the bat, and I had just joined Louisville. As I walked to the bat Connie said:

"'Well, we have a newcomer this afternoon; welcome stranger.'

"I turned around and said: 'Well, I'm not quite as new as you think I am.'

"As I spoke the ball whizzed past and the umpire yelled, 'Strike one.' That made me look at the pitcher, but I heard Connie again:

"'That was a straight fast one there, young fellow, but they rarely ever hit that kind on him. Do you think you could hit one?'

"I turned around and said to him: 'Yes, I think I can hit one like that: They don't look so big.'

"But before I completed the sentence the ball again whizzed past and I heard the umpire yell 'Strike two.'

"That was the same thing, but he never puts three of those over in succession. Do you think it would be a good scheme?' I turned to Mack. 'Yes,' I said, 'I think it's a mighty good scheme. Why shouldn't it be?' But the umpire interrupted me. 'Strike three!' yelled old 'umps,' and I threw down my bat.

"'Pick up your bat, young fellow,' said Mack. 'You'll hit that fast straight one a mile the next time you come to the plate.'"

A NEW PICTURE OF WINNER OF COBE AUTOMOBILE CUP RACE

LOUIS CHEVROLET AND JOE NELSON.

Chevrolet, in a Buick, won the Cobe cup over the Crown Point, Ind., course, June 19, driving the 395 miles in 8:01:39, an average of 49.26 miles an hour. The racers covered the course 17 times. Chevrolet's success was due to his mechanician's skill and speed in refilling the tanks and oil cups, as much as to his own ability as a driver.

There are Seven Types of Men, and 70 Variations from each Type

A thorough practical study of the proportions of the Human Form was made by the originators of the Semi-ready system, and the general types were divided:

Normal Short	— Type A	From these we have a system whereby every conceivable variation of the normal, corpulent, or slim man can be perfectly fitted.
Average Type	— Type B
Tall Man	— Type C	Concise directions are given in our Physique Type Book, so that, whether a man be high shouldered, stoop shouldered, or have sloping shoulders, he can have a perfect fitting coat.
Tall, Slim	— Type D
Short, Stout	— Type E
Average, Stout	— Type F	Height, the never-changing measurement, is helped out by weight, in our basic system.
Tall, Stout	— Type G

The three illustrations shown above are among the designs shown in the normal types. There are suits at $18, $20, $25, $30—as high as you want to go in quality, and as low as it is safe to go in price.

"THE PULVERIZER"
This is a very interesting and very funny picture, showing how an expert chemist has discovered a powder that turns everything into nothing, and then when mixed up, turns out a nothing into many things and persons. It is a funny mix-up.

"THE ORIENTAL MYSTIC"
This is a most excellent picture showing the art of the Orientals in mystifying anything and everything that comes their way; one especially for artists and photographers to have a look at.

"A WOMAN'S INTRIGUE"
This beautifully coloured picture tells an interesting story of the mean things a woman will at times do to one who will not return her love, and the honour, and faithfulness of the man whose love is sincere.

"PHYSICAL CULTURE"
A very funny picture showing how a man goes almost crazy over Physical Culture, and nearly drives everyone else crazy also, a picture to drive away the blues.

WERE DRIVEN OUT BY THE SKEETERS

Mosquitoes and Black Flies in the Cobalt Country a Stampede of Prospectors and Labourers—The Worst Year in Many.

THEIR TERRIBLE EXPERIENCES

Cobalt, June 26.—New Ontario men tell each other jocularly, when no one from the front is within hearing, that there are two seasons in the north, winter and fly time. It is emphatically fly time now, and the worst season for the winged pests for years. Men are coming down the Montreal River by the score, driven out by the mosquitoes, black flies, and sand flies, and it is anticipated that contractors will order out their men, as it is impossible for the most willing to do a good day's work with the drill when a score of mosquitoes are sucking blood from the neck or arms, and the black flies are creeping under the clothes and biting surreptitiously.

I was talking with a friend who had just come out from the Montreal River region round Wapoose Creek the other night. He sat back on the verandah, bearded to the eyes, and his neck was as raw as a rare beef steak. Though he looked as if he had had no sleep for a week—and as a matter of fact he had fought flies for three days and nights—he was smiling ecstatically at the remembrance of the torment gone by.

"Sooner than go back into Gowganda just now I would do three weeks in the North Bay coop," he said. "Many's the time when the flies have risen in their millions out of the moss and stung and stung and stung. I've envied the boys in the striped suits in their cool cells down at the Bay. We have been on the trail for three days, and except for the time when we've sat in the smoke of the smudge, we have fought flies every minute—eating, when we were trying to sleep in the hot tent, even when we were paddling in the river. For there was not a breath of air, and the long-legged bloodsuckers follow us even there.

Fancy Line of Dope

"Everyone has a fancy line of dope, from pine tar to bacon grease, but it only keeps them off for half an hour or so, and it's better to go without on the whole. Mosquito netting the black flies will crawl through, and if you get cheesecloth and weave that into a shelter, it gets too hot to breathe days like these.

"I've been up the river four months, and am pretty well seasoned as men go, but I would not go back in there for ten dollars a day. I'll just give you an instance of what it is like. We came down in canoe, and made Pine Tree Point the night before we struck into Latchford. There's been camps there long before the white men knew the country, and it is cleared so that the wind can get at you some. But there was no wind that night, and they rose at us in millions. We were more than a little hungry when we landed, and wanted to get supper, but it was no use till we had built a smudge. One wasn't any good, and we had to make five and sit in the middle of them before we could eat a morsel. They came up in clouds so thick that you could hardly see for them.

Bush Like an Oven

"It is almost impossible to work for them back in the bush. That's where the black flies get you good and plenty. We tried to do some drilling on a lead we had. The bush just now is like an oven, and there was no baffling the flies. While you were taking a strike at the steel a dozen would settle on the back of your neck, and get right down to business."

Swollen Round the Eyes

Men are arriving back in Latchford at the rate of fifty a day, driven out by the flies, swollen round the eyes, and spotted as with the smallpox. A foreigner whose blood has not yet run thin is their favourite prey, and such an one standing the torture the season through deserves a Carnegie medal for pluck and endurance.

Even in the camps round Cobalt, where the country has been clear for miles, there is little or no sleep these nights, and there men are lying out in blankets. Gallons and gallons of fly oil is being sold, and if only some ingenious chemist could invent a lasting deterrent for the mosquitoes he would make his fortune in a very short time.

A party of Buffalo capitalists went down on an official visit to their properties in South Lorraine a few days ago. They came in a private car, and the night before they hit the woods there was nothing but enthusiasm for the open air life. Tents were rigged up for their accommodation, and all the chickens for miles around had been slaughtered and the country scoured for fresh eggs. The miners are living high now. At two in the morning the whole of the party were outside their tents cursing the country and sighing for Buffalo and peace. They met the first boat back to Haileybury next day a harassed and sleepless crowd, and admit now that a civilized bed in the city is good enough for them in future.

PEOPLE THRONG COURTROOM TO HEAR TRIAL OF GYPSIES

Case Came Up Before Magistrate Edmison This Morning—They Pleaded Not Guilty to Loitering on the Roadside in Smith.

WITNESSES TESTIFY

The courtroom was crowded this morning with a curious lot of people. It was the trial of the Gypsy men that attracted their attention. The men were seated on one side of the room, while the women occupied the places set apart for petty jurors. All eyes were centred upon them and among the group of women and children there was considerbale confusion. Dr. Pelkey was present as interpreter. The Gypsy Queen and Chief George were seated beside their counsel, Messrs. F. D. Kerr and G. N. Gordon. Crown Attorney R. E. Wood, conducted the prosecution.

Some delay was experienced in starting. It was occasioned by the charge against Rosa George of stealing forty dollars from a man in Emily. Magistrate Edmison claimed that he had no jurisdiction in Victoria County. But it was pointed out by Crown Attorney Wood that he had. After considerable discussion a charge against all the men for obstructing the highway in Smith, was proceeded with.

Two witnesses were examined this morning. The case was adjourned until two o'clock.

Mr. Robt. Maitland, who keeps a store on the 4th line of Smith, was first called. He testified to having seen the party on the roadside on Sunday. They were lying along the road and several of them, especially the children, were hardly clad. They came trying to buy bread and were refused. They tried to enter and upon being sent back, threatened to harm him at night.

Robert Bailey was called. He said that he met one of the gypsy men, Castor John, who in very indecent language inquired what kind of a man was the grocer. He told witness that he would make the grocer sorry for refusing to sell them bread. The men were cursing and swearing. They did not obstruct him but he saw men that were hindered on Monday morning. Mr. McCaul was going by them when a woman ran out to him.

FARMER WAS KILLED BY AN INFURIATED BULL

Lindsay, June 26.—Charles McKay, who resides four miles west of Cambray, was instantly killed last evening by an angry bull while visiting his pasture field, to look after his driving horse.

The late Mr. McKay was 70 years of age, and has resided on Lot 13, Con. 14, Mariposa (known as the Glen), for many years. He was a highly respected resident of this county and the news of his sad death will be received as a severe shock to his many friends in this community.

Family became Anxious

The late Mr. McKay left the house at 6:30 o'clock to visit the pasture fields, as he often does for the purpose of seeing his much-prized driving horse. The field is situated half a mile from the house and at eight o'clock when he had not returned the family became anxious as to his whereabouts, as he was never known to remain out after eight o'clock.

Found His Body

His son, Andrew, became very much alarmed and notified the neighbours, when a number of them assembled and went in search for the old gentleman with the result that after several hours, looking through a nearby woods and pasture field, they found his body near a fence on the other side of the field, at one o'clock this morning.

Dead Some Time

His body was cold and it is quite evident that he had been dead some hours. The cause of his death is attributed to a young bull, three years of age, that was in the field, for he has been very cross for some time.

The body had been thrown over the fence by the angry bull, for Mr. McKay's hat and cane were found on the other side of the fence. When found the deceased's head was badly cut behind the ear and below the chin, death being instantaneous.

The old gentleman was very feeble and was not strong enough to get over the fence or run out of the way of the angry animal when he rushed at him.

The sad accident was a severe blow to the family. He was twice married and leaves to mourn his loss a wife, two sons, John and Andrew at home, and four daughters, Jessie and Mary Ellen at home; Mrs. Wm. Howard, Sonya, and Mrs. N. McLean, Cambray.

SMALL POX PATIENT IS LEFT ALMOST DEAD IN WOODS

Toronto, June 26.—Found deserted in a lonely hut, twenty miles south of the Superior Junction, along the new branch of the Grand Trunk Pacific, suffering from a serious attack of bronchitis and small pox combined, and weak from lack of food for several days, John Ptassuyk, a Galician, was rescued from death and brought down to near Fort William, where he is recovering. Authorities at Fort William heard of his approach and had his box car shunted off on a siding in the woods, and there Dr. R. W. Bell, sent up by the Health Department, found him.

River Driver Had Narrow Escape From Drowning At Burleigh Falls

Roy Whetung, a river driver for the Peterborough Lumber Company, and a son of Dan Whetung of Chemong Indian Village, had a narrow escape from meeting death by drowning on Friday last, near Burleigh. He was assisting in bringing a drive down the Burleigh Rapids. He was in the act of loosening up some logs when he was struck by one and thrown into the water and under the logs.

The whole drive, which was about three hundred yards in length passed over him. It was thought that the young man would be killed, but when the drive had passed over him he did not seem to be much the worse for his experience, save that some of his teeth were knocked out and his clothing was torn from his back.

Important Developments In East City Man's Discovery

Mr. O. S. Ferguson, Hunter Street, East City, to whom reference has previously been made in these columns in connection with the famous discovery of the Canadian Kimberley diamond mines, returned home today after conferring with several English and New York mining experts. Several samples have been placed with them and important developments are expected to be made at an early date. They looked over the property and were much impressed.

Mr. Ferguson still refuses to give out any information as to where the property is situated.

Presented With Purse Of Gold Is Leaving For The Old Country

Rev. E. A. Pearson, pastor of the George St. Methodist Church, will leave to-morrow on a three-months' trip abroad, going with the Withrow party. He will said from Montreal on the second of July on the steamship Sorsican of the Allan Line. The party will land at Londonderry, Ireland and will spend one month in the British Isles. They will also visit France, Monacco, Italy, Switzerland, Belgium and Holland.

To-day, Mr. Pearson was made the recipient of a purse of gold from the members of his congregation, this handsome gift being sent to him at his home. During his absence Rev. S. H. Soper, student of Victoria College, Toronto, will have charge of the congregation. He will arrive here on Friday and will take up his residence at the parsonage. Rev. Mr. Soper is a very able man and was for some time engaged with Dr. Grenfell in his work on the Labrador coast. Mr. Soper will take full charge of the duties of pastor.

UNWORTHY TACTICS

Midsummer madness seems to be the only excuse for the rabid political journalistic methods of the Toronto Mail and Empire and Toronto News. The former assuming a hypocritical interest in labour, did its best to bring about the defeat of the first Minister of Labour, Hon. Mackenzie King, when he returned to his constituents, for re-election. Under ordinary conditions, a minister returning for re-election is unopposed, the party leaders taking the sensible view that such an election is largely a formality and that little party profit is to be gained by bringing on an election, which if it should result in the defeat of the minister, would represent no party gain of any account in parliamentary division, and a very modest moral victory. Hon. Mr. Borden, leader of the Opposition declared himself as not in favour of opposing Mr. King, but the two firebrand journals strove their hardest to stir up opposition and incidentally stir up strife between the working men and the Labour element generally against other classes of the community. The small influence of these journals is demonstrated by the fact that their campaign did not even secure the respect of their own party and served only to further discredit these journals and their tactics. They don't even agree in their yarns. The Mail and Empire declared previous to the election that the voters' lists of North Waterloo, were so grossly manipulated that 500 workingmen were disfranchised and that holding an election "would be the same thing as playing with loaded dice." On the contrary the News declares on the same date—"With a clean sheet the Minister of Labour (Hon Mr. King) goes to Ottawa." Here we have one Conservative organ declaring that Mr. King goes to Ottawa, and with the guilty knowledge that he owes his election to the disfranchisement of 500 working men electors and another, which accepted the defeat of its previous tactics gracefully, declaring that Mr. King goes to Ottawa with a clean sheet. The chief lesson from this is that hereafter even if they should suffer the accident of telling the truth about political matters, the organs will not be believed. They have been defeated in their attempt to stir up strife between the working element and other elements of our population, as they will fail to succeed in their efforts to stir racial and religious strife to which their recent endeavours have been diligently trained.

SLIGHTLY MISLEADING

When a political point is to be gained it appears the Toronto News does not consider a hundred million dollars an undue play of latitude of statement. The most misleading statements, in regard to the public debt, have appeared in all the glory of a double-leaved type in the Toronto News. This is how it proves that figures will lie:

On the first of this month (June) a loan matured of $25,000,000. On the first of January next two loans fall due for $50,000,000. This year we shall need $25,000,000 for the Transcontinental Railway and $10,000,000 for the loan of the Grand Trunk Pacific. It is certain that the debt of Canada will increase from $150,000,000 to $200,000,000.

The sums mentioned by the News total $110,000,000. Of this amount $75,000,000 stands for loans to be renewed, which no more adds to the public debt than renewing a note at the bank adds to a merchant's liability. Of the remaining $35,000,000, the sum of $10,000,000 is on a secured loan made to the Grand Trunk Pacific, upon which the Company pays the interest until the principal is repaid. The remaining $25,000,000, if it is borrowed will be invested in the construction of the Transcontinental Railway and the country will have first-class value for this advance Thus it is seen that the total added to the public debt will, at the most, be $25,000,000 and not as the News incorrectly asserts $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 an error of statement of only a trifling one hundred and twenty-five or one hundred and seventy-five millions. The News in comment upon its absurdly extravagant and misleading statement says that with deep reasoning that if one hundred and fifty millions is added to the public debt it will be that much more. The same would apply to twenty-five millions the actual figure. While it was drawing the long bow the News might, as consistently have added a few hundred millions more to its conjectural statements. Where it misleads the public is seeking to throw the odium of increasing the public debt upon the Liberal Government a making it responsible for a seventy-five million dollar addition which is no addition but a renewal; and if it were an addition simply represents maturing loans for debts incurred by the Conservative Government, a legacy of debt which the Liberal Government inherited from their Conservative predecessors. Ingenious argument is sometimes questionable practice in a political cause but straight mendacity has no justification. The News is slightly astray in its public debt distortion—a trifling one or two hundred millions.

NIGHT AND DAY

The June issue of "Night and Day," the quarterly organ of Dr. Barnardo's Homes, is well worth the attention of all who are interested in social questions. The late Dr. Barnardo used to preach, in season and out of season, that the care of the Waif, Derelict, or Destitute Child was one of the prime duties of the State. Amongst such juvenile destitutes the Homes associated with his name have done a greater work than any other individual Society. Their rescues now number nearly 60,000, and they have always under their care 8,300 boys and girls. "Night and Day" is full of interesting points, connected not merely with the Homes, but generally with social work. The Annual Meeting and Founder's Day of the Homes is to take place this year on Saturday, 3rd July. Visitors to the beautiful Girls' Village Home at Barkingside will be able that day to see the children at work and at play. Lord Brassey will preside at a short Afternoon Meeting, and the Duke and Duchess of Somerset will take part in the proceedings. A portrait is given of one of the old boys of the Homes who is now sitting as a Member in the Australian House of Representatives. An interesting account of the Watts Naval School is given by Mr. Cope Cornford. Details of the Emigration work of the Homes, through which 21,220 boys and girls have now been sent forth to the Colonies, are supplied. A new departure in the form of a Boys' Garden City has a prominent place in the pages. It is hoped that within a few years most of the boys in the London Homes may be transferred to the country, where they will live in cottages on the family system. It is during the holiday season that the Homes find it most difficult to maintain their work in efficiency, for income then falls to its lowest, and it costs always £940 a day for food alone. The Magazine is fully illustrated. A copy will be sent post free on application to the Head Offices at 18 to 26, Stepney Causeway, London, Eng.

COST VERSUS BEAUTY.

The proud owner says: "This is a high-grade Canadian, and this is a pure bred Holstein." The admiring visitor to the cow stable remarks: "What beautiful cows!" The thoughtful student asks: "What yield of milk and fat do they give?" The practical man enquires: "What does their milk cost?" And the hard business sense of the dairyman leads him to determine cost of production of milk and fat through the medium of cow testing associations. The high grade may give but a poor weight of milk, the pure bred may test low, while the common grade may possibly be producing milk at the lowest cost. No one knows definitely just what the cost is until some record is kept; milk may cost 93 cents per 100 lbs., fat 35 cents per lb.; these cost prices may be up to $2.00 per 100 lbs. milk and 50 cents per pound of fat, with some poor cows; or they may be reduced by good economical feeders to 35 cents per 100, and 10 cents per lb. This all goes to prove that the careful dairyman, and particularly the average, and possibly careless farmer, should take immediate steps to find out what profit each cow brings in. Enormous improvement, and largely increased profits have been made by the men who are sufficiently alive to their own interests to weigh and sample each cow's milk regularly and keep a record of feed consumed. Blank forms for milk and feed records are supplied free on applicationto the Dairy Commissioner. Ottawa. A good record for this month from a herd of 18 cows is an average of 1,020 lbs. of milk, 3.9 test, 39 lb. fat. One grade in the herd gave 1,530 lbs. milk, testing 4.0 per cent. fat.

PRESENTATION FROM CHOIR

Mr. Chas. Harmer Honoured by the Choir of Charlotte Street Church.

Mr. Chas. Harmer, who leaves the city to-morrow for the West, and who has been a valued member of the choir ath the Charlotte St. Methodist Church for some time past, was presented by that body with a leather suit case appropriately furnished. The presentation was made by Miss Clarry, leader of the choir, who in a neat speech referred to Mr. Harmer's valued services. Rev. Mr. Henderson, the pastor of the church also added a tribute and Mr. Harmer made a suitable reply. He leaves for Edmonton to-morrow morning.

WEDDING BELLS

REYNOLDS—GRAHAM

At St. John's Church this afternoon at four o'clock one of Peterborough's most popular young ladies became a bride. Miss Katharine Graham, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. R. Graham was united in the bonds of matrimony to Mr. homas Reynolds of the Quaker Oats Company. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Canon Davidson in the presence of a few intimate friends, the event being quietly solemnized. Miss Nellie Graham, the bride's sister, acted as bridesmaid, while the groom was assisted by his brother, Mr. William Reynolds.

The bride wore a pretty Rajah silk travelling suit with a Panama hat, while the bridesmaid's costume was of pale blue stripped voile with a Panama hat.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds left on the 4:48 C.P.R. train for Toronto and Niagara Falls, after which they will go to Hamilton, where they will reside in the Alpheus Apartment.

The bride is widely known and liked in Peterborough and the groom, who has made his headquarters here for some time has made many friends in Peterborough. Their friends will unite in congratulating them and wishing them every success. Mrs. Reynolds' departure from Peterborough will be greatly regretted.

ROBERTS—McBERNEY

This afternoon at 2:45 at Mark St. Church Parsonage, East City, Mr. Albert Roberts was united in marriage to Miss Ethel May McBerney, daughter of the late Geo. McBerney. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. H. Coon. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. R. Roberts, being in attendance.

OBITUARY.

MRS. JOHN COOMBS.

A very sad death occurred on Saturday night, June 26, at 11.45 o'clock, when Jane Wilson, beloved wife of Mr. John Coombs, passed away at her home on Brown street, North Monaghan. Deceased had been ailing for some years, but was usually able to be up and around the house. Mrs. Coombs was born in Devonshire, Eng., in 1844, and was a resident of Peterborough for over twenty years. She was well known in the north end of the city, as she lived for five years on the Brumwell farm in Smith, near the waterworks pump house.

Mr. Herman Wilson, Lock Street, is the only brother living in this city, while the other members of the family are very widely scattered—some in Canada and some in England. Besides her husband and brother here, there is a daughter, Mrs. Jas. Goodwin, 587 Aylmer St. Their many friends and acquaintances will sympathise with them now in the hour of their bereavement.

The funeral service will be held at her late home on Brown street, on Tuesday at 2.00 p.m., and the remains taken to the Little Lake Cemetery for interment.

JULY BUSY MAN'S MAGAZINE.

The holiday season is one particularly devoted to reading and there is no more pleasant method of whiling away a few happy hours than by perusing a bright and interesting magazine. The July issue of Busy Man's Magazine fills this want to perfection and is brimful of breezy, entertaining articles that are sure to please its many readers. Its national topics such as, "What Flag Should Canadians Fly? "TheRomance of Transportation in Canada," "Illustrated Adolphustown" and "The Wireless in Canada," are timely and instructive articles devoted to home and business interests as well as half a dozen captivating short stories by leading writers make up a number that presents the best contributions from the current monthlies of the world, as well as affords a rich repast of things intimately associated with the everyday pleasures and pursuits of the ordinary magazine reader. The July issue of Busy Man's is attractively and appropriately illustrated and will prove a welcome companion on any vacation jaunt.

Nervous People

SALT OF THE EARTH

But when overstrained their highly strung systems give way and depression and suffering is intense.

Money is made these days at the expense of brain and nerve rather than muscular tissues.

The successful men and women are often of the highest strung nervous type—keen and active—but with two little reserve force.

A little extra worry and anxiety and snap goes the nervous system. Weeks and months are often required before energy and vigour are regained.

Rest helps, so does fresh air and exercise but the blood must also be made rich and red by the use of such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Much as they may disagree on some points the best physicians are unanimous in claiming that an abundance of rich, red, life-sustaining nerve invigorating blood is positively necessary for the restoration of the exhausted nervous system.

There is too often little sympathy for the nervous sufferer. When as a matter of fact his sufferings are most intense, being of mind as well as body.

Headaches, neuralgia, indigestion, sleeplessness, irritability, pains and cramps are often the lesser felt because of the depressed spirits and discouragements which come with loss of memory and gloomy forebodings of the future.

The sufferer from nervous exhaustion and prostration can use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food with positive assurance that the benefits derived therefrom will be both thorough and lasting.

There is no reaction from this great nerve-builder because it is not a stimulant but a restorative and reconstructor of the wasted nervous system. 50 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

WAS INJURED BY BARREL FALLING

Walter McKee, Burnham street, East City, met with a painful accident on Saturday. Mr. McKee is employed as a driver at the Calcutt Brewery and was engaged in unloading some heavy barrels when one slipped and fell, the sharp edge striking him on the leg. A deep cut to the bone was inflicted. The young man was driven to Dr. Leach's surgery, where the injury was dressed.

86 IN THE SHADE THE RECORD 'MOMETER MADE

It was a rash act for a party to leave a place of the name of Cold Springs, for 86 in the shade in Peterborough. At noon to-day the thermometer notched a score of 86 and judging by sensations did a good deal better or worse later in the day We have had as hot weather as 86 on other days, but not accompanied by the atmospheric humidity that makes to-day's hot weather, such a clinging, clammy, calorific calimity.

THE BEST REMEDY

For Women—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Belleville, Ont.—"I was so weak and worn out from a female weakness that I concluded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took several bottles of it, and I gained strength so rapidly that it seemed to make a new woman of me. I can do as good a day's work as I ever did. I sincerely bless the day that I made up my mind to take your medicine for female weakness, and I am exceedingly grateful to you for your kind letters, as I certainly profited by them. I give you permission to publish this any time you wish."—Mrs. ALBERT WICKETT, Belleville, Ontario, Canada.

Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will cure female weakness and so successfully carry women through the Change of Life as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

For 30 years it has been curing women from the worst forms of female ills—inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and nervous prostration.

If you want special advice write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

Lord Charles Beresford Addresses Press Conference.

COLONIES MUST ASSIST

Veteran Naval Officer Declares That Britain Cannot Maintain the Two-Powers Standard Without the Assistance of the Oversea Dominions — Lord Esther Speaks on Military General Staff.

London, June 28.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Imperial Press Conference Saturday resumed the adjourned discussion on imperial defence, Lord Esther presiding. The chairman told the delegates that he thought it was impossible to agree upon any definite scheme of imperial naval defence.

"If, however, you can agree upon a plan," he said, "which will give you good sailors and good officers, then good ships—the right types of ships—are bound to follow. Your true guides will ultimately be not the British Admiralty, but your own expert officers, who will have learned their naval lesson in the main battle fleet, and who will be in touch with the strategical plans of the British Admiralty, and also in touch with your own sentiment and your own needs."

The necessities of imperial military defence, Lord Esther said, were summed up in the words "imperial general staff." He then emphasised the necessity of organizing the whole resources of the nation for the purposes of defence. In the future victory would rest with the organized nation.

Admiral Lord Charles Beresford thought the grave note of the statesmen's speeches during the conference was due to the fact that they knew we were not prepared for defence. He thought that owing to deferred liabilities and other things it was impossible for Britain to maintain the two power standard without the aid of the five sister nations.

"Don't let us be in a hurry, but don't let us be too long," he said: "Let us meet together on the same platform and discuss how each can help the other."

Lord Beresford suggested that the oversea states could do most by protecting the weakest places, namely, the imperial trade routes. They should have mobile defensive forces, and he advocated an interchange of cruisers, pointing out the pleasure it would be to British sailors to see a Canadian or Australian ship leading the line.

Having praised the personnel of this navy, which he said had never been better during the last 50 years, he referred to the "mad infatuation" which resulted in the dismantling of repairing stations all over the world. He suggested that the oversea states might put those in repair, and concluded that when it came to war, the oversea fleet must come under a great strategic bureau, which will be at the Admiralty, but is not there now. (Laughter and applause.)

Lord Beresford's reference to the absence of a strategical bureau at the Admiralty called out a sharp rebuke from W. T. Stead, who declared that no man should use his position in society or his popularity in the newspapers to intrigue against and villify a man (Admiral Sir John Fisher) whom the King and two successive Ministers had placed in office.

Sir John French dealt with the imperial general staff. In order to weld together the scattered forces of the Empire, he asked the delegates to use their power in furthering this object.

Mr. Temperley moved a resolution to the effect that national defence is the most urgent question of the day for the Empire.

The Australian and home delegates monopolized the ensuing discussion, but towards the close, Mr. J. A. Macdonald of Toronto rose and hoped the resolution would not be put, first, because it either meant too little or two much, and second, because it could not express the result of the conference. The result is that we all know and see each other's standpoint and obligations, and we go back with a wide outlook and sense of empire relationship and empire obligation and we go back with a wide outlook which could not be expressed by a feckless, thewless, pithless resolution. The conference had not been a "jun-

Sore Chest Croup

You often have pains in the muscles, in the side, the back, the neck, or chest. If the inflammation is severe the pain will be intense.

Nothing so quickly cures local inflammation, so thoroughly drives out pain, as "Nerviline," which is without an equal for penetrating, soothing, pain-relieving power.

Nerviline simply can't fail to cure, because it's a perfect antidote for all the pains and aches that invade the family.

Nerviline

"For ten years we have used Polson's Nerviline in our home," writes Mrs. M. E. Graves of Freeport. "For hard, croupy colds there is nothing better. In case of a chill, sudden cold, or neuralgia, Nerviline cures before the trouble gets serious. I have used Nerviline for chronic rheumatism and lame back and find it a wonderful remedy."

thousands of housewives use Sunlight Soap in preference to any other, because it cleanses the clothes more thoroughly, and at half the cost without injury to hands or fabric.

ket;" it had been a serious affair, largely because it was not bound by any resolution, and we shall go back truer empire men.

Referring particularly to defence, he said that if Canada had 20,000,000 people no power could wipe it off the map with 80,000,000 alongside it, but it behooved Canada to be wise. Their international boundary of 2,000 miles was without a gun and without a ship. He desired to see that one instance of humanity and civilization retained undisturbed. (Applause.)

Mr. Temperley withdrew the resolution, and after the delegates had expressed the warmest appreciation of their reception in Britain the conference concluded with the national anthem and cheers.

M. E. Nicholls of The Winnipeg Telegram submitted to the conference a cable from the Winnipeg World's Fair Committee an invitation to meet in Winnipeg in 1912.

Kyffin Thomas (Australia) requested the delegates to meet and subsequently consider it.

Journalists to Meet Again

London, June 28.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—A permanent committee of the Imperial Press Conference has been elected to maintain contact between journals. The decision was reached to hold further conferences, the next time probably in Winnipeg.

GREECE WARNED OFF.

Powers Advise Her to Leave Island of Crete Alone.

Paris, June 28.—It was with reluctance and grave misgivings that the French Government conditionally assented to the proposal made by Sir Edward Grey that the four powers which had assumed the task of preserving order in Crete should withdraw their contingents from the island on July 27, because the French Cabinet was convinced that such a step, owing to the present national excitement in Crete and Greece, would inevitably result in war between Turkey and Greece.

It was upon the initiative of the French Minister of Foreign Affairs that the original plan presented by Sir Edward Grey has been so modified as to require that the four cruisers—one French, one British, one Russian and one Italian—charged with the future surveillance of Crete should each be provided with a landing force of a thousand men and six machine guns, ready to disembark and occupy the island at the first symptom of disorder.

Practically, the future naval surveillance will differ only slightly from the present military occupation. The four powers have agreed to decline the proposition made by Turkey to enter into negotiations intended to bring greater autonomy and home rule in Crete, and while assuring the Turkish Government of their determination to support Turkish sovereignty in the island, they have again made it clear to the Greek Government and to the Cretan population that they will not countenance any efforts to bring about the annexation of Crete to Greece.

Important Merger Planned.

Montreal, June 28.—Negotations are now being conducted to amalgamate two of the largest paper and lumber interests in the province. The merger involves a total capital of approximately three million dollars. The two firms are the Riordan Paper Mills, Limited, of this city, and the G. H. Perley Lumber Co. of Hull, Que.

The object is to acquire timber limits on the Rouge River, near Hawkesbury, Ont. At the present time there are 600 miles of limits in that district, one-half owned by the Riordan Co. and the other half by the Perley firm.

An important result of the merger will be the erection of a large bleaching mill at Hawkesbury to supplement the present $1,000,000 sulphide plant in that town.

Sixteen Thousand May Strike.

Youngstown, Ohio, June 28.—The executive committee of the Amalgamated Iron, Steel and Tinplate Workers have refused the demands of the Republic Iron & Steel Co. for an open shop. The Republic Company operates a plant in this city and one in Moline, Ills. Six thousand men are employed.

If the Republic Co. remains firm in its decision to open its plants to all comers the result is said to be that next Wednesday 3,000 men here, 1,000 at Moline, Ills., 1,200 at East Chicago, and 5,000 at Massilon will walk out.

These men, with the employes of the U. S. Steel Corporation, who have voted to strike on the same grievances July 1, will lay off a total of 16,000 steel workers throughout the central west.

Far Slaying His Brother.

Binghampton, N.Y., June 28.—Crazed with jealousy and maddened by a vicious combination of hard cider and alcohol, which he is said to have been drinking all day, George White, of North Pharsalia, is alleged to have murdered his brother Walter, aged 27 years. The fatal wound was inflicted following a general family row.

Actors May Strike.

Chicago, June 28.—A strike of more than 4,000 actors playing on the American stage was threatened by Harry Mountford, secretary of the board of directors of the White Rats at a large meeting held after midnight in the Colonial Theatre.

Dr. Coulter Returns.

Ottawa, June 28.—Dr. S. M. Coulter, Deputy Postmaster-General, who went to Australia and New Zealand six months ago to confer in regard to the all-red steamship project, has returned, via Great Britain, where he conferred with the imperial authorities also. Dr. Coulter is satisfied with the result of his mission. He will make a report to Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Dr. Coulter is of the opinion that the antipodes abound in trade possibilities for the Canadian people.

Slashed by a Chinaman.

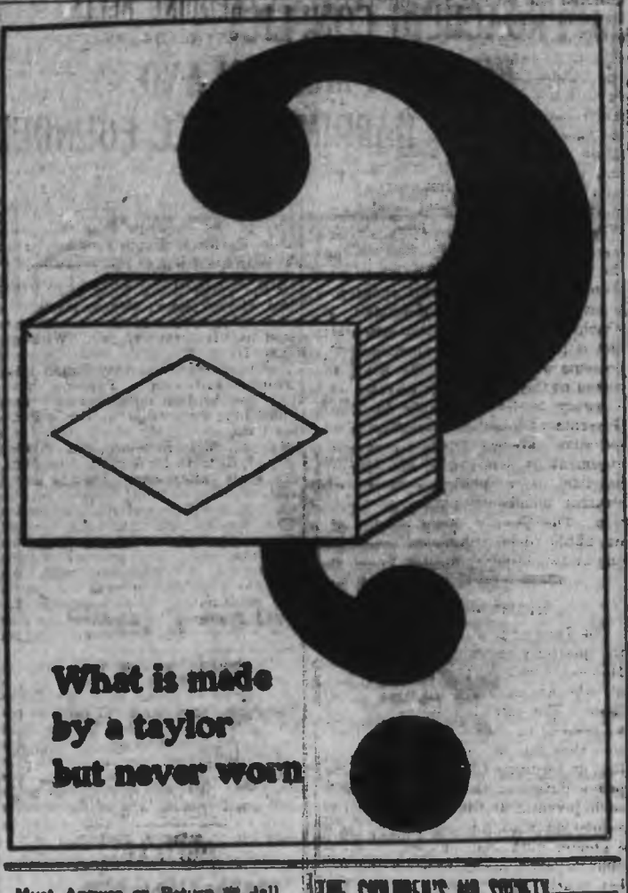
Ottawa, June 28.—Three or four Celestials standing at the corner of O'Connor and Slater streets were being pelted with sand and gravel by some lads when one of the Chinese suddenly dashed towards them and slashed a boy named O'Connell in the neck. The wound is slight. The Chinaman blew a whistle and 50 of his compatriots were immediately on the spot. A crowd of several hundred whites also gathered and the Chinese all decamped.

Another Naval Scare.

London, June 28.—Prof. Hearnshaw Hartley of University College, has an extravagant letter in Saturday's Spectator, with the contention that the construction of Dreadnoughts is hardly more critically important than the radical changes in international law which have been affected at the naval conference without observation.

To Uplifting Boys.

Detroit, June 28.—Following an investigation by 17 experts on questions affecting the youth of the city, the directors of the Detroit Young Men's Christian Association now are preparing to begin a campaign looking to the uplifting of boys.



Must Answer or Return to Jail.

Winnipeg, Man., June 28.—Lewis James, committed for contempt of court for refusing to answer questions put to him at the preliminary hearing of C. Hornbeck, accused of murdering Mrs. James, was released by Judge Mathers by writ of habeas corpus, owing to a mistake in the committment. The judge, however, ruled that the question which James had refused to answer were proper and that he should be required to answer. If he refuses to answer again he will be sent to jail.

To Dam Niagara.

Buffalo, June 28.—The international waterways commission, which has been investigating the practicability of constructing a dam across the Niagara River to raise the water level of the great lakes will recommend the building of the dam. Their reports to their respective Governments will be submitted next month.

Winnipeg's Treat.

St. Catharines, June 28.—On Saturday about 300 crates of strawberries were shipped by cold storage company to Winnipeg. These are the first strawberries ever shipped west, and are only an experiment. If the experiment proves successful large consignments of berries will be shipped westward.

TO HAVE A BEAUTIFUL SKIN

About one sixth of all the waste matter discharged from the human body passes through the pores of the skin. If the skin is to be kept beautiful the pores must be kept in healthful condition by bathing, and by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, which overcomes all chafing and irritation of the skin and cures pimples, eruptions, and the many forms of eczema.

White Firemen Not Superior.

Atlanta, Ga., June 28.—The Georgia Railroad Strike Arbitration Board decided Saturday night against the seniority of the white firemen over negroes. The arbitration, however, placed a premium on intelligence among firemen, which it is believed will ultimately result in the gradual elimination of all except the most expert negroes.

Boy's Bad Fall.

Cornwall, June 28.—Robert Fraser, aged 16, fell thirty feet into the hold of the steamship Acadian. He landed on a pile of steel rails, broke his arm, dislocated his shoulder and cut his head.

Cardinal Satolli Ill.

Rome, June 28.—Cardinal Satolli, who has been ill for the past week, is believed to be in a serious condition from nephritis and atrophy of the right lung.

Was Troubled With Weak Back For Years.

Could Not Perform Household Duties. Doctors Attended Without Avail.

Mrs. Arch. Schnare, Black Point, N.B., writes: "For years I was troubled with weak back. Oftentimes I have lain in bed for days, being scarcely able to turn myself, and I have also been a great sufferer while trying to perform my household duties. I had doctors attending me without avail and tried liniments and plasters, but nothing seemed to do me any good. I was about to give up in despair when my husband induced me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and after using two boxes I am now well and able to do my work. I am positive Doan's Kidney Pills are all that you claim for them, and I would advise all kidney sufferers to give them a fair trial."

Doan's Kidney Pills are a purely vegetable medicine, realising quick, permanent relief, without any after ill effects. A medicine that will absolutely cure Backache and all forms of Kidney and Bladder Disease.

A medicine that strengthens the kidneys so that they are enabled to extract the poisonous uric acid from the blood and prevent the chief cause of Rheumatism.

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

APPROACHING CONFLICT BETWEEN MORGAN AND HARRIMAN WELL FOUNDED

(By Reginald Barton.

New York, June 26.—(Special)—Professionals have evidently obtained control of the stock market. The public are not inclined to come in until after the return to this country of Messrs. Morgan and Harriman. The former is now on his way home from Paris, where he was unsuccessful in fixing the amount of the Steel Corporation on the French Bourse; while the latter is passionately in Europe for his health, but in reality is over there with most of his secret agents endeavouring to thwart Mr. Morgan's movements. While people supposed to be in the confidence of both of these gentlemen deny stories of a conflict, the well-informed contingent in the financial district know that the news service tickers, which have been supporting Mr. Harriman's stocks, were removed from the office of J. P. Morgan & Company, because the cable dispatches from Paris concerning the listing of the steel shares were anything but friendly to Mr. Morgan, and his ability to have the shares listed.

During the week Union Pacific, preferred, was advanced to 104; an unusual quotation for a stock paying only four per cent. Southern railway issues gained two points and Brunswick Dock made a new high record. The has been considerable activity in this issue of late, possibly due to the rumours that the Louisville & Nasuville are endeavouring to obtain control of the Atlantic, Birmingham and Atlantic. Should one of the great trunk lines obtain control of the latter; Brunswick will at once become one of the largest shipping ports of the south. At present there is considerable shipping from there to European and South American ports.

According to despatches from Pittsburg June will be by far the best month of the first six in the year in shipments of steel. Orders for steel rails aggregating about 225,000 tons and increased mills activities are the notable features of the week in the iron and steel industries. The Reading Railroad has ordered 500 steel cars from the Standard Steel Car Company, and present requirements for the Baltimore and Ohio call for 3,500 freight cars, 79 passenger coaches and 50 locomotives. The Great Northern is inquiring for 1,000 box cars and the New Jersey Central for 500 steel gondolas.

Big buying by Southern interests caused an advance of $2 per bale in the cotton market. Rumours are in circulation that the local stock of cotton will be completed by the holders of contracts for July delivery. Foreign operators and spinners are growing anxious for prompt deliveries. The Western belt looks better and good reports are being received from Texas, while private wires report heavy rains in Alabama.

NEWS FROM THE FRONT

What the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons Are Doing in Camp at Nassau.

Special to The Examiner.

Nassau, June 26.—Another hot one! This morning the regimental drill and target practice were continued with a good showing by all taking part. This afternoon saw a new departure from the daily routine in as much as a trip to the city was the number on the programme. The boys had been looking forward to this, as many had not yet an opportunity of viewing Peterborough in its business hours. It being Saturday afternoon some of the factories are closed and at this time, too, a large number are in from the country it was a very good chance for the public to see the Dragoons on parade.

At 2.30 the four squadrons marched out of camp, crossed the river to the Douro side and proceeded to the city and paraded the principal streets. This was quite a change from the regular drill and the outing was much enjoyed both by officers and men. The return march was made by way of East City, on account of the great depth of dust on the River Road on the Smith side, and at 5.30 the camp was reached, with all ready for supper.

In the evening the officers extended their hospitality to a number of prominent Peterborough citizens and a very enjoyable time was spent by all present at this social function.

Sunday, June 27.—This morning the weather is still of the torrid variety and there is not even a breeze to make a change of air. Off for the city again! On this occasion the cavalrymen became infantry and left their horses behind. At ten o'clock the "Bessie Butler" left the Nassau wharf with about 110 of the Dragoons, and after a very pleasant sail down the Trent Valley Canal the Lift Lock was reached at 10.50. This little excursion presented a pretty picture with the line of redcoats on the steamer's deck. At the Lift Lock the Dragoons were met by the officers and bugle band of the 57th Regiment, and joined in the parade to St. Luke's Church, of which Rev. Dr. Langfeldt is the rector.

After the service the return to camp was by the same route as on the outward trip, the bugle band and a few of the 57th officers came up on the boat to Nassau, but returned at once to the city.

These jaunts down to Peterborough relieve the monotony of camp life, and it is no hardship to be encamped out in the country.

During the afternoon the camp was very quiet as many were absent on trips to see the surrounding country, but fully 200 visitors were on the grounds during the day. At about 3.30 Major Young and Capt. Deak arrived in camp by automobile all the way from Cobourg. After a friendly chat of an hour with the officers they started on the return journey at a lively clip.

The first real misfortune in camp happened this morning when the regiment was away attending church service. One of the horses felt so lonesome without its owner that it keeled over and breathed no more. The animal was hauled away out of camp and the funeral will be held early on Monday morning. On account of the hard, stony nature of the ground here the gravediggers will earn their pay all right.

On Monday, the regular routine will again be followed and there will be more practice at the ranges.

CLOTHING, DRY GOODS AND SHOES, etc., ALMOST GIVEN AWAY. DOWN! DOWN! DOWN! GO THE PRICES WITH A THUNDERING CRASH. F. E. KLINE & CO'S READY-TO-WEAR CLOTHING, DRY GOODS AND SHOE STOCK AT LAKEFIELD ONTARIO.

DOOMED

NATIONAL SALVAGE COMPANY OF TORONTO, NOW CLOSING OUT THE STOCK RAPIDLY.

Never in Ontario's history of merchandising were such immense crowds of people seen at any sale heretofore. F. E. Kline & Co's entire clothing, dry goods and shoe stock now in the hands of the National Salvage Co., which must be sold inside of ten days' limit. This stupendous sacrifice sale of clothing, dry goods, and shoes has attracted the people of Peterborough County, from fifty to sixty miles in all directions. The store has been open on Wednesday of this week for the first day's sale, and has been literally crammed with eager buyers, and the many extra salespeople have been worked from morning until night, supplying the vast crowds of buyers that are thronging F. E. Kline & Co's. store. Such a great sacrifice sale of Clothing, Dry Goods, and Shoes, etc., was never given in Lakefield before, and its like will probably never occur here again. The National Salvage Co. of Toronto, say that they have taken out the knife and cut the prices square in two in order to close out the entire stock in the ten days' limit. It certainly is a rare opportunity for the people of Lakefield and surrounding country to outfit themselves in the best of dry goods, clothing, boots and shoes, at 40 to 45 cents on the dollar. Hundreds upon hundreds of people are now taking advantage of this great dry goods, clothing and shoe sale of F. E. Kline & Co's. stock, and well they may, as prices are less than the actual cost of the goods. It is a time for clothing, dry-goods and shoe buying, when one dollar will go as far as two ordinarily. Wednesday of this week, Friday, and big Saturday—these three days of sale will be marked and remembered as the biggest three days' selling of dry goods, clothing and shoes that was ever attempted in Peterborough County. F. T. Kline & Co's. clothing, dry goods and shoes are now in the hands of the National Salvage Co. of Toronto, who have instructions to sell the entire stock at unheard of low prices, disregarding all former cost of the goods. Use common sense, and if you have any ready cash, then consider and realise what this sale means to you, a saving of actually one-half of your purchases. Act quickly—you cannot afford to miss this sale, if the saving of money means anything to you, then attend to this sale immediately. The goods will fairly roll out of the store on Wednesday, Friday, and big Saturday of this week. On Saturday the store will remain open until 12 o'clock at night, in order to accommodate the big crowds attending this sale. Be careful, and be sure you find the right place, look for the green sign covering the entire front of the store.

Sale commenced on Wednesday of this week at 9 a.m., and will be ended on Saturday, July 10th.

THE JULY ROD AND GUN

"Big Game Shooting in the Yukon Territory," by that veteran sportsman, Mr. C. G. Cowan, opens the exceptionally fine July number of Rod and Gun in Canada, published by W. J. Taylor, Woodstock, Ont. It is clear from the account given that big game is plentiful in the Yukon and provides fine sport for those who can afford time and money to travel so far. Mr. Reginald Gourlay predicts a Good Fall for Hares and a consequent relief to the big game of the North from Indian raids. Canadian and American sportsmen should note and govern themselves accordingly. The Basset Hound for Sport is an article which will interest all dog lovers. These are but samples of a long list in which fishing and hunting topics come in for adequate treatment, while numerous short papers supply variety and enable sportsmen to pick up the magazine at any time, confident of finding much that will give them pleasant reading on topics which appeal to them all the year round even if the force is increased somewhat in the summer weather when the wild is calling in many ways.

NECESSARY FOR THE FAMILY

If health is to be maintained there must be at hand in every household a medicine which can be positively relied upon to regulate the liver, kidneys and bowels. NEW BAND MUSIC

57th Have Some Classy Popular Music for Use on Friday Night.

Friends of the 57th Regimental Band and the citizens who throng Victoria Park every Friday night for the weekly concerts will be glad to learn that a new shipment of popular music has arrived and will be played by the band in this week's programme. Among the numbers is "Bits" of Remicks' hits which includes all the latest song hits, issued by the well-known publishing house. Some of the selection are "It Looks to Me Like a Big Night To-night," "When I Marry You," "Shine On, Harvest Moon," "Dear Heart," and others equally popular. Another good number is "Dublin Daisies," an Irish intermezzo by Percy Wenrich, composer of the phenomenal success, "Rainbow." The new number is every bit as catchy as "Rainbow," and is destined to make a hit of the first water. "Happy Go Lucky," a swinging characteristic that is as irresistibly catchy as its name, composed by J. Bodewalte Lampe, author of the well known "Happy Heinie," is still another number that has been added to the collection.

The band will play these three new selections at the Friday night concert and will have two rehearsals this week for the purpose of preparing them.

ANOTHER NEW LANDAU FOR ROBINSON'S STABLES

One of the Handsomest in Readiness for the Public Service.

One might conclude that with the introduction of the automobile, the bicycle, and the street car service, liverymen would experience some hurtful influence to their business. Instead of this being the case, it is a fact that the demand for horses, livery rigs, family driving, etc., is on the increase. Evidence of this is frequently furnished by our local liverymen, who keep adding newer and more modern outfits to their stable plants. Last week "Doc." Robinson, Charlotte street, installed another new landau, to keep pace with his business. It is a swell looking outfit of the most recent design. The top is divided into two sections, which can be let down or thrown back in such a manner as to make an open carriage. The seats and cushions are upholstered in Morocco leather, the mountings are in polished brass, and the trimmings are blue. It was a special order to the manufacturing company and combines to everything to be desired for business or pleasure driving.

BEAUTY OF LANGUAGE IS NECESSARY

Editor The Examiner:—"The beautiful is good, the good is beautiful." We have a beautiful city, our just pride and great story. Visitors from far and near, in terms of the highest eulogy, express their sincere admiration.

Commendable and excellent the beauty of taste and order, is it equally so as to speech? Signs of marked intelligence on every hand. Yet is it not remarkable that ears are so often pricked by language that does not betray intelligence. Why is this? The school master is abroad! Why should men and boys use a language they do not understand? Interlard their speech with words that are no signs of education, refinement, or even good sense.

In a former age it was "the fashion," even in what was termed polite society, to "swear like a trooper," just as "drunk as a lord," evoked no surprise. But those so-called "good old times," which were the bad times, are a past mile-stone.

A revision has taken place of the poets: "Fine old English gentleman." In this democratic age the gentleman is the man who lives and acts gentlemanly. It may not be "the white flower of a blameless life," but, at least, it will be free from the roughness of offensive speech.

In these days, happily, nobody defends language that is indefensible from every standpoint of taste, refinement and morality. That's a decided advance and exceedingly pleasing to those who welcome the beautiful in speech.

It is undoubtedly true that good surroundings have a refining influence, still all know from experience that more is needed. Many maintain that rudeness, roughness and coarseness are because of the lack of religious education in our public schools. That is very doubtful. If it were so it is strange that those, and so many, who have enjoyed such schools that insist on a system of religious training are not the least sinners. Be it understood that there is a value in sound religious training, and no misconduct can discredit it, but example transcends precept, and no true substitute for the home has yet been found. Home training, home example, home influence are the supreme and most potent factors to wise and good conduct. A lowered home influence means all through our social lif a lowered tone and a lessened force for good.

It seems like presumption to suggest to church leaders the need of calling attention to conduct outlawed by human and Divine authority: still, is it not needed? If any doubts on the question attend and move around the crowd of some of our public games, that will be an object lesson that will amply justify this reluctant complaint.

It is very hateful to call attention to deformities; it is far more pleasing to point out beauties in way and conduct, yet it has to be done if the better and the best are to rule and reign.

The odiousness of profanity only has to be named to be condemned by every right thinking person, and whatever the reason and cause, in our better moments, it must be a source of sorrow and regret.

Each has an influence, and true reform is reform of self, and starting with a vow not to soil our manhood with vain, foolish and corrupt oaths is a step in a good direction, alike admirable and commendable. S.

Conveyances will leave the Peterborough Armouries on Tuesday evening next at 7.45 for the purpose of providing transportation for all officers of the 57th Regiment who intend visiting the camp of the 3rd Dragoons on that evening. 2-149

CHAPLAIN ADDRESSED THE DRAGOONS YESTERDAY MORNING

3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons Worshipped at St. Luke's Church —Splendid Service —Rev. Dr. Langfeldt's Sermon.

AN EXCELLENT TURNOUT

The annual church parade held in connection with the camp of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons, took place yesterday morning to St. Luke's Church, where the Chaplain and Hon. Captain, Rev. Dr. E. A. Langfeldt, preached a most appropriate and instructive discourse.

The soldiers went on board the Government boat, the Bessie Butler," at their camping grounds at Nassau, and were brought bown by the canal to the Lift Lock. Here they were met by Lieut. Col. Stevenson, commanding officer of the 57th Regiment; Lieut. Col. Miller, and a number of other officers of the 57th. Headed by the 57th Bugle Band, they marched to the church. Lieut. Col. Syer of the Dragoons, commanding.

The service was of a bright and inspiring character. The soldiers occupied the centre rows of seats. Printed forms of service were provided and the singing and responses were joined in most heartily. During the offertory Miss Ruby Quartermaine sang in splendid voice "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," and after the benediction, the National Anthem was sung.

The Sermon.

The Honorary Captain, Rev. Dr. Langfeldt, in his remarks to his fellow soldiers, chose for his text part of the fifty-fourth verse of the twenty-seventh chapter of the Gospel of St Matthew: "Truly this man was the Son of God." In these days of modern science, the reverend speaker said, it was well to have absolute surety of the faith within one. The words of the text were the utterance of an unbeliever, as far as the claims of Jesus Christ were concerned. But he could not help but admit the claim that Christ was the Son of God. If He was not the Son of God, Christianity would fail.

"Christ is our King, our Priest, and our Redeemer," he continued. "You soldiers are men enrolled in the service of our sovereign. I never could think of the soldiers of King Edward being disrespectful to him. How much more then should this loyalty and affection be given to our Lord and King, Jesus Christ?

"Christ was the mediator for the sins of His people. It was through Him that access to the throne of God was found. Christ was the Redeemer of the world by His death upon the cross." In conclusion Dr. Langfeldt urged the soldiers to acknowledge their duties to Jesus Christ.

A large number of citizens witnessed the march of the Dragoons on their return to the camp.

OFFICERS OF 3rd DRAGOONS ENTERTAINED THEIR FRIENDS

Enjoyable Function at Nassau Camp on Saturday Evening—Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P., Mr. R. R. Hall, Ex-M.P., and Others, Guests at Officers Mess.

A GOOD PROGRAMME

A very pleasant time was spent on Saturday evening, at the Officers' Mess of the 3rd Prince of Wales, Canadian Dragoons, which are in camp at Nassau. The officers of the 3rd Dragoons were at home to a few of their friends, including Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P., Messrs. R. R. Hall, Ex-M.P., J. H. McClellan, Superintendent Trent Canal, and G. N. Gordon. After the visitors had formed the acquaintance of the various officers in camp, and spent a short while in discussing military matters generally, the officers and their guests sat down to a well prepared banquet. The chair was occupied by Captain Smith, (Colbourne) Quartermaster of the 3rd Dragoons, and chairman of the mess. After the toast to the King had been royally honoured, Captain Langfeldt, Chaplain of the regiment in a well worded speech proposed the toast of the Parliament of Canada. In doing so he referred in cordial terms to the interest that Mr. Stratton had taken in the 3rd Dragoons, and also made reference to the splendid service performed by Mr. Hall in making sufficiently strong representations upon the Government, resulting in the erection of Peterborough's beautiful new armouries.

Mr. Stratton, in his reply, expressed his pleasure in meeting with the officers of the 3rd Dragoons, coming as they did from the four Counties of Prince Edward, Northumberland, Durham and Peterborough. He assured the officers that anything that he could do for the 3rd Dragoons, he would do cheerfully, and he hoped that in future the camp of the regiment would be held at Peterborough. So far as he was concerned he would do all in his power, with a view to having the camp held here each year, and he felt it merely required the hearty co-operation of the officers to obtain the content of the Department in this respect. He saw no reason why all the regiments of this district should not drill at Peterborough, providing the officers of the various corps expressed themselves to the Militia Department as agreeable to this policy. Mr. Stratton referred in glowing teams to the service performed by the Canadian soldiers during times of trouble in our own land, as well as the manner in which they acquitted themselves when called upon in the defence of the Empire in South Africa.

Mr. Hall spoke of the interest he had taken in the garrison of Peterborough, during the period of time he represented West Peterborough, and stated that he had always done everything in his power to impress upon the Militia Department the needs and requirements of the Militia of Peterborough County.

Major McLaughlin, (Bowmanville), proposed the toast of our guests, which were responded to by Mr. J. H. McClellan and Mr. G. N. Gordon. Major McLaughlin expressed the thanks of the regiment to Mr. McClellan for having placed at the disposal of the regiment the steamer "Bessie Butler," to convey the soldiers to church on Sunday. Mr. McClellan and Mr. Gordon replied in short but well worded speeches.

Hon. Mr. Stratton, in proposing the toast of Lt.-Col. Syer, the Commanding Officer of the Regiment, referred to the rapid rise that Col. Syer had made from the ranks to the command of his regiment. He was glad to know that he had the loyal support of his fellow officers and men, and that he was popular with all ranks. He felt particular interest in Col. Syer, in view of the fact that he, himself, as well as Col. Syer, came from the good old Township of Cavan.

Col. Syer, who was warmly received, thanked Mr. Stratton for his kindly references and expressed the delight in being in camp at Peterborough. So far as he was concerned he wanted to camp at no other place, and he hoped that all future camps of the 3rd Dragoons would be in Peterborough. He was well pleased in the manner the citizens had received them, and the accommodation that was afforded for their annual camp.

Various other toasts were honoured, which brought forth some clever and interesting replies.

During the evening Lieut. Edmondson (Harwood) delivered several choice vocal selections, and Lieut. Medd delighted the Company with several solos.

The affair concluded about 11.30, with the singing of the National Anthem.

Band to-morrow [Tuesday] evening at Crawford Grove.

THE WEATHER.

For over a week we have had very high temperatures. Yesterday (Sunday) the thermometer rose to 86 degrees in the shade in the afternoon. This figure has not been exceeded this summer though some three or four days have an equally high record. To-day is still very warm, and a thunderstorm is not improbable.

REV. H. M. MANNING PREACHES HIS FAREWELL SERMON

There were large congregations yesterday at St. James' Church, when Rev. H. M. Manning preached his farewell sermons to his flock. During the time he has been pastor of Charlotte Street and St. James Mr. Manning has been most popular and his presence will be genuinely missed. The sermons were most appropriate to the occasion.

In the morning Mr. Manning took as his text Ecclesiastes 12th, verses 13 and 14: "Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter; fear God and keep his commandments for this is the whole duty of man."

If we would hear we must listen. The chief reason the gospel is not understood is because people won't give their attention to it. Children readily accept what is taught them, but begin to question the teachings as they grow older, Now the practical test of truth is in the working out of it. The sum of the whole gospel teaching is: "Fear the Lord and Keep His commandments."

Whatever has the tendency to separate us from God must be put as error at once. In the matter of duty man is under moral obligation. And God has not given us so much to do that the whole duty cannot be performed. Man can be influenced by the fear of God in everything he does. God executes law as well as He makes law.

The moral judgment of truth must be supplemented by the final judgment of each man's conduct. That judgment is minute it embraces everything. The speaker closed with an appeal to keep God in our thoughts and to recognize his authority. In the evening Mr. Manning preached a sermon of a very helpful character at the regular service directing his remarks especially in the interests of the officials of the church.

In the morning a chorus was given by the choir and Miss Manning sang a solo. At the evening service the choir rendered an anthem, and a duet was sung by Miss Manning and Mrs. Rehill.

An open session of the Sunday School was held in the afternoon at which Mr. Manning and Mr. Petley addressed the pupils.

Mr. Manning will leave on Wednesday morning for his new charge in Port Hope, and will have the best wishes of the members of his congregation here. His successor will be Rev. J. G. Brown, B.A., of Beaverton, who is expected to arrive here in time to conduct the Wednesday evening prayer meeting.

MR. HASSARD BACK FROM Y.M.C.A. WORK AMONG MILITIA

Mr. H. C. Hassard, secretary of the Peterborough Y. M. C. A., has returned from the annual militia camp, at Barriefield, near Kingston, where he was in charge of the Y. M. C. A. work. He was assisted by two members of the local Association, Messrs. Allen Stabler and Stanley Madill, and by Mr. Wilkes, physical director of the Belleville Y. M. C. A. ,and by five members of the Kingston Y. M. C. A., and by an exangelist from Toronto.

The usual work of the Y. M. C. A. was carried on during the two weeks. The Y. M. C. A. supplied the men with refreshments, in the shape of soft drinks, carried on a post office, held meetings, and instructed the men in physical culture 3,500 pieces of mail were received from the men at the "Y" tent, and 3,300 pieces of writing paper, and 2,000 envelopes were given out.

Seventy-five took part each day in athletics, under the direction of Mr. Wilkes and the Y. M. C. A. put on a five-mile road race, in which there were six entries and for which the staff officers donated prizes. The average dail number of visits to the Association tent was 920 and at the ten evangelistic services held there was an average attendance of 250.

The Cup this year was much smaller than usual, the total of officers and men form only about 1,300.

The absence of the canteen was very favourably commented on by Mr. H. C. Hassard, who states that the improvement in the conduct and deportment of the men was noticeable.

Bank Managers Honoured By Their Respective Staffs

Mr. A. Montizambert, who has occupied the position of Manager of the Bank of Montreal, here, retired this morning to give place to Mr. R. W. Travers, who arrived from Brockville and assumed his duties here this morning, Mr. Montizambert leaving to-day for Brantford, to assume his new duties there.

On Saturday evening the members of the local bank staff signalized Mr. Montizambert's departure by presenting him with a set of thermos bottles. This was accompanied by an address from Mr. Yeates, Accountant. Mr. Montizambert briefly replied, expressing hi sthanks for the gift, his appreciation of the sentiments suggesting it, and of the accompanying assurances of respect and esteem. He regretted the severance of the pleasant relations that had subsisted between the efficient staff and himself, during his stay here.

On Friday, Mr. Travers, previous to his departure from Brockville, was presented by his bank staff with a pair of binocular marine glasses. Mr. Travers was also honoured by the Brockville Club with the presentation of an illuminated address, together with a cut glass punch bowl and silver tray.

The Examiner welcomes the coming, and speeds the parting manager of the Bank of Montreal wishing to both a pleasant and successful stay in their respective fields of duty, and a host of friends as warm as they each leave behind them in Peterborough and Brockville.

Italian Charged With Stealing Eight Dollars Was Acquitted

Marcello Giovanni was charged at the police court this morning with stealing eight dollars from Vincent E. Crebar. He pleaded not guilty and there was not sufficient evidence to convict him and His Worship discharged him.

Crebar stated that the prisoner came here from Kingston about three weeks ago. He was without money or work. The witness very kindly took him to his home and kept him. Crebar left some money in his vest pocket, hanging in the kitchen. The money was missed and Giovanni was at once suspected and placed under arrest. But the evidence of Crebar was not sufficient to make a conviction and he was allowed to go.

GRAND SUCCESS

Wonderful Growth in Sales During 1908.

The year just passed will long be remembered for the financial and commercial depression. Business houses all over Canada were affected. Most of them show a loss over 1907. Some did almost as much business last year as in the preceeding one. A few—a very few—show substantial gains. In spite of "hard times" and "financial depression" the sales of "Fruit-a-tives" doubled in 1908 over 1907.

The National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada Limited bought "Fruit-a-tives" in 100 gross lots (14,400 boxes). Lyman Sons & Company of Montreal, and Lyman Brothers in Toronto, also ordered "Fruit-a-tives" by the hundred gross lots. These big wholesalers bought such big orders simply because the retail dealers ordered so many boxes of "Fruit-a-tives"—and the dealers had to keep "Fruit-a-tives" always in stock to supply the constantly growing demand of people in every section of Canada.

To-day, "Fruit-a-tives" are the most popular family medicine in the Dominion. In the big cities, in the smaller towns, on farms and ranches, "Fruit-a-tives" are the standby in curing all forms of Stomach, Liver, Bowel, Skin and Kidney Trouble, Rheumatism, Headaches and Neuralgia.

Are you a sufferer from any of the diseases? Don't hesitate a moment. Get a box of "Fruit-a-tives" — take them according to directions—and they will cure without fail. 50c a box, 6 for $2.50, or trial size, 25c. At dealers or from Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

MANY DEATHS BY DROWNING

Many Boating and Bathing Tragedies Are Reported.

CANOES CLAIM FOUR LIVES

Two Young Bank Clerks Drown in Red River at Winnipeg — Young Bride and Her Brother Perish in Kaministiqua at Fort William —London Man Faints in the Water — Lad is Drowned.

Fort William, June 28.—On Saturday the bride of J. Loughton, aged 20, and her brother, William Ward, drowned in the Kaministiqua River. They were canoeing on the river and while Ward was changing the paddle from one hand to another the current capsized the boat. Loughton supported his wife until he became unconscious. He was rescued by two men.

Smothers in Water.

London, June 28.—The body of Frederick Sathue, aged 44, was found floating in the Thames yesterday morning. Death was due to suffocation. He had gone in bathing and was stricken with a fainting spell and fell face downward in the water. The body floated a mile with the lungs, full of air, keeping out all water. He leaves a widow and four children.

Double Canoe Drowning.

Winnipeg, June 28.—Late yesterday afternoon W. C. Thompson and Samuel McConaghy, two clerks, were canoeing on the river near Elm Park, when their boat upset and both were drowned.

Drowns While Bathing.

Iroquois, June 28.—Dannie Roberts, 16 years old, son of Edward Roberts, was drowned yesterday while bathing in the canal.

Jumped From a Boat.

Brockville, June 27.—Albert Marshall, a river guide, of Clayton, N.Y., was taking Gordon Emmett, a carpenter, of Fine View, home from Clayton in his boat about noon yesterday. When a few rods from Round Island Emmett suddenly arose from his seat in the boat and jumped overboard. Marshall, as Emmett rose to the surface, grabbed him, but was unable to maintain his hold upon the man, who sank and was drowned. Emmett was a widower and about 50 years of age. No reason for his act is known.

Drowned While Bathing.

North Bay, June 28.—Garfield B. McMinn, aged 10 years, son of J. B. McMinn, lumberman, was drowned while bathing with some companions near his home at Rutherglen, twenty-six miles east of North Bay. The body was recovered and taken to Huntsville for burial.

Brothers Drown.

New York, June 28.—Caught in a strong undertow, Abbott Willard and Norman Willard, brothers, 10 and 11 years old, were drowned while wading in the Hudson. Two small companions tried to form a chain as they struggled in the water, but were unable to reach them.

Grocery Clerk Suicides.

Toronto, June 28.—Wm. R. Rolph, a grocery clerk of East Toronto, spicided at 9.30 Saturday night by taking carbolic acid in his brother's home, 25 Lyle avenue.

He had been out of work for a long time and despondency is evidently responsible.

Dr. Walters, 1,502 Danforth avenue, and Dr. Britton, 401 Danforth avenue, were summoned as soon as the young man's rash act was noticed, but he expired before either arrived. He was 21 years of age.

Beerbohm Tree May Come.

New York, June 28.—The Herald's London correspondent cables that W. A. Brady is trying to perfect an arrangement with Sir Beerbohm Tree for an American tour commencing next January, with his production of "The School for Scandal," "The Merry Wives of Windsor," "Oliver Twist," "The Newcomes," "The Tempest," Richard III. and other plays of his extended repertoire.

6,098 Veterans Get Land.

Ottawa, June 28.—Enquiry at the Department of Interior reveals that to date there have been issued and actually delivered 6,098 veterans' land certificates. Of these 992 have been located, 217 by veterans and 775 by substitutes. Substitutes' agreements to the number of 931 have been registered at the Department.

ATTACKED WOMEN.

Tramp is Caught Near Gananoque by Force of Farmers.

Gananoque, June 28.—Charged with having attempted assault on three women, John Fitzgerald, aged 36, of Montreal, a tramp, is under arrest.

His capture was effected largely through the use of the rural telephone system, after Miss Mabel Spafford, aged 18, a farmer's daughter, had reported at home that she had been attacked.

A posse of 25 farmers was organized and a thorough search was instituted, resulting in Fitzgerald's arrest at Findlay Station, six miles from here.

Miss Spafford was picking berries along the railway when accosted, and it was only her desperate struggles which saved her. In escaping she ran across the railway tracks just a few feet in front of a freight train.

It is charged, too, that Fitzgerald also failed in later assaults on a farmer's wife and a young girl, the latter striking him across the face and setting a dog on him. It was at this moment that the posse came along. Fitzgerald started to run, but was soon overhauled.

Fitzgerald is five feet in height, of sandy complexion. He was committed for trial at Brockville.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Bishop DuMoulin consecrated St. Mark's Church at Hamilton yesterday.

The motormen and conductors of the Pittsburg Street Railway are all on strike.

The German Emperor has refused to accept the resignation of Chancellor von Buelow.

The Emperor of Russia reached Stockholm on Saturday to pay a visit to the King of Sweden.

There is talk of a coal famine in the west during the coming winter, owing to the strike of miners.

A nurse in a Detroit hospital killed a new-born babe by placing it by mistake in a carbolic acid bath.

The proposed union stock yards at St. Boniface may not be established because of an old agreement binding the C.P.R. to maintain its stock yards and shops in Winnipeg.

Judge Wells has decided that, as the Fort Erie race track liquor license has not yet been issued, although granted by the commissioners, he has no jurisdiction to hear the application to cancel it.

F. W. Sussex, teller in the Union Bank at Rocanville, Sask., has disappeared. He came from Palmerston.

The Imperial Social Club at Hamilton was raided by the police, and 27 colored men arrested on a charge of gambling.

Big Saw Mills Assured.

Fort Frances, June 28.—After considerable silence on the part of the Rainy Lake Lumber Co., The Times has it from an authoritative source that the company expects to commence the erection of their mammoth saw mill and planer. The proposed mill will have a capacity of one hundred million feet per annum and will employ over 400 men. The planer, which it is planned will run the year round, will also employ a large number of hands. The company has a capital of $20,000,000 and owns a large amount of timber in this district.

What Beamsville Lost.

Beamsville, June 28.—A building famous in the annals of its time to many old residents of a wide district, will soon be torn down in this town. The structure is no less than the cradle of the infant industry began by the late John Harris, and now known as the Massey-Harris Co. It was here somewhere in 1826 that Harris conducted a moulding shop. About 1871 the owner asked the village council for an exemption from further taxation, but was refused and shortly afterwards removed to Brantford.

Retiring Governor's Discourtesy.

Atlanta, Ga., June 28.—Joseph M. Brown on Saturday took office as governor of Georgia, succeeding Hoke Smith. The governor-elect, attired in a suit of Georgia homespun, eluded a delegation sent to meet him by having the train stop at a crossing before the station was reached.

The retiring governor, Hoke Smith, handed the seal to Brown abruptly, bowed distantly and without a word of congratulation walked away.

Compensation for N. Z. Hotelmen.

Wellington, N.Z., June 28.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—As a result of the poll taken in November, 1908, 28 hotels in Auckland district will be closed. The Auckland Licensed Victuallers' Association is canvassing its members in the hope of raising the sum of a thousand pounds for distribution among the licensees. Five hotels in Auckland City will also be closed.

Parisian Printers Coming.

New York, June 28.—A party of printers from Paris, here for a study of methods pursued in American typographical establishments, has arrived from Havre. They will visit many of the noted printing plants in New York, Philadelphia, Washington and Chicago, and also make an inspection of several of the establishments in Toronto.

Montreal Alderman Reinstated.

Montreal, June 28.—The Court of Appeal has reinstated the eleven aldermen who were unseated by the Court of Review for having, it was held, illegally sanctioned a payment of Mayor Payette's expenses to Europe.

UNITED STATES CHANGES MIND

Senate Decides to Let Wood Pulp Enter Free.

MAY DOUBLE PAPER DUTY

Retaliatory Clause is Inserted Whereby Double Duty on Print Paper May Be Fixed If Any Country Puts Export Duty on Pulp—Motion to Admit Agricultural Implements Free Defeated.

Washington, June 28.—The Senate on Saturday revised its previous action on the print paper and wood pulp schedule, Senator Aldrich agreeing to amendments relating both to pulp and paper in place of amendments hitherto adopted. The amendments adopted were those proposed by Senator Brown of Nebraska a few days ago. He was apparently quite as much surprised as pleased at this turn of affairs in his favor. The Aldrich proposals were aimed directly at Canada.

The Brown amendment provides for the free admission of mechanically ground wood pulp, but authorizes the imposition of a duty of one-twelfth of a cent per pound, dry weight, if any country, dependency or province has unduly discriminated against the United States by the imposition of an export duty or export charge of any kind upon pulpwood, wood pulp or printing paper exported into the United States, or has forbidden or restricts the exportation of any of these articles directly or indirectly.

On chemical wood pulp, a duty of one-sixth of a cent per pound is provided on the unbleached article and of one-fourth of a cent on the bleached article, and in case of discrimination by the exporting country, the duties are to be doubled.

The paper amendment provides the doubling of the duty on newspaper print paper in case of discrimination. This paper is valued at three cents a pound or less, and according to the terms of the bill, is made dutiable at the rate of five-tenths of a cent a pound.

An amendment proposing free admission of agricultural implements was voted down by 45 votes to 20, and the paragraph imposing a 15 per cent. ad valorem duty on farm implements was adopted.

Bosphorus Paved With Skeletons.

Liverpool, June 28.—An officer on one of the Saint Line steamers, writing to The Liverpool Journal of Commerce, makes the following statements:

"While at Constantinople on April 30, two divers went down in the Bosphorus for some purpose, and they reported that the bottom was covered with skeletons. One of the divers died from the effects of going down, and the other went mad.

"A yacht anchored in this place a little while ago, and when the crew hove up the anchor there were two dead bodies hooked in it shackled together."

High Picture Prices.

London, June 28.—Prices at Christie's are still running high. The dealers, already loaded up with Turners or eighteenth century portraits or French landscapes, cannot afford to allow their own stocks to be depreciated by sacrifice prices at auction. The enormous price of $62,250 was paid for Turner's "Burning of the Houses of Parliament," by the Agnews, and sets a new standard for other works of superior merit from the same hand. The same remark applies to the unprecedented prices for Constables.

Visited U. S. Fort.

Niagara-on-the-Lake, June 28.—On Saturday afternoon the headquarters' staff of Niagara camp paid a fraternal visit to Fort Niagara across the river. This was a return call to the American officers, who attended the review on Friday. On their arrival at the fort 12 guns were fired as a salute.

Rolls Into a Pond.

Hornell, N.Y., June 28.—Robert M. Bonnes, a blacksmith, committed suicide in a peculiar manner yesterday. Going to the bank of a pond he tied his feet securely with a rope, which he then looped several times about his body until his arms were fastened. He then rolled into the water.

COATED TONGUE HEADACHE DIZZY SPELLS

Your overworked stomach is on strike. It refuses to secrete pepsin enough to act upon the food. Refuses also to secrete acid enough to enable the peptic secretion to do its work.

What's the result?—dyspepsia, headache, sick all over.

Give to the stomach the assistance it requires—or in other words try Dr. Hamilton's Pills, which cure more weak stomachs than any other medicine you know of.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills put the kind of life into a weak stomach that enables it to digest and assimilate all kinds of food.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills

Cured Mr. William Martin, a Well-Known Lumberman in Parry Sound.

"I consider that Dr. Hamilton's Pills make the best all round medicine. My stomach got disordered and all kinds of complications set in. My blood grew thin, my color got pale, and I had the worst kind of headaches. The food I ate all disagreed with me and I was constantly bilious and suffering from acute dyspepsia. A wonderful change took place when I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they gave me appetite and strong digestion. I had no more bad dreams, no sick stomach or headache. I was in fact like a new man, and will always recommend and use Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

Dr. Hamilton's Pills are sure to benefit at once. Try them. 25c per box, at all dealers, or mailed on receipt of price. Only Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. In yellow boxes only.

STRATHCONAS AND T. A. S. WON SATURDAY'S GAMES IN THE SENIOR BASEBALL LEAGUE

From Saturday's Sporting Extra:

Riverside Park, June 26.—In the weekly double-header of the Senior City League played here this afternoon, the T. A. S. won the first from the Park St. A. C. by 9 runs to 5 and the Strathconas with a makeshift team trimmed the West Ends by 9 to 6 in the second engagement. A fair sized crowd saw the games which were interesting exhibitions and which were exciting throughout.

In the first game the Abstainers sewed up the game in the first innings by bunching some lively hitting with juicy errors by the Baptists. The result was five runs for the Abstainers. The Park St. team threw out their parachutes and came down to earth then and for the remainder of the game it was snappy ball with the losers holding their own. Quinlan, as usual, was master of the situation and eased up a little when his team got their winning lead. Dusty was on the slab for Park St. and did good work outside of the first inpings. He was his fairly hard at the beginning and was given rank support, but afterwards both he and his team settled down and the quality of the ball played was decidedly better. There was some lively fielding on both sides and the crowd enjoyed the game. M. O'Brien pulled in a fly with one hand and McFadden also had a one-handed stab at a high foul that brought down the house.

The score by innings follows:

First Innings—T. A. S.—Callaghan hit to Wareham who dropped his fly after a long run. Callaghan stole second and went to third when Wareham missed Bell's throw. Flaherty sacrificed on a grounder to McDonald and Callaghan scored. M. O'Brien took one in the short ribs and stole second on the first ball, going to third on the next. Quinlan got an in shoot on the shins and stole second. Derocher grounded to B. Dusty, who threw wild to first, O'Brien and Quinlan scoring and Derocher going to second. Derocher scored when N. Dusty made a wild heave to first. J. Corkery singled nicely over second. He stole second and went to third on Bell's low throw to the middle station. W. O'Brien scored him on a neat single and stole second. V. Corkery flew out to B Dusty. O'Brien stole third. McFadden fanned.—Five runs.

Park St.—O'Brien first up, grounded out to Callaghan, McDonald hit to Callaghan, who fumbled and the runner was safe. McDonald out stealing McFadden to Callaghan. Wareham singled and stole second. Wareham went to third on Quinlan's low throw to second. Jim Pilling fanned.—No runs.

Second Innings—T. A. S.—Callaghan beat out a bunt along the third base line and stole second. Flaherty grounded out, Pentland to McDonald Callaghan going to third. M. O'Brien struck out. Quinlan doubled to centre, scoring Callaghan. Derocher fanned.—One run.

Park St.—Bell grounded out to Callaghan. N. Dusty out on a grounder to Quinlan. Davidson out on a fly to M. O'Brien, a pretty one-handed catch by the first baseman.—No runs.

Third Innings—T. A. S.—Jack Corkery lifted one to Wareham. W O'Brien grounded out, Wareham to McDonald. V. Corkery grounded out to the pitcher.—No runs.

Park St.—B. Dusty lifted a high one, Quinlan and Corkery colliding and dropping the ball. Pentland struck out. Dusty stole second O'Brien hit to J. Corkery, who threw high, Dusty scoring and the hitter going to second. McDonald singled to left but O'Brien held second. Wareham hit to Derocher who caught the drive nicely and threw to second for a double.—One run.

Fourth Innings—T.A.S.— McFadden beat out bunt and went to second on a wild pitch and to third on a passed ball. Callaghan missed three. Flaherty scored McFadden on a sacrifice fly to left. M. O'Brien struck out.—One run.

Park St.—J. Pilling struck out but went to second on McFadden's miss of the third strike. Bell flew out to Flaherty. Pilling stole third. Davidson struck out.—No runs.

Fifth Innings—T. A. S.—Quinlan walked. Derocher grounded to N. Dusty, forcing Quinlan at second. Derocher stole second. J. Corkery was hit by pitcher. Derocher and Corkery worked a double steal. W. O'Brien hit to N. Dusty, forcing Derocher at the plate. V. Corkery struck out—No runs.

Park Street—Dusty cracked out a pretty single to left and went to second on a wild pitch. Pentland struck out, but McFadden had to throw to first and Dusty went to third. O'Brien lifted to left, and Callaghan, Flaherty and Derocher collided and went down in a heap, the ball dropping safely and Dusty scoring. O'Brien was caught napping off first. McDonald fanned.—One run.

Sixth Innings—T. A. S.—McFadden singled through third. Callaghan tried to sacrifice, but bunted a fly to Pentland, who threw to first for a double, a nice play by the third baseman. Flaherty out on a grounder to pitcher.—No runs.

Park Street—Wareham struck out; J. Pilling flew out to Callaghan, Bell was hit by pitcher and stole second, reaching third on a passed ball. N. Dusty was hit by pitcher and stole second. Simmons struck out by McFadden, dropped the third one and Bell scored. B. Dusty grounded out to Quinlan. One run.

Seventh innings. — T. A. S.—M. O'Brien flew out to Simmons in right. Quinlan beat out a grounder to short store second, and a passed ball sent him to third. Derocher struck out. J. Corkery hit to N. Dusty, who fumbled and Quinlan scored; Corkery stole second, W. O'Brien grounded out to Pentland.—One run.

Park Street—Pentland walked and stole second; O'Brien fouled out to McFadden, a pretty running catch with one hand. McDonald out-grounded to Flaherty, a fast play by the second baseman. Pentland went to third on the play and scored on Wareham's timely single to left. Wareham stole second and scored when J. Pilling drove out a slashing single to right. Pilling stole second and went to third on a passed ball. Bell struck out. —Two runs.

Eighth Innings.—T. A. S.—Doherty was replaced and Corkery flew out to Pentland; McFadden grounded out to Pentland; Callaghan hit to Pentland who fumbled and the runner was safe. Flaherty singled andCallaghan scored, Pillings' throw home bounding over Bell's head, Flaherty reaching third. M. O'Brien grounded out to pitcher.—One run.

Park Street—N. Dusty flew out to Corkery. Simmons out on a grounder to Quinlan. B. Dusty drove one inside first base line for a safety, went to second on a wild pitch and stole third; Pentland struck out.—No runs.

Ninth Innings.—T. A. S.—Quinlan out on a hard drive to N. Dusty. Derocher out to B. Dusty; a one-handed catch by the shortstop. J. Corkery grounded out to B. Dusty.—No runs.

Park Street—O'Brien flew out to M. O'Brien. McDonald struck out; Wareham struck out.—No runs.

THE SECND GAME.

The second game was a surprise to the fans. The West Ends had already beaten the Strathconas, and when the latter went on the field with a team that was composed mainly of pitchers and outfielders, owing to four of the team failing to show up, it was considered it would be easy money for Manager Oldham's bunch. However, the team that was sent out to represent the High Commissioners was there with the ginger all the way and won handily from the West Enders. The latter went to the front at the start, scoring 3 in the second innings and it was thought that the Straths would proceed to do another Casey Baldwin flight, but they steadied down and from then on they had the game on ice. Gorham was on the slab for the winners and held the West Ends but to six hits, while he had almost perfect control, allowing but one walk. Outside of the second and third innings his support was excellent the Straths playing their best ball of the season. The team covered more ground and worked harder, and the result was victory.

Kirn was sent out for the West Ends to do the slab work and he was no mystery to the Commissioners, who collected fourteen safeties from him and Rose, who worked the last two innings. Kirn did not see to have his usual good control and the Straths got to him with hits in clusters. Rose was somewhat of a mystery wile he worked, his out drop, proving puzzling.

Both teams went out in order in the first iunings, but in the second the West Ends broke into the run column. Dobson singled and Fallon followed him with a two-bagger, sending Dobson across. Erorrs by Heaslip and Curtis, with Campbell's single, was responsible for two more runs, and the West Ends came in from the field with a three-run lead. In the third, however, the Straths got them back with two out. Gorman and Curtis singled; Shaw hit to right, sending two across. Craig beat out a hit to short, scoring Shaw Craig was out at the plate trying to score on a wild throw.

In their half the West Ends scored two more with two out. Shaw dropped Dobson's fly, and Pilling did the same with one from Falling. Rose's single and a passed ball was responsible for sending both runners over the pan.

The Straths went ahead in the fifth. Pilling was hit by pitcher, and Hickey singled; Gorman advanced them a base on a sacrifice and Curtis' grounder scored Pilling. Shaw grounded to Kirn, but Craig mit to right field for three bases, scoring Hickey and Curtis; Wilson fanned.

In the seventh the Straths cinched the game, with a double by Gorman, Halpin's miss of Curtis' fly, Shaw's single, and Craig's sacrifice sending two runs across the plate.

In the ninth the Straths added one more to their total, singles by Hickey, Curtis and Shaw sending one across.

In their half of the ninth the West Ends who had been blanked for six innings, got their last run. Campbell up smashed a line drive over second, the ball bounding away from Pilling and counting as a homer. Shaw dropped Gibson's fly but King fanned and Halpin hit a low fly to Curtis, who made a nice catch and a double play unassisted, and the game was over. The box score follows:

QUINLAN HEADS CITY LEAGUE BATTING AVERAGES WITH .455 STRATHS BEST TEAM HITTERS

Commissioners Lead With the Stick But Are Tail-Enders in Fielding—T.A.S. Show That They Have a Well Balanced Team by Being Second in Both Departments—West Ends Lead in Fielding—Nine Batters in the .300 Class

The Senior City League statistics show that Mr. A. Quinlan, the versatile and well known heaver of the T. A. S. is not only some pitcher, but also some hitter as well. Mr. Quinlan in three games has been bumping what is to most people the elusive sphere for the splendid average of .455. Seeing that the average of the average pitcher is generally somewhere from a blank to .37, Mr. Quinlan's performance is somewhat remarkable and what makes it more so is the fact that of the five safeties he has been so unkind as to gather off the opposing pitchers four of them have been doubles.

Mr. Shaw, who honours the left garden of the Straths with his presence is second in the procession of swatsmiths with a total of .417 which is considerable bumping. Mr. Shaw's swats have generally come too with several men on the bricks, so that his eight wallops have been all to the good.

A study of the dope shows that there are nine men in the charmed .300 class. Of these the T.A.S. and Strathconas divide eight between them, Quinlan, McFadden, M. O'Brien and Doherty of the Abstainers, and Shaw, Kendry, Hickey and Craig of the Straths, being over the mark. The other .300 class man is Harry O'Brien of the Park St. team. West Ends haven't a man in the classy circle who has played two games or more the nearest to it being V. Craig with .285 and Fallon with .273.

Following are the averages of the players, who have figured in at least two games.

	G	AB	H	PC
A. Quinlan, T.A.S.	3	11	5	.455
Shaw, Strathconas	4	19	8	.421

E. Pilling, Park St.	2	10		.000
J. Guerin, Park St.	2	6	0	.000

The extra base hits have been divided up as folows: Home runs—Flaherty, T.A.S. 1; Campbell, West Ends 1. Three base hits—J. Pilling, Park St. 1; Shaw, Straths 1; F. Craig, Straths 1. Two base hits—Kendry, Straths 4; Quinlan, T.A.S. 4; Shaw, Straths 2; Gorman, Straths 1; M. O'Brien, T. A. S. 1; W. O'Brien, T.A.S. 1; Fallon West Ends 1;V.Craig, West Ends 1;F. Craig, Straths 1; Kirn, West Ends, Crowe, Park St. 1.

The team averages show the Strathconas the tailenders in the standing to be leading in team batting. The Commissioners fattened up their averages Saturday at the expense of the West Ends and as a consequence are leading the four teams with an average of .348. In fielding, however, the West Ends lead with the Straths at the bottom of the heap. The averages are as follows:

Team Batting—	AB	H	PC
Strathconas	140	34	.343
T. A. S.	109	26	.239
West Ends	141	26	.184

MUCH INTEREST IN SATURDAY'S GAMES IN THE SENIOR LEAGUE

The results of Saturday's games in the Senior City Baseball League have added to the interest in the organisation and this week's games should attract a big crowd. The Strathconas and Park St. teams meet in the first game, and the T. A. S. and West Ends in the second contest, and there will undoubtedly be a barrel of excitement before the issue is decided. A win for the Straths over Park Street with a defeat for the West Ends from the T. A. S., will give the Abstainers a good lead, and leave the others pretty well bunched with the Straths and West Ends tied for second, and Park Street last. On the other hand, should Park Street win they would be in second place with the West Ends third and the Straths fourth. A win for the West Ends and for the Straths would keep the Oldham team in second place and the Straths in third, with Park Street last, while if Park Street and West Ends won Park St. would be third and the Straths fourth.

The Commissioners affirm that they are through with losing, and that they will climb back to where they say they properly belong—in second place at least. Hitherto, their weakness has been in their pitching staff, coupled with bone-headed fielding. Now, they have collected a good aggregation of heavers, with Ryan, Gorman, Hickey, and Mahoney available, and their fielding has improved so that the other teams will have to look out for themselves, when they clash with the Straths henceforth. The game between them and Park St. on Saturday should be a hummer as the Baptists are playing good ball and will take a lot of beating. The West Ends and T. A. S. will have a gorgeous little matinee, too, if the last game between the two can be taken as a criterion. The last time the pair met the Abstainers won by 5 to 3, but they had to fight all the way for it. The same should prove to be the case on Saturday, as the West Enders are playing good ball and will give the Cold Water bunch a run for the honours.

LONGBOAT WINS FROM ALFIE SHRUBB

Toronto, June 28.—Tom Longboat is one man who "has it" on Alf. Shrubb. When the Indian galloped away from the Englishman in their twenty-mile engagement at Hanlan's Point Saturday night he beat the great middle distance champion two races in three. The Onondaga beat Alf. at New York over the Marathon distance, and Shrubb won from Longboat at Montreal in a fifteen-mile race. Saturday's was the "rubber" affair. Shrubb ran fifteen and seven-eighths miles at a rattling clip and then "chucked it up," as his fellow-countrymen say. Alf. made the fifteen miles in 1:26, and Longboat trotted his twenty miles in 2:02:10. Shrubb had half a lap on the Indian when he quit.

The greatest crowd which ever assembled within the Hanlan's Point athletic enclosure gathered to see the race. The people began gathering at half-past six, and the entire seating capacity was occupied long before the race was due to start. Standing room was not to be had at 8 o'clock, and as the throng continued to pour into the grounds the centrefield was occupied. It was estimated that there were 12,000 people present when the starting gun was fired.

BEAUTIFUL WOMEN

Paris Is Full of Them and Nearly All Use Parisian Sage

In the beauty show at the metropolis two years ago gold medals were awarded to five different women.

To the most beautiful woman between 20 and 25; between 25 and 30; between 30 and 35; between 35 and 40 and between 40 and 45.

A society reporter who interviewed all five women in the interest of his papers, reported that all of them had beautiful hair, and that each of the five enthusiastically attributed her luxuriant hair to Parisian Sage.

Wm. Madill, corner of George and Hunter streets, sells Parisian Sage for 50 cents a bottle. He guarantees it to cures dandruff in two weeks; to stop falling hair and itching of the scalp. It makes any woman's hair beautiful, soft and luxuriant.

KNOX CHURCH PIC-NIC

TECUMSEHS LOSE FIRST MINTO CUP GAME

New Westminster, B.C., June 28.—The Tecumsehs lost in their first try for the Minto Cup by the score of 6 to 4, when they played New Westminster this afternoon. During the first half of the contest, which was a masterly exhibition of lacrosse, the Toronto team was a match for the westerners, and played them to a draw, but by the third quarter, apparently from being out of condition for the hard pace on account of their long journey, their defence was overrun, and the Westminsters scored freely. For the last quarter the play was slow, the Royal City men seeming content with a good lead, to take it easy, and the Tecumsehs thinking it wisest to tax their fagged energies no further and save themselves for the final game Tuesday.

To Be Dyspeptic Is To Be Miserable.

Dyspepsia is the prevailing malady of civilized life. It is largely due to gross errors in diet, over-eating, too free indulgence in stimulants and over-taxing the stomach with indigestible food, eating too rapidly without chewing the food sufficiently, indulging in hot biscuits, pastry, pickles, confectionery, etc.

Constipation, headache, heartburn, sour stomach, distress after eating, belching of wind, faintness, and fullness and distention of the stomach are a few of the many distressing symptoms of the poor, weary dyspeptic. Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the stomach, stimulates the secretion of the saliva and gastric juice to facilitate digestion, removes acidity, purifies the blood, and tones up the system to full health and vigor, and thereby cures dyspepsia and all its tributary diseases.

Mr. Amos Sawler, Gold River, N.S., writes:—"I was greatly troubled with dyspepsia, and after trying several doctors to no effect, I commenced taking Burdock Blood Bitters and I think it is the best medicine there is for that complaint."

The Foundling, or a Dressing Room Waif

This very pathetic picture tells the story of a mother's great love for her child, of the grandfather's stern wrath in refusing to take mother and child home, and the mother's trials afterwards, which however end up very happily.

"THE PULVERIZER"

This is a very interesting and very funny picture, showing how an expert chemist has discovered a powder that turns everything into nothing, and then when mixed up, turns out a nothing into many things and persons. It is a funny mix-up.

"THE ORIENTAL MYSTIC"

This is a most excellent picture showing the art of the Orientals in mystifying anything and everything that comes their way; one especially for artists and photographers to have a look at.

HAIR SOFT AS SILK.

New Scientific Treatment Kills Dandruff Germs, and Makes Hair Soft

It is an accepted fact, a proven fact, that dandruff is a germ disease; and it is also a demonstrated fact that Newbro's Herpicide kills the dandruff germ. Without dandruff falling hair would stop, and thin hair will thicken. Herpicide not only kills the dandruff germ, but it also makes hair as soft as silk. It is the most delightful hair dressing made. It cleanses the scalp from dandruff and keeps it clean and healthy. Itching and irritation are instantly relieved, and permanently cured. There's nothing "just as good." Take no substitute. Ask for "Herpicide." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Sold by McDermid & Jury, Druggists; also Payne's Drug Store. One dollar bottles guaranteed.

'BUS LINE TO CHEMONG

Good Local Connection Between Peterborough and Bridgenorth.

The Gibbs bus which runs between Peterborough and Bridgenorth twice every day (Sunday excepted) makes the run in good time to connect with the steamer "Chemong." See time table in another column. The accommodation is praised by passengers, Lawrence, the driver, being a careful and expert hackman with long experience. The route is the best for a fresh air outing. The view all the way is among growing fields, and rural beauty. Visitors to Chemong Park as well as passengers for the steamer, are delighted with the drive, and with the standard time made during the trip.

GYPSIES WERE HEAVILY FINED PROMISED TO LEAVE THE CITY

Fine of One Hundred and Fifty Dollars Imposed by Magistrate Edmison—Case Was Concluded Yesterday Afternoon.

ARE GOING TO QUEBEC

A fine of one hundred and twenty-five dollars, the payment of twenty-five dollars, stolen money, and their promise to leave the city at once gave the gypsy men their freedom yesterday afternoon. The trial of these Mexicans was brought to an abrupt finish yesterday afternoon, the Crown Attorney consenting to drop further charges.

When the court resumed yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock the room was again filled, almost every available seat being taken. The charge of obstructing passengers in the public highway which was commenced in the morning was resumed and concluded in the afternoon. On this, His Worship found several of them guilty but stated that he would reserve judgment. He remarked that he had a great deal of sympathy with these people. They had not had proper bringing up and he did not feel that imprisonment would effect much change in their mode of living.

Messrs. Kerr and Gordon, counsel for the prisoners suggested that a fine be imposed and that the Mexican visitors be told to leave the city. Crown Attorney R.E. Wood at first refused to drop the theft charges. But His Worship imposed the above heavy fine and upon the advice of counsel twenty-five dollars said to have been stolen was paid over by the accused. They promised to leave the city at once and intimated that they would go straight to Quebec. They are naturalised citizens of Canada, having been here more than two years and therefore cannot be deported.

DR. BELL'S EXCITING STORY OF ONE OF HIS SMALL POX PATIENTS

Startling Story of a Small Pox Sufferer Who Came Under His Care—Deserted by Comrades and Roaming the Woods Delirious.

To wander in a delirious condition through the woods of the north country was the terrible experience of John Patszuyk, a Galician labourer. Dr. R. W. Bell, formerly of Peterborough, Inspector of the Provincial Board of Health, who has just returned from Fort William, tells the story of the harrowing experiences of the man, whom he treated for smallpox in a temporary hospital in a box car.

The man was found by a railway doctor in a famished condition, lying in the wods, 170 miles north of Fort William. He had been employed in a construction camp on the National Transcontinental Railway. While there he suffered from an attack of bronchitis. When he felt sufficiently well he left his situation, and started with several companions to walk first to Superior Junction, and thence to Fort William, 250 miles in all. He was taken ill with smallpox, and in a panic his companions abandoned him.

In the delirium of the disease, Ptaszuyk wandered through the woods aimlessly, sleeping on the ground. Fifteen days after his departure form the contractors' camp he was seen by Dr. Bell and found to be suffering from the effects of his malady, from starvation, exhaustion, and exposure. The sick man was removed in a box car to a point five miles outside of Fort William. There Dr. Bell attended him, and he was progressing favourably when the doctor left.

The provincial authorities will enquire into the circumstances under which Ptaszuyk left the contractors' camp.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING NEAR LINDSAY

Lindsay, June 28.—Henry Furs, sixteen years of age, of Toronto, almost lost his life Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, while bathing at Tully's landing, a popular bathing resort one mile south of Lindsay on the Scugog River.

The young fellow has been in town for a couple of days the guest of his friend, Sam Applebom, who resides on Queen street. They left home early in the afternoon and went to Tully's landing, where they went in for a swim. The water there is about six feet in depth a few feet from the shore. Young Furs could not swim, and got out a little too far, with the result that he was going down the third time when he was rescued by William Morrison, Russell street, who was in swimming at the same time.

When they got Furs to the shore he was in a semi-conscious condition and it was some time before he came to. He was assisted to his home by a number of the boys, who had to carry him part of the way, owing to the weak condition.

The young fellow consulted a physician this morning and he is at present in a very critical condition.

Fell From Pier On C.P.R. Bridge And Sustained Painful Injuries

William Hamilton, who resides on Victoria avenue, met with a painful accident yesterday evening just about five o'clock. Mr. Hamilton was about to cross the C.P.R. bridge when he saw the 4:38 train coming in. To get out of its way he jumped up on the stone pier but in doing so lost his balance and fell to the rocks, a distance of about fifteen feet.

The unfortunate man laid there senseless for some time before he was noticed. Mr. Jos. Gilman was the first one to see him. The Dan. Spence ambulance was called and the injured man was removed to St. Joseph's hospital, where Dr. McPherson attended him. Upon examination it was found that he was cut about the head and face and apparently knocked senseless as he was in a state of delirium. It is not thought that he was seriously hurt.

Body Of Herman Sager Found In The Montreal River Friday

The body of Herman Sager, the eldest son of Mr. Sid Sager, of Buffalo, N. Y., and formerly of Peterborough, who was drowned in the Montreal river about a month ago, was recovered on Friday last. The funeral took place in Buffalo on Sunday afternoon.

It will be remembered that Mr. Sager, with another young man was prospecting up in Cobalt. He and his friend were paddling down the river when the canoe capsized. Mr. Sager was a good swimmer but nevertheless was unable to reach the shore. His companion was saved.

His body was found right where he had gone in, diligent search having been kept up since the accident.

His parents, two sons and four daughters are left to mourn his loss. They have the sympathy of friends in Peterborough.

Two Letters Upon Malodorous Dump In The Heart Of The City

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Now that we have legally removed from the gypsies some of their polluted coin and sent them onwards towards others perhaps more or less considerate and conscientious than ourselves, who will perchance continue the good work; now that the city is relieved of their contaminating presence and we breathe in peace again; now that we have taught them something of what is means to be Christians and civilized, which by the way, does not necessarily mean Christ-like and gentle, and having, let us hope and pray, awakened in their slumbering souls, (which some of us assert they haven't) a spark of our own goodness and integrity, would it not be well to turn our eyes on our own back yards?

Have you ever in your rambles chanced to pass by that sink hole, named the "Duck Pond" by one of our humorous citizens, (I should not have left the "U" out there)? It is but a stone's throw from the great and beautiful plaza—the market place. There is where, in the early morn while most of us still sleep, the fruit vender pushes his dump cart and empties the putrifying fruit and refuse upon the city dump. There is where the flies and insects, who are visiting each and all to-day, were bred and nourished. They carry microbes and germs into your home, onto your food, your face and mouth. Isn't it [illegible] for the doctors and undertakers?

Do not let the comparatively cleaner aspect of the surface of the dump deceive you. Gaze over the edge and let the truth into your mind. You will neither relish the sight nor the putried stench which arises and will require no further persuasion to join me in the prayer that we may escape the plague.

Yours faithfully,
AN ONLOOKER.

June 28th, 1909.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—As an admirer of your worthy and timely editorial in reference to our streets, boulevards, etc., and as a citizen I wish to ask you a question or two.

As I understand it, the city is paying the taxes on the Chamberlain lot, due east of the National Hotel, for the privilege of using part of the said property for the use of the carters' stand. What I want to know is, does the city's agreement cover the unoccupied part of the land immediately north of the carters' stand? Probably I can put what I want to get at more directly; who is responsible for the cutting of the weeds there? the city, or the estate?

Next! Who is responsible for allowing filth, of all description, to be deposited, a little further east of the grounds above mentioned?

When I mention filth, I speak advisably. Is it right that our aldermen allow a thing of this kind to go on in the centre of our city?

Yours respectfully,
"ASKER."

ENTERTAINED TO TRIP ON RIVER

Last evening, Miss Reid, of Richard Hall and Son's store entertained her girls to a most enjoyable time down the river at T.A.S. Point. The young ladies were taken down in Mr. Aflin's steam launch. Tea was served at the Point after which a delightful sail was enjoyed on the river. The evening was an ideal one and the outing was the most pleasant that has ever been held.

AT IT AGAIN.

The Attorney-General's Department has long justified its relation, in the matter of policy of inaction, to the Circumlocution Office as graphically exploited by Dickens in "Little Dorit." Our Department has achieved a splendid record in the matter of how not to do it. Warden Scott, of this county, has a robust crow to pick with the Attorney-General's Department on the head of the Mextown gypsy episode. The Department having been appealed to, sent down two detectives to look into the matter. The effect of the presence of these gentlemen was simply to complicate and muddle matters, and when they had got the local authorities into a tangle, to drop out of the matter without the courtesy of advising the former as to their intention to pursue their traditional policy of do-nothing.

A short history of the case will be interesting. Warden Scott, who is indignant over the treatment he, as representative of the County, has received, will be held justified when the facts are known. When he learned that a band of 50 or 60 marauding gypsies were heading for Smith Township, he consulted County Crown Attorney Wood, who communicated at once with the Attorney General's Department, Toronto. That department sent down Detective Greer, who asked Warden Scott if the Township had a by-law covering Trespassing on Highways. The latter showed the representative of the Department the township by-law, and he said it was sufficient—a by-law such as few municipalities had. He then told the Warden that as soon as the gypsies entered the township he should advise the Department and action would follow. This was done and Detective Greer and Miller came to Peterborough on Sunday night, June 20th, and on Monday June 21st, accompanied the arresting party to Fowler's Corners, where the gyphy party was put under arrest, the males lodged in jail and the women and children quartered in the jail yard.

That same afternoon, June 21st, the gypsies had a preliminary hearing at the Court House. The case was not disposed of at that time as might have been done, because Detectives Miller and Greer, representing the Attorney General's Department, requested the Magistrate to remand the prisoners for a week in order that they might procure evidence. This request was acceded to somewhat reluctantly for the local authorities realized that the detention and maintenance of fifteen men in jail for a week, and the care and surveillance of two score women and children for a week would be a troublesome and expensive affair. The date of the remand having expired yesterday, Monday, June 29th, the gypsies were arraigned before Police Mgistrate Edmison, and it was confidently expected that the officers of the Attorney General's Department would be on hand with the evidence which they had secured an adjournment of the first hearing to procure. But they were not present and had not even advised the local authorities that they would not come. Emigration Officer Robinson from the Department of the Interior, Ottawa, who was here for the second time in regard to the case, communicated by 'phone with the Attorney-General's Department, Toronto, and said he received the reply that the Department would have nothing more to do with the case, the Circumlocution office being evidently in good running order.

Then the magistrate went into the case and very little trouble was found in making a conviction; fifteen men were fined an aggregate of $150 and ordered to forthwith leave the limts of the county.

There was nothing in the world to prevent this being done at the preliminary hearing exept yielding to the request of the representatives of the Attorney-General's Department for a remand in order to secure evidence. If the Department had kept faith and had not ignored the case without even the courtesy of advising the local authorities that they had withdrawn from the affair, the county would not have been unnecessarily put to the expense of between $250 and $300—lessened of course by the $150 in fines, which were promtply paid.

It is to be made plain that Warden Scott and the local authorities are not to blame for this added expense, and the attendant annoyance. The blame rests solely upon the Department which at first practically took charge of the case, procured the delay that involved the expense incurred, and then dropped out without having the courtesy to mention that they intended to adhere to the general policy of delay and indifference to the interest of the administration of justice, which has long been pursued, and of which many flagnant instances have occurred.

Warden Scott and the local authorities are naturally indignant over the treatment they have received—the discourteous treatment—at the hands of the Attorney-General's Department, which only lent its "assistance" long enough to create a muddle and put the county to an unnecessary expense on the plea, which events proved insincere, that the Department wished to assist justice by procuring evidence and then withdrawing from the case without having the decency to apprise the local authorities which had rather rashly placed confidence in the Department.

With such things following on what has passed, is ther not danger of our having to revise our boast of the promptness and certainty of Canadian administration of justice?

SHOOTING TO KILL

It is a gruesome idea but the logical object of military training is to teach soldiers or volunteers to shoot to kill. All other forms af training are merely preliminary and preparatory—and largely ornamental—to this one sanquinary object. Armies engage in battle to kill each other and the victory goes to the army that sends the most bullets to their billets. It is claimed that enough attention is not paid to the important matter of shooting. We have had a regiment in camp here for several days and the opportunities for practising the supreme military exercise that counts on the field of battle have been inadequate. Sub-target practice is valuable as a substitute but can hardly take the place of practising shooting upon a proper range. Efficiency pay, largely dependent upon scores, is paid by the government; but it stands to reason that the best results cannot be secured without proper ranges. The presence of our splendid new armouries the headquarters of three branches of the service is a beginning of what might be done to make Peterborough an important centre of a military district. The presence here also, for the first time of the Dragoons in camp, is but a foretaste of what might be done in having Peterborough the site of other military camps. The provision of a suitable rifle range is a necessity if we advance in this direction. The South African war taught the lesson that undisciplined troops, almost entirely ignorant of drill, but possessing exceptional powers of shooting to kill, made very formidable foes. Would the Boers have made as gallant and stubborn resistance as they did put up had they not been crack rifle shots? That was their main strength, that was what made them capable of a resistance which no great power but Great Britain, with her elaborate naval equipment could have handled without years and years of fighting and terrible loss of life, the fruits of straight shooting. While drill is a necessary ingredient in soldier-making, shooting to kill is the crowning qualification.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

At Cincinnati two months before the Presidential election, Mr. Taft said: "The Dingley tariff has served the "country well, but its rates have be- "come excessive because conditions "have changed since its passage in "1896. Some of the rates are probably "too low, due also to the change of "conditions. But on the whole the "tariff ought to be lowered." Congress, says the Manitoba Free Press, is now putting the finishing touches on a bill which goes further in the imposition of high tariff taxation than any previous tariff legislation ever framed at Washington. President Taft, it is confidently asserted, will do as President Cleveland did in a similar situation, and refuse to sign the bill. That will mean that the Dingley tariff will continue in operation.

SIX CANDIDATES FOR NORMAL ENTRANCE

Are Trying Examinations at Ennismore —New Cement Walk Constructed.

Ennismore, June 28. — Last week some twenty-three candidates presented themselves for the entrance examination. Mr. J. A. O'Donoghue, Principal of Continuation, presided, and speaks very highly of the children's conduct during the three days of examination.

Mr. O'Donoghue has been re-engaged as Principal of the Continuation Class, at a salary of nine hundred dollars. The Board of Trustees are offering six hundred to a lady assistant, holding a professional first-class certificate. This school is making rapid progress, and promises to do even better work in the future. A new room is under construction which when completed, will seat upwards of 35 pupils, giving a seating capacity in all of over 70.

A new cement sidewalk, sixty rods long and six feet wide, has just been completed and reflects great credit on the contractors, Messrs. Ducie and King. In addition to the side-walk, a very handsome stone fence, with cement cap, has been constructed in front of the T. A. S. Hall, and Continuation Class, which adds greatly to the general appearance of the beautiful parish grounds of Ennismore.

The Township Council has decided to drain the Cross, by opening a ditch and placing therein six-inch cement tile. This tile drain will extend some six hundred yards and will be a great boon to the residents of the Cross, who for years, have been annoyed by the Spring freshets, which had no means of escape.

The examination for Normal Entrance begins to-day, with six candidates present, and Inspector Lees presiding. Last year this school sent up eight pupils, of whom six took Normal entrance, and three Model entrance. Next year's class will be large, as some twenty are on their third year's work.

Mr. Tim. Cudigan, formerly of Ennismore, but of late, living in Chicago, is home on a visit to his family, and speaks very highly of the many improvements noticed in the Township during his absence.

The cheese factories "Myrtle" and "King Edward" are doing a big business this season, far in advance of last year.

Better stock, increased numbers, and superior care accounts largely for the extra supply of milk.

Miss Vivian Galvin and Miss Helena Maloney are home from Normal School, looking well after their year's hard work. They speak in the highest terms of the kind, courteous treatment received from the faculty of the Normal School, Peterborough.

Mr. Dan Crough, Jr., son of Mich. S. Crough, has just completed a successful year at the Agricultural College, Guelph.

Mr. Dan Hickson, of the Cross, and the Jopling Bros., of Bridgenorth, are making their usual rounds through the Township, and no doubt the meat supply will be abundant and the best.

Mr. M. S. Crough lost a valuable imported stallion, valued at $1,500. No insurance.

Mr. John Young claims, and with much reason, that he has the best three-year-old colt in the country. John knows a horse when he has something that suits him.

At a recent bee, called by Father Fitzpatrick, to supply sand, gravel, stone, and cement for a sidewalk, over one hunderd teams turned out, and in two days everything necessary was on the ground, with sufficient left over to construct a sidewalk to the presbytery and sidewalk and steps to the Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Scollard and Mrs. John P. Flood, have gone on a visit to their daughter, Mrs. Wm. Hoolihan, Grand Rapids, Minnesota, and at the same time to assist at the marriage of their daughter, Norah, to Mr. M. A. Spang, County Auditor, for Itasca County.

On Tuesday of this week Rev. Father Fitpatrick united in the holy bonds of marriage Mr. Ed. O'Donnell of Lindsay, and Miss Elizabeth Conway of this Township. Both are well and favourably known here, and all join in wishing them God's choicest blessing on their married lives.

A BIG EXCURSION

Old Fire Brigade and Band Arranging an Outing for Civic Holiday.

The members of the old fire brigade and the 57th Regimental Band are making arrangements for a monster excursion on civic holiday to Burleigh Falls and Buckhorn. There will be a special train leaving Peterborough at 7.30 o'clock and at Lkefield two boats waiting to carry the party to their destination. The excursionists may stop for dinner either at Burleigh or Buckhorn, as they prefer. It is planned to reach Peterborough on the return trip about 9 o'clock. This will be one of the biggest excursions of the year and with the band to provide music and the boys of the old brigade, always noted for their hospitality to look after the enjoyment of the party, the picnic should be largely patronised.

HOW LONG HAVE YOU PAID RENT?

"Too long" you say; yes, we say so too. Show us a prosperous man and in nine times out of ten he owns his own home. He may have been a rent payer one day, but he got his eyes open in time to start life anew and become prosperous. The man who purchases a house, if it is on easy payments will find he can meet his obligations just the same as he met his rent and with the satisfaction of knowing he is building a home for himself and his family, and that the landlord cannot sell his home from over his head. Every man should own his own house. Our books show a long list of houses, one of which will be just what you want—fair prices, easy terms. Consult us to-day and you will get a real bargain. Note the following.

RESIGNS POSITION OF CHIEF ENGINEER

Chief Engineer of Transcontinental Withdrawns From Post.

MAKES NO EXPLANATION

Hon. Mr. Graham is Away From Ottawa and Mr. Parent Refuses to Make Any Statement Regarding the Matter—Rumors of Friction Among the Commissioners Are Current at the Capital.

Ottawa, June 29.—Hugh D. Lumsden, chief engineer since the National Transcontinental Railway Commission was organized in 1904, resigned his post. He gives no explanation.

"I have my reasons," he said, "but I am not going to say anything about them."

As his appointment was made by the Government itself, his letter of resignation goes to the Minister of Railways, and as Mr. Graham will not return to town till Wednesday, its contents remain unknown. Hon. Mr. Parent, chairman of the commission, regards this fact as imposing on him an obligation to remain quiet.

This event comes as a climax to the steady and persistent rumors of trouble over the classification on district F, the stretch from Winnipeg to Superior Junction. It was over this section and the classification upon it, that Major Hodgins came to grief. His charges were succeeded by even more serious allegations of over-classification made by the G.T.P. Co. through its assistant engineer, Woods.

More recently it became necessary for the cost of the section to be ascertained, as the time was drawing near for the G.T.P. to take it over. A board of arbitration was appointed, consisting of Collingwood Schreiber, formerly Deputy Minister of Railways, and now Government consulting engineer for the G.T.P., as chairman, and Mr. Kelliher, chief engineer of the G.T.P., and Mr. Lumsden, as members.

It is stated that there have been complaints as to the arbitrary methods of the board of arbitration, that, for instance, they have refused to give a hearing to contractors and district engineers. The result of such a proceeding would be that if the contractors took into court the matter of a disputed account, and were allowed by the court a higher payment than that allowed by the board, the Government would be paying the full price, while the G.T.P. Railway would only pay interest on the reduced amount. This procedure it is said has helped to bring about the strained relations between the board, and in particular Mr. Lumsden, and the commission.

Quincy, Ills., June 29.—Geo. Gurney shot and killed his father, Dr. Seneca Gurney, aged 70 years; wounded his sister-in-law, Mrs. Seneca Gurney, jr., aged 37, and then killed himself.

NUVEL CURE FOR CATARRHAL ILLS.

Stops Bronchitis, Relieves Hoarseness, Cures Asthma, Prevents Throat Irritation.

The most effective way to treat and cure ailment of the breathing organs is by inhalation.

New as this method is in application, its practice is as old as man. Down from Adam has spread the reputation of the air of the pine woods, charged with balsam and healing for diseases of the throat, lungs and nasal passages.

Yet medical men neglected to employ the natural curative agency for diseases of the throat, lungs and nasal passages until the wonderful results which attended the Catarrhozone dry air method were brought to their notice and compelled attention.

The air of the pine woods, charged with little drops of balsam and ozone, has been enhanced by the Catarrhozone method through the addition of vegetable antiseptics more powerfully healing than the air of the pine woods.

This balsamic and healing vegetable compound is broken up by the air INTO MINUTE PARTICLES so small that the air is enabled to carry them to the remotest parts of the lungs, throat and nasal passages—in fact, it is the air of the pine woods concentrated a thousandfold, and you can have it at home.

FAILURE IS IMPOSSIBLE.

You can now understand why Catarrhozone cures with such certainty. It is medicated air carried to the seat of bronchitic congestion or situation here the micro-organisms which excite asthma or hay fever exert their baneful and dangerous influence.

The air distributes evenly over the entire diseased surfaces a covering of healing Catarrhozone. Immediately congestion is relieved, inflammation is subdued, the microbes which cause the trouble are destroyed, and cure follows as inevitably as the sun follows the night.

THOUSANDS CURED DAILY.

No other medicine has achieved such remarkable success, and to-day not less than twenty thousand physicians in America alone are prescribing Catarrhozone. And why? Simply because they realize that a healing remedy like Catarrhozone which air carries direct to the sore, inflamed membranes is bound to cure every form of Catarrh, all types of bronchitis and throat trouble, and will almost instantly stamp out coughs, colds, sneezing and bronchial deafness.

CATARRHOZONE CURES.

The reputation of Catarrhozone has grown by leaps and bounds. It reaches the diseased spot. It cures speedily. Almost the first use gives such relief in the worst cases that most people cannot understand its action.

Don't experiment longer—Catarrhozone means sure cure. Two months' treatment (guaranteed), price $1.00; smaller size, 50c, at all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Company, Kingston, Ont.

Beginning August 1, the Russian telegraph system will make use of the 24-hour clock, the number 12 to 23 being used to designate afternoon.

Southern Senators yesterday ineffectually endeavored to take long staple or Egyptian cotton off the free list and placed upon it a duty of 4 cents a pound.

The Fifth Regiment of Canadian Artillery, armed and equipped, will enter the United States July 1, for the purpose of attending the Seattle Exposition.

Alfred Rexford, the village blacksmith at Davenport, N.Y., went to the home of a woman neighbor where his wife was stopping, and shot her five times. Rexford then sent a bullet into his own heart.

Like to Be a Boy?

St. Catharines, June 29.—St. Catharines may claim the distinction of having the finest troop of Baden-Powell boy scouts in Canada. It was organized last January, and has got into shape for work and instruction while troops are just being organized elsewhere.

The troop is composed of boys from all the schools, and comprises four patrols of seven men each. H. Neelon is scout master, with W. Griffin second in command. Patrol leaders are S. Lovelace, E. Caverhill, James McMenemy and A. Ireland. The boy scouts, under Sir Baden-Powell's plan, are for instruction in woodcraft, tracking and stalking, fire-lighting, cooking, straw mattress making, tent and hut erecting, knot-tying, signalling and Morse code telegraphing, life saving, first aid and general ambulance work.

Murder Still a Mystery.

Winnipeg, June 29.—Chas. F. Hornfock was discharged yesterday on a charge of murdering Louise Pearl James. The prosecution fell down woefully, the most damaging evidence being a confession written by the prisoner. An alibi was established by the defence, which showed that the accused was not within ten miles of the city on the day of the murder. A precedent was established when C. P. Fullerton, for the defence, called the prisoner to the witness-box to testify at his preliminary trial. Louis James, the husband of the murdered woman, did not appear to give evidence, and the case was closed. The next action of the crown is watched for with interest.

Handwriting Experts Denounced.

New York, June 29.—The end of the trial of Broughton Brandenburg, charged with grand larceny, in connection with the sale of an alleged spurious letter of Grover Cleveland to The New York Times, Oswald N. Jacoby, summing up for Brandenburg, declared that if the article was written by Grover Cleveland, the question of whether the signature was genuine or not was immaterial. He read passages from the article, which he said, no one else but Cleveland could have written, and concluded with an attack on the hand-writing experts, who had testified against Brandenburg. He called their profession despicable.

Quebec's Surplus.

Montreal, June 29.—Another surplus over the half million mark is promised by Hon. W. A. Weir, Provincial Treasurer. The record of $1,035,000 was set last year, when the Federal subsidy was increased by $400,000 and there was no provision made for its expenditure.

There is a falling off in the revenue from the crown lands, due to the greater number of wooded lots granted to settlers. On other points the revenue is well up to the mark. The succession duties will produce an unprecedented revenue. Montreal alone contributing $150,000.

Ogilvie's Crop Report.

Winnipeg, June 24.—The Ogilvie Flour Mills Co.'s weekly report shows a very satisfactory position existing with respect to the growing crop.

During the past week copious rains have fallen, which, together with other favorable weather conditions, have placed the crop in a most excellent condition. Generally speaking, summer fallow fields are very heavy, spring plowing and stubble are a very good average, and all is stooling out well.

The earlier sown wheat is starting to come into shot blade.

Tug Fireman Drowns at Soo.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., June 29.—John Nalmburg of the Michigan Soo, fireman on the tug Schenck, was drowned at the Canadian locks yesterday afternoon. The Schenck was towing the Manila down to the canal and when the tug tied up at a pier at the upper approach the Manila followed her down and pinched the tug against the pier. Nalmburg, down below, heard the noise and ran up. It is not known whether the breaking of the line on the tug swept him over or whether he attempted to jump to the pier.

Oriental Trade Falls Off.

Victoria, B.C., June 29.—The Nippon Yusen Kaisha has decided to withdraw two of their six steamers engaged in the transpacific trade owing to the decline in the amount of freight offering.

LONDON, June 29.—London cables for cattle are firm, at 13½c to 14½c per lb., for Canadian steers, dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 10½c to 11½c per lb.

Toronto Junction Live Stock.

TORONTO JUNCTION, June 29.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Yards were 72 carloads, consisting of 1503 cattle, 90 hogs, 117 sheep and lambs and 4 calves.

Exporters.

The bulk of the export cattle, or nearly all, were held till Tuesday, but we heard of 3 loads of steers selling at $5.37½ and one load of bulls at $4.50 to $5.25 per cwt.

Butchers.

Prime picked small lots of butchers' heifers and steers sold at $5.35 to $5 per cwt.; loads of good to choice sold at $5.75 to $5.90; loads of medium to good, $5.30 to $5.60; common to medium, $4.50 to $5.20; cows, $3.00 to $4.75 per cwt.

Milkers and Springers.

A few milkers and springers were reported at $35 to $55 each.

Veal Calves.

Receipts light, prices steady, at $3.00 to $6.00 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Export ewes sold at $5.75 to $6.15; lambs, at $8 to $8.20 per cwt.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, June 28.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market, the receipts of live stock for the week ending June 28 were 2200 cattle, 625 sheep and lambs, 1200 hogs and 1450 calves. The offerings this morning for local consumption were 1000 cattle, 250 sheep and lambs, 1200 hogs and 250 calves. A feature of the markets was the continued scarcity of good to choice steers, and prices for such were stronger, but the lower grades of cattle were more plentiful than a week ago, and prices in consequence show a decline of ½c to ¾c per lb. The gathering of buyers was large, and, in spite of the very warm weather, the demand for top quality stock was good, but the trade in the commoner grades was rather slow, even at the above reduction in values. There was a fair demand from exporters on account of the continued strong cable advices which were received from Liverpool, which reported trade very firm at a further advance in prices of ½c to ¾c per lb., with sales of choice Canadians at as high as 14½c, and ranchers at 13½c per pound. On the strength of this, exporters paid 6c to 6½c per pound for steers, but some holders were asking as high as 7½c for extra choice stall-fed steers, but the top figure paid for such was 6¾c for local consumption, and the bulk of the trade was done in choice stock at 6¼c to 6½c, with good at 5¾c to 6c. The best grass-fed steers sold at 5c to 5½c; medium at 4½c to 4¾c, and lower grades at 3c to 4c per lb. The demand for bulls was good, and some choice ones brought 5½c to 5¾c, and good 4¾c to 5¼c per pound. There was no further change in the condition of the market for hogs since this day week; but, as supplies were again limited, the undertone to the market was strong at the late advance in prices, in spite of the fact that cable advices from all the leading foreign markets on Canadian bacon last week were weaker and noted a decline in values of 2s to 4s per cwt., compared with the previous week. The demand for hogs here was good, and an active trade was done, with sales of selected lots at $9.75 to $10.25 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars. Supplies of small meats were fair, for which the demand was good, and a fairly active trade was done at steady prices. Sheep sold at 5½c to 4c per lb. Lambs brought from $3 to $5 each, and calves ranged from $2 to $8 each, as to quality.

At the Canadian Pacific Live Stock Market the receipts for the week ending June 26 were 1917 cattle and 482 sheep for MANY DON'T KNOW HEART AFFECTED.

More People than Aware of It Have Heart Disease.

"If examinations were made of everyone, people would be surprised at the number of persons walking about suffering from heart disease."

This startling statement was made by a doctor at a recent inquest. "I should not like to say that heart disease is as common as this would imply," said the expert, "but I am sure that the number of persons going about with weak hearts must be very large."

"Hundreds of people go about their daily work on the verge of death, and yet do not know it. It is only when the shock comes that kills them that the unsuspected weakness of the heart is made apparent."

"But undoubtedly heart weakness, not disease, is more prevalent nowadays. I should think that the stress of living, the wear and rush of modern business life, have a lot to do with heart trouble."

There is no doubt but that this is correct, and we would strongly advise any one suffering in any way from heart trouble to try a course of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Price 50 cts. per box or 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or will be mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

PLAYTHINGS OF THE HEART.

Mrs. G. M. White, Williamstown, N.B., writes: "I was troubled with weak spells and fluttering of the heart. I was so bad I could scarcely lie down in bed. I procured a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and they helped me so much I got another box and it has made a final cure. I cannot speak too highly of them. I think they are much cheaper to use."

Killed Watching Storm.

Essex, June 29—Roy Murray, eight-year-old son of Frank Murray, employed by the Michigan Central Bridge department, was struck by lightning and instantly killed while lying in the roof of a shed near his home, a few miles from here.

The young lad was taking to a companion, as they watched the approach of the storm. He was struck by the first flash. His friend at his side was unhurt.

Painful Curiosity.

Brockville, June 29.—A lad named Dowdall ran across a fog signal at the home of a railway brakeman and started experimenting by driving a nail into it. In the explosion that followed, the hand was lacerated and one finger blown off.

A MOST REMARKABLE CASE

My face was paralyzed. I could not speak; five doctors failed to help me and I was in despair when hearing of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I used this wonderful restorative treatment and became well and strong in every way. I would not go back to my former condition for all the gold in the country," writes Mr. Wm. J. Brennan, Western Hill, St. Catharines, Ont.

Will Endorse the Admiralty.

London, June 29.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Cabinet committee appointed to investigate Lord Charles Beresford's charges against the Admiralty and the policy of administration hopes to finish its work this week. Probably the report will not be made public, but it is generally understood that the judgment of the committee will be entirely favorable to the Admiralty.

Fournier Stays In Jail.

Quebec, June 29.—Justices Carroll and Lavergne, sitting in appeal, rendered their decision yesterday in the habeas corpus case of Fournier, editor of Le Nationaliste, condemned to three months of incarceration in the district jail for libel.

Judge Carroll, after having quoted several authors, dismissed the petition and annulled the writ.

Got Thirty Days.

Guelph, June 29.—Michael Sobora, an Italian, charged with shooting with intent to kill, was sentenced to thirty days in jail by Judge Chadwick. It was alleged that Sobora had fired three times at J. J. Checkley, a local contractor. Evidence showed that the bullets were fired into the ground.

Drowns In Pond He Made Himself.

Dover, N.J., June 29.—William Nugent, a civil engineer, was drowned in Eastling Pond, which, thirteen years ago, he and C. E. Clark had laid out together. With him was Mr. Clark. Both men were fishing.

Pugsley's Sisters Critically Ill.

St. John, N.B., June 29.—Mrs. (Dr.) J. M. Smith, sister of Hon. Dr. Pugsley, is critically ill of typhoid pneumonia. Mrs. R. R. Humphrey, another sister, is dangerously ill, following an operation at Sussex.

MR. TRAVERS HONOURED BY BROCKVILLE FRIENDS ON HIS DEPARTURE FOR PETERBORO'

Brockville, June 28.—The cosy apartments of the Brockville Club have been the scene of many pleasant gatherings since its establishment some years ago, and many happy functions have taken place within its precincts. Of such none have eclipsed that of last night when the members of the club met for the purpose of honouring a fellow member and estimable citizen in the person of Mr. R. W. Travers, local manager of the Bank of Montreal, who is about to leave town, having been promoted to a more important and lucrative position as head of the Peterborough branch of that monetary institution. The festivities last night were tinged with sorrow because of the regret felt here over the loss of a popular citizen, and one who has since childhood taken a deep and active interest in everything that made for the advancement of Brockville. Mr. Travers spent his boyhood here, his father having been for some years Manager of the Bank of Montreal of this town. Since returning to Brockville in the capacity of manager twelve years ago, Mr. Travers had made many and staunch friends not alone among the business community with which he was brought into daily contact, but in social and athletic circles as well, where his presence was eagerly sought. He was an enthusiastic yachtsman and his fine sailing craft the "Ripple" is one of the best known on the river St. Lawrence. Equally sincere is the regret felt over the removal of Mrs. Travers, who will be greatly missed by a large coterie of friends and acquaintances.

Last night's proceedings were presided over by Sheriff Dana, President of the Brockville Club, who in a concise but very appropriate manner told of the object of the meeting and expressed the regret of the members of the club at the departure of Mr. Travers to another sphere of activity.

The Sheriff then read the appended address to Mr. Travers, and at the conclusion of it, presented that gentleman with a solid silver tray suitably inscribed and a handsome cut glass orange bowl. The inscription on the tray read "Presented to R. W. Travers, by members of the Brockville Club, June, 1909.

The Address.

Dear Bob,—To your friends of the Brockville Club your promotion has not come as a surprise, but appears to us to be the inevitable result of the success which has attended your efforts in the conduct of the business with which you have been entrusted—your thorough knowledge of the work you have had in hand, and your genial, gentlemanly treatment of those with whom you came in contact.

But this promotion means the removal from amongst us of you and your good wife (who will be missed as much as yourself, if not more) and this we most sincerely regret. We trust you both may make as many friends in your new home as you leave behind in the old one, and if you do you will have no cause to regret the change.

May you go through the balance of your life with all sail set—a spanking breeze—and always "a shot in the locker"—and when you have reached that stage at which you and your trusty sailing mate have decided to cease labouring and spend the rest of your days in peace and contentment, do not forget that you can quietly and safely furl your canvas and drop anchor in that good old harbour at the foot of Nature's masterpiece—the Thousand Isles—where warm friends and true will be glad to welcome you, and may we all be spared for the home-coming. On behalf of the Brockville Club,

George A. Dana, President.
L. C. Dargavel, Secretary.
Brockville, June 25th, 1909.

Recipient's Reply.

Mr. Travers made an appropriate reply saying he did not deserve the kind words said of him in the address and deeply regretted leaving the best friends and town with whom he had ever been associated and in which he had yet lived. He spoke of the clean business methods practised in Brockville and of the pleasure it had afforded him to be associated with its citizens in a commercial and social way. He was leaving in order to climb the ladder of success in an institution in which he had spent all his business life, but would still take a deep and abiding interest in all that appertained to Brockville and its people. He spoke of the regret Mrs. Travers felt on leaving, and in her behalf returned thanks for manifold kindnesses shown. He paid a glowing tribute to his successor Mr. Kohl as a shrewd business man and an authority on banking matters. He then expressed his gratitude for the handsome present and hoped to again sometime to be numbered among Brockville's citizens.

The chairman read letters of regret from Jas. Williams, Brockville; A. E. Donovan, Toronto, and G. F. Henderson, of Ottawa, at inability to be present.

During the evening the opera house orchestra rendered several pleasing selections, and a delightful vocal and instrumental programme was rendered by Harold Mallory, Geo. Turner, George E. McGlade, Bert Shirreff and Harold Key.

The address presented Mr. Travers was designed by Mr. R. H. Lindsay, and was a work of art. On the frontispiece a water scene, with picture of the sail boat "Ripple," couched in delicate colours, was a gem of artistic culture and at the head of the address was an illuminated scene of Brockville from the river.

PERSONAL SKETCHES OF THE OFFICERS OF THE 3rd PRINCE OF WALES DRAGOONS

Some Interesting Information About Those in Charge of the Crack Cavalry Corps Now in Camp at Nassau—Popular and Efficient Leaders.

THEIR EXPERIENCE.

Nassau, June 28.—The camp song says: "We're here because we're here," and that's just it. This was another of those boiling, sizzling, sweltering days which only hardy men can endure. The camp record is being maintained to perfection with everyone in good health and accidents eliminated.

This forenoon saw a change in the programme when at 9:00 o'clock, Bob. Gordon, Colonel Young and Major Mack, of Kingston, came into camp to attend to the details of the muster parade. This is really the camp roll-call and as the name of each officer and man is called he promptly comes forward with his horse and his presence entitles him to his pay. This is a very important occasion and it's money in pocket to be there promptly and with a soldiery bearing.

In the afternoon the range shooting for efficiency pay was concluded and throughout this practice the showing has been most creditable. The regimental drill was continued and some variation was given by a drill in forming a line of outposts and an advance and rear guard.

Last night the staff sergeants exqurted to the city in a waggonette and they attracted some attention as it was very hard to distinguish the outfit from one of those gypsy vans. However, their conduct did not justify the police in detaining them and they were allowed to return to camp unmolested.

There is the nucleus of a good band within the camp but it has only begun to develop. Sergeant Trumpeter Edwards has a cornet and delights the boys with a few selections every night while Private True rouses the 12th of July spirit with a fife. With a few more instruments and a drum a small band could be formed.

This evening was slightly cooler and foot races were introduced as a pastime. There are some real classy runners in this camp and splendid time was made over the uneven ground. The first number was a 100-yard dash which was won by Ventress and Philips in first and second places. Then Philips and Pacquett went away for a mile jaunt and the former galloped home in the lead by a narrow margin.

A second 100-yard heat was put on with a new entry, Carveth, of Warsaw, and he took the measure of the field with Quinn as the next in the procession.

The next event was a 1,000-yard affair, and Carveth made the trip in good time but Bell kept him busy.

The last number on the programme was the third heat of the 100-yard dash and Carveth and Ventress were the main entries as they had each won a heat. This was a good sprint, but Carveth was awarded the decision and stands as the champion.

About 7:00 o'clock this evening the Chemong auto bus hove into camp and got the officers on board and took them down to the Peterborough armouries, where they were entertained by the officers of the 57th Regiment They returned to camp at 3 o'clock after a very enjoyable time in the city.

The camp idol is Sergeant Instructor Berteau, R.C.D., Toronto, and his work brings him into contact with all the officers and men. His genial disposition and manly conduct has made him a universal favourite and his instruction and criticisms are received in the proper spirit because they are given in a pleasant though firm way.

To-morrow will be the red letter day in the 1909 camp. The forenoon will be spent in a general review and brushing and shining up generally. Colonel Williams, Inspector of Cavalry in Canada, will arrive about noon and in the afternoon he will inspect the regiment in the several phases of its work.

Since coming into camp there has been a marked improvement in the drills and in fact in all departments and it is anticipated that the inspection will result in a very favourable report by the inspecting officer.

Mostly every officer in camp has some particular characteristic or hobby for which he is noted. A few of these have been discovered and the result is a series of biographical sketches. Out in the last tent on the north end of the line there is the commander of A Squadron. His name is Major McLaughlin, and he hails from that sporty little town of Bowmanville, where he works at the barrister trade and is a devoted exponent of rugby, cricket, and other lines of athletics. Major "Mac." is known to be very fond of children, notwithstanding the fact that he is unmarried. He may be happy when mounted on his handsome steed when on parade but he is never happier than when going around the camp ground with a little tot on each side of him and explaining in a most interesting way the mysteries of military camp life. In his own town the major is the idol of all the children and his handsome home is often thrown open to them and many a happy afternoon is spent by the little ones. Besides being a soldier, and an athlete, Major McLaughlin can speak some and always takes a prominent part in the speechmaking at the many banquets which he attends. This popular major is a busy man always, and in order that he may not be idle on the Sabbath he fills the position, most acceptably of choir leader in the Presbyterian Church in Bowmanville.

One of the youngest officers in camp is Lieutenant Edmison, who holds a commission in A Squadron, (Colborne) and resides at Hardwood, which has been the home of his family for generations. This is his first camp and he is most enthusiastic over it and thinks he has missed some thing pretty good for many years back. The subject of this sketch is somewhat of a vocalist and has been most entetaining during the present camp. Last winter when things were somewhat quiet on the south shore of Rice Lake he undertook to make things lively and he succeeded. The heroic lieutenant organized a minstrel show and the troup went on a barnstorming expedition to Gore's Landing, Roseneath, Baltimore, and other settlements in the County of Northumberland. He solmenly declares that all the happiness and amusements are not to be found in towns and cities, although he has had some experience in city life when attending Toronto University. This puts the status of the 3rd Dragoons on a high level when some of the officers at least are college graduates.

Of the Peterborough men in camp one of the most prominent is Capt. Poole, who has been out on ten previous occasions and now holds the position of Vet. Officer in the 3rd Dragoons. Capt. Poole takes a great interest in his duties and has, with a great degree of success, endeavoured to improve the standard of horses brought into camp from year to year.

Closely associated with the Veterinary Officers is Capt. Douglas, the genial Medical Officer, and his interest in the camp is shown by the fact that he ourneyed all the way from Moose Jaw, Sask., to be present at this all-important assembly of cavalrymen. Capt. Douglas formerly practiced his profession at Warsaw, and it is quite noticeable that a great many of the Warsaw boys are members of C squadron. He is very popular in camp, and justly so, for his dear old Irish brogue keeps his brother officers in roars of laughter the whole day long—and sometimes half the night long.

The Militia Department, as is well known, cut down the estimates this year, and as a result the number of men in training has been reduced, and this has caused a number of officers to obe left at home. Among such who are not in camp this year is Capt. E. S. Clarry, paymaster of the 3rd Dragoons. Although he is not officially on duty he has visited the camp every day and has been enthusiastically received. Even though Capt. Clarry has a position in the city, which keeps him busy, yet he finds time to see to the welfare of the Dragons in camp, and has been the 'promoter" of many of the outings and social functions which the officers have enjoyed.

An extended report of the officers' banquet at the Armouries will be found in another column.

Kidney Suffering IN THE SPRING

Backaches and tired feelings tell of weak kidney action—Prompt relief by using DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

No organs of the body are so susceptible to the quickly changing temperature of spring as the kidneys. Sudden cold waves mean chilling of the surface of the body, closing of the pores of the skin and over crowding of the kidneys at a time when they are already overworked in an effort to free the system of the accumulated poisons of winter.

The tired draggy feelings you experience and the weakness and pains in the back tell of a poisoned system and defective kidneys.

There is no treatment for kidney disease which will afford you relief so quickly as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and none which will so certainly cure the most complicated forms of this disease.

There is a reason for this. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills awaken the action of the liver and bowels as well as the kidneys and thereby affect a thorough cleansing and regulating of the whole excretory system.

In this combined action Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are unique. There are no substitutes or imitations which possess this principle.

Mrs. F. O. Bacon, Baldwin's Mills, Que., writes: "I was very sick last spring. The doctors said I must go to the hospital for an operation but I didn't want to. My liver and kidneys did not act and I suffered terribly. I then began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and nothing else, and am now fully cured and doing my own work for a family of seven."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

The following legend taken from an enterprising Seedsman's Catologue is not without a bearing on Fire Insurance :—

"Two years ago an Ontario Market Gardener saved four cents an ounce on the cost of half a pound of Cabbage Seed. In the fall he admitted that he was over $100 to the bad on the crop because the bargain seed had lacked vitality. Thirty-two cents saved—one hundred dollars lost. WAS IT WORTH WHILE?

Children's Aid Looked Into Case Of White Children In Gypsy Camp

The attention of the agent of the Children's Aid Society, Mr. George Cochrane, and Mr. Wm. Henry, was drawn to little children who were with the band of gypsies. They were unlike the other little ones at the camp, inasmuch as their skins were white and resembled very much Canadian children. One was a boy of ten and the other a girl of three years.

It was thought by the authorities that these fair-face youngsters did not rightfully belong to the gypsies and an investigation was made. However, upon investigating it was learned that these children belonged to Chief George. Their mother, the chief's first wife, was a white woman. Records of their birth, and their Christening in an English Church in Ottawa, were found.

Manufacturers' Committee Discussed 30-Year Pole Franchise

The Mnufacturers' Committee last night considered the application of the Peterborough Light and Power Company for a thirty-year pole franchise of the streets. The matter was brought up some time ago and the City Solicitor was instructed to draft a skeleton agreement, which was gone over last night clause by clause. Mr. J. H. Larmonth of the Light and Power Company was present and went into the agreement with the committee. Some of the clauses were agreed upon, while others will have to be considered. Mr. Larmonth will ask Mr. Stuart of the Quaker Oats Company to come over from Chicago next week to meet the committee in regard to some of the concessions that the city is asking of the company. In the meantime there will be a meeting on Saturday night.

Some features of the agreement as drawn up by the city are that the minimum meter be reduced to $9.00 and that the rates be submitted to arbitration or to the Ontario Railroad Board every five years.

Letters From Four Hydraulic Engineers On Burleigh Power

The Power Committee last night considered the letters from the four hydraulic engineers who went to make reports for the city on the Burleigh Falls power. The city now has reports from two sources, viz.:

The one made by McCallum for the Eastern Ontario Power Co., at $186,000 for development and transmission to the sub-station in the city the cost of the property would be in addition.

The Hydro-Electric Power Co., estimate the cost at $267,000 for development and transmission to the substation.

There is so much difference between these two estimates that the committee felt that another report especially for the city should be secured.

The committee then entered upon a lengthy discussion of the purchase of the Burleigh Falls power, but the new information was brought out. The general opinion was, however, than an engineer be not appointed yet, but that the committee get some further information first, so no engineer was appointed. One thing the committee will do is to get a plant of the property.

Ald. Bradburn moved that the club write Mr. Culverwell to bring his plans here and he prepared to either leave them or copies of them, with the committee. This was carried.

WITH PETERBORO'S ARTILLERY FORCES IN COBOURG CAMP WHAT THE 24th ARE DOING

The Cobourg Sentinel Star says of the 10th Brigade Camp:

On Monday the 10th Brigade Canadian Field Artillery went into Camp just north of the Steel Works. The grounds comprise about 47 acres of good, high ground, though it is rather rough in spots, but withal makes a good place for the Artillery manoeuvres. The Brigade consists of two Batteries—the 14th, with headquarters at Cobourg, and the 24th, with headquarters at Peterborough. The staff officers are as follows: Lt.-Col. N. F. MacNachtan, in command; Capt. W. C. Ackerman, adjutant; Capt H. C. B. Elliott, medical officer; Vet.-Maj. J. W. Fisher, veterinary officer; Quartermaster-Sergt., Instructor Wm. McIntyre, R.C.H.A. instructor.

The officers of the 14th Battery are Major A. A. Mulholland, Capt. G. H. Ralston, Lt. D. Dick, Cadet Ringwood, R.M.C., attached. The 24th officers are Major T. W. H. Young, Capt. R. H. Leary, Lts. Elliott and Shaw and Vet.-Lieut. Rogers.

Altogether there are 181 officers and men, and 119 horses in Camp. They are up to strength under the reduced establishment. They have got down to real hard work, and under Sergt-Instructor McIntyre are making an excellent showing.

Everything about the Camp is in A1 shape, as far as neatness and despatch, and that veteran commander, Lt.-Col. MacNachtan, keps his eagle eyes on all things, big or little, pertaining to the welfare of the Camp. Strict orders are issued, and the men obey them to the letter.

The 24th Battery made a route march to Camp from Peterborough, and made a new Canadian record, marching the 35 miles in 10¼ hours. It is a hard march, but horses and men came through in good shape. The 14th Battery came in by train.

The Sergeants have appointed the following officers for their mess:

Hon. President—Lt.-Col. N. F. MacNachtan.

President—Sergt.-Maj. Manley.

President of Committee—Brigade Q.M.-Sergt. Field.

Sec-Treas.—Staff-Sergt. Hay.

Committee — Sergts. McClung and Thomas.

It is one of the best organised and conducted messes the men say they ever attended.

On Wednesday inuster parde was held, Major Mack, command paymaster E.O., conducting it. The Brigade will be inspected on Thursday morning, July 1st, by Lt.-Col. English, of Quebec, assistant inspector of Artillery.

On Sunday morning Divine service will be held on the grounds at ten o'clock, and the public are invited to the service.

Up to the present there has been no sickness or accidents amongst horses or men, and everything points to a very successful camp. Both men and horses are of good calibre. On the streets the men have acted like gentlemen, and no complaints have been made.

The rations furnished are entirely satisfactory. W. Burnet is supplying the groceries and provisions; J. H. Rooney the meat, and Ed. Duncan the forage and fuel. There is no liquor allowed on the grounds. J. D. McIntosh has a supply tent for the men. The officers are being catered to by Mr. Wm. Fox in his residence, and they all express themselves as highly pleased.

The water supply for the camp was kindly given by the Cobourg Utilities Corporation, who laid the pipes from the Steel Works.

There is to be wrestling and boxing bouts at a field day; two baseball tomorrow morning between the 14th and the 24th. In the wrestling "Scotty" Fraser of the 14th goes up against Gunnner Wilson of the 24th.

Trumpeter Rowe is the smallest soldier in the Camp, but makes the most noise. He holds a first-class trumpeter's certificate, and is the best turned out of the school for a number of years.

OFFICERS OF 3rd DRAGOONS GUESTS AT ENJOYABLE FUNCTION

SPLENDID SPEECHES

The officers of the 3rd Dragoons, who are in camp at Nassau, are certainly being entertained right royally by the people of Peterborough. One ofthe most enjoyable social evenings that the 57th Regiment ever put on, took place last night in the officers' beautiful quarters at the Peterborough Armouries. It was in the form of a banquet tendered by the officers of the 57th Regiment to Lt.-Col. Syer, and the officers of the 3rd Dragoons.

The banquet took place in the lecture hall, the tables being beautifully arranged, and decorated profusely with cut flowers. The chair was occupied by Lt.-Col. Arthur Stevenson, Commanding Officer of the 57th Regiment, while the Vice-chair was ably filled by Major L. M. Hayes, Paymaster of the 57th Regiment. To the right of Lt.-Col. Stevenson sat Lt.-Col. Syer, Commanding Officer of the 3rd Dragoons, and to the Chairman's left, Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P.

The well-prepared luncheon was heartily enjoyed by the officers of both regiments. The occasion was very informal, there being no regular toast list, but informal speeches, songs and recitations, by various officers present. The toast to His Majesty, the King, was right royally honoured, after which Mr. McIlroy rendered a vocal selection, in his usual fine style Col. Stevenson proposed the health of the 3rd Dragoons, and spoke in kindly terms of the officers of that regiment. He referred to the good feeling that always existed between the 3rd Dragoons and the 57th Regiment, a feeling which, he hoped, would exist in the future. Lt.-Col. Stevenson was glad to know that the headquarters of the 3rd Dragoons had, upon the recommendation of the Commanding Officer, Lt.-Col. Syer, been transferred back to Peterborough. He was glad to have the acquaintance of Lt.-Col. Syer, who has proved himself to be a real good fellow. He assured the officers of the 3rd Dragoons that the officers of the 57th Regiment were always pleased to have the officers of the 3rd Dragoons call at their mess rooms whenever they were in Peterborough.

Lt.-Col. Syer replied in fitting terms. He hoped that nothing but the most cordial good feeling would continue to exist between the 57th Regiment and the 3rd Dragoons. He thanked Lt.-Col. Stevenson for his very kindly references to the officers of the 3rd Dragoons and he assured him that the officers of the 3rd Dragoons felt very much indebted to the 57th Regiment for the kind hospitality that had always been extended to them. He had applied for the transfer of the headquarters of the 3rd Dragoons to Peterborough, and he was glad to know that this had been granted by the Department. He felt that Peterborough was the proper place for the headquarters of the 3rd Dragoons, there being the best of accommodation for his regiment. He expressed himself as being well pleased with the camp at Peterborough, and that future camps of his regiment would be held there.

During the evening Mr. W. S. Davidson delighted the company with a song or two, and Lieut. Edmison, of the 3rd Dragoons became popular with the company at once in his vocal selections. Lieut.-Col. Miller, in his usual grand style recited Glencoe.

The affair broke up about midnight with the singing of the National Anthem, and three cheers and a tiger for the 3rd Dragoons.

Camp Notes

The officers of the 3rd Dragoons yesterday afternoon were entertained at afternoon tea, at the residence of Major W. T. Hall, 607 Stewart street. The officers were welcomed by Major and Mrs. Hall, and a dainty tea was served on the lawn.

After tea the officers of the 3rd Dragoons, amongst whom there are a number of splendid vocalists, rendered a short programme, which proved very entertaining.

A number of young ladies of the city assisted Mrs. Hall in her entertainment of the officers of the 3rd Dragoons, which was one of the pleasantest of the many little social functions that the 3rd Dragoons have had during their camp at Peterborough.

Children's Aid Looked Into Case Of White Children In Gypsy Camp

The attention of the agent of the Children's Aid Society, Mr. George Cochrane, and Mr. Wm. Henry, was drawn to little children who were with the band of gypsies. They were unlike the other little ones at the camp, inasmuch as their skins were white and resembled very much Canadian children. One was a boy of ten and the other a girl of three years.

It was thought by the authorities that these fair-face youngsters did not rightfully belong to the gypsies and an investigation was made. However, upon investigating it was learned that these children belonged to Chief George. Their mother, the chief's first wife, was a white woman. Records of their birth, and their Christening in an English Church in Ottawa, were found.

Manufacturers' Committee Discussed 30-Year Pole Franchise

The Mnufacturers' Committee last night considered the application of the Peterborough Light and Power Company for a thirty-year pole franchise of the streets. The matter was brought up some time ago and the City Solicitor was instructed to draft a skeleton agreement, which was gone over last night clause by clause. Mr. J. H. Larmonth of the Light and Power Company was present and went into the agreement with the committee. Some of the clauses were agreed upon, while others will have to be considered. Mr. Larmonth will ask Mr. Stuart of the Quaker Oats Company to come over from Chicago next week to meet the committee in regard to some of the concessions that the city is asking of the company. In the meantime there will be a meeting on Saturday night.

Some features of the agreement as drawn up by the city are that the minimum meter be reduced to $9.00 and that the rates be submitted to arbitration or to the Ontario Railroad Board every five years.

Letters From Four Hydraulic Engineers On Burleigh Power

The Power Committee last night considered the letters from the four hydraulic engineers who went to make reports for the city on the Burleigh Falls power. The city now has reports from two sources, viz.:

The one made by McCallum for the Eastern Ontario Power Co., at$186,000 for development and transmission to the sub-station in the city the cost of the property would be in addition.

The Hydro-Electric Power Co., estimate the cost at $267,000 for development and transmission to the substation.

There is so much difference between these two estimates that the committee felt that another report especially for the city should be secured.

The committee then entered upon a lengthy discussion of the purchase of the Burleigh Falls power, but the new information was brought out. The general opinion was, however, than an engineer be not appointed yet, but that the committee get some further information first, so no engineer was appointed. One thing the committee will do is to get a plant of the property.

Ald. Bradburn moved that the club write Mr. Culverwell to bring his plans here and he prepared to either leave them or copies of them, with the committee. This was carried.

FIGHT RESULTED FATALLY FOR ONE

Fight Near Phelpston, Ont., Has Fatal Result.

VICTIM STARTED THE ROW

Old Man Comes Into Conflict With Two Brothers, James and William Smith, and In Row Gets Fatal Blows Over the Head — Smith Brothers Are Now Under Arrest at Elmvale, Ont.

Phelpston, June 29.—A very unfortunate affair occurred on Sunday about two miles west of Crossland postoffice, about six miles northwest of here, between neighbors. A man named Michael Kelly and James and William Smith have been on bad terms for some time, and the trouble culminated Sunday in a fight, and later Kelly died.

It appears that Kelly came out of his house and met the Smith boys driving in a buggy, in search of their cow, which Kelly had put in the pound. He seized the horse's head and stopped the rig, and then proceeded to club William Smith with a stick in his hands. William Smith jumped out of the buggy, but became entangled in the lines and fell. In the meantime Kelly was belaboring him with the club. The other brother, James, got out of the rig pulled Kelly off his brother Will, who started to run away, but returned, picked up the stick that Kelly had been beating him with, and struck Kelly on the head, knocking him down. Kelly got up and went to his house and died yesterday morning. An inquest is being held to determine the cause of death.

The Smith brothers were arrested yesterday and locked up at Elmvale, to await the outcome of an inquest which Coroner McLinton will conduct on Wednesday.

Dr. Pringle at Sydney, N.S.

Halifax, N.S., June 29.—Rev. Dr. Pringle addressed a very large congregation in St. Andrew's Church, Sydney, Sunday evening, on the work of the Presbyterian General Assembly, and gave an explicit statement of the position which he took in the assembly on the question of social and moral reform, saying:

"A great many things have been said about me and my speech on that occasion, and that the preacher has no business to meddle in politics. My answer to that is that I shall meddle in politics. It is the business of Christ's ministers to destroy the works of the devil, whenever they appear. I shall not cease to denounce vile characters in public offices and the vile things done by them. I exaggerated nothing, but stated the plain cold truth."

Seven Years for Child-Beater.

Ottawa, June 29.—Mrs. Nelson Lajoie was yesterday sentenced at Hull by Magistrate Goyette to seven years in St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary for her cruel treatment of her nine-year-old daughter, Lena.

The judge, in passing sentence, said that her treatment of her child, had been brutal and could not be condoned by the court.

The little girl was put on the stand, but would not give evidence against her mother. She said her mother did not beat her. When asked how she came by all the bruises on her body the child said that they were due to falls.

It was alleged she ill-treated the girl because she looked like a sister-in-law she was unfriendly with.

Soap Works Must Close.

Brantford, June 29.—The Board of Health has ordered the factory of the United Soap Co. on Clarence street to close its doors as the business is regarded as a nuisance to the neighborhood. The company is controlled by three clergymen, and was formerly located at Owen Sound.

Prosecution for the Sunday sale of ice cream has been begun against the proprietor of a store on Colborne street.

A Five Years' Sentence.

Stratford, June 29.—Albert Butterfield, found guilty of forgery and theft of a postal note in Toronto, was sentenced to five years in Kingston Penitentiary.

ADVICE IS WANTED.

Engineering Board of Quebec Bridge Call on Experts.

Ottawa, June 29.—The engineering board of the Quebec Bridge has not been able to agree as to whether the present piers will be sufficient to carry the new structure. The piers were built to carry a bridge weighing thirty-five thousand tons and the new structure will weight fifty thousand tons.

The statute under which the commission was appointed to prepare bridge plans provides that, in any case where the engineers fail to agree in opinion on any point, the advise of two additional engineers shall be obtained. Henry Holgate, C.E., of Montreal, and Alfred Noble, chief engineer of the Pennsylvania tunnel at New York, have accepted an invitation to give an opinion whether the present piers are sufficient, whether the span should be shortened by building additional piers further out in the river, or whether the bridge should be erected on a new site.

Drowning at Hanover.

Hanover, June 29.—Yesterday evening the Saugeen River claimed a victim. Miss Alice Wright, daughter of Wm. Wright, who, in company with another young lady and two young men had gone to bathe in the river.

When leaving home, she had girlishly clapped her hands, saying she was delighted to go bathing, and called good-bye to her parents and sisters. The party went half a mile down the river in a canoe and then went into the water. Miss Wright attempted to swim across, but got tired. One of the young men went to her rescue and would also have drowned had not the other young man rescued him.

Miss Wright was a graduate nurse from Kenora (Ont.) hospital, and was engaged to be married to a young doctor, now in England.

Mexico Wants Grain.

Vancouver, B.C., June 29.—Owing to the severe drought in Mexico, the Government has entirely abolished the duty on wheat until Sept. 15, according to advices received yesterday. This means that the export of Alberta grain to Mexico, via Vancouver, this season will be large, as much being shipped as can be landed at Mexican ports prior to the date on which the duty will again become operative. Shipping and grain men here, however, look upon Sept. 15 as too early a date for the reimposition of the duty, and it may be possible to have the open season extended for sixty days. It is said that the dry season is the worst that has been experienced in Mexico in eighty years. Crops have literally withered to chaff.

Too Free With Firearms.

Belleville, June 29.—Senior Judge Deroche tried a Mohawk Indian, Isaac Green, charged with shooting H. A. Fish, a suitor for his daughter's hand, with intent, some weeks ago. Green, who is a respected resident of the reserve, had been in jail ever since, bail being refused. His honor reduced the charge to common assault, and fined Green $20 and costs, amounting to over $100.

Barbara Heck Memorial.

Prescott, June 29.—Unveiling ceremony July 1. The unveiling of the Barbara Heck monument will take place at the grave in the blue church cemetery, on the banks of the St. Lawrence River, three miles west of Prescott, at 10 a.m. July 1. Bishop Hamilton, D.D. of Boston; Rev. Dr. Carman of Toronto, and other distinguished clergymen are expected to deliver addresses.

Duty on Steel Raised.

Washington, June 29.—The duty on structural iron and steel valued at more than 9-10 of a cent, a pound was increased by the Senate from 8-10 to 4-10 of a cent per pound. The rate on steel of a lower value was left unchanged. On zinc in pigs there was also an addition of half a cent a pound over the House rate of one cent. Ineffectual efforts were made to have school books, salt and Egyptian cotton placed on the dutiable list.

Pastor Supports Foster.

Chicago, June 29.—Dr. Donald D. MacLaurin, pastor of the Second Baptist Church, tendered his resignation to the Chicago Baptist Ministerial Conference in a letter read yesterday before the conference.

He based his action on the expulsion of Prof. George Burman Foster, because of beliefs expounded in his book, "The Function of Religion." The resignation came as a shock to the ministers.

Barge Burned at Parry Sound.

Parry Sound, June 29.—Yesterday morning at an early hour fire was discovered in the steam barge Tempest II. of Cleveland, Ohio. The barge came here on June 6 with coal, one of the boilers having given out. Orders had been received to take the vessel to Collingwood for a new boiler and steam was made on the vessel.

Died at Doorway.

Prescott, June 29.—The wife of Peter Allen, a retired engineer, died suddenly at her home Sunday evening, aged 65 years. She had just returned from church and collapsed in the doorway.

Found Hanging by Wife.

Ottawa, June 29.—P. Charron of Gatineau Point, aged 45, was found hanging in his shed by his wife. He had been in ill-health and despondent.

GASOLINE TOOK FIRE AND LAUNCH BURNED

Members of Brockville Party Forced to Swim.

GASOLINE CAUGHT FIRE

Occupants of Pleasure Craft, Including Three Women and a Little Boy Jump Into Water to Escape Death by Fire and Swim Ashore —Rescuers Pick Up Entire Party — Was a New Boat.

Brockville, June 29.—A marine disaster involving the lives of seven persons was narrowly averted on the St. Lawrence, a short distance from Brockville, yesterday afternoon in the "Swift Water," one of the most dangerous places between here and Gananoque.

The launch Argo, recently finished by a local firm for C. W. McLean, son-in-law of Mrs. Senator Fulford, had set out for a short cruise. In the boat with Mr. McLean were Mrs. McLean, Master George T. Fulford, Miss Fanny Sherriff and B. B. Sherriff, Brockville, and Miss Vaux of Toronto, and the builder, Fred Gilbert, and Bert Fraser. The Argo was only launched last week, and was a very trim craft, but is now a total loss, partly insured.

The Argo had proceeded as far as McDonald's Point, but the engine, being new, was not running smoothly, and the decision was reached to return home. When the "Swift Water" was reached, the float carburetor became flooded, and the second choked, and without warning a blaze shot up. The two men in charge brought into use an extinguisher, but the blaze had gained instant headway and the occupants had to jump overboard. All in the party, including little Geo. Fulford, were expellent swimmers and while no rescuers were in sight at the time, two or three calls for assistance brought out three rowboats, and all were picked up.

The launch drifted to Bayview, near H. S. Brown's boat house, the fire having melted the solder in the tank, allowing thirty-five gallons of gasoline to leak out and burn.

Welland Passes Gas Bylaw.

Welland, June 29.—Welland citizens yesterday by 303 to 9 carried a bylaw to permit the Provincial Natural Gas Co. to pipe the town for natural gas. The Mutual Gas Co. have supplied Welland for many years with gas.

Avenges Stain Husband.

New York, June 29.—In revenge for the alleged murder of her husband a year ago, Mrs. Louise Labartia yesterday fired four bullets into Dominico Verzagia while a throng of horror-stricken people witnessed the shooting.

MONTREAL, 22nd February, 1909.

I HEREBY CERTIFY that I have drawn by my own hand ten samples of the St. Lawrence Sugar Refining Co's Extra STANDARD GRANULATED SUGAR, indiscriminately taken from four lots of about 150 barrels each and six lots of about 450 bags each. I have analyzed same and find them uniformly to contain 99-99/100 to 100 per cent of pure cane sugar, with no impurities whatever.

BARRIE BALL TEAM WANTS A GAME IN PETERBOROUGH

Big Excursion is Coming Next Week and Ball Team Wants a Chance to Play Here---"Doc" Burton, Who Could Have Had a Chance With Torontos, is Doing Slab Work for Barrie.

Here is a chance for the executive of the Senior City League to pick a team and make a little money for the League. Chris. Graham has received the following letter:

Barrie, Ont., June 28th, 1909.

Mr. Chris. Graham,

Oriental Hotel, Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir,—On Wednesday, July 7th the Barrie Carriage Works will run an excursion to Peterborough; and we expect quite a crowd to attend. I was advised to write you in reference to having a ball game with the local club during the afternoon of the above mentioned day. If suitable terms can be arranged we will bring a strong team, in fact the best that can be selected from this town, and one that will give your town team a good game. Our battery would likely be Burton and Scott. If you will kindly hand this letter to the management of the local team, I will consider it quite an accommodation.

Please advise them to communicate by 'phone with Mr. Mike Welker, at the Barrie Carriage Works in case they think favourable of this proposition.

It is necessary that I hear from you immediately if a game can be arranged in order to enable us to get out the proper advertising matter regarding the game. Thanking you in advance for prompt attention to this matter, I am,

Yours very truly,

MIKE WELKER.

IMPORTANCE PART THE CATCHER PLAYS IN WORK OF BALL TEAM

Did you ever get a good line on the work of the catcher?

For instance, the way he signals to the pitcher?

Probably not, for as a general thing no one but the pitcher can see what the catcher calls for.

When the backstop squats down behind the batter and holds his mitt edgeways, or perhaps turns it so that the palm faces the pitcher, he tips off to his battery mate what he thinks will fool the batter.

If he wants a fast straight ball, he holds down his index finger.

If he thinks the batter will go after a curve ball, or bite on it, as the players call it, he holds two fingers down. If he wants the pitcher to waste a ball so as to give him a chance to nip a runner, he holds down his thumb.

Ther are times when the catcher gets an instinctive hunch that his signals are being tipped off, either by a runner on second, who may be in a position to see his signals, or by someone in the bleacheds armed with a field glass. Then he switches it, and one finger may mean a curve or a waste ball and vice versa.

In addition the catcher has in his repertoire signals that tip off to the pitchers a man napping; to the second baseman and pitcher, or to the pitcher and the shortstop so they will act in concert to get a man asleep off second; or to the third baseman to be on the lookout for a throw to catch a man napping.

It has been truly said that the brain of a team is behind the bat, and the catchers who rise above the ordinary are the men who, in addition to their ability to hang onto the ball and throw, have some of that grey stuff under the roots of their hair.

SATURDAY'S BALL GAMES WILL BE HARD FOUGHT BATTLES

The City League games on Saturday should be by far the most interesting of the season, now that the teams are tightening up and every game has to be fought out until the last innings. There is a great race on between the last three teams and the games this week make considerable change in the situation.

The Strathconas and Park St. A.C. will met in the first game and the second will bring together the West Ends and T.A.S.. Both should be fine exhibitions. The result of the first game decides whether the Straths will remain at the bottom or take a jump upwards. Park St. will have a strong team, the young players that they introduced last Saturday having added speed to the line-up and they will prove a very awkward proposition for the Commissioners. On the other hand the Straths say that they have broken their hoodoo streak by beating the West Ends and now they will all have to look out for the Stratheonas.

The West Ends are confident of giving the T.A.S. the hardest fight they have had yet in the second game. The Westerners will be strong and are not in the least cast down by losing Saturday's game. The Abstainers have yet to meet with a defeat, but will not take any chances, knowing that the West Ends play ball from the drop of the hat.

WITH THE RUNNERS.

Alfie Shrubb seems to have had a very bad reception at the hands of the Toronto people during his race with Longboat on Saturday night. When it was seen that his leg was causing him trouble and that he was'nt likely to finish out he was hooted and hissed and even spat at by the crowd while an hoodlum leaned over the fence and hit him in the face as he ran by. It is hard to find any excuse for such disgraceful conduct and only bears out the old contention that there is no worse sporting town on the map than Toronto. Shrubb is as game a runner as ever wore shoe leather and is the best man in the world up to fifteen miles. He failed to beat Longboat at twenty, but that was no reason why the crowd should treat him as they did. It is altogether likely that the same bunch of people who were so busy in heaping abuse on Shrubb when it was seen he was beaten would have been the first to fawn on him had he won.

THE OLD SWIMMING HOLE

Now that summer is here and the long days are warm,
Most rhymesters must follow the stereotyped form;
And a verse or two now quickly from their pens quickly roll,
Relating to charms of the old swimming hole.

They may sing about love through the winter and dream,
They may sing the delight of strawberries and cream,
The joy of a boy with his hickory pole,
But they always come back to the old swimming hole.

It seems that no poet would satisfied be
Or count that his duty were done, unless he,
Related in rhyme the delight of the old soul
That wandered once more to the old swimming hole.

His name is unknown and his fame is unsung,
He must have been born when the world was quite young,
But he started a fad that's beyond all control,
The man who first sang of the old swimming hole.

ARRESTED MAN AT CRAWFORD'S GROVE

High Constable Cochrane received a telephone message from the vicinity of Crawford's Grove last night about eleven o'clock. A young man, who is of unsound mind, it was feared, would do some harm to himself, and it was thought wise to have him placed in custody. He was remanded until tomorrow morning at ten o'clock.

FRASERVILLE METHODIST CHURCH RE-OPENING

Fraserville, June 30.—The annual strawberry festival of the Fraserville Methodist Church, in connection with the Ladies' Aid, will be held Thursday evening, July 8th. The Salvation Army Band, of Peterborough, will be in attendance, and a jovial evening is expected. A hearty welcome is extended to all, by the members of the congregation.

Reopening Church

The reopening of the Fraserville Methodist Church will take place Sunday, July 11th. Services at three o'clock and seven o'clock p.m. Rev. H. Strike, of Campbellford, will officiate. The afternoon services will be especially to the Orangemen.

Personal and Social

The many friends of Mrs. W. J. Timlin will be pleased to know that she has returned home and is quite well again, after going under an operation at the hospital in Belleville.

We are pleased to know that Mrs. W. A. Kidd is recovering from her illness.

Miss Clara Robison, of Toronto, has decided to spend the summer months in this village with her sister, Mrs. W. A. Kidd.

Obituary

Died on Saturday, June 26th, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Miles Huchinson.

Boys in Strawberry Patch

Some small boys from the village got into Mr. Joseph Hopkins' strawberry patch last Thursday evening, causing much damage by tramping the plants as well as consuming a considerable quantity of the fruit. Mr. Hopkins threatens that if the boys repeat this bold action, he will make trouble for them.

Improving Condition of Cemetery

There were a number of villagers and farmers from the surrounding country gathered at the Fraserville cemetery on Thursday afternoon, June 24th, for the purpose of making a general improvement on same. The result of this effort was very satisfactory.

Decorating Church

The contract of painting and decorating the Fraserville Methodist Church has been let to Mr. J. D. Howell, of Peterborough, whose work so far has given entire satisfaction, showing that he is thoroughly competent to do the job.

The seats at the front of the church have been somewhat remodeled, giving it a better appearance and also making more seating room.

The wainscoting, seats, window frames, and doors are painted and grained a dark oak, while the walls are painted a cream, tinted with green and ceiling is painted a light cream colour. Around the top of the wainscoting is a beautiful scroll about eight inches wide and light green in colour.

The work is under the auspices of the Fraserville Ladies' Aid, assisted by the church officials, and promises to be a credit to those in charge.

Crops and Pests

The farmers report that the potato bugs are very bad this season, despite this fact, however, some of the farmers have planted as many as sixteen acres of potatoes.

Caterpillars are very bad also, they are so bad in some districts, that the farmers have to cut limbs off their trees to get rid of them. A smaller grub is infesting the small trees and bushes causing much damage in many cases, especially to the gooseberry. Dry warm weather is supposed to be the cause.

The crops are reported very good, considering the late spring, but the past few weeks of dry warm weather has brought the growth, practically to a standstill.

CONSIDERED APPLICATION OF PETERBOROUGH CANOE CO.

The Manufacturers' Committee of the City Council held a meeting last night at which the application of the Peterborough Canoe Company for the use of the land behind their fatcory and for a fixed assesament was taken up. The company is anxious to secure enough land to run a siding into their plant from the C.P.R. and also for use as a piling ground. They at present have no room to extend and the cost of loading at the station is considerably more than the expense would be had they a siding.

They want 100 feet north of their property for use as piling ground. The chairman of the committee, Alderman Gillespie and Alderman Hicks were of the opinion that the company should be given a long lease of the property immediately behind their fatcory while in the case of the land to the north which is considered valuable by the city, they should be given a short lease.

On motion of Aldermen Hicks and Metheral the city solicitor was instructed to draft an agreement and submit it at the next meeting of the committee which will likely be held on Saturday night of this week, preparatory to the council meeting on Monday.

The publishers of the "Commercial Handbook and Opportunities of Canada," wrote asking the city to insert an advertisement in the journal. The offer was declined.

YOUNG LADY DROWNED AT HANOVER WELL KNOWN HERE

Hanover, June 28.—This evening the Saugeen River claimed a victim. Miss Alice Wright, daugher of Wm. Wright, who, in company with another young lady and two young men, had gone to bathe in the river.

When leaving home, she had gleefully clapped her hands, saying she was delighted to go bathing, and called good-bye to her parents and sisters. The party went half a mile down the river in a canoe and then went into the water. Miss Wright attempted to swim across, but got tired. One of the young men went to her rescue and would have drowned also had not the other young man rescued him.

Miss Wright was a graduate nurse from Kenora (Ont.) hospital, and was engaged to be married to a young doctor, now in England.

Miss Wright was an intimate friend of Miss Jennie Higgins, of this city, who left this morning to attend the funeral.

THE WEATHER.

The oppressive heat of yesterday has been followed to-day by much cooler conditions. Yesterday's highest temperature was 87 degrees in the shade, which is the highest figure reached by the thermometer this year to date.

WEDDING BELLS

CROWLEY—COURNEYA.

A very prety wedding was solemnized at St. Peter's Cathedral this morning at nine o'clock when Miss Edith Courneya, daughter of Mr. Simon Courneya, of Tweed, was united in mariage to Mr. Maurice J. Crowley, East City. The ceremony was perfomed by Rev. Father P. J. Kelly. The bride was attended by Miss L. Crowley, sister of the groom, and the groom was supported by Mr. F. Courneya, brother of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Crowley will reside in East City.

COLLINS—FARRELL

The marriage of Miss Mary Elisabeth Farrell of this city to Mr. James Collins was quietly solemnized at St. Peter's Cathedral this morning at seven o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father V. G. McFadden. The bride was attended by Miss Sophia Killoran while the groom was supported by Mr. Michael Tobin.

Mr. and Mrs. Collins left on the 8 o'clock C.P.R. train for Toronto and points west. Upon their return they will reside on Park street.

BROWN—HOBBINS

At St. Peter's Cathedral this morning at eight o'clock, Miss Annie Hobbins, daughter of Mr. D. Hobbins, 816 Water street, became the wife of Mr. Leonard D. Brown. The marriage was solemnized by Rev. Father McColl in the presence of the immediate friends and relatives of the contracting parties. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Nellie Hobbins, while the groom was ably supported by Mr. Fred Clancy.

After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the residence of the bride, where a sumptuous wedding breakfast was served and hearty congratulations bestowed upon the young couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown will reside in Peterborough.

PRESENTED WITH PURSE OF GOLD

Rev. Mr. Teney Remembered by Congregation on Eve of His Departure for Toronto.

On the eve of his departure from Omemee to take charge of St. Philip's Church, Toronto, Rev. J. H. Teney was presented by each of his three congregations with an address and purse, the latter amounting to $150. For nearly eight years Mr. Teney has ministered to the congregations of Omemee and Emily, and his departure occasions much regret, not only to his own people, but to the whole community, and the above presentatations gave expression to the affection and esteem in which he was justly held.

During the time of his ministry here he has been ably supported by his wife, who, in the midst of much domestic care, found time, at considerable sacrifice to herself, to devote to the work of the Sunday School, and the Woman's Auxiliary, of which latter she was president. At this last meeting the members of the W. A. presented Mrs. Teney with a hot water bottle of polished brass, and a gold bar attachment for the W. A. cross bearing the word "Omemee."

The retiring rector and his family leave behind them in Omemee and Emily hosts of friends, whose best wishes follow them to their new abode. Sunday next, July 4th will be Mr. Teney's first Sunday in his new parish, his induction by Bishop Sweeney taking place the following night.

REV. MR. MANNING WAS REMEMBERED

His Congregation Presented Him With Purse of Gold Last Night.

The members and adherents of St. James Methodist Church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Brown, McGill street, to say good-bye to their pastor, the Reverend Mr. Manning and family, on Monday evening, June 28th, and presented them with a purse of gold and an address. The presentation was made by Mrs. W. S. Robinson and the address was read by Mrs. J. Mann.

The address was as follows:

The members of St. James Methodist Church desire to place on record our sincere and hearty appreciation of the valuable service rendered to our church by our esteemed pastor and his family.

We also desire to express to him our warmest admiration and great satisfaction with the manner in which he has conducted all the interest of the church his forceful and eloquent pulpit. Administrations have been a blessing to many of us and acceptable to all and we feel certain the spirituality of the membership is much higher through his faithful presentation of the old story 'from week to week."

Signed on behalf of the Ladies' Aid,
MRS. W. S. ROBINSON, President.
MR. BROWN, Recording Steward.
MR. PREST, Superintendent S. S.

ST. PAUL'S ANNUAL EXCURSION HELD

Yesterday to Stony Lake—An Enjoyable Outing.

The annual picnic of St. Paul's Sunday School held yesterday to Stony Lake was a most successful affair, the several hundred people who took in the trip having a most enjoyable time. The weather throughout the greater part of the day was fine; a heavy shower just at dinner time, was responsible for some excitement and a dash for shelter on the boat. The steamer Otonabee carrying the party, left the Wolfe St. wharf at 8:30 a.m. and the run up the canal was greatly enjoyed. A stop was made at Sandy Point, Clear Lake for dinner, and it was during the enjoyment of the meal that the rain caused a sudden stop in the proceedings. The shower was soon over, however, and dinner was resumed after which a programme of races was run off. The party then boarded the boat and were taken on a trip to Burleigh Falls, where they remained for a short time after which the return trip was commenced. Supper was partaken of on board and the city was reached in good time.

The programme of races was as follows:

1. Kindergarten Class, Boys—Robt. Lang, Thomas Pogue, Meredith Moore, Alex. Bergonie.

2. Kindergarten Class, Girls—Doris Cowan, Dorothy Ferguson, Margaret Cameron, Lillie Clark.

3. Kindergarten Class, Boys and Girls—Alberta Hunter, Margaret Cameron, Thos. Pogue, Robt. Lang, Donald McLean, Meredith Moore.

4. Primary Class, Boys—Herbert Mason, Gordon Clark, Ralph Cowan, Russell Pogue.

5. Primary Class, Girls—Doris Cowan, Margaret Clark, Martie Vickers, Alberta White.

6. Boys 8 to 10 years—Max. Rischor, Geo. Dodds, Frank White, K. Lang.

7. Girls 8 to 10 years—Grant Thompson, Vera Freeland, Daisie Bergonie, Florence Vickers.

8. Boys 10 to 15 years—George Mongraw, Douglas MacDonald, Jas. McKee, Laidlaw Anderson, George Logan.

9. Boys over 15 years—Ross Lang, Fred Revoy.

10. Girls over 15 years—Elsie Mowat, Myra White, Amy Hill, Genevieve Sanderson.

11. Blind Fold Race for Girls—Elsie Mowat, Genevieve Sanderson, Jessie Ludgald, Mira White.

12. Needle Race for Girls—Genevieve Sanderson, Mira White, Amy Hill.

13. Bag Race for Boys—George Logan, James Pogue.

14. Three-Legged Race — Douglas Macdonald and Lairlaw Anderson, George Mongraw and Roy Delaire.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Saint Andrew's Church will hold a Strawberry Festival on Thursday evening, July 1st, on the Manse Grounds — Good Musical Programme. 2d-151

LOCAL MAN MAKES A FINE VIOLIN

Splendid Instrument the Work of Mr. J. W. Morden, Sherbrooke Street.

Mr. J. W. Morden, 460 Sherbrooke street, he recently completed the manufacture of a violin. He called at the Examiner last evening and showed it to a reporter. Mr. Morden, himself, made the instrument and he is to be congratulated on the splendid one that he has now in his possession. He made it, he said, from a hard rough stick of maple that he had in his shed. He designed it and all work in connection with its manufacture was done by him. The under side is made of spruce from an old table forty years old. Mr. Morden also made the case for it.

It has a fine tone and has been tested by good violinists, who have pronounced it to be an excellent instrument.

COLD ON THE LUNGS

This letter gives some idea of the confidence placed in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine by people who know by experience of its exceptional merit. Mrs. E. D. Turner, Broadview, N.W.T., writes:—"We have seven children and have used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine for them all when troubled with colds on the lungs. We buy four bottles at a time and always keep it in the house, believing there is nothing so good for coughs and colds."

BOOKED A NUMBER OF EXCURSIONS

Alderman R. Hicks, of Peterborough, general manager of the Otonabee Navigation Company, has booked a number of excursions covering an entire week from Lindsay and adjoining points. This includes two moonlights as well as an excursion from Lindsay to Peterborough by water, and returning by train—Lindsay Post.

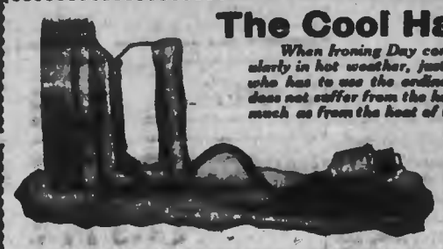
The Cool Handle

When Ironing Day comes 'round, particularly in hot weather, just ask any woman, who has to use the ordinary flat-iron if she does not suffer from the heat of the handle as much as from the heat of the stove?



The "Automatic" Electric Iron is so constructed that the handle is always cool, "cool as a cucumber," cool as the nickel on your range when the fire is out.

Editor Post Card Column.

Dear Sir,—There is not much danger of the East City voting for Local Option, if their experience with the temperance "water-waggon" is to be as unsatisfactory as that with the city water waggon. The East City water sprinkler is "a beaut." He neglects his duties as severely as he neglects the callings down his neglect of duty has brought him. The people over here are disgusted with the dust, which they pay to have laid, and the Board of Works will be held responsible if they don't make their contractor do his work. We pay taxes to have our streets watered. Listen! We protest; and if our protest is not heeded, the echo of it will be heard next January.

Yours, etc.,
EAST CITY.

Note.—Complaints come to us of the unsatisfactory way the street watering is done in the west of the city. Will the Board of Works kindly wake up?

ALL ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETED FOR THE T.A.S. PIC-NIC TO-MORROW

Better Boat Accommodation Than Ever—A Great Array of Prizes and a Grand List of Sports—Something Will be Doing Every Moment All Day.

Full arrangements for the tenth annual excursion of St. Peter's T. A. S. to their park to-morrow, have been completed and a monster turnout is assured. Greater and better boat accommodation than was ever had before will be provided and from 8.30 a.m. till night a steady stream of excursionists will be handled by an efficient boat committee. The grounds present a gala appearance already, the booths, tents, and other paraphernalia having been put in place. Choice meals and refreshments will, as usual, be served by a capable corps of young ladies.

The drawing card, the sports, for which two hundred dollars in prizes are offered, and a distinctly classy field of athletes will compete in the events. The ball game between the Abstainers' star nine, and the West Ends, will be a hummer, and will begin at 1 o'clock, in order to give the committee handling the sports sufficient time to run off the sports left over from the morning. The races will begin promptly at 11 a.m. This step was decided on when the committee arranged their list. To run off everything in the afternoon would be a practical impossibility and hence the above decision as to time of starting. The tug-of-war and launch races are other distinctive features of the outing, which under ordinary weather conditions, will be the grandest effort in this line the Total Abstinence Society have ever put forth.

THE FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT COMMITTEE HOLDS MEETING

The Fire, Water & Light Committee last night took up the question of the lights reported out on the streets during the past quarter. There were reports of 48 lights out, and these the company claimed were out due to a cause through no fault of theirs, and did not think they should be charged up with them.

There were three lights over which there were some dispute, and these were on motion of Alderman Turner, struck off, but the others were not allowed, and $7.37 will be deducted from the company's account.

A number of new lights were placed this year by the chairman on authority of the committee and these were passed last night by the committee.

Alderman Turner said that in view of the fact that there is room for dispute about some of the lights reported out he would move that the company's trimmer call up every morning and ask for the reports, and if there are any the chief of the fire department or one of his men will go out with the trimmer and these disputes will be avoided.

A new horse is needed at the fire hall as a spare horse and for use in fixing the alarm wires, etc. The city should have a good big general purpose horse that can be put into the truck and draw a big load of tools and three or four men for repair work.

Moved by Alderman Turner and Mayor Rush that this committee be authorized to purchase a horse for the fire hall, and that it be paid for upon the certificate of the engineer.

The four men entitled to two weeks' holidays this year will get them, and the chief was authorized to engage a man to take their places.

Allowed To Go On Suspended Sentence—Must Report To Chief

The young man charged with the theft of a number of carpenter's tools from a contractor in Lakefield, who was remanded until this morning was allowed to go on suspended sentence and he will have to report to Chief Rossel once a month. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for him and pleaded guilty. In view of the fact that he had previously been sentenced to three months in gaol on a charge of theft, the prisoner's counsel said that there was no excuse to offer for this latter offence. His Worship said that he was anxious to give the man a chance and gave the above judgment.

Had Two Fingers Amputated In Accident At C. G. E. Works

Mr. John Dunslow, who is employed in the Punch Press department of the Canadian General Electric Works met with a painful accident yesterday afternoon. Two fingers of his right hand became caught in the press and about an inch was severed off each of them. Dr. McIlmoyle, who is looking after Dr. Young's patients during his absence from the city attended the young man.

Mr. Dunalow is confined to Nicholls Hospital.

Gypsies' Great Preparations For Celebration Of Wedding

The Gypsy Queen, Rosa George, is being wedded this afternoon to J. Stokes, one of the members of the band and great preparations have been made for the festivities in connection with the happy event. All day yesterday and this morning purchases of flowers, dress goods and refreshments were made. A visit to the camp at the foot of George street at noon revealed a hive of industry. Every member of the band seemed to be busy preparing a meal. Fires, over which pots containing meat and potatoes were hung, were burning here and there. There was a dozen kegs of beer strewed about and one in particular to which was attached a tap was frequently visited by men, women and children. Two lambs and a calf were slain and cooked for the feast.

It is a time for great rejoicing to these Mexican Gypsies and judging from the preparations that have been made are leaving nothing undone to afford every member a good time in a true Gypsy sense. The Fifty-Seventh Band is at the grounds, supplying music for the celebration.

The gypsies are a very superstitious lot, especially as regards the white people. They do not court the girls they are going to marry as most people do, but the match is made by the Queen and her ruling on the subject of matrimony has to be taken as final. At certain times the tribe or tribes meet to hold a council and at such gatherings the gypsies are very religious. One would not think if he met them at such periods that they were the same roaming and seedy individuals who are causing such a sensation in Peterborough just now. They keep up a regular correspondence with all their relatives and friends and do not hesitate at all in using telephone and telegraph service to learn how all are—even at great distances.

THE DETECTIVE'S EXPLANATION

Says Gypsies Were in Canada Too Long to be Deported.

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Toronto, June 30.—Detective Greer states in reference to the gypsies at Peterborough he was advised by the Attorney-General's Department that the band had been too long in Canada to be deported, and the only course left was to fine them.

Note.—This explanation does not justify the withdrawal from the case, and leaving the responsibility and attendant expense upon the local authorities without even the courtesy of advising them of the decision arrived at.

COERCED A CHINESE

Toronto Clergyman Makes a Very Serious Charge.

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Toronto, June 30—Rev. Robt Brown missionary among Chinese, say police officials here coerced a respectable Chinaman into marrying a white girl who had laid a serious charge against him. The Chinaman has a wife and children in China.

MANY HEARD BAND CONCERT

The band concert given by the fifty-seventh band under the direction of Mr. Rupert Gliddon attracted a large number of people last evening. The evening was an ideal one and many went down in boats, the river being literally covered with launches, skiffs and canoes. A large number also drove down and the nearby residents were seen walking to the grove. The programme was a choice one and was thoroughly enjoyed.

There were three lights over which there were some dispute, and these were on motion of Alderman Turner, struck off, but the others were not allowed, and $7.37 will be deducted from the company's account.

A number of new lights were placed this year by the chairman on authority of the committee and these were passed last night by the committee.

Alderman Turner said that in view of the fact that there is room for dispute about some of the lights reported out he would move that the company's trimmer call up every morning and ask for the reports, and if there are any the chief of the fire department or one of his men will go out with the trimmer and these disputes will be avoided.

A new horse is needed at the fire hall as a spare horse and for use in fixing the alarm wires, etc. The city should have a good big general purpose horse that can be put into the truck and draw a big load of tools and three or four men for repair work.

Moved by Alderman Turner and Mayor Rush that this committee be authorized to purchase a horse for the fire hall, and that it be paid for upon the certificate of the engineer.

The four men entitled to two weeks' holidays this year will get them, and the chief was authorized to engage a man to take their places.

Allowed To Go On Suspended Sentence—Must Report To Chief

The young man charged with the theft of a number of carpenter's tools from a contractor in Lakefield, who was remanded until this morning was allowed to go on suspended sentence and he will have to report to Chief Rossel once a month. Mr. G. N. Gordon appeared for him and pleaded guilty. In view of the fact that he had previously been sentenced to three months in gaol on a charge of theft, the prisoner's counsel said that there was no excuse to offer for this latter offence. His Worship said that he was anxious to give the man a chance and gave the above judgment.

Had Two Fingers Amputated In Accident At C. G. E. Works

Mr. John Dunslow, who is employed in the Punch Press department of the Canadian General Electric Works met with a painful accident yesterday afternoon. Two fingers of his right hand became caught in the press and about an inch was severed off each of them. Dr. McIllmoyle, who is looking after Dr. Young's patients during his absence from the city attended the young man.

Mr. Dunslow is confined to Nicholls Hospital.

Gypsies' Great Preparations For Celebration Of Wedding

The Gypsy Queen, Rosa George, is being wedded this afternoon to J. Stokes, one of the members of the band and great preparations have been made for the festivities in connection with the happy event. All day yesterday and this morning purchases of flowers, dress goods and refreshments were made. A visit to the camp at the foot of George street at noon revealed a hive of industry. Every member of the band seemed to be busy preparing a meal. Fires, over which pots containing meat and potatoes were hung, were burning here and there. There was a dozen kegs of beer strewed about and one in particular to which was attached a tap was frequently visited by men, women and children. Two lambs and a calf were slain and cooked for the feast.

It is a time for great rejoicing to these Mexican Gypsies and judging from the preparations that have been made are leaving nothing undone to afford every member a good time in a true Gypsy sense. The Fifty-Seventh Band is at the grounds, supplying music for the celebration.

The gypsies are a very superstitious lot, especially as regards the white people. They do not court the girls they are going to marry as most people do, but the match is made by the Queen and her ruling on the subject of matrimony has to be taken as final. At certain times the tribe or tribes meet to hold a council and at such gatherings the gypsies are very religious. One would not think if he met them at such periods that they were the same roaming and seedy individuals who are causing such a sensation in Peterborough just now. They keep up a regular correspondence with all their relatives and friends and do not hesitate at all in using telephone and telegraph service to learn how all are—even at great distances.

THE DETECTIVE'S EXPLANATION

Says Gypsies Were in Canada Too Long to be Deported.

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Toronto, June 30.—Detective Greer states in reference to the gypsies at Peterborough he was advised by the Attorney-General's Department that the band had been too long in Canada to be deported, and the only course left was to fine them.

Note.—This explanation does not justify the withdrawal from the case, and leaving the responsibility and attendant expense upon the local authorities without even the courtesy of advising them of the decision arrived at.

COERCED A CHINESE

Toronto Clergyman Makes a Very Serious Charge.

Special to The Examiner (2.45 p.m.)

Toronto, June 30—Rev. Robt Brown missionary among Chinese, say police officials here coerced a respectable Chinaman into marrying a white girl who had had a serious charge against him. The Chinaman has a wife and children in China.

MANY HEARD BAND CONCERT

The band concert given by the fifty-seventh band under the direction of Mr. Rupert Gliddon attracted a large number of people last evening. The evening was an ideal one and many went down in boats, the river being literally covered with launches, skiffs and canoes. A large number also drove down and the nearby residents were seen walking to the grove. The programme was a choice one and was thoroughly enjoyed.

CLAIMED WAGES FOR DAUGHTER

Mr. Walter Forsythe, on behalf of his daughter claimed sixteen dollars for work she had done for James Cruikshanks, at the police court this morning. The defendant was present but owing to some misunderstanding, the complainants were not and the case was left over until Saturday morning when it will come up for hearing.

The most pleasant way to spend the Evening of to-morrow's holiday is by attending St. Andrew's Church Ladies' Aid Strawberry Festival, on the Manse Grounds. A first class orchestra will be in attendance, and a very enjoyable evening will be spent.

BUCKET BRIGADE ON HAND

Streetsville, June 30.—Fire, which started last night in Smith's Photo Gallery, destroyed that place and the Griegg and Graydon stores, as well as the post office. Engine refused to work, but bucket brigade quenched the flames by 11 o'clock.

"Peterborough Means Progress"

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 30, 1909.

OF COURSE IT ISN'T TRUE.

You saw it in the Mail and Empire; it was something in regard to politics, and, therefore, you very justifiably refused to believe it. Yesterday—the wish doubtless bein father to the fabrication—the Mail and Empire announced in and under a three-column "splash" heading, that Sir Wilfrid Laurier, wearied with the cares of state, and sick unto death, would at the next session of parliament resign the premiership and sink into deserved oblivion. There is no truth in this yarn. Sir Wilfrid is in excellent health and fit in every way; and will, Deo volente, continue to rule Canada and lead the Liberal party ad multos annos. Death, or retirement of the Premier is the only ally the Conservative party can enlist with any prospect of success in their efforts to reach the sweets of office; the barrier, Sir Wilfrid, removed, they feel they may possibly have a fighting chance to win power.

DOMINION DAY

The people of Canada have good reason to celebrate Dominion Day. The forty-second anniversary of the day that brought the Dominion of Canada into being as a distinct potential national entity will dawn upon a nation in the advanced stages of a development that, judged by the past, is practically without limit. From a mob of scattered provinces or unpeopled and unknown wastes, have been evolved nine provinces, separate in domestic autonomy but all united in one harmonious whole by the bond of Confederation, with peoples heterogeneous in origin, but one in national citizenship; one in aim; one in ambition.

It is not in a spirit of pride or vain glory, but with grateful hearts that we recall generally what we have, under Divine Providence, accomplished in the forty-two years of our national life. The burning question of political animosities that racked the state and made intolerable conditions of government and legislation have been settled; the racial antagonisms have been laid, except for an occasional sporodic recrudenscence, which serves only to emphasize what we have gained in that regard; then we were little and unknown, of slight weight in the counsels of the empire and of the nations; now we are the target of the eyes of Europe, the aim of those who are looking after fertile lands and happy homes under the best form of responsible government in existence; now we have the status of a nation, making our own treaties with perfect self-government, and still bound with hooks of steel to the centre of the Empire and the other dominions beyond the seas, under one flag, fired by one imperial patriotism—in the the widest sense, "daughter in our mother's house, mistress in our own."

The story of our growth in the past two score and two years in detail would be long in telling, but a generalization of what we have accomplished will serve. For a small population Canada has made a material advance and achieved a record of accomplishment hardly parallelled in history. With our far-flung and widely separated domain, we have magnificiently provided the conditions of growth, as represented by the indispensable element of transportation. Since Confederation Canada has expended on government account on construction and maintenance of railways and canals about 500 millions of dollars. Her canal system and system of internal waterways, with the mighty St. Lawrence as the main artery, pierces the heart of the continent and brings it within traffic connection with the sea and the world at large. Her railway systems include a length of 25,0000 miles of completed railway and 4,500 miles under way, with pratically three transcontinental railways. Canada has one mile of railway to every 260 of the population as compared with the United States, with one mile for every 400; France, one mile to 1,600, and Great Britain, one to 1,800. In the United States the first transcontinental railway was opened in 1865 when that country had a population of thirty-five millions. Canada's first railway from ocean to ocean was completed in 1886, when we had four and a half millions of population. When we thus note what Canada has done with its sparse population, her achievements bulk magnificently and without equal in any country or in any age. Canada has other things to her credit whih show her progressive spirit. The first ste am boat to cross the Atlantic was Canadian; and to jump over a span of seventy-five years—from 1833 to the present decade—Canada was in the forefront of the nations of the earth in the matter of the adoption and practical development of wireless telegraphy, the first over-ocean wireless despatch having been sent to England from Glace Bay, N.S., in 1896. Thus Canada was the foremost in the practical application of the two greatest achievements of modern science, so closely inter-related that the one robs the other of numerous features of danger and contributes to the protection of humanity and the comfort and safety of ocean travel. Canada also has to her credit the telephone, a companion agency to the steamer and wireless telegraphy in facilitating communication, one of the prime elements in human progress, and human improvement and the development of the possibilities of science, art, industry and commerce.

We have done all this quietly and steadily, with an energy and persistance, born of a deep faith in the resources and future of the country which have had ample justification. Within the past fifteen years we have made wonderful strides. Thanks to the transportation we so generously and willingly provided, we have created a new empire in the Canadian West, given life to a young giant who does not yet know his strength nor the ultimate limit of his stature. We are the potential granary of the Empire; we are honoured and beloved in the Home land; continental Europe is looking to us for bread and homes; our big neighbour to the south of us has learned to take use seriously and to hold us in respect as a growing, thriving nation and a commercial and industrial rival to be reckoned with. We are a people blessed with a deep respect for law and order; our moral code is high and we stand among the nations of the earth, on the threshold of unknown and incalculable progress and enlargement, respected of the world and what is better, respected of ourselves and ambitious to become increasingly worthy of respect in both realms of sentiment.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Hon. N. A. Belcourt has an interesting article in the July number of The Westminister upon the life work of Sir Percy Girouard, K.C.M.G., D. S.O., the Governor of Nigeria, which throws much light upon the great work done by this distinguished French-Canadian for the British Empire. The keynote of Sir Percy's career has been his pride in being a loyal French subject of the British Sovereign, and Senator Belcourt brings out this trait of his character most effectively.

Here is a "tip" to the householder, though the fire in your furnace has not long been out. Do you realize that your furnace is something like yourself—that it deteriorates more rapidly when idle than when moderately employed. Your cellar may be damp. If your furnace has not been thoroughly cleaned—if ashes are left in the heater and soot in the flues; they will hold dampness which will corrode and pit the iron surfaces of grates, firepot, and pipes, and produce deterioration. If your furnace has not been thoroughly cleaned, have it down at once and, at any rate, don't fail to light an occasional fire of wood refuse of any kind to dry out the pipes and furnace interior, and air the house—especially after a rain. It is to be hoped that this advice will be speedily rendered more timely by a good pounding, steady downpour of rain.

REV. A. B. SIMPSON IS COMING HERE

Pastor of Gospel Tabernacle Will Address Meetings in Peterborough.

Every one should plan to hear the Rev. A. B. Simpson, pastor of the Gospel Tabernacle, New York, and president of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, who is expected to speak in the Bethany Tabernacle on Friday evening of this week. Mr. Simpson is a man whom God has greatly honoured in Evangelistic, Pastoral, Publishing, and Missionary efforts, Over twenty-five years ago he was the pastor of one of the large, fashionable Presbyterian churches in New York city, but felt the need of a place where the poorer and middle classes would feel more at home than in the larger churches. He left the church, started a Gospel Mission for the neglected, and too often despised poor, multitudes of whom flocked to hear the simple Gospel messages and were saved. The present Tabernacle together with the Eighth Avenue Mission is now proclaiming the same old Gospel, and while in many places, comparatively few are being saved, yet God still saves many here.

As the work developed, a great need of men who knew the Word of God, and were filled with His Spirit, was felt continually. Mr. Simpson started a Bible class with a view to securing such workers, and soon a few earnest men and women gathered around him as helpers in teaching and prayer. There was no guaranteed support, and throughout all these years, God has honoured the prayer of feith, and poured men and money into the work, until now the large Missionary Training Institute at Nyack, New York, stands as a monument of what God does in answer to prayer. Since those days of small things, hundreds of workers have gone forth from the Training Institute, both to Home and Foreign work, and today there are about three hundred missionaries in India, Africa, China, Palestine, South America, Japan, and the Philippines. In the Training Institute there have been about two hundred and twenty-five young men and women gathering for about seven or eight months each year, and a good training is given for an efficient and fruitful Gospel ministry. At present, in Toronto, there is gathered a large company who are interested in this work, because it stands for the old Bible, and a full salvation from the guilt and power of sin, not only for a favoured few, but for all nations, and Mr. Simpson is attending this Twenty-first Annual Canadian Convention of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, and has promised to come to Peterborough for Friday evening.

Be sure to come on Friday evening.

STOMACH INDIGESTION.

Peruna Strikes at the Root of the Trouble.

MR. S. J. MASSEY.

Mr. S. J. Massey, formerly a resident of Toronto, and a well-known business man, writes from 247 Guy street, Montreal, Quebec:

"I wish to testify to the good results I have derived from the use of Peruna.

"Having been troubled for several years with catarrh of the head, I decided to give Peruna a fair trial and I can truly say I have received great benefit from its use. It evidently strikes at the very root of the trouble and good results are soon noticeable.

"I have also found Peruna a very valuable remedy for stomach trouble and indigestion.

"I have no hesitancy whatever in recommending Peruna as a reliable catarrh remedy."

There are several kinds of indigestion. The trouble may be due to sluggishness of the liver, derangements of the kidneys, enlargement of the pancreas, or it may be due to the stomach itself.

In nearly all cases of stomach derangement catarrh of the stomach is the cause. The only permanent relief is to remove the catarrh.

Peruna has become well-known the world over as a remedy in such cases.

SUFFRAGETTES FAIL IN ATTEMPT

Effort to See Asquith Ends in Wholesale Arrests.

MRS. PANKHURST JAILED

Noted Leader of Militant Suffragists Slaps Police Inspector's Face and is Promptly Seized—Fifty Thousand Watch Rioting in Which More Than a Hundred Women Are Locked Up by the Police.

London, June 30.—The thirteenth vain attempt of the militant suffragettes to obtain access to Premier Asquith by deputation resulted in exciting scenes in Parliament Square last night and the arrest of more than one hundred women.

The plan of campaign followed the lines previously employed by the suffragettes. The women's parliament assembled in Caxton Hall at 8 o'clock in the evening and sent a deputation, headed by Mrs. Pankhurst to endeavor to see the Prime Minister who had previously decided not to see the deputation.

The deputation was received by the crowd with wild cheers.

Escorted by the police the deputation arrived at the St. Stephen's entrance to Parliament were it was met by Chief Inspector Scanlebury, who handed Mrs. Pankhurst a letter from the Premier, regretting his inability to receive the deputation.

MRS. DRUMMOND.

The police tried to induce the women to disperse quietly, and then began to take the members of the deputation by the arms to lead them away.

To the surprise of the spectators, who were massed around the entrance, Mrs. Pankhurst slapped Inspector Jarvis in the face, knocking his cap in the mud. There were cries of "shame" and several of the spectators told the suffragettes' leader that she had no provocation to do such a thing.

Eventually, the entire deputation was placed under arrest.

By this time a second deputation had left Caxton Hall, accompanied by some hundreds of suffragettes and others, and an attempt was made to reach the House of Commons through the underground passage leading from Westminster Bridge.

This, too, was unsuccessful, but for two hours the whole district was in a state of uproar, the police dispersing the crowds and arresting women by the wholesale.

Altogether 112 women were arrested, including Mrs. Pankhurst, Mrs. Solomon, the Hon. Mrs. Haverfield, daughter of Lord Abinger, Miss Margesson, daughter of Lady Margesson, Miss Maud Joachim, niece of the violinist, and many other prominent women.

Probably 50,000 persons gathered at the scene. All avenues of approach were cordoned by police and ambulances were provided to deal with cases of accident. Within the cordon were a very large number of members of both Houses of Parliament, and scores of ladies in dinner wraps and men in evening dress. The Prime Minister himself drove away from the House unobserved by the crowd.

Great excitement was caused by the movements of the equestrian suffragette, Miss Vera How, who, in riding habit and bowler hat, rode backwards and forwards, carrying messages between the different deputations, and who ultimately was arrested.

The police behaved with the utmost forbearance, but the suffragettes in many cases forced them to some amount of rough handling. There was much screaming and in some cases fainting, and many women had to be taken to the hospitals in a state of collapse.

Badly Hurt In Thresher

BLOOD POISON SET IN

Healed in one place, broke out in another—Cure effected by DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Truth is often stranger than fiction and many of the cures brought about by Dr. Chase's Ointment are more like miracles than anything else.

You generally hear of this great Ointment as a cure for eczema or piles. In the case we report to-day the trouble was blood poison. You know how dreadfully dangerous this is. You know how helpless doctors are in its treatment. Read about this cure brought about by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mrs. C. Hopkins, St. George, Ont., writes: "I feel like shouting the praises of Dr. Chase's Ointment. While threshing grain my son got badly hurt. One of the men who was pitching sheaves, missed the sheaf and ran the prongs of the fork into my son's leg. He did not take much notice of it and in a day or two it got sore and very itchy and blood poison set in. We did everything for it but it would heal one place and break out at another, and kept on this way for three months.

"Finally I thought of Dr. Chase's Ointment and in a week's time we noticed a wonderful change. By the use of three boxes he was completely cured and the wounds healed up. There has not been a sign of a spot on him since.

"I might also say that my husband was cured of a very bad case of piles by the use of two boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment. It is a wonderful Ointment."

Whenever there is itching or irritation of the skin or a sore that refuses to heal you can apply Dr. Chase's Ointment with every assurance that the results will be prompt and satisfactory.

FAVORS COMPANY TAX.

Senator Aldrich Supports a Levy on Big Corporations.

Washington, June 30.—With the tariff schedule disposed of and the door locked against the present intrusion of amendments upon them, the Senate yesterday finally entered upon the consideration of the income and corporation tax questions as connected with the tariff bill.

It has for some time been whispered around the Senate corridors that Senator Aldrich has become an advocate of a tax on the earnings of corporations as the most effective means of defeating a general income tax amendment to the pending bill. Aldrich yesterday confirmed the rumors. He added another reason, which was that he thought that the next year or two there would be a deficit in the treasury receipts, which he was willing to have made good by the income that would result from the proposed corporation tax. With this service performed he thought the law could and would be materially modified if not entirely repealed.

This frank declaration was seized upon by the Democrats as a confession that the corporation tax is a mere subterfuge to destroy the income tax. Mr. Aldrich denied, however, that he had intended to characterize the corporation tax as a subterfuge and defended it as a legitimate means of raising revenue.

THE NOX TASTELESS LIQUOR, DRUG AND TOBACCO CURE.

We have yet to hear of one failure to cure where a fair trial has been given. Can be given without the person knowing it, is harmless and absolutely without taste. Mother, sister or wife, you would be doing a great work by giving this remedy to some members of your family. We will mail a full month's treatment for five dollars. Murderer's Sentence Commuted.

Kingston, June 30.—Asselin, the crippled murderer of his brother, has reached the penitentiary to serve for life, the Government having commuted the death sentence imposed upon him at Hawkesbury. His feet were frozen while he fled from his crime, and later his legs were amputated below the knees. He will likely be given artificial limbs by the Justice Department.

CURED WHEN DOCTORS FAILED

Mr. Felix Villeneuve, Clarence Creek, Ont., writes: "I was a great sufferer from kidney disease and inflammation of the bowels and liver troubels and doctors could not help me much. Could not sleep, water contained sediment, had frequent desire to urinate and often passed blood. Had dreadful headaches, one side almost paralyzed, and was deaf in left ear for eight years. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills cured me and I am very grateful. I want to thank you."

Man Was Poisoned.

Winnipeg, Man., June 30.—John Deacon, aged 40, a parks' employe, shortly after eating lunch, vomited, fell and expired. He leaves a widow and five children.

Foul play is suspected.

Murdered by Indians.

Vancouver, B.C., June 30.—To-day the body of a white man was found floating in the Skeena River. There were two bullet wounds on the body and the man's face was fearfully slashed.

According to a despatch from Clearwater, the man was a new settler, who had a quarrel with the Indians on Kitsum Kalum. The redmen have been defiant for several weeks.

Aldermen Holds His Job.

Brantford, June 30.—Because Ald. John Moffat continued to act in the dual position of chairman of the Board of Works and the paid agent of the Westrumite Paving Co., with which this city has been doing considerable business, Ald. G. A. Ward presented a resolution in council calling for Moffat's resignation. The resolution was voted down.

Brandenburg Acquitted.

New York, June 30.—Broughton Brandenburg was acquitted yesterday on the charge of grand larceny, growing out of the sale to The New York Times of an article purporting to have been signed by Grover Cleveland. He was at once arrested on a charge of kidnapping his stepson, James Sheard Cabanna, in St. Louis.

Bombs In Theatre.

Barcelona, June 30.—Bombs were exploded at midnight Monday night in two of the Barcelona theatres. One man was fatally wounded.

Roadways Sinking.

Antigonish, N.S., June 30.—The disappearance of great stretches of road from the highway is causing much alarm.

A few days ago a portion of the James road, six miles from here, sank, carrying with it a telephone pole of which no portion can be seen.

No sooner had this opening been filled up than the earth caved in again, with a long stretch of the highway which had not been disturbed before, making a hole about 100 feet long and 30 wide.

The roadbed of the Intercolonial Railway has been seriously affected by the phenomenon, the rails having settled more than a foot in several places.

Bad Fire at Streetsville.

Streetsville, June 30.—Fire last night caused damage estimated at over $30,000, the sufferers being:

Wm. Graydon, owner and part occupant frame building and shed, $2,000; A. G. Smith, photographer, $700; Wm. Taylor, saddler, $500.

R. Greig, hardware store, loss $6,000; insurance $1,500.

Robert Graydon, general store, residence and postoffice, loss $20,000, small insurance.

The fire originated in some way unknown in Smith's photo gallery, the smoke being noticed at 6.45 a.m. The volunteer firemen worked hard, but it was after 8 o'clock before the fire was under control.

Loan Is Floated.

London, June 30.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Bank of Montreal is underwriting for the issue on July 1st of £6,500,000 inscribed stock at 3 1-2 per cent., the price being 98 1-2.

The price is generally considered highly favorable to the Dominion Government, and the successful underwriting of such a large loan, the largest ever issued by any colonial Government, reflects great credit upon Hon. W. S. Fielding, and is an achievement of which the advisors of the Bank of Montreal, and in natural sequence, Canada, may well be proud.

Ex-Chief Got His.

Montreal, June 30.—At the royal commission yesterday, under the threat of jail for contempt of court, O. J. Monday, position broker to the fire department, acknowledged receiving about a thousand dollars for getting positions for men on the department.

He swore that of this amount he had given eight or nine hundred dollars to ex-Chief Benoit, including two sums of $280 and $349.

Several firemen swore to giving money to the ex-chief and to sub-Chief Marin.

Lady Aberdeen In Detroit.

Detroit, June 30.—Lady Aberdeen, wife of the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, was the guest of the city of Detroit yesterday. She arrived early in the afternoon from Toronto, where she had been attending the International Council of Women.

A yachting trip on the river occupied by a tea at the Country Club in Grosse Pointe. Lady Aberdeen held a reception in the evening in the Museum of Art, after which she will make an address on the relief of tuberculosis in Ireland.

To Extend Steel Plant.

Sydney, N.S., June 30.—Before a meeting of the executive of the Sydney Century Club, F. P. Jones, general manager of the Dominion Iron & Steel Co., said he had yesterday received authority to proceed immediately with the outlay of $2,500,000 for expansion of the plant, to involve the erection of one blast furnace, a full complement of coke oven and a merchant mill. Representatives of a large New York contracting company are now on the ground.

Cornwall Man Disappears.

Cornwall, June 30.—Joseph Sequin, Bedford street, has been missing since Sunday evening, when he left to attend church. He is 28 years of age, 5 feet 10 inches tall, has dark hair and brown eyes, and wore a hard hat and greenish checked suit. He had been ill for two years, and was worried because he was unable to work.

Reported Canadians Fatly.

London, June 30.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Canadian Illustrated is the only one of the illustrated London weeklies to produce a special supplement dealing with the Imperial Press Conference. The Chronicle was the only London paper reporting fully the speeches of the Canadian and other delegates.

Emperor William's Meteor Wan.

Kiel, June 30.—Emperor William's Meteor steered part of the time by His Majesty himself, won the 51 mile race to Eckerinfoerde yesterday, covering the distance in five hours and ten minutes. Germania was second, in five hours and 39 minutes, and Iduna, owned by the Empress, was third.

A Floating Machine Shop.

Detroit, June 30.—A floating machine shop is on the way down the river, and will be stationed at the Lime Kiln Crossing to do work for the dredges there. It is fully equipped with a steam hammer and lathes, and is expected to save much time.

Steamer and Consort Aground.

Amherstburg, June 30.—The tug Harding has gone to the rescue of the steamer Harvey B. Brown and consort Hartnell, which ran aground off Pelee Island.

OUTING OF THE LAWYERS AND DOCTORS WAS GREAT SUCCESS

Representatives of the Two Professions Fraternized Pleasantly at Gore's Landing Yesterday---Doctors Triumphed in the Baseball Feature---A Most Enjoyable Affair.

One of the most pleasant outings of the season was the excursion of the lawyers and doctors of the city to Gore's Landing, yesterday afternoon. The lawyers were the hosts of the affair, and are to be congratulated upon the delightful afternoon they arranged. In addition to the members of the two professions there was a number of invited guests representing the business and financial world and in all there were about sixty on board the steamer Water Lily, when she left the street railway wharf shortly after 2 o'clock.

The weather conditions were perfect for the outing. The day was bright, but not too hot, there being just enough rays of the sun, and as a result the sail down the winding Otonabee, which is looking at its best just now, will be long remembered. The Water Lily made good time on the passage and at 4.30 o'clock was making port at Gore's Landing.

The sail was over all too soon for most of the party, who had found the journey down the Otonabee to be all delightful.

Immediately on the arrival of the boat the excursionists hurried to the first available vacant lot for the mighty battle between the baseball nines representing the Lawyers and Doctors. After some delay in choosing the teams from the vast amount of valuable material that was lying around loose the Doctors proceeded to trim the Lawyers scientifically by the somewhat top-heavy score of 16 runs to 3. Considering that the Lawyers were the hosts of the occasion it might seem rather inhospitable conduct on the part of the Doctors, but anyway, they did it and did it right. The game was replete with brilliant features, mention of which at the length they deserve is impossible and the spectators who rooted impartial for both sides were given their money's worth in inside baseball, "as she is not played." The Lawyers had a team of veterans that looked pretty good before the game started, but the Colts, who upheld the dignity of the Sawbones were too strong for them, although the game was bitterly, strenuously and violently fought out. Only two innings were played, fortunately too, or they might be at it yet.

Mr. Peter Campbell was chosen as the Supreme Court or otherwise the umpire and gave every satisfaction in his ungrateful and thankless position which has been the death of many a man.

These were the men who upheld the honour of their respective professions:

Doctors—Dr. Brown c, Dr. Morgan 2b, Dr. Frederick rf, Dr. McCulloch p, Dr. Hammond cf, Dr. Cameron 1b, Dr. Amys lf, Dr. Eastwood 3b, Dr. Buchanan ss.

Lawyers—O. De Laplante c, O. S. Langley (Lakefield) p, G. W. Hatton 1b, H. Wood 2b, L. M. Hayes lf, W. S. Davidson rf, Mr. Bicknell (Toronto) cf, L. D. Kerr ss,p, E. A. Peck 3b.

The Lawyers opened the argument by sending Mr. de Laplante in to face the pitching of Dr. McCulloch. Mr. de Laplante was equal to the occasion and planted a neat single and immediately proceeded to pilfer the 2nd and 3rd resting spots. Mr. Kerr's beat was a little fly to Dr. McCulloch, who gobbled it up eagerly amid tremendous applause. Mr. Walter Davidson planted a one sacker in centre and Mr. de Laplante came home with the first run of the game. Things were looking rosy for the Legalites especially when Mr. O. S. Langley, of Lakefield, swatted safely. However, Mr. Bicknell, of Toronto, fouled out to Dr. Brown, who caught in fine style, and Mr. Hayes hit one to Dr. Cameron, who grabbed it neatly. The Lawyers went out into the field with a smile of satisfaction and one run to their credit.

Their satisfaction, however, was short-lived. Dr. Brown succumbed to Mr. Langley's curves, but so did Catcher de Laplante and the first batter of the Medicos reached first in safety. Dr. Morgan also missed three but was not so lucky. Dr. Frederick was given free transportation. Dr. McCulloch hoisted one into right field which was in possession of Mr. Walter Davidson and several cows. The cows made no attempt to catch the ball, but Mr. Davidson did and failed with the result that Drs. Brown and Frederick came home. Dr. Hammond walked and Dr. Cameron showed his contempt for Mr. Langley's offerings by smashing one to centre, scoring Drs. McCulloch and Hammond, and then came home himself on a passed ball. Drs. Amys and Eastwood, however, ended the agony by striking out and the Medicos had five runs on the tally sheet.

The Lawyers came into bat with the Excelsior spirit strongly stamped on their faces. Mr. E. A. Peck firmly gripped the bat, squared himself at the plate, glared fiercely at the pitcher—and struck out. Mr. Hatton strolled out, hammered the ball lustily and amid cheering sprinted around to third—only to find that it was a foul. Heart-broken with disappointment Mr. Hatton went back to the plate and returned. When Mr. Herb. Wood did all that was possible from here and a gentleman to do under the circumstances. Picking out a likely looking curve he planted the ball far into left field, where Dr. Amys was posing effectively with an artistic back ground of buttercups and wild mustard. Before the ball was restored to the field of activities, Mr. Wood was back, receiving the congratulations of the crowd. Fired by this noteworthy achievement Mr. de Laplante hit safely and Mr. Kerr followed suit sending the first named party of the first part home. When, however, Mr. Davidson hit a grounder to Mr. McCulloch and was thrown out at first, the last faint hope of the Lawyers was gone. The score was 5 to 3 against them and the Doctors still had an innings. What was worse the Physicians decided to take their turn at bat. The Lawyers made some stragetic changes in the hope of keeping down the score. Mr. Kerr went in to pitch, Mr. Langley to catch, and there were other changes made in the formidable array. What happened then is too sad to relate. The sympathetic indulgence which always distinguishes newspapers and newspapermen makes it imperative that the veil of secrecy should be drawn over the subsequent proceedings. Suffice it to say that the Doctors smote the ball lustily and often, and ran around the bases until they had worn a pathway around the field and finally when out of charity they desisted in their efforts they had added eleven runs to their score and the Lawyers were beaten 16 to 3.

After the victors and vanquished had been carried off the field adjournment was made to the Lakeview House, where Mine Host Harris had waiting a most appetising repast, to which the excursionists, their appetites whetted by the lake breezes, did ample justice. The service and menu were all that could be desired. Shortly before 8 o'clock the Water Lily steamed out from Gore's Landing, on the homeward trip. Delightful as had been the sail down the river, the return journey was even more enjoyable. Silvery moonlight steamed down upon the river, making a fairy picture, from which the excursionists were loth to take their eyes. A number of well-known entertainers were on board and the time passed very pleasantly with songs by Messrs. John King, W. McIlroy, J. E. Firth and others, and choruses, in which every one joined heartily, until at 10.05 the Street Railway wharf was reached.

The outing was in every way a great success. The number of guests was just about the right size and they were genial and sociable, and the result was a most enjoyable holiday. The lawyers are to be congratulated upon the success of their excursion.

CANADA'S FORTY-SECOND BIRTHDAY TO-MORROW

If there is one day more than another in the whole year when Canada ought to give herself up to rejoicing, surely it is on Dominion Day, when all the country gets a holiday in celebration of the Confederation of the Provinces. It is not so very long ago since Confederation was achieved in Canada—only forty-two years—yet we have travelled a long way in that time. A new generation has arisen who know nothing about the troublous times that preceded Confederation except what they may have read in dry text-books. Yet side by side with this new generation, we have men steadfastly doing their share towards working out the destiny of the country who can not only vividly remember pre-Confederation times, but who took an active part either in bringing about that Confederation or in trying to hinder it. It is true that of what were known as the "Fathers of Confederation" only two are now living—Sir Charles Tupper and Senator Macdonald—but many who participated in the struggle are still doing active work in the country.

It was a truism that Sir Wilfrid Laurier uttered at the beginning of his last campaign, when he paid a tribute to the "Fathers of Confederation," and said that they builded better than they knew. There never was in the history of the world a form of Government which was attended with such great success as has attended the Canadian Confederation. It has built up a unique democracy, living in peace and prosperity under a constitution which is a curious admixture of British principles and practice with American political methods and party ideals. It is a constitution that is, in fact, more British than the British, more American than the American, for as has somewhere been very tersely said, Canada is a federal monarchy in form and a crown republic in fact.

It is too long a story here to tell of the conditions and vicissitudes through which the country passed on its way to Confederation—how it was administered first by one form of government and then by another; now by autocratic governors, now by the military, now by a combination of governor with Executive and Legislative Councils, and at other times by unknown clerks in the Government offices in London.

But all through those troublous times the country had been slowly moving towards Confederation. As far back as 1814 Chief Justice Sewell, of Quebec, wrote to His Royal Highness the Duke of Kent, proposing the federal union of British North America, and similar suggestions were made from time to time by others. The Earl of Durham added emphasis to the movement in 1839, after the Rebellion, when in an extremely able report to the Queen on the condition of the British North American Colonies, he advocated in a most emphatic manner the advantage and necessity of a union of those colonies under one government. In fact, in his report he outlined a scheme of union very similar to the one actually adopted at the Quebec Conference in 1864.

But there was to be much stress and struggle before such a union was brought about. There were racial and religious conflicts between the representatives of Upper and Lower Canada; cabinets rose and fell, parties were split into fragments, coalitions were formed and broken, and then deadlock reigned supreme. At this critical time the Reciprocity Treaty was abrogated by America, and then, with the ominous threat of American annexation looming over the country, the faction-torn people became united for common defence, and thus, largely through outside pressure, Confederation was at length made possible.

"In a sense," says Mr. Castell Hopkins, in a lengthy review of the subject, "deadlock was the parent of Confederation in the Canadas, where the strife between parties had reached a stage in which the separtion of the provinces seemed the only means of placating troubles arising out of intense racial and religious feeling. Yet, disruption of the union meant increased weakness of organization, policy, and influence at a moment when the United States' hostility was being actively expressed in the abrogation of the Reciprocity Treaty; tacitly shown in the toleration of the Fenian Raids; and pleasantly pictured forth as to possibilities by the evolution of a million soldiers from the recent Civil War. So it was that external pressure largely helped to avert internal disintegration and to bring about closer Provincial Union. And the kindly help, advice, and co-operation of the Mother Country must not be forgotten. In the Maritime Provinces the practical application of the principle first arose in the form of a proposed local union, and here the name of Sir Charles Tupper stands out foremost among the Fathers of Confederation, and second only upon the Canadian canvas of historic fame to that of Sir John A. Macdonald."

The first great congress of the "Fathers of Confederation" was the historic meeting of delegates at Quebec on October 10, 1864, when representatives from all the Provinces of British America, including Newfoundland, were present. At this conference 72 resolutions, practically constituting the British North America Act of 1867, were passed. The spirit of these resolutions is shown in the following extract of a despatch from the Hon. Mr. Cardwell, Secretary of State for the Colonies, to Lord Monck;

"Animated by the warmest sentiment of loyalty and devotion to their sovereign; earnestly desirous to secure for their posterity throughout all future time the advantges which they enjoy as subjects of the British Crown; steadfastly attached to the institutions under which they live; they have conducted their deliberations with patient sagacity and have arrived at unanimous conclusions on questions involving many difficulties, and calculated under less favourable auspices to have given rise to many differences of opinion."

These resolutions were carried to the country, and discussed at innumerable gatherings for two years. Then, on December 4, 1866, the delegates from Canada, New Brunswick, and Nova Scotia met at the Westminister Palace Hotel, in London, with the late Sir John A. Macdonald as their chairman. At that meeting the Confederation Bill was agreed upon, the Colonial Office assisting in drawing it up. The Bill was submitted to the Imperial Parliament on February 12, 1867, and, being warmly supported by the leading statesmen of all parties, was passed without amendment, receiving the Royal assent on March 29, 1867. The Act came into force on July 1, 1867, the anniversary of which is now celebrated in Canada as Dominion Day.

At first, it is true, the Confederation only embraced the four provinces of Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, but the Act made provided for the admission of other portions of the country, and subsequently Rupert's Land and the Northwest Territories were acquired by an arrangement with the Hudson's Bay Company and the Imperial Government. Out of them have sprung the wonderful provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan. Manitoba was admitted in 1870, British Columbia in 1871, and Prince Edward Island in 1873.

There is no doubt that the experience of the neighbouring Republic had much to do with the framing of some of the more important provisions of the Confederation Act. Thus the disadvantages from which the United States had suffered through a constitution which necessarily made the executive head of that country the head of a party was avoided in the Canadian Confederation by having the constitution moulded upon the British principle which makes the representative of the Sovereign the executive head of the country, occupying in Canada the same position that the King does in England as an impartial executive head receiving the undivided support of men of all parties. Then the terrible Civil War in the United States warned the fathers of Confederation against the danger of a union based on the principle of forming a central government out of powers yielded by Sovereign States which retained all the powers not specifically given up to the central government. In the Canadian constitution specific powers were given to the various provinces to deal with local affairs, and all matters of national concern were assigned to the central Government, everything not specifically given to the provinces being under the control of the central authority.

Another outstanding advantage that the Canadian constitution gives—and one for which the country is indebted far more than is generally realised—is the right of appeal, on all questions arising between local and general governments to an independent and impartial authority, the Judicial Committee of the Imperial Privy Council.

That the most sanguine expectations of the most sanguine supporters of Confederation have been more than realised is admitted by all. Confederation made possible the building of transcontinental railways, which, in their turn, bind the provinces together in ties of friendship and of commerce that have made for the unbounded progress and prosperity of the country. Before Confederation the credit of the country was in a deplorable condition. Canadian six per cent. securities were below 75, but now the Dominion credit, among the nations of the world, is second only to that of Great Britain itself, while Canada ranks third among the commercial nations of the globe. From the insignificant proportions before Confederation the trade of Canada has now grown to $650,793,131 annually, the imports being $370,786,525, and the exports $280,006,606. Canada's trade is just over $100 a head, as compred with Belgium's $115, Great Britain's $118, the United States' $35, Germany's $60, and France's $58. In the forty odd years since Confederation Canada's trade has totalled over ten billions, and in the last 15 years it has increased 163 per cent., as compared with 90 per cent. in the United States in the same period.

Well may Canada congratulate herself to-day upon the results of the undisturbed reign of peace within her borders, from her natal day down to this her forty-second birthday, and well may she look forward with hope and confiednce to the future under a constiution which is one for the envy as it is the model for the whole world.—Canadian Pictorial.

MARVELLOUS HEALING POWERS

The most severe test to which a healing ointment is ever put is the cure of eczema. So successful has Dr. Chase's Ointment proven in the cure of torturing itching eczema that many people refer to its effects as magical and marvellous. After the first few applications it positively stops the dreadful itching and then gradually and naturally heals up the sores.

3rd DRAGOONS WERE INSPECTED YESTERDAY AT NASSAU CAMP MADE A GRAND SHOWING

Nassau, June 30.—The inspection of the 3rd Prince of Wales, Canadian Dragoons took place here yesterday afternoon, the Inspecting Officer being Lieut.-Col. Williams, B.A.S.; A. D. C., Inspector of Cavalry. Lieut. Col. Williams arrived in Peterborough yesterday on the noon train from Toronto, and was met by Lieut.-Col. Syer, Commanding Officer of the 3rd Dragoons, and Major W. T. Hall of the Corps Reserve, and driven to the camp grounds.

Col. Williams first inspected the camp grounds and arms of the regiment, and subsequently inspected the regiment, when being put through squadron and regimental drill. Of course, the Inspecting Officer never addresses his remarks to the public, but from an inside source it is learned that Lt.-Col. Williams remarked that the regiment had improved seventy-five per cent. over last year's standing, and that it was head and shoulders above any other cavalry regiment he had so far inspected this year. He commended Lt.-Col. Syer for the splendid appearance of his regiment and the excellent manoeuvring the regiment performed during the afternoon.

The public of Peterborough apparently were not aware of the fact that the 3rd Dragoons were to be inspected yesterday afternoon, and consequently not a great number of people were present. A few townspeople, including a fair representation of ladies, were on hand, and were delighted with the exhibition of cavalry manoeuvring that was given. The high hill to the west of the camp grounds afforded a splendid point of vantage, and the red-coated soldiers on the flat below, with the river still further on, presented a most picturesque appearance. All the spectators spoke enthusiastically of the grand appearance made by the 3rd Dragoons.

Perhaps no officer is more popular with his men than Major Thos. Johnston, the officer commanding C (Peterborough) squadron. C squadron is drawn from the Townships of Otonabee and Douro, and is made up of a fine lot of young men. Major Johnston is known to them all, not during camp season, but during the entire year. He has as his Lieutenants, two popular officers, Lieut. Cleghorn and Lieut. Anderson.

Some one got busy with the whitewash br[illegible] and brightened things up a little. Large stones were placed like posts in front of some of the tents and when these stones were whitened they were an added attraction. They are just the thing for late comers to find the way into the tent in the darkness.

A feature which has existed ever since the camp was opened, but has not been mentioned, is the store. Here, many kinds of soft drinks, confectionery, fruit, ice cream, etc., can be secured at reasonable prices. Mr. Coleman, who is the caterer to the officers' mess, also conducts the store, and this part of the city accommodation is much appreciated by the men.

Notes.

The adjourned annual regimental meeting of the 3rd Dragoons will be held to-night.

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM AMENDED.

By J. W. GARVIN.

God save our gracious king,
Long live our noble king,
God save the king!
Send him victorious,
Happy and glorious,
Long to reign over us,
God save the king!

57th OFFICERS ENTERTAINED BY BROTHERS IN ARMS

Were Guests of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons at the Nassau Camp Last Evening.

MOST ENJOYABLE EVENT

The bond of good feeling that has always existed between the officers of the 3rd Dragoons and the 57th Regiment, was made still stronger last night, when the officers of the last mentioned regiment were the guests of the officers of the 3rd Dragoons, at the Nassau Camp grounds. The affair proved to be a grand success, and was, perhaps, the jolliest affair ever given by the 3rd Dragoons.

The officers of the 57th arrived at the camp grounds at about 8.30 o'clock, and were received by Lt.-Col. Syer, and his officers of the 3rd Dragoons. Lt.-Col. Arthur Stevenson, Commanding Officer of the 57th, was unable to be present, but Lt.-Col. Miller, the former Commanding Officer of the Regiment, and Major Clegg, second in command, were amongst those who were present.

The mess tent of the 3rd Dragons was prettily decorated, and the tables were artistically arranged. The chair was occupied by Lt.-Col. Geo. H. Syer, Officer Commanding the 3rd Dragoons, while the Vice chair was occupied by Capt. E. S. Clarry, Paymaster.

Amongst those who were present were: Lt.-Col. Miller, Major E. B. Clegg, Major J. C. Davidson, Chaplain; Captains J. Mills, W. Harold Cluxton, R. P. Watt, A. P. McLean, R. T. Hounsell, and Lieutenants G. K. Rackham, A. G. Carruthers, K. Lech, Manson Comstock, W. H. G. Higgins, of the 57th Regiment, and Majors P. A. Davie, T. J. Johnston, A. E. McLaughlin, Wm. McCullough, W. T. Hall; Captains E. A. Langfeldt, Chaplain; W. H. Smith, Quartermaster; T. Douglas, Medical Officer; R. B. Poole, Veterinary Officer; S. T. Medd, Acting Adjutant; W. H. Dudley, Lieutenants; S. W. Anderson, R. Cleghorn, A. W. Medd, W. C. Edmison and Boyce, of the 3rd Dragoons.

The toast to the King was enthusiastically honoured, after which the programme was of an informal but entertaining nature. Songs were rendered by Lieut. Edmison, Capt. Cluxton, Capt. Poole, Major Davidson, and Lieut.-Col. Miller.

Lt.-Col. Syer, in a few brief words, proposed the health of the 57th Regiment, which was drunk with cheers that might have heard at Lakefield. Major Clegg, on behalf of the 57th, replied in fitting terms.

The toast of the Chaplains brought forth splendid speeches. When the name of Capt. Langfeldt, Chaplain of the 3rd Dragoons, was mentioned, the officers of the 3rd Dragoons showed their love for him by rising and singing "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and giving three cheers and half a dozen tigers.

Capt. Langfeldt replied in a splendid speech, speaking in the kindest possible terms of the Chaplain of the 57th, and the interest Major Davidson had always taken in the militia. Lieut.-Col. Syer was obliged to cover his face, he being too modest to stand the lovely things said about him by the Chaplain. Capt. Langfeldt spoke very kindly of Lieut.-Col. Miller, whom we could respect and honour as a citizen and a soldier.

The health of Capt. Smtih, Quartermaster of the 3rd Dragoons, was warmly received and ably responded to.

Capt. Clarry proposed the health of Lieut.-Col. Miller, who, in reply, made a rousing patriotic address.

The affair concluded shortly after 11 o'clock, and the officers of the 57th departed in the moonlight, while cheer after cheer, from the 3rd Dragoons, re-echoed along the banks of the historic Otonabee.

ST. ANDREW'S SUNDAY SCHOOL EXCURSION

Was Held Yesterday at Rice Lake and Proved a Delightful Outing.

The annual picnic of the St. Andrew's Sunday School was held yesterday per steamer Otonabee to Rice Lake and was a most successful and enjoyable affair. The weather was all that could be desired and the sail down the Otonabee and around the lake was greatly enjoyed. The steamer left at 8:30 o'clock and arrived at Gore's Landing at noon. Here dinner was partaken of and a pleasant hour spent, after which the excursionists were taken to Harwood, where the following sports were conducted under the direction of Messrs Stewart Laing and Wm. Langford, Jr., who made a most efficient committee:

Kindergarten Boys—1st Hubert Martin, 2nd S. Thorndyke.

Junior Boys—1st S. Henry, 2nd Jack Green.

Junior Girls—1st Rea Potter, 2nd Aileen Wade.

Intermediate Boys—1st W. Evans, 2nd V. Thorndyke.

Intermediate Girls—1st Margaret Eaton, 2nd Mary Potter.

Senior Wheelbarrow Race—E. Curry and Norman Rae.

Junior Wheelbarrow Race — W. Evans and N. Conover.

Three-Legged Race—1st Walter Perks and G. Rankin, 2nd N. Rae and E. Currie.

Threading the Needle—1st Rea Potter, 2nd Gladys Patterson.

High Step and Jump—1st Norman Rae, 2nd G. Rankin.

Kindergarten (Consolation Race)—1st A. Hill, 2nd Edna Martin, 3rd Clarence McKee, 4th Homer Borland.

Capt White and his crew on the "Otonabee" did everything in their power to give the excursionists a good time. Peterborough was reached on the homeward trip at eight o'clock.

PRESENTATION TO TEACHER

Miss Coon Was Honoured by Her Pupils at the Close of the Term.

At the closing of "May's" School, No. 2 North Monaghan on Monday, Miss Marion Coon, teacher in the junior room, who is retiring with a view to pursuing the Normal Course, was made the recipient of an address of appreciation from her pupils, accompanied by a set of gold waist pins, and a beautiful butter dish and trowel made of silver and Crown-Derby ware.

The following is the address, to which Miss Coon suitably replied, regretting her severance from her devoted pupils:

Dear Miss Coon:

It is with deep regret that we hear of your departure from our school; and we desire to express to you our sincere appreciation of your faithful services as our teacher.

We shall always look back with pleasure as well as profit to the time spent under your teaching, and we ask you to accept this little gift as a slight token of our esteem for you, hoping it may ever be a pleasant reminder of the days spent with us in S. S. No. 2, North Monaghan.

Signed on behalf of the school,

EVA LAWLESS,
HERBERT TRAUTER.

The address was read by Winnifred Cooper. The presentation being made by Clara Robinson and James Houston.

Ferrovim is the pleasing name of the best preparation of Beef, Iron and Wine ever placed on the market. If you or any of your friends are anemic, generally run-down, pallid, easily exhausted, try one bottle of Ferrovim and you will be satisfied by the result. $1.00 at druggists.

A BITTER DUEL TO THE DEATH

Constable Decker and Train Bandit Die in B.C.

SECOND MAN IS IN HIDING

Survivor of Pair Pursued by Constabulary Flees to Red Gulch With Police in Full Cry and Armed to the Teeth—Is Now in Mine Workings — The Dead Men Fired Simultaneously.

Ashcroft, B.C., June 29.—One of the bandits who a week ago held up the C.P.R. train near Kamloops, was shot and killed Monday night by a policeman, Ike Decker, who, in turn was murdered by another of the bandits.

The shooting occurred at Ashcroft, Decker having [illegible] two men in a boat to land. [illegible] so, remarking, "We're here, now arrest us." Decker and one bandit fired almost together, the latter being killed. Bandit No. 2 at once emptied a shotgun into Decker's head.

The remaining bandit fled, but was tracked to Red Gulch, six miles east of Ashcroft, where he is now hiding in a mining tunnel. The dead robber was identified as a man who ordered the C.P.R. engineer to stop his train at Ducks over a week ago and burst the express car open under the mistaken idea that it was loaded with silver bullion.

Decker had been advised that three men, belonging to the Ducks hold-up gang, had passed Pennys station, going down the river in a rowboat. When the boat reached Ashcroft there were only two men aboard. Covering them with his rifle Decker ordered them to pull into shore, and the bandits obeyed. As the bow grated on the sand, the foremost man stepped ashore carrying a light overcoat. Suddenly he drew a revolver from under his coat and fired. The constable's Winchester rang out at the same instant, and both men fell. The remaining robber, leaping over the prostrate bodies, dashed away. Villagers along the river witnessed the occurrence, but were unable to avert the tragedy.

The country was aroused at once, and posses set out from Ashcroft, Savonac and Kamloops. Detective Draper of Spokane went along in charge of bloodhounds, and sent back, yesterday morning, from Red Gulch to Ashcroft for assistance. The murdered constable was well-known in Ashcroft, where he had been a resident for twenty years. He was married and leaves a family.

Mr. Busteed, general superintendent of the western lines division of the C.P.R., said yesterday that he was not prepared to state why Decker had attempted to effect the capture single-handed, probably he had thought to earn the entire reward himself. A bag of dynamite was found in the boat.

Question to Fournier.

Montreal, June 30.—A monster demonstration is being arranged in honor of Jules Fournier, editor of Le Nationaliste, who was imprisoned at Quebec for contempt of court. Fournier passed through Montreal yesterday released on habeas corpus, on the way to Cotes des Lac, where he lives. He will return to-day and will be received by monster delegations at the station and conducted to St. James Marget, where Bourassa, Lavergne and several others will speak at an open air meeting.

Prominent Montreal Man Killed.

Montreal, June 30.—W. C. McIntyre of the wholesale dry goods firm, director of the Molsons Bank and of the Windsor Hotel, was killed while driving into the city, accompanied by W. S. Weldon, manager of the Windsor, and Percy Cowans, stock broker. The automobile ran into a telegraph pole and McIntyre, who was sitting on the front seat, was thrown forward on his head, dying almost instantly. Cowans had two ribs broken, while Weldon escaped with a few scratches.

Serious Freight Accident.

North Bay, June 30.—Yesterday afternoon, 56 miles west of North Bay, a fast C.P.R. freight east bound left the rails and piled up at the bottom of a ten-foot embankment.

Five hundred yards of track are torn up and twenty-five cars loaded with nickel, malt, butter, meat and miscellaneous freight were piled up, five cars being completely destroyed.

Train hands escaped without injury. Two eastbound express trains are stalled.

NO WOMAN

CAN BE STRONG AND HEALTHY UNLESS THE KIDNEYS ARE WELL.

When the kidneys are ill, the whole body is ill, for the poisons which the kidneys ought to filter out of the blood are left in the system. Then how important it must be to see to it that this system of sewerage be not clogged up. Those who have never been troubled with kidney trouble know not the misery and suffering which those afflicted undergo.

Doan's Kidney Pills are a specific for all kidney troubles. They begin by healing the delicate membranes of the kidneys and thus make their action regular and natural.

They help the kidneys to flush off the acrid and poisonous impurities which have collected, thus clearing out the kidneys, bladder and all the urinary passages.

Doan's Kidney Pills are entirely vegetable, and may be safely taken by young and old.

Let Doan's Kidney Pills do for you what they have done for thousands of others, that is, cure you.

Mrs. M. Bryanton, Spring Valley, P.E.I., writes: "I was troubled with my kidneys for two years. They were so bad at times I could not cross the floor for the pain. I tried a doctor but he did me no good at all. I sent to my nearest druggist and got 7 boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, and I am glad to say that after taking them I have had no more trouble for nearly three years now."

Price 50 cts. per box, or 3 for $1.25, all dealers or The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SHE WANTS FREE LEGAL ADVICE

German Delegate to Woman's Congress Enter Plea.

CONFERENCE ALMOST OVER

Great Gathering of Women at Toronto Will Conclude To-night With a Big Reception to Visitors—Frau Stritt Presides In Absence of Lady Aberdeen — Lady Edgar Makes Farewell Speech.

Toronto, June 30.—"When the lights go down to-night in this beautiful hall, they will not be lighted again under similar conditions till five years hence in the Eternal City."

So Lady Edgar feelingly referred to the last night meeting of the present International Women's Congress last night in convocation hall. The congress will continue its [illegible] during the day, and to-[illegible] a swell reception will be held in the Parliament buildings.

"The last time is one for solemn thoughts," Lady Edgar said. Rev. Canon Cody, [illegible] last Sunday, she remembered the audience, described it as "a congress of organized sympathy."

"Will [illegible] it as this," she pleaded.

Frau Stritt, the German leader, presided in the absence of Lady Aberdeen.

One of the speakers was Fraulein Ida Kirch of Germany, who told how legal aid was furnished to the poor by the trades union organizations. Protestant legal aid, Roman Catholic legal aid, legal aid societies for women by women, public welfare societies, political organization and municipal legal aid societies. In 1907 one million cases were dealt with by these societies. From the first the women took part in the work.

"In our work we hold it essential that a woman should stand face to face with a woman as she can enter into her case as a man cannot do," said the speaker. In marriage contracts, and guardianships of poor children, much useful advice was given, and male barristers and judges gave much assistance.

She therefore made a warm appeal to the women of Canada and the United States for the establishment of municipal legal aid offices under the direction of men and women lawyers.

D.D. for Rev. W. C. White.

Toronto, June 30.—The corporation of Trinity College will confer the degree of doctor of divinity, honoris causa, on Rev. William C. White, who has been chosen by the Church of England in Canada to be the first bishop of the new Canadian missionary jurisdiction in the Province of Honan, China. The degree will probably be conferred in September or October next, shortly before the bishop leaves for China to assume his new responsibility there.

Want Canadians Stirred Up.

London, June 30.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Hon. Josiah Thomas, formerly Postmaster-General of Australia, writes to Henniker Heaton: "Can you do something to stir up Canadians to provide for state-owned telegraph lines across Canada? Unsatisfactory working by privately owned lines is interfering very seriously with the Pacific cable.

Nurses Graduate.

Brockville, June 30.—Graduates received their diplomas at the graduating exercises of the General Hospital Training School for Nurses last night, viz., Luella B. Cole, Maude G. Arnold, Bertha Wright, Nellie E. Young, Brockville; Muriel Elliott, Wiltstead; Carrie D. Shaver, Farran's Point; Mabel Moore, Seeley's Bay.

Courts Don't Favor M.P.

Fredericton, N.B., June 30.—A. E. Hanson has won his appeal to the County Court against a jail sentence of one month for striking O. S. Crockett, M.P. A fine of $20 and $55 costs is substituted, the court ruling that members of Parliament are not entitled to any more consideration in courts than private citizens.

Drydocks for Dreadnought.

Sydney, Australia, June 30.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—A proposal which finds cordial acceptance in Federal circles is that Australia, Canada and South Africa should each construct a dry dock capable of accommodating a Dreadnought.

Should Have Had Col. Cody.

Ottawa, June 30.—A Montana despatch, stating that because of inability to round-up about one-half of the Buffalo herd purchased by the Dominion Government, it had been decided to make a gift of the uncaptured bison to the U. S. Government, is incorrect. The Canadian Government contracted to pay for only those buffalo that were delivered on the train.

Haven't Jumped at the Chance.

London, June 30.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Owing to the absence of organization, little so far has been done here in connection with offer of free space to exhibitors by Toronto Exhibition. No action has been taken by the London Chamber of Commerce and nothing has been done at Strathcona's office.

More Daylight for Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, June 30.—The "more daylight" movement received a formal "boost" yesterday in this city, where it originated. An ordinance to advance the hands of the clock an hour was introduced in the City Council, to be effective Jan. 1, 1910.

Sold Brandy Chocolates.

Ottawa, June 30.—In the Police Court William Nixon, confectioner, was fined $100 and costs or six months in jail for selling brandy chocolates.

Girouard is Governor.

London, June 30.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Col. Sir Percy Girouard has been appointed governor of the East African protectorate. He is a Canadian.

Healthful Warmth in Office and Home

You'll do better work during the day and enjoy yourself more in the evenings if your office and home are heated by hot water systems operated by Daisy Boilers and King Radiators. You'll breathe pure, healthful air and be free from draughts and cold floors.

Daisy Hot Water Boiler & King Radiators

The life is burned out of the air in the building heated by a hot air furnace. You can find proof of this in the fact that the wood-work in such building is warped and cracked—the air doesn't contain the necessary quantity of healthful moisture.

You cannot expect to keep your health living in such an atmosphere. Colds, influenza and sore throat are the natural result.

The Hot Water System as operated by Daisy Boilers and King Radiators provide an abundant supply of pure, freshly warmed air, to all parts of the house, no matter what the weather is like outside.

The Daisy Boiler is easy to control, keeping the building at any desired comfortable degree of warmth all the time. It saves fuel because the water absorbs practically all the heat produced; there is none wasted.

King Radiators are truly artistic in design. They are so constructed that they give the greatest possible radiating surface and therefore a much smaller size may be used where it required a large one of the old style.

Each King Radiator is thoroughly tested before it leaves our factory, and is guaranteed to be non-leakable.

This modern heating system is not only for the home that is just being built. It can just as easily be installed in an old house with little or no inconvenience to the occupants.

Putting a Daisy Hot Water Boiler and King Radiators into your home adds to its comfort and healthfulness while you live in it, and also adds to the price you'll get when you want to sell it.

Write to-day for our booklet "Comfortable Homes"; we'll send a copy by return mail.

Typewriter Works Close Down.

Utica, N.Y., June 30.—Notice was posted in the Remington Typewriter Works at Ilion yesterday that commencing with July 1 the establishment would be closed until further notice, owing to a strike trouble. The typewriter works employ 2,100 people, mostly men, and the weekly payroll is about $30,000.

Crops Growing in Alberta.

Calgary, June 30.—From all sections of Southern Alberta exceptionally optimistic crop reports are received. In places where wheat was only 12 to 20 inches high last week, it is now 20 to 40 inches, the average height of grain in some districts being reported at 36 inches.

Boy's Close Call.

Brantford, June 30.—Walter Hunt, aged 14, was rescued from drowning in the Grand River by Alec McRobb. His body had been in the water for ten minutes before recovered and the life-saving crew of the fire department worked over him for an hour.

Lame Back Cured

Just rub the painful spot with Nerviline; not much rubbing, because Nerviline is made to penetrate. You'll not suffer long after Nerviline is applied, for it acts like lightning, swift and sure. Nerviline is good for everything a liniment ought to be good for—wherever there is pain. Apply Nerviline and the pain disappears.

No remedy so thoroughly cures lame back, stiff joints, sore muscles, lumbago, and cold in the chest as

Nerviline

The farmer, the mechanic, the man who works at hard labor, is subject to the baneful influence of dampness, fog, and inclement weather. It's hard for him to escape pain. What he needs at home is a bottle of Nerviline, which gives instant ease to every kind of pain.

Nerviline is about four times as strong as the ordinary liniment. It gets right at the core of pain and cures it as no other remedy can. So strong and concentrated is Nerviline that one application is always as good as six ordinary rubbings with other liniments. Try a large 25c bottle. Sold everywhere.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

A HEAVY LIST OF ENTRIES FOR BELLEVILLE RACES TO-MORROW

The Toronto Star says:

Now that Tommy Longboat has walloped Alfred Shrubb at 20 miles, the big thing on the "pro" athletic horizon is the Belleville "pro" Marathon on Dominion Day.

Reports from the Bay of Quinte city indicate a record crowd for the big race, and from here it looks like some race.

With Fred Meadows and Percy Sellen out of the way, it looks like a race between Abbie C. Wood, the Montreal crack, Hans Holmer, if he comes up from Quebec, Tom Coley, of Thorold, Red Hawk, the Midland Indian, Fred Simpson, the Ojibway Marathoner, and Charlie Petch, of Toronto. There will be half a dozen others in the running, but from this distance Wood should be the favourite. He is running in grand form these days, and should beat the field even if Cibot and Orphee, the Frenchmen, do come up from the east. Pat Dineen, the Boston veteran, and several of the Yankee gallopers are possible starters, but all P. J. Jennings, the promoter of the affair, wants is eight men, including Wood, Holmer, the two Indians, Petch, Coley, and he will have a grand race.

Charlie Petch is running fast at 15 miles. If he can go the rest of the way he will get a piece of the money. Coley is rounding to rapidly, and with Holmer out of the way should be the contender, and a close one at that, because he is as strong as a horse, and good in hot weather.

Tom Eck has Red Hawk in grand shape now, and the Mississauga looks better than the Ojibway, although at that Simpson is always around when the money is being split up after the race.

There are half a dozen Toronto and Hamilton unknowns training, too, who may possibly cause a surprise, but from here experts call the race—Woods, Holmer, Coley, and Petch, with Red Hawk the disturbing factor.

Tom Longboat wanted to start in it, but Manager Sol Mintz said "No," and the Onondaga will be starter of the race.

THE TEAMS ARE ALL IN GOOD SHAPE FOR SATURDAY'S GAMES

All our teams in the Senior City League are in the best of shape for the important games this Saturday at Riverside Park, and the fans will undoubtedly see the best ball of the season. With this almost a certainty there is no reason why there should not be a record-breaking crowd present The League is handing out a good article and should be more generously patronized than it has been so far this season.

The Strathconas and Park St. teams clash in the first game at two o'clock and there is much speculation over the result. The improvement shown by the Straths last week has boosted their stock considerably, but then outside of one innings the Baptists played fine ball against the T.A.S., so that on last Saturday's form the teams look to be very evenly matched.

The second game with the T.A.S. and West Ends facing each other, brings together the two leading teams of the League and, therefore, should be hard fought and interesting all the way. Manager Oldham is confident that his team will make the Abstainers play fastef ball than they have yet shown to beat the Westerners. On the other hand the T.A.S. state that they have never been forced to extend themselves yet, but that they will Saturday, and are prepared to dish out any kind of ball that may be needed to win out.

To Suffer From Headaches Makes Life Miserable.

It takes a person that has had or is subject to headaches to describe the suffering which attends them.

The majority of cases are caused by constipation and dyspepsia. The dull throbbings, the intense pain, sometimes in one part, sometimes in another, and then over the whole head, varying in its severity by the cause which brings it on, purely indicates that there is something the matter with the stomach or bowels. To the fact that Burdock Blood Bitters reaches every part of the system is due its success in relieving and permanently curing headache. It has proven a specific for the malady in all its forms.

CONSTIPATION AND HEADACHES.

Mrs. Allison E. Brown, Somerfield, N.B., writes:—"I have been troubled with Constipation and Headaches for a long time. After trying different doctors to no effect, a friend asked me to try Burdock Blood Bitters. I find I am completely cured after taking three bottles I can easily recommend it to all."

SOME PITCHING

Valentia Twirler Strikes Out Twenty-one Batters in One Game.

Lindsay, June 29.—Dick Gray, the star twirler of the Valentia ball club, struck out twenty-one Little Britain swatters Monday evening on their own lot in a Mariposa League game, and the result was that Manager Ferguson's bunch were defeated by 14 to 3. Gray had the entire Britain bunch at his mercy after the first innings and he struck them out at will, innings after innings only three men facing him. Can you imagine a pitcher "fanning" twenty-one men in nine innings? The team behind him had nothing to do, and they had only six putouts to their credit. Pitcher Gray's record is truly a marvelous one and will stand for some time as a strike-out record, and the twirler who equals it will know that he has been pitching ball.

LOCAL BASEBALL

A very interesting game of baseball was played last evening in the second game of the Roadside League between the Pirates and the Cubs. It was a well fought battle throughout, both pitchers adding a lengty list of strike-outs to their credit. Up until the ninth innings the Cubs were leading by 1 to 0, and when the Pirates came in for their last innings Hatrick, the Pirate pitcher, drove out a home run, bringing in two runs, thus winning the game.

Batteries—Pirates, W. Hatrick and C. Feeny; cubs, N. Phaelan and J. Mahar.

CRICKET

The third test match of the present cricket season, to be played in England next week, will be unusually interesting. In the present tour honours are even ,England having won the first test match at Birmingham by ten wickets, and the Australians the second at Lord's by nine wickets. There are three more yet to play in the present series. So far England has won 35 test matches as against Australia's 33 and 15 have been drawn so that the end of the present Australian tour ought to make an interesting situation.

TENNIS.

The results of the tennis singles, in the first round of the city championship, are as follows:

ORRINE CURES LIQUOR HABIT

CURE EFFECTED OR MONEY REFUNDED

The medical profession has long since recognized the fallacy of attempting to cure drunkenness by moral suasion. The victims can no more resist alcoholic stimulants than a man with ague can stop shivering. The "Drink Habit" is a disease and must be treated as such. ORRINE is a medicine highly endorsed, and has been uniformly successful in the cure of the "Drink Habit."

The following legend taken from an enterprising Seedsman's Catalogue is not without a bearing on Fire Insurance:—

"Two years ago an Ontario Market Gardener saved four cents on the cost of half a pound of Cabbage Seed. In the fall he admitted that he was over $100 to the bad on the crop because the bargain seed had lacked vitality. Thirty-two cents saved—one hundred dollars lost. WAS IT WORTH WHILE?

Dr. Frederick and Mr. J. F. Linton motored to Camubelliford this afternoon to spend the holiday.

Mrs. W. T. Crane, Sophia street, Ashburnham, left this morning to visit friends in Campbellford.

Miss B. Jean Higgins is in Hanover attending the funeral of her friend, Miss A. Wright, who was drowned Tuesday evening.

Mrs. C. Manns, of St. Thomas, Mrs. S. Kemp, of Peterborough, the guests of Mrs. H. P. Lindsay, were at her cottage "Britannia," Stony Lake.

Miss Browett is attending the Dominion Conference of Young Women's Christian Associations, held at the Elgin House, Lake Joseph, Muskoka.

Mr. Dickson Hall leaves to-night for Montreal from where he sails on Friday for an extended tour of the continent. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Hall.

Mr. A. H. Dutton, druggist, of Boston, Mass., and his daughter, who have been visiting Mr. Dutton's sister, Mrs. Browett of this city, returned home this morning.

Mrs. W. B. Kelly and Miss Beatrice Kelly, of Bridgenorth, and Mrs. T. T. Milburn, of Smith, left yesterday for Toronto, and to-day they will start on a two-months'- trip visiting their many friends in the Canadian Northwest and then going on to the State ofg Oregon, where Mrs. T. Elliott, a sister of Mrs. Kelly and Mrs. Milburn, resides.

Mr. G. Edward Hill, of Toronto, has arrived in the city and taken charge of the operating room at the Royal Theatre. He has his diploma from the Detroit Film Exchange Operating School, entitling him to operate a moving picture machine anywhere in the U. S. or Canada. Patrons of the Royal will get good steady pictures and no half-hour intermission.

Professor Stephan, of the Montreal School of Elocution, is spending July at Mountain View Lake in the Adirondacks. Many guests are availing themselves of this, to combine elocutionary study with their vacation. The novel idea of combining a bit of study with a summer outing is decidedly popular. So much so that applications from all localities to join the party, or for the little free book of information, are daily being received by the Manager of the Hotel at Mountain View.

The Steamer Otonabee will leave Wolfe Street Wharf at 10 a. m. Friday next, with freight for all points on Stony Lake, returning will arrive in Peterborough at 10 a. m. Saturday.

OBITUARY.

TREFFLE LEVECQUE

At nine o'clock last night a very sad death occurred at 291 Louis street, when Treffle Levecque, a young man 28 years of age, departed this life. The deceased was a son of Mr. Michael Levecque and although he was not fully developed physically, yet his mental ability was above the average. His conversation was brilliant and his company was always enjoyed by those who appreciate the expressions of an active and alert mind. This is a severe blow to the parents as he was the only child and there are no relatives in the city.

The funeral will take place to-morrow at nine o'clock from the family residence to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

W. TAYLOR CROWE

On Monday Mr. W. Taylor Chowe, only son and child of Mr. J. J. Crowe, Dummer, died at the Provincial Hospital, Toronto. The deceased was attacked three years ago with a paralytic affection of the brain and spinal cord, and the disease progressed in intensity till death resulted. Mr. Crowe was born forty years ago in Dummer, and, on reaching adult life, engaged in farming. He was for some time collector of taxes in his native township. He took an active and deep interest in military matters, and was in succession a member of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons and the 24th Field Battery, having held the rank of sergeant-major in both. He took a course in the Royal Military College, Kingston, and held two 1st class certificates—cavalry and artillery—and was awarded prizes in rifle shooting and sword exercise. He was selected from the battery to be a member of the Canadian Contingent, which was sent to England to take part in the coronation festivities of King Edward. Deceased was united in marriage to Miggie, daughter of Mr. John Cochrane, Belmont, who survives him together with four children. He was a staunch Liberal in politics and in religion a Methodist. The funeral took place on Wednesday, June 23rd, with interment in the Warsaw cemetery.

WEDDING BELLS

ELLIOTT—LYLE.

Bowmanville, June 30.—(Special to the Examiner.)—A pretty wedding was solemnized here at 11 o'clock this morning, when Miss Gertrude Lyle, daughter of John Lyle, of this town, was united in marriage to Mr. Robt. H. Elliott, of Toronto, and formerly of Peterborough. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Garbutt, pastor of the Methodist Church, in the presence of a few friends, the function being a quiet one. The young couple were unattended. They left on a wedding trip to the Eastern States, after which they will go to Toronto, where they will reside in the Dowling Apartment, Parkdale. Mr. Elliott is connected with the firm of J. C. Green and Co., Toronto.

BULLER-NEWALL

A quiet wedding was solemnized at St. Andrew's Manse this afternoon at 3 o'clock, when Miss Lottie Pearl Newall, daughter of Mr. John Newall, was united in marriage to Mr. George Buller, son of Mrs. Buller, Aylmer street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. G. Potter, in the presence of a few friends. The bride wore a pretty satin striped broadcloth costume with a Tuscan hat, trimmed with blue forget-me-nots. The young couple were unattended. After the ceremony the party adjourned to the residence of Mr. A. M. Fletcher, 189 Dublin Street, the bride's brother-in-law, where a wedding repast was served. Mr. and Mrs. Buller will take up residence on Aylmer street.

HOSHEN—CROWE

A quiet but very pretty wedding took place at the parsonage of the Charlotte St. eMthodist Church at 5 p.m. yesterday when Miss Annie Crowe, of Hall's Glen, Stony Lake, and Mr. Hobert Hoshen, of 188 Smith street, Peterborough, were united in marriage by the Rev. G. W. Henderson.

The bride looked beautiful attired in a handsome travelling suit with hat to match.

After the ceremony the party enjoyed a driving tour and at 5:45 the bride and groom took the train for Buffalo.

Notices of Births, Marriages and Deaths, 25 cents each insertion in either the Daily or Weekly Examiner.

Womanly Health
How to Preserve It

The good looks of every woman depend largely upon the proper working of her stomach and other internal organs.

If your stomach is strong and digestion is good, the cheeks flush with color, eyes dance and sparkle, breath will be pure, and your hair smooth and glossy.

Let indigestion creep in, and the skin becomes sallow and rough, pimples break out, eyes get dark circles, ill-breath is all too apparent.

Get the stomach toned up with Dr. Hamilton's Pills—they increase the secretion of the gastric juices, promote vigorous digestion, increase the supply of blood, and thereby invigorate the entire system.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills
CURE WOMAN'S ILLS.

The system is quickly won back to a normal healthy condition by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and every girl or woman who uses this remedy will show it in a clear, wholesome complexion and a sound healthy body. Sold in 25c boxes by all dealers.

Get The Best Out Of Life

HEALTH AND SUCCESS

By keeping vigor and vitality at the top notch—DR. CHASE'S NERVE FOOD will help you.

Health, strength, beauty, success.

These are the words which tell of a happy, joyous life.

The foundation of each and all is good red blood.

Red blood on which health can build—red blood from which muscles and nerve cells are created—red blood which rounds out the form and gives the healthful glow to the complexion—red blood from which comes energy and vigour of mind and body.

With red blood there is no weakness or disease, no failure and fatigue. Red blood makes life worth living and only when it is present in the system can you get the best out of life.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has proven an enormous success because it forms new, red blood, from which new nerve and brain cells are created.

When you use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food you know for a certainty that each dose is doing you a certain amount of good, because it adds just so much new red blood to the system.

Whether you have become exhausted by disease, overwork, or the depressing effects of spring matters not. The cure is found in the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Irritability, sleeplessness, indigestion, nervous headache, anaemia, despondency, and all the dreaded accompaniments of a weak and exhausted system disappear when this great blood-forming system builder is used.

To get the best out of life you must use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to make you well and to fill you with the energy and vigour which makes for success and happiness. 50 cents a box at all druggists, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

A PAGE FOR MISSES

FROCKS for the SUMMER HOLIDAYS

THE girl of to-day may well thank her lucky stars that she was born in the present era and not a century ago, for before it became fashionable to be athletic how much enjoyment in life was forfeited. To-day it is not only fashionable to be an expert in every kind of summer outdoor sport, it is an essential of modern education. And not only must the twentieth century girl be able to excel at any one sport, she must be able to turn with equal dexterity from golf to tennis, must be a graceful swimmer, a fearless rider, a skilful whip and even manage a good sized sailboat and perhaps be able to drive a 90-horse power touring car. Just as the winter days are given over to carefully planned study so are the long hours of each summer day taken up by the modern girl in perfecting herself in those sports which are at the moment most popular and which appeal especially to her own love of outdoors.

To the so-called restless life that is indulged in to-day may be attributed the good all around sporting knowledge of the average American girl. During the early summer and late autumn at the large country place of her parents there is ample opportunity afforded for riding, driving, motoring, tennis and perhaps golf, while the few weeks of midsummer are generally passed at either seashore or mountains where the principal amusement is either surf bathing or boating, while some girls perhaps pass the entire summer at a resort where it is possible to pursue every known form of sport from fishing to driving a coach and four.

DAME FASHION therefore dictates that all must be athletes, and at the same time she ordains that for each separate form of sport she shall be at once smartly and appropriately gowned. It is interesting also to note that today the practical absolutely dominates in all sporting costumes, but it is emphasized that hand in hand with what is practical must go the becoming.

That the practical rules all branches of sporting dress to-day is evident, but in no instance is this so clearly illustrated as in the riding habit now in favor. The coat of this new habit is little different from that which has been worn for some years past: sleeves are tight, the back is semi-fitted, in length the jacket being a medium three-quarter. The skirt, however, is very different from any model worn heretofore and is really more trousers than skirt, with a half skirt over them. Breeches and skirt are of the same material. The skirt is seamless and, while when off the horse the material buttons across the back to look much like an ordinary skirt, when in the saddle the cloth is unfastened and falls only over the trousers, leaving nothing to catch or hinder in case of a fall. In hunting no other style of skirt is ever worn to-day.

In warm weather crash and linen habits are, of course, necessary, a dust color or natural shade of the material being the most in vogue. White pique and linen habits are also occasionally seen, and these last are especially attractive for very young girls.

The most sensible tennis dress consists in a white waist and skirt made simply and somewhat shorter than the regulation length walking skirt. Separate waists and skirts are more generally worn for tennis than a dress throughout, as one day the bodice may become soiled while the skirt remains immaculate, and vice versa, and when a hotel laundry bill must be taken into consideration this must be thought of. Gowns throughout for morning as well as afternoon wear are at present considered smarter than even the finest lingerie waists worn with separate linen skirts. The best plan for the girl who really plays regularly is to have made several simple skirt waist dresses of white linen, duck or madras, all alike, so that waists and skirts can be put on together interchangeably. For tennis the turned down collars of either heavy embroidered linen or soft batiste are the most comfortable, but it is a mistake to wear this style of collar if it is really unbecoming.

It is best to have the collar separate from the waist, as a fresh collar and tie will frequently give another day's wear to the dress. In the lingerie and embroidered linen waists only are high boned collars attached to the neckband, so that linen collars, high or low, embroidered or plain, can be worn with the waist as desired.

All shirt waist sleeves are long, and for a tennis waist stiff cuffs held with jeweled link buttons are smartest. Soft cuff bands are also worn, however, if especially preferred.

For golf boys' stiff turned down white collars are often worn instead of unstarched linen, and these are sometimes used for tennis also. Golf is no longer played so universally as tennis, but by a few it is still preferred to the more strenuous game. The correct costume for both sports is much alike, although natural colored linen and crash is often worn for golf instead of all white, and tan shoes and stockings will be found to look better at the end of the morning's round than will white canvas, which, however immaculate at the start, cannot long remain so in the tramp over a course perhaps muddy and sandy. For tennis white shoes and stockings are always worn.

COLORED linen—pink, blue, green or mauve—is, of course, most attractive, but is too impractical for a game played for hours at a time in the direct rays of the sun. It is well to have one or two simple princess gowns, made sufficiently short, for tennis, to be worn perhaps during a tournament, which calls for a trifle more elaboration of dress.

For sailing, boating, canoeing, &c., there is no dress so useful as the old fashioned sailor gown with blouse waist, worn with or without a dickey or vest, sailor collar and pocket and plain gored skirt. Up in the mountains this dress, in dark blue or brown linen or in a striped percale, will prove eminently useful. At a seashore resort a severe coat and skirt costume in heavy duck, white with perhaps dark blue or red linen collar and cuffs, looks extremely well. Simple waist and skirt dresses, practically the same as those worn for tennis and golf, are also good for all kinds of boating. For no sporting use must lingerie bodices be worn any more, for it has been found that the sunburn contracted on neck and arms through the sheer texture and openwork embroidery requires months to wear off, often leaving a mark that will take years to eradicate. It is for this reason as much as any other that a thin waist is seldom worn for driving, walking or even sitting out in the sun without some kind of a linen jacket over it. And, after all, the sheer lawn and batiste waists formerly worn for tennis and all forms of outdoor exercise were so perishable as to be ridiculously inappropriate.

The girl who cannot swim loses perhaps the greatest pleasure of the whole summer, and should there be any girl so unfortunate she had better turn all attention at once toward mastering this art, which, after all, is one of the simplest, because the most natural, of all sports. Upon the bathing suit, however, depends much of the enjoyment of the exercise. Not only must it be comfortable, but it must also be becoming, for there is perhaps no other style of dress in which a girl can look either so bewitching or so hopelessly unattractive.

IT is a mistake to think that for swimming anything at all will do, and that the fit really does not greatly matter. On the contrary, everything depends upon whether or not the suit fits trimly and the headgear is a becoming shape and prettily adjusted. It is important, therefore, for a bathing suit to be made to measurement, as any party frock should it is worth while to procure good material, for there are certain textures which will wear several summers, while the poorer grades of silk and alpaca are scarcely worth the making up. Peau de cygne wears perhaps better than any other fabric, but the best mohairs will also give excellent service. Dark blue relieved with white or a light blue collar, tie and belt is in the long run the best for the purpose, since red, attractive as it is for a bathing suit, is almost sure to run, and black is too old and unbecoming. Medium weight cotton stockings of the same shade as the suit are more attractive than black.

For still water bathing wide brimmed straw hats are often worn to prevent sunburn and freckles, but in surf bathing this is impossible, and besides there is little enjoyment to be had if a girl cannot go under water at will and become expert at diving, floating and any new strokes she may desire to learn. An all rubber cap covered with a pretty silk handkerchief large enough to fasten in a jaunty bow in front makes the best headgear for the girl who really swims and knows how to enjoy water sports to the fill. It is a great temptation, of course, to allow the hair to get wet each day, but this is so injurious that no sensible girl will lightly incur the risk of wearing false hair when a débutante. A red silk or even a red or dark blue cotton bandana makes an excellent bathing handkerchief.

The prettiest bathing dresses this year are in a princess model, with tights separate, buttoned to a stay piece of belting, which is attached to the gown at the waist line.

New Vanity Bags.

VANITY bags of kid lined vachette leather hold a pompadour framed mirror, tiny purse for change, card case, three manicure tools, powder puff case and pincushion. All the articles are placed in pockets made of silk and shirred on elastic.

Silk lined, box built vanity cases of colored seal calfskin equipped with back strap or with strap handles have two gold or silver mounted flaps, beneath the lower of which a bevelled edge mirror is embedded.

Pigskin vanity boxes of dress suit shape have an ivory framed mirror on one side, a complete manicure set on the other, a celluloid collapsible drinking glass under the covered lid and three folding sides, formed of four V-shaped sections, accommodate needle cases and thread reels.

Three-inch long vanity cases of amethyst ornamented silver gilt have tops which form a powder box fitted with a cover having a magnifying mirror on its inner side. When closed the lower portion of these cases forms a butterfly concealing a glass whipped vinaigrette surrounded by a narrow cushion for small stickpins.

PRACTICAL TALKS BY THE APRIL GRANDMOTHER

"LEARN to sit 'serenely' if you would acquire distinction of manner," advised the April Grandmother. "It may seem an unimportant matter, but nevertheless comparatively few young girls know how to properly seat themselves, look comfortable when they are seated or get up gracefully from a seat. One reason for this awkwardness is due to the fact that teachers who are not themselves fastidious in regard to physical poise permit their pupils to rush into a class room and fall upon a seat, instead of constraining them to enter deliberately and sit down. After a time the pupil who is permitted to assume an unconventional position when at her desk gets into the habit of wriggling nervously from one side of her chair to the other, sits on one foot or spreads her knees widely apart—attitudes which are not only uncomfortable but vulgar.

"Many girls look awkward and uneasy when seated because they slide onto a chair from its side instead of from its front edge, and do not allow themselves sufficient space to turn in when approaching a seat. When ready to sit down one foot should be slightly in advance of the other, so that by pivoting on the toes, bending the hips and knees the body will swing easily onto the chair. Care should be taken to place the hips as far toward the back of the seat as it is possible to get them.

"The girl who sits on the edge of a chair and leans far backward in an awkward an attitude as she can possibly assume and one that will not only compel her to cross her knees but help to injure her spine. She should remember that when seated the hips must invariably be further back than the shoulders, otherwise it will be impossible to sit erectly, gracefully or comfortably—which, of course, means serenely. This attitude will bring both feet in their correct position—squarely upon the floor and partly covered by the skirts. The consciousness that one has small, prettily shaped feet is not an excuse for thrusting them forward, and in my younger days every gentlewoman's ankles were solely a matter of supposition so far as the public was concerned.

"In a praiseworthy effort to sit gracefully a great many girls take elaborate pains to arrange their draperies, and consequently their pose looks stiff, whereas by simply seating themselves in the correct manner and with the knees close together their skirts—if not too scant about the hips—will naturally fall in graceful folds.

"Unless the hands are allowed to lie idly on the lap," concluded the April Grandmother, "the effort to 'sit serenely' will be unavailing. Many girls have a habit of grasping the arms, sides or back of their chair, of twisting their fingers or toying with some ornament while other people are talking to them and of emphasizing their own remarks by 'clawing the air' under the mistaken impression that they are making gestures."

OLD RIBBONS FOR FANCY WORK

RIBBON that has been ripped from a discarded hat or frock will usually answer nicely for a piece of fancy work if properly renovated. Soiled taffeta and grosgrain ribbons should be soaked for fifteen minutes in good, pure soapsuds in which a little baking soda has been dissolved, gone over with a soft brush until all the spots have disappeared, then rinsed in clear warm water, which must be pressed out with the hands, laid between two cloths and smoothed with a moderately hot iron.

Black silk ribbon should be thoroughly brushed, wiped with a cloth, then laid on a table and sponged on right side with strained hot coffee. When partly dry the ribbon should be ironed on the right side.

Creased ribbons should be dampened with a clean sponge, then rolled smoothly and tightly on a round wooden rod until perfectly dry.

Black satin ribbons may be renovated by sponging them with the strained water in which clean potato peelings have been [illegible] twenty-four hours. After [illegible] should be placed [illegible] cloth and ironed on the [illegible] dust from velvet ribbon [illegible] right side of the material [illegible] borax salt and then brush [illegible] ard. To raise the crushed [illegible] ribbon cover a hot iron [illegible] with a white cloth, lay the [illegible] it and then gently beat the crushed portions with a clothes brush.

Hanging Flower Baskets.

PICTURESQUE looking hanging flower baskets for the veranda of a summer cottage are of rustic wood, zinc lined and suspended by leaf green metal chains. Crystal flower baskets of old hat shape and figured in straw weave have ivory tinted leather suspending handles. Pressed glass fern dishes lined with silver plating have pierced sides through which may be run long satin ribbon hangers.

Compact Writing Utensils.

GIRLS who [illegible] the advantage of having [illegible] utensil always at hand will [illegible] combination [illegible] pencil, which [illegible] the ordinary [illegible] barrel [illegible] addition of [illegible] cil lead [illegible] same quality [illegible] fountain [illegible]

The [illegible] equipped [illegible] upon turning [illegible] writing and [illegible] ble of filling [illegible] by a contrivance [illegible] sary for [illegible]

[illegible] for the formal penning of the [illegible] and is a formal invitation or answer to a letter written in the third person there is little else to bother with once the stereotyped form has been learned. A note of thanks, of condolence, of informal invitation or any such calls for a certain element of the personal and at once gives a few suggestions to the reader of the character of the writer. Selfishness, for example, is at once shown up by constant recurrence of the pronoun "I;" hence the old rule that a letter should never commence with the personal pronoun.

For all formal notes, even those written in the first person, there are some few rules to follow, varying, of course, according to the degree of intimacy between writer and recipient. A note of invitation, for instance, must state clearly the exact address, date and time of the entertainment, and should the letter convey an invitation to the country the time of departure of the train or boat, what railroad or ferry to take and all possible directions must be carefully designated.

There can be no regulation rules for ordinary correspondence beyond that of care in regard to paragraphing, leaving correct space for signature at the end of the page, never writing horizontally across a page already written on, the placing below the signature first the address, if it is not stamped on the first page of the paper, and below it the date—not the day of the week nor the year, but the day and month written out in full, as, for example, "July fourth;" never "Sunday the fourth" or "July the fourth."

For a business letter the address in full and date, with numbers not spelled out, are placed at the upper right hand corner of the first page. For any form of business letter, such as an order by mail, the making or changing of an appointment, the third person is used.

HINTS FOR CARE OF SUMMER SHOES.

UNLESS one's maid is exceptionally competent it is a good plan for a girl to take personal care of her white shoes and slippers—that is, if she is anxious to be at all times smartly shod. White kids are now worn universally with summer frocks, nor is any other style of boot so attractive with a white or light colored linen or lawn costume. For garden party, yacht or seaside there is any other footwear to keep in order than either black or tan boots, has, as said above, many causes to be treated carelessly.

After thoroughly brushing the shoe to remove all light dust and dirt a white canvas shoe may be intensely scrubbed with a stiff brush and any [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

HASTINGS ITEMS OF INTEREST

Hastings, June 26.—A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday of last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fisher, of Toronto, when their daughter, Sadie, became the bride of Mr. J. C. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Wilson, of town. The bride entered the drawing room on the arm of her father, and wore a pretty empire gown of silk mull and lace, and was assisted by Miss Edna Hughes, of Oakville, as bridesmaid, while Mr. Winter Runnels of Hastings, performed the duties of best man. After the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Dr. Rankin, the customary congratulations were exchanged, when all repaired to the dining-room, where a sumptuous repast was served. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson took the train for Buffalo and points west for a short honeymoon tour, after which they will take up residence in Hastings. Their many friends here extend congratulations.

The whole community sympathizes with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lobb in their loss, by drowning, of their son, Charlie .The funeral, which was conducted by Rev. D. A. Thomson of Hastings, was largely attended.

Rev. W. B. Secombe and son, Burson, of Marmora, have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wilson.

Mr. J. K. Wilson of Balgonie, Sask., is holidaying with friends in town.

Miss MacArthur, of Toronto, is visiting at the home of her sster, Mrs. H. R. Bingham.

Another pretty June wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. Jas. Morrow, of Percy, when his daughter, Annie, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Austin Dickey, the ceremony being performed by Rev. D. A. Thomson, of town, in the presence of the immediate relatives and friends of the contracting parties. After the usual congratulations the party repaired to the dining room, where an excellent wedding supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Dickey left on the evening train for their honeymoon trip and on their return will reside in Percy.

The annual excursion of the Methodist Sunday School was held on Tuesday of last week, per steamer Rainbow, and covered barge to Jubilee, where a most enjoyable time was spent. On the grounds, baseball was engaged in, and other sports for the little ones. The day was all that could be desired and the party returned home in good time.

The third game of baseball was played between St. George's and the Methodist teams and resulted in favour of the former.

Mr. Lendrum, of Peterborough, has opened a photo studio in town and will be here every Tuesday.

Miss W. Buxton of Toronto, is visiting friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Carter and Mr. nd Mrs. G. Buchanan, of Havelock, have been guests at the home of Mrs. J. Carter, Sr.

Quite a number of pupils wrote on the entrance examinations here last week.

A number of people from this vicinity took in the excursion to Stony Lake on Thusday last and report a most enjoyable day.

Mrs. J. Wood, of Peterborough, and Mrs. J. Montgomery, of Manitoba, have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Fleming.

Mrs. R. Coughlan, who has been absent for some time, has returned to open her cottage for the summer months. She will be joined by her daughter shortly.

Miss Grace Lynch has returned to her home after an absence of two years in Austin, Texas. She is accompanied by her aunt and Miss Ryan. An excursion from Peterborough came down on Saturday evening last per steamer "Bessie Butler," which was a pretty sight, steaming with her lights burning all around her.

Workmen are engaged at the new wharf, which is the beginning of the work on this section of the canal.

The "Rainbow" passed through here on Wednesday last, carrying an excursion from Bewdley to Healy Falls.

Mr. J. Ferrant of Texas, is visiting friends here. The programme of sports for Dominion Day is progressing favourably and a monster celebration is expected.

NEWS ITEMS FROM INDIAN RIVER

The farmers are wearing that smile that won't come off.

The Bethel Church Excursion to Burleigh Falls was largely attended on the 24th, about thirty persons went from Indian River and one hundred and twenty from Keene.

The manager of the Bell Telephone Company spent some time about here trying to get persons to have 'phones in their homes. The farmers would have them, but they think $18.00 per year too high a price, but if the Company would come to about $12.00 no doubt but a number would have them to their great advantage.

Mr. Fred Faux of Hastings spent Sunday with friends here.

Mr. James Meade ,Peterborough, spent Sunday last with his parents here.

Mr. Herb. Nelson visited friends here on Friday evening last.

Miss Rosie Spence, exschool teacher of No. 3, Otonabee, visited a few of her many friends here last week. Miss Spence is teaching in Allandale at present.

Miss Maggie Easson of Allandale, visited friends at Indian River on last Friday.

Miss Waterman, S, T. No. 3, closed school for summer holidays on Friday last

Miss E. Shannon, No. 1, Douro, closed school on the 29th for summer holidays.

A large crowd from Indian River are taking in the T.A.S. Pic-nic in Peterborough, July 1st.

Statute Labor is completed in this section and a vast improvement is made on the highways.

Mr William O'Leary is spending a few days at Bracondale.

Mr. J. T. Andress is a having a 'phone placed in his cheese factory.

Mr. Steawrt Armstrong has sold and loaded nearly 10,000 ties of the C.P.R. use.

FORECASTING THE WEATHER

From Farm and Dairy.

Perennial interest is centred in the weather. In the season of hay making and in harvest, this interest is raised to the highest pitch. Some gifted ones are weatherwise and use this faculty to their advantage in planning their work. With the vast majority, it must be acknowledged that they know little of what the weather will be. While to a great extent, even with the best authorities, the only thing that is absolutely certain as to the weather, is what we have had, it is interesting to note with what degree of exactness the weather can be forecasted.

The Government weather service is maintained at no little expense and taken on the whole, their reports as published by the daily press and as posted on bulletins by the telegraphic service, are extremely accurate considering the range of territory that they cover. Any one gifted even with ordinary wisdom and experience in forecasting the weather can tell quite closely enough by the aid of the weather service what the weather will be within the next 24 or 36 hours. Many annually profit by this service and conduct their hay and harvesting operations with reasonable certainty as to what the weather will be. Many others, however, look upon the weather service as a myth and fail to profit from it.

There are farmers in the vicinity of Winchester, Dundas County, Ont., who place much importance upon the probabilities. In discussing this matter with an editorial representative of Farm and Dairy recently, Mr. R. A. Christie stated that the weather service was largely taken advantage of by farmers in his locality, and that it had proved invaluable to them. This district is widely served by an efficient telephone service which enables them to get the forecasts on short notice after they are received at the telegraphic stations. Those having failed to profit from the information furnished by the Government Weather Bureau would do well to put themselves in touch with it and to govern their farm operations at this season to some extent at least according to the dictates of "Old Probs."

HASTINGS ITEMS OF INTEREST

Hastings, June 26.—A very pretty wedding was solemnizd on Wednesday of last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fisher, of Toronto, when their daughter, Sadie, became the bride of Mr. J. C. Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Wilson, of town. The bride entered the drawing room on the arm of her father, and wore a pretty empire gown of silk mull and lace, and was assisted by Miss Edna Hughes, of Oakville, as bridesmaid, while Mr. Winter Runnels of Hastings, performed the duties of best man. After the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Dr. Rankin, the customary congratulations were exchanged, when all repaired to the dining-room, where a sumptuous repast was served. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson took the train for Buffalo and points west for a short honeymoon tour, after which they will take up residence in Hastings. Their many friends here extend congratulations.

The whole community sympathizes with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lobb in their loss, by drowning, of their son, Charlie .The funeral, which was conducted by Rev. D. A. Thomson of Hastings, was largely attended.

Rev. W. B. Secombe and son, Burson, of Marmora, have been visiting at the home of M and Mrs. H. A. Wilson.

Mr. J. K. Wilson of Balgonie, Sask., is holidaying with friends in town.

Miss MacArthur, of Toronto, is visiting at the home of her sster, Mrs. H. R. Bingham.

Another pretty June wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. Jas. Morrow, of Percy, when his daughter, Annie, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Austin Dickey, the ceremony being performed by Rev. D. A. Thomson, of town, in the presence of the immediate relatives and friends of the contracting parties. After the usual congratulations the party repaired to the dining room, where an excellent wedding supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Dickey left on the evening train for their honeymoon trip and on their return will reside in Percy.

The annual excursion of the Methodist Sunday School was held on Tuesday of last week, per steamer Rainbow, and covered barge to Jubilee, where a most enjoyable time was spent. On the grounds, baseball was engaged in, and other sports for the little ones. The day was all that could be desired and the party returned home in good time.

The third game of baseball was played between St. George's and the Methodist teams and resulted in favour of the former.

Mr. Lendrum, of Peterborough, has opened a photo studio in town and will be here every Tuesday.

Miss W. Buxton of Toronto, is visiting friends in town.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Carter and Mr. nd Mrs. G. Buchanan, of Havelock, have been guests at the home of Mrs. J. Carter, Sr.

Quite a number of pupils wrote on the entrance examinations here last week.

A number of people from this vicinity took in the excursion to Stony Lake on Thusday last and report a most enjoyable day.

Mrs. J. Wood, of Peterborough, and Mrs. J. Montgomery, of Manitoba, have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. Fleming.

Mrs. R. Coughlan, who has been absent for some time, has returned to open her cottage for the summer months. She will be joined by her daughter shortly.

Miss Grace Lynch has returned to her home after an absence of two years in Austin, Texas. She is accompanied by her aunt and Miss Ryan. An excursion from Peterborough came down on Saturday evening last per steamer "Bessie Butler," which was a pretty sight, steaming with her lights burning all around her.

Workmen are engaged at the new wharf, which is the beginning of the work on this section of the canal.

The "Rainbow" passed through here on Wednesday last, carrying an excursion from Bewdley to Healy Falls.

Mr. J. Ferrant of Texas, is visiting friends here. The programme of sports for Dominion Day is progressing favourably and a monster celebration is expected.

Kellogg's Weans Baby

Every Mother dreads weaning Baby. Any old food was formerly good enough—so long as it was an inducement—regardless of its Food-value.

But now—the age of Kellogg's Toasted Corn Flakes—weaning is a trivial matter.

Kellogg's is pure, sweet and wholesome—it's Nature's Own Food.

That's why Children love and thrive on Kellogg's.

Give Baby Kellogg's whenever he wishes—it will do him good, but be sure it's

NEWS ITEMS FROM INDIAN RIVER

The farmers are wearing that smile that won't come off.

The Bethel Church Excursion to Burleigh Falls was largely attended on the 24th, about thirty persons went from Indian River and one hundred and twenty from Keene.

The manager of the Bell Telephone Company spent some time about here trying to get persons to have 'phones in their homes. The farmers would have them, but they think $18.00 per year too high a price, but if the Company would come to about $12.00 no doubt but a number would have them to their great advantage.

Mr. Fred Faux of Hastings spent Sunday with friends here.

Mr. James Meade ,Peterborough, spent Sunday last with his parents here.

Mr. Herb. Nelson visited friends here on Friday evening last.

Miss Rosie Spence, exschool teacher of No. 3, Otonabee, visited a few of her many friends here last week. Miss Spence is teaching in Allandale at present.

Miss Maggie Easson of Allandale, visited friends at Indian River on last Friday.

Miss Waterman, S. T. No. 3, closed school for summer holidays on Friday last.

Miss E. Shannon, No. 1, Douro, closed school on the 29th for summer holidays.

A large crowd from Indian River are taking in the T.A.S. Pic-nic in Peterborough, July 1st.

Statute Labor is completed in this section and a vast improvement is made on the highways.

Mr William O'Leary is spending a few days at Bracondale.

Mr. J. T. Andress is a having a 'phone placed in his cheese factory.

Mr. Steawrt Armstrong has sold and loaded nearly 10,000 ties of the C.P.R. use.

Mr. Charles Munn, Station Agent here is gone to Vancouver for a two months trip, his mother also a companion to him.

FORECASTING THE WEATHER

From Farm and Dairy.

Perennial interest is centred in the weather. In the season of hay making and in harvest, this interest is raised to the highest pitch. Some gifted ones are weatherwise and use this faculty to their advantage in planning their work. With the vast majority, it must be acknowledged that they know little of what the weather will be. While to a great extent, even with the best authorities, the only thing that is absolutely certain as to the weather, is what we have had, it is interesting to note with what degree of exactness the weather can be forecasted.

The Government weather service is maintained at no little expense and taken on the whole, their reports as published by the daily press and as posted on bulletins by the telegraphic service, are extremely accurate considering the range of territory that they cover. Any one gifted even with ordinary wisdom and experience in forecasting the weather can tell quite closely enough by the aid of the weather service what the weather will be within the next 24 or 36 hours. Many annually profit by this service and conduct their hay and harvesting operations with reasonable certainty as to what the weather will be. Many others, however, look upon the weather service as a myth and fail to profit from it.

There are farmers in the vicinity of Winchester, Dundas County, Ont., who place much importance upon the probabilities. In discussing this matter with an editorial representative of Farm and Dairy recently, Mr. R. A. Christie stated that the weather service was largely taken advantage of by farmers in his locality, and that it had proved invaluable to them. This district is widely served by an efficient telephone service which enables them to get the forecasts on short notice after they are received at the telegraphic stations. Those having failed to profit from the information furnished by the Government Weather Bureau would do well to put themselves in touch with it and to govern their farm operations at this season to some extent at least according to the dictates of "Old Probs."

Awaits New Enoch Arden Story.

Lee, Mass., July 2.—George Hecox, who has been missing for forty-five years, appeared here Wednesday night and made himself known to his wife, who had during his long absence, married another man and been widowed. He cox went out with the 54th Massachusetts regiment in the civil war, and as he never returned home, was believed dead. His wife married Timothy Tucker and Hecox, learning of this, decided to remain away. The death of Tucker paved the way for his return.

Ottawan Killed by Fall.

Ottawa, July 2.—James Ingram is dead as the result of an accident at the power house of the Ottawa Electric Railway, where he was employed. The floor gave way and he fell a distance of twenty feet.

Two other men also fell, but were not seriously injured.

Ingram leaves a wife and six children.

Harvard Beat Yale.

New London, Conn., July 2.—In a grand exhibition of rowing by a crew remarkable for its physical power and endurance, Harvard yesterday morning defeated Yale in the annual 'Varsity boat race on the Thames. The crimsons led from start to finish and won by six lengths.

Rockefeller In It.

New York, July 2.—It is rumored that engineered by Wm. Rockefeller, Amalgamated Copper plans the absorption of the Cole-Ryan interests, including the International and United Metal Companies.

Erie Canal Blocked.

Rochester, July 2.—Traffic on the Erie Canal, over the level 62 miles long from Brighton to Lockport, is entirely suspended. There are about 100 boats stranded, and no relief before Sunday is in sight.

Deputy Superintendent of Public Works Mead says that silt or quick sand was used on a culvert roof instead of gravel or clay puddle, causing a collapse.

Body Taken From Whirlpool.

Niagara Falls, N.Y., July 2.—The body of a man about 40 years old, quite nude, was taken from the whirlpool yesterday forenoon and is held at an undertaker's establishment for identification. It was caught by William Kratz, a farmer, who swam out for it as it was swept in close to the shore. The right arm was off at the shoulder and the left leg at the thigh.

Cavalryman's Wicked Work.

Des Moines, Ia., July 2.—Captain John C. Raymond of the Second Cavalry, Fort Des Moines, died yesterday, after lingering between life and death since he was shot by Corpl. Lisle Crabtree at the army post here three weeks ago. The shooting followed a reprimand given Crabtree for staying in the city overtime. Two other soldiers were also shot.

Chinese Laundryman Murdered.

New York, July 2.—The body of Ung Yow, a Chinese laundryman, who had been strangled with a rope, was found wedged into a washtub in his laundry at 124 Stanton street yesterday. The laundry was in great disorder.

WOMEN IN SESSION.

Canadian National Council Holds its Annual Convention.

Toronto, July 2.—Dominion Day was celebrated by the National Council of Women of Canada holding its annual convention. The founder and first president, Lady Aberdeen, at the request of Lady Edgar, presided. The meeting was held in convocation hall.

The feature of the day was the establishment of a five-year organization fund. Lady Aberdeen started it with an annual subscription of $100. Mrs. Sanford followed with $60 a year. Other subscriptions made a fund of $2,000.

Lady Aberdeen said a forward movement was essential now or the inspiration of the recent congress would pass away.

The report of the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Willoughby Cummings, stated that the council had 25 locals and 13 affiliated societies.

Mrs. Frost, treasurer, reported receipts of $1,634.20; disbursements, secretarial $700, printing $480, balance $226.47.

The officers of the council and conveners were elected. The officers are: Lady Edgar, president; Mrs. Willoughby Cummings, secretary, and Mrs. Frost, treasurer.

Lady Aberdeen gave the concluding address, expressing deep thanks for the kindness which now and in the past she had always received in Canada, so much so that it was hard to say the word good-bye! Lady Aberdeen said that Lord Aberdeen sent his regrets at being unable to be present to again meet his many Canadian friends.

The council closed with "Auld Lang Syne" and "God Save the King."

Lday Aberdeen shook hands with everyone present and expressed a hope to meet them again at the congress in Rome in 1914.

Suffragettes in Seattle.

Seattle, Wash., July 2.—The state convention of the Washington Woman Suffrage Association was marked yesterday by scenes of confusion and almost violence. A faction of fifty women, led by Mrs. Mary Arkwright-Hutton of Spokane, sought to oust the present officers, headed by President Emma Smith Devoe, whose supporters number about two hundred. The report of the committee on credentials declared the Spokane delegates not entitled to seats.

On the debate on the report, some of the delegates called others "thieves, liars and scoundrels," and there were hysterical weeping and screaming.

Advised that there was a riot in Plymouth Church, a squad of policemen entered and found the convention in tears.

The report of the credentials committee was adopted.

Plot to Kill Czar.

Stockholm, July 2.—Evidence of an anarchist plot to assassinate the Emperor of Russia some time during his approaching European trip was disclosed here yesterday.

Adolf Vang, the Swede, who last week shot and killed Major-General Beckman, chief of the coast artillery, and then committed suicide, belonged to a group of anarchists who have been plotting against the Russian rule.

Eight Russian anarchists were arrested previous to the killing of Gen. Beckman, but their apprehension was kept secret. Two of them were found hiding in the palace.

Vang left a letter saying that insomuch as his Russian comrades had been arrested, it was impossible for him alone to kill the Emperor.

Consequently he assassinated the first high official he met.

Tennessee Goes Dry.

Memphis, Tenn., July 2.—Bells in church and town steeples on tolling the midnight hour, marked the passing of saloons in Tennessee, for at that hour the Holladay state wide prohibition law went into effect. This law makes it illegal to sell alcoholic beverages within four miles of any schoolhouse in the state. Only two hotels are left in all Tennessee. Both are within 12 miles of Memphis, near the Mississippi state line. The nearest school house is six miles from both of these point, but steps have already been taken by white ribbonders to have the county board of education erect a schoolhouse within the distance prescribed by the Holladay law, so that there will be no Mecca in the entire state for thirsty pilgrims. Thousands of men are thrown out of employment.

Barbers Must Be Sterilized.

Winnipeg, July 2.—The Provincial Board of Health has drafted a schedule of laws for the guidance of barbers in their trade, and for the protection of the public against infection while in barber's chairs.

These stringent rules come into effect at once. In future barbers must wear white uniforms, must wash and disinfect their hands after each customer, must disinfect all tools, razors, straps, towels and equipment and must do away with cake soap in favor of powder immediately.

Did you ever stop to think that the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, is the biggest thing of its kind in the world? Its grounds extend for a mile and a half along the water front. Its biggest building covers two acres of ground. Its grand stand can swallow up the population of a city of over 16,000 people and this year it is going to have the most complete military display Canada ever saw.

Eight hundred of the best bred dogs in the world makes the bench show at the Canadian National Exhibition at Toronto something that is of deep and abiding interest to every lover of the dog in Canada. And every good Canadian loves a good dog.

Every schoolboy and girl in Canada will be interested in the educational exhibit at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, this year. The Education Department are helping make it the greatest ever and every city and town in Ontario will be represented in it.

The Show of Shorthorns at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, last year was pronounced by Scottish experts the equal of anything ever seen in Scotland itself. This year entries are coming in from all parts of Canada and some from Scotland as well.

New Transportation Building.

The addition to the Canadian National's Exhibition City this year is the Transportation Building now under construction. It is of red pressed brick, with buff stone trimmings and roof supports of trusses of steel. Its dimensions are 337 feet by 153 feet, and it provides 43,000 feet of exhibit floor space. It is one of the finest buildings, from an architectural standpoint, on the grounds, and will be all ready to receive automobiles, motor boats and other vehicles of transportation when the Fair opens, on August 28th, at Toronto. The Canadian National has now $2,000,000 worth of buildings on its grounds.

Military Year.

With the aid of the Militia Department, the Canadian National Exhibition will this year present the greatest and most complete military display and tournament ever attempted in Canada. Its features will be a Model Military Camp, Musical Drive by the Artillery, Musical Ride by the Dragoons, and everything that is bright and new in military spectacles and competitions. The Model Camp will be on the grounds during the entire Exhibition, and will contain heavy and rapid-fire guns and all the appliances of a modern military camp.

Seizes 15,000 Canadian Logs.

Rainy River, July 2.—A drive of saw logs, about 15,000, which had been cut illicitly on the Canadian side and towed into American waters near Beaudette, was seized on behalf of the Washington Government. The logs will probably be returned to the owners of the permits upon which they were cut.

They were cut by halfbreeds, who had arranged to sell them on the American side.

Leon Ling Drowned?

New York, July 2.—Although complete identification was impossible there appeared to be a strong probability that the body of a Chinaman found yesterday evening floating in the Hudson River was that of Leon Ling, the murderer of Elsie Sigel. The body was nude and had been in the water for more than a week.

Mangled by Car.

Toronto, July 2.—John B. Wilkie, a young Scotchman, who had just bid his cousin good-night, was struck down by a street car at King and Simcoe streets at 10 o'clock last night, and died a few moments later.

Drugged in Toronto Hotel?

Detroit, Mich., July 2.—Noah W. Beck, jr., aged 35, who says that he lives in Wheeling, Va., was found in the Union Station yesterday morning in a dazed condition. He said that he had a couple of drinks with strangers in a Toronto hotel before boarding the train for Detroit, and believed that he had been drugged.

Cuba Pays for Armaments.

Madrid, July 2.—It is announced officially here that Cuba has paid to the Spanish Minister in Havana, Senor De Ayala, the first of the three annual instalments of $300,000 for Spanish cannon left in the fortresses of Cuba and claimed by Spain under the terms of the peace protocol.

Drowning at Kingston.

Kingston, July 2.—Frederick Caternole, a coachman of Kingston, was drowned last night near Staley's Grove, Wolf Island. He was about going in swimming, when he slipped and fell into deep water. He was speedily recovered, but efforts to resuscitate him failed. He was 37 years of age and leaves a wife and three children.

Canadian Priest Drowns.

Watertown, N.Y., July 2.—Father Norbert Callahan, aged 28, a priest in the Church of the Sacred Heart of this city, was drowned while canoeing in the Adirondacks. He was a native of Campbellton, N.B.

EDITH WOODILL MURDERED BECAUSE SHE REFUSED TO BE BLACKMAILED—THAT IS THE THEORY HELD BY POLICE

New Theory Advanced Seems to Meet With General Approval—A Probable Explanation of the Motive Which is Perplexing the Authorities—Identity of the Man

RESULT OF INVESTIGATIONS

Examiner Special.

St. Michael's, Md., July 3—That Edith Thompson Woodill met her death because she would not submit to an attempt to levy blackmail from her, is the theory advanced by detectives to-day. Emmet E. Roberts, who, the police are almost certain, was Robert Emmet Eastman, New York broker, who has been missing since the alleged theft of $200,000 of his client's money, is believed to have been the man who demanded hush-money from the pretty ward of Lyman J. Gage.

Investigations conducted yesterday and to-day by the detectives, revealed the fact that Eastman knew the girl before she went to New York, where she met Woodill. It is thought, also, that he followed her across the Atlantic and back to California, where he pressed his suit.

That Mrs. Woodill went to the bungalow where she met her death in response to Eastman's request, is another fact that the police believe they have established. A letter to Vinnie Bradcone is said to have expressed Eastman's intention of going away "to make his fortune." This fortune, the detectives believe, was the money he hoped to compel Mrs. Goodill to pay as the price of his silence regarding their past life.

Letter Written to Actress.

St. Michael's, Md., July 3. — That Robert Emmet Eastman, known as Emmet Roberts, played no actual part in the killing of Edith Goodill is the assertion he made in the letter to Vinnie Bradcombe, an actress in the employ of Klaw & Erlanger, that was found in the dead man's pocket.

The letter, which was made public to-day, is a final plea for exoneration from the man who was killed yesterday by a pursuing posse, and who was thought to have been guilty of the terrible crime. The letter said:

Tells of Crime.

"Vinnie, take this money and go, at once to McDaniels, Talbot county, Maryland, and claim my body and my property. My body will be there. The property consists of 22 acres of land and the bungalow; also a motor-boat. Have a sale and convert everything to cash.

"I don't owe a cent except for a paint pump, which the firm of Shannahan, Wright & Easton will be glad to take back. It is not broken and is just as it was shipped.

"Little girl, I had no hand in that awful tragedy. I was there, and removed the evidence after the two couples had fled. I did this for my own preservation, for I am haunted.

"The victim was my particular friend; we were well mated. I had known her but three weeks.

"We all, that is two men and two women from Annapolis, went to the bungalow for a time. Everyone got full except Edith and myself.

"Edith tried to win one of the other girl's fellows. She was hit on the side of the head three times with a full champagne bottle. She fell over on the floor dead. The fellow was hit once and didn't come to for an hour.

"I was left with the corpse, and cannot take a chance for trial. Life is very bitter, and I will pull down my shades and say goodbye. You can claim my property. Say as little as you can about it, but get it.

"I'm awfully sorry for you and my boy, and have been hustling madly to make your path clear for you, but fate is against me.

(Signed) "BOB."

"P. S.—Take Pennsylvania road to Easton and change to B. C. & A. Don't neglect this, for the property is valuable."

The police believe the letter is a fabrication to save the memory of Eastman and to clear his name. They are, however, searching for the alleged companions of the couple mentioned in the letter.

Roberts Identified.

That Emmet Roberts, the man who was shot by a posse early yesterday was Robert Emmet Eastman, is thought to have been established beyond all doubt by Louis E. Pedlar, cousin of Vinnie Bradcombe, who viewed the body to-day.

Pedlar is a newspaper artist of Washington. He formerly was in the employ of the San Francisco Chronicle. He stated that he had paid many visits to his cousin in New York, and was well acquainted with the man who is said to have been the actress' intimate friend. Pedlar was certain in his identification.

The Coroner's jury will push an investigation as rapidly as possible.

Who Built Our First Church When Peterborough Was Young

Former Citizens Who Put Up Their Pounds and Shillings to Build St. John's Church.

Dr. Burnham has found among some old family papers what is evidently the original subscription list to the building fund of St. John's Church. It is written and signed on paper yellow with age in the neat caligraphy generally characteristic of a time when there was not too much rush to do things leisurely, even to signing one's name; and is 76 years old, being dated as will be seen in 1833. Nearly all the subscribers have passed away, but their names will be familiar to many of our older readers. The following is the heading, with the names of subscribers:—

Peterborough, 23rd Nov., 1833.

On demand, we, the undersigned, promise to pay into the hands of Rev. R. H. D. 'Olier, Treasurer to the Peterborough Episcopal Church, the sums attached to our respective names, for the purpose of enabling the Building Committee to defray the expenses of erecting a church in Peterborough:

HAIR NATURALLY ABUNDANT.

When it is Free of Dandruff, It Grows Luxuriantly.

Hair preparations and dandruff cure as a rule, are sticky or irritating affairs that do no earthly good. Hair, when not diseased, grows naturally, luxuriantly. Dandruff is the cause of nine-tenths of all hair trouble, and dandruff is caused by a germ. The only way to cure dandruff is to kill the germ; and, so far, the only hair preparation that will positively destroy the germ is Newbro's Herpicide—absolutely harmless, free from grease, sediment, dye matter or dangerous drugs. It allays itching instantly; makes hair glossy and soft as silk. "Destroy the cause, you remove the effect." Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Sold by McDermid & Jury, Druggists; also Payne's Drug Store. One dollar bottles guaranteed.

SIR NIGEL

BY A. CONAN DOYLE.

Copyright 1905, 1906, by A. Conan Doyle.

re motioned with his hand, and an archer laid his grip upon the shoulder of the prisoner. But that rough plebeian touch woke every passion of revolt in Nigel's spirit. Of all his high line of ancestors, was there one who had been subjected to such ignominy as this? Would they not have preferred death? And should he be the first to lower their spirit or their traditions? With a quick, lithe movement, he slipped under the arm of the archer, and plucked the short, straight sword from the soldier's side as he did so. The next instant he had wedged himself into the recess of one of the narrow windows, and there were his pale set face, his burning eyes, and his ready blade turned upon the assembly.

"By Saint Paul!" said he, "I never thought to find honorable advancement under the roof of an abbey, but perchance there may be some room for it ere you hale me to your prison."

The chapter-house was in an uproar. Never in the long and decorous history of the Abbey had such a scene been witnessed within its walls. The monks themselves seemed for an instant to be infected by this spirit of daring revolt. Their own lifelong fetters hung more loosely as they viewed this unheard-of defiance of authority. They broke from their seats on either side and huddled, half-scared, half-fascinated, in a large half-circle round the defiant captive, chattering, pointing, grimacing, a scandal for all time. Scourges should fall and penance be done for many a long week before the shadow of that day should pass from Waverley. But meanwhile there was no effort to bring them back to their rule. Everything was chaos and disorder. The Abbot had left his seat of justice and hurried angrily forward, to be engulfed and hustled in the crowd of his own monks like a sheep-dog who finds himself entangled amid a flock.

Only the sacrist stood clear. He had taken shelter behind the half-dozen archers, who looked with some approval and a good deal of indecision at this bold fugitive from justice.

"On him!" cried the sacrist. "Shall he defy the authority of the court, or shall one man hold six of you at bay? Close in upon him and seize him. You, Baddlesmere, why do you hold back?"

The man in question, a tall bushy-bearded fellow, clad like the others in green jerkin and breeches with high brown boots, advanced slowly, sword in hand, against Nigel. His heart was not in the business, for these clerical courts were not popular, and everyone had a tender heart for the fallen fortunes of the house of Loring and wished well to its young heir.

"Come, young sir, you have caused scathe enough," said he. "Stand forth and give yourself up!"

"Come and fetch me, good fellow," said Nigel, with a dangerous smile.

The archer ran in. There was a rasp of steel, a blade flickered like a swift dart of flame, and the man staggered back, with blood running down his forearm and dripping from his fingers. He wrung them and growled a Saxon oath.

"By the black rood of Bromeholm!" he cried. "I had as soon put my hand down a fox's earth to drag up a vixen from her cubs."

"Stand off!" said Nigel curtly. "I would not hurt you; but by Saint Paul! I will not be handled, or some one will be hurt in the handling."

So fierce was his eye and so menacing his blade as he crouched in the narrow bay of the window that the little knot of archers were at a loss what to do. The Abbot had forced his way through the crowd and stood, purple with outraged dignity, at their side.

"He is outside the law," said he. "He hath shed blood in a court of justice, and for such a sin there is no forgiveness. I will not have my court so flouted and set at naught. He who draws the sword, by the sword also let him perish. Forester Hugh lay a shaft to your bow!"

The man, who was one of the Abbey's lay servants, put his weight upon his long bow and slipped the loose end of the string into the upper notch. Then, drawing one of the terrible three-foot arrows, steel-tipped and gaudily winged, from his waist, he laid it to the string.

"Now draw your bow and hold it ready!" cried the furious Abbot. "Squire Nigel, it is not for Holy Church to shed blood, but there is naught but violence which will prevail against the violent, and on your head be the sin. Cast down the sword which you hold in your hand!"

"Will you give me freedom to leave your Abbey?"

"When you have abided your sentence and purged your sin."

"Then I had rather die where I stand than give up my sword."

A dangerous flame lit in the Abbot's eyes. He came of a fighting Norman stock, like so many of those fierce prelates who, bearing a mace lest they should be guilty of effusion of blood, led their troops into battle, ever remembering that it was one of their own cloth and dignity who, crosier in hand, had turned the long-drawn bloody day of Hastings? The soft accent of the churchman was gone and it was the hard voice of a soldier which said:

"One minute I give you, and no more. Then when I cry 'Loose!' drive me an arrow through his body."

The shaft was fitted, the bow was bent, and the stern eyes of the woodman were fixed on his mark. Slowly the minute passed, while Nigel breathed a prayer to his three soldier saints, not that they should save his body in this life, but that they should have a kindly care for his soul in the next. Some thought of a fierce wildcat sally crossed his mind, but once out of his corner he was lost indeed. Yet at the last he would have rushed among his enemies, and his body was bent for the spring, when with a deep sonorous hum, like a breaking harp-string, the cord of the bow was cloven in twain, and the arrow tinkled upon the tiled floor. At the same moment a young curly-headed bowman, whose broad shoulders and deep chest told of immense strength, as clearly as his frank, laughing face and honest hazel eyes did of good humor and courage, sprang forward sword in hand and took his place by Nigel's side.

"Nay, comrades!" said he. "Samkin Aylward cannot stand by and see a gallant man shot down like a bull at the end of a baiting. Five against one is long odds; but two against four is better, and by my finger-bones! Squire Nigel and I leave this room together, be it on our feet or no."

The formidable appearance of this ally and his high reputation among his fellows gave a further chill to the lukewarm ardor of the attack. Aylward's left arm was passed through his strung bow, and he was known from Woolmer Forest to the Weald as the quickest, surest archer that ever dropped a running deer at ten-score paces.

"Nay, Baddlesmere, hold your fingers from your string-case, or, I may chance to give your drawing hand a two months' rest," said Aylward. "Swords, if you will, comrades, but no man strings his bow till I have loosened mine."

Yet the angry hearts of both Abbot and sacrist rose higher with a fresh obstacle.

"This is an ill day for your father, Franklin Aylward, who holds the tenancy of Crooksbury," said the sacrist. "He will rue it that ever he begot a son who will lose him his acres and his steading."

"My father is a bold yeoman, and would rue it evermore that ever his son should stand by while foul work was afoot!" said Aylward stoutly. "Fall on, comrades! We are waiting."

Encouraged by promises of reward if they should fall in the service of the Abbey, and by threats of penalties if they should hold back, the four archers were about to close, when a singular interruption gave an entirely new turn to the proceedings.

At the door of the chapter-house, while these fiery doings had been afoot, there had assembled a mixed crowd of lay brothers, servants and varlets who had watched the development of the drama with the interest and delight with which men hail a sudden break in a dull routine. Suddenly there was an agitation at the back of this group, then a swirl in the centre, and finally the front rank was violently thrust aside, and through the gap there emerged a strange and whimsical figure, who from the instant of his appearance dominated both chapter-house and Abbey, monks, prelates and archers, as if he were their owner and their master.

He was a man somewhat above middle age, with thin lemon-colored hair, a curling mustache, a tufted chin of the same hue, and a high craggy face, all running to a great hook of the nose, like the beak of an eagle. His skin was tanned a brown-red by much exposure to the wind and sun. In height he was tall, and his figure was thin and loose-jointed, but stringy and hard-bitten. One eye was entirely covered by its lid, which lay flat over an empty socket, but the other danced and sparkled with a most roguish light, darting here and there with a twinkle of humor and criticism and intelligence, the whole fire of his soul bursting through that one narrow cranny.

His dress was as noteworthy as his person. A rich purple doublet and cloak was marked on the lapels with a strange scarlet device shaped like a wedge. Costly lace hung round his shoulders, and amid its soft folds there smoldered the dull red of a heavy golden chain. A knight's belt at his waist and a knight's golden spurs twinkling from his doeskin riding-boots proclaimed his rank, and on the wrist of his left gauntlet there sat a demure little hooded falcon of a breed which in itself was a mark of dignity of the owner. Of weapons he had none, but a mandolin was slung by a black silken band over his back, and the high brown end projected above his shoulder. Such was the man, quaint, critical, masterful, with a touch of what is formidable behind it, who now surveyed the opposing groups of armed men and angry monks with an eye which commanded their attention.

"Excusez!" said he, in a lisping French. "Excusez, mes amis! I had thought to arouse from prayer or meditation, but never have I seen such a holy exercise as this under an abbey's roof, with swords for breviaries and archers for acolytes. I fear that I have come amiss, and yet I ride on an errand from one who permits no delay."

The Abbot, and possibly the sacrist also, had begun to realise that events had gone a great deal farther than they had intended, and that without an extreme scandal it was no easy matter for them to save their dignity and the good name of Waverley. Therefore, in spite of the debonair, not to say disrespectful, bearing of the newcomer, they rejoiced at his appearance and intervention.

"I am the Abbot of Waverley, fair son," said the prelate. "If your message deal with a public matter it may be fitly repeated in the chapter-house; if not I will give you audience in my own chamber; for it is clear to me that you are a gentle man of blood and coat-armor who would not lightly break in upon the business of our court—a business which, as you have remarked, is little welcome to men of peace like myself and the brethren of the rule of Saint Bernard."

"Pardieu! Father Abbot," said the stranger. "One had but to glance at you and your men to see that the business was indeed little to your taste, and it may be even less so when I say that rather than see this young person in the window, who hath a noble bearing, further molested by these archers, I will myself adventure my person on his behalf."

The Abbot's smile turned to a frown at these frank words. "It would become you better, sir, to deliver the message of which you say that you are the bearer, than to uphold a prisoner against the rightful judgment of a court."

The stranger swept the court with his questioning eye. "The message is not for you, good father Abbot. It is for one whom I know not. I have been to his house, and they have sent me hither. The name is Nigel Loring."

"It is for me, fair sir."

"I had thought as much. I knew your father, Eustace Loring, and though he would have made two of you, yet he has left his stamp plain enough upon your face."

"You know not the truth of this matter," said the Abbot. "If you are a loyal man, you will stand aside, for this young man hath grievously offended against the law, and it is for the King's lieges to give us their support."

"And you have haled him up for judgment," cried the stranger with much amusement. "It is as though a rookery sat in judgment upon a falcon. I warrant that you have found it easier to judge than to punish. Let me tell you, father Abbot, that this standeth not aright. When powers such as these were given to the like of you, they were given that you might check a brawling underling or correct a drunken woodman, and not that you might drag the best blood in England to your bar and set your archers on him if he questioned your findings."

The Abbot was little used to hear such words of reproof uttered in so stern a voice under his own abbey roof and before his listening monks. "You may perchance find that an Abbey court has more powers than you wot of, Sir Knight," said he, "if knight indeed you be who are so uncourteous and short of speech. Ere we go further, I would ask your name and style?"

The stranger laughed. "It is easy to see that you are indeed men of peace," said he proudly. "Had I shown this sign," and he touched the token upon his lapels, "whether on shield or pennon, in the marches of France or Scotland, there is not a cavalier but would have known the red pile of Chandos."

Gascon, John Chandos, the Seneschal of Aquitaine, the friend and companion of the Black Prince, the mirror of English chivalry, the pink of knight-errantry, the hero already of fifty desperate enterprises, a man known and honored from end to end of Europe! Nigel gazed at him as one who sees a vision. The archers stood back abashed, while the monks crowded closer to stare at the famous soldier of the French wars. The Abbot abated his tone, and a smile came to his angry face.

"We are indeed men of peace, Sir John," said he; "yet stout as are our Abbey walls, they are not so thick that the fame of your exploits has not passed through them and reached our ears. If it be your pleasure to take an interest in this young and misguided Squire, it is not for us to thwart your kind intention or to withhold such grace as you request. I am glad indeed that he hath one who can set him so fair an example for a friend."

"I thank you for your courtesy, good father Abbot," said Chandos carelessly. "This young Squire has, however, a better friend than myself, one who is kinder to those he loves and more terrible to those he hates. It is from him I bear a message."

"I pray you, fair and honored sir," said Nigel, "that you will tell me what is the message that you bear."

"The message, mon ami, is that your friend comes into these parts and would have a night's lodging at the manor-house of Tilford for the love and respect that he bears your family."

"Nay, he is most welcome," said Nigel, "and yet I hope that he is one who can relish a soldier's fare and sleep under a humble roof, for indeed we can but give our best, poor as it is."

"He is indeed a soldier and a good one," Chandos answered, laughing, "and I warrant he has slept in rougher quarters than Tilford Manor-house."

"I have few friends, fair sir," said Nigel, with a puzzled face. "I pray you give me this gentleman's name."

"His name is Edward."

"Sir Edward Mortimer of Kent, perchance, or is it Sir Edward Brocas of whom the Lady Ermyntrude talks?"

"Nay, he is known as Edward only, and if you ask a second name it is Plantagenet, for he who comes to seek the shelter of your roof is your liege lord and mine, the King's high majesty, Edward of England."

CHAPTER VI.

As in a dream Nigel heard these stupendous and incredible words. As in a dream also he had a vision of a smiling and conciliatory Abbot, of the obsequious sacrist, and of a band of archers who cleared a path for him and for the King's messenger through the motley crowd who had choked the entrance of the Abbey court. A minute later he was walking by the side of Chandos through the peaceful cloister, and in front in the open archway of the great gate was the broad yellow road between its borders of green meadow-land. The spring air was the sweeter and the more fragrant for that chill dread of dishonor and captivity which had so recently frozen his ardent heart. He had already passed the portal when a hand plucked at his sleeve and he turned to find himself confronted by the brown face and hazel eyes of the archer who had interfered in his behalf.

"Well," said Aylward, "what have you to say to me, young sir?"

"What can I say, my good fellow, save that I thank you with all my heart? By Saint Paul! If you had been my blood brother you could not have stood by me more stoutly."

"Nay! but this is not enough."

Nigel colored with vexation, and the more so as Chandos was listening with his critical smile to their conversation. "If you had heard what was said in the court," said he, "you would understand that I am not blessed at this moment with much of this world's gear. The black death and the monks have between them been heavy upon our estate. Willingly would I give you a handful of gold for your assistance, since that is what you seem to crave; but indeed I have it not, and so once more I say that you must be satisfied with my thanks."

"Your gold is nothing to me," said Aylward shortly, "nor would you buy my loyalty if you filled my wallet with rose nobles, so long as you were not a man after my own heart. But I have seen you back the yellow horse, and I have seen you face the Abbot of Waverley, and you are such a master as I would very gladly serve if you have by chance a place for such a man. I have seen your following, and I doubt not that they were stout fellows in your grandfather's time; but which of them now would draw a bow-string to his ear? Through you I have left the service of the Abbey of Waverley, and where can I look now for a post? If I stay here I am all undone like a fretted bowstring."

"Nay, there can be no difficulty there," said Chandos. "Pardieu! a roistering, swaggering dare-devil archer is worth his price on the French border. There are two hundred such who march behind my own person, and I would ask nothing better than to see you among them."

"I thank you, noble sir, for your offer," said Aylward, "and I had rather follow your banner than many another one, for it is well known that it goes ever forward, and I have heard enough of the wars to know that there are small pickings for the man who lags behind. Yet, if the Squire will have me, I would choose to fight under the five roses of Loring, for though I was born in the hundred of Easebourne and the rape of Chichester, yet I have grown up and learned to use the longbow in these parts, and as the free son of a free franklin I had rather serve my own neighbor than a stranger."

"My good fellow," said Nigel, "I have told you that I could in no wise reward you for such service."

A GRAND KIDNEY MEDICINE

"Fruit-a-tives" Cured Him When Everything Else Failed.

Ulverton, Que., March 17th, 1909.

I wish to place on record, for the sake of others who may be suffering in the same way that I suffered, that no medicine I ever took did me so much real good as "Fruit-a-tives" did.

I suffered for many years with Kidney Trouble, with bad pain in the back.

I took every known kidney remedy and kidney pill, but nothing gave me any relief, and I was getting discouraged.

I was advised to try "Fruit-a-tives" and did so—and this medicine cured me when everything else failed.

I used altogether fifteen boxes of "Fruit-a-tives," and from the outset they gave me relief and I am now practically well again; no pain, no distress, and all symptoms of kidney disease have entirely left me. I am very thankful to be once more well, and I freely make this statement for the sake of others who may suffer as I did. To them, I say try "Fruit-a-tives," as they are a grand kidney medicine.

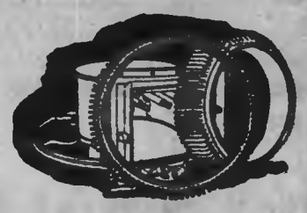
The "Hecla" Furnace



And The Steel Ribbed Firepots

The greater the radiating surface of the firepot, the greater the heat obtained from the fuel.

In most furnaces, the firepots are made with castiron flanges or points, to increase the radiating surface. Being castiron, these flanges take up so much space that only a few can be used.

In the "Hecla" Furnace, we use steel ribs instead of castiron flanges. By applying our Patented Fused Joint Idea, we are able to fuse 97 steel ribs into the Firepot in the same space where before we were able to cast only 17 iron ones.

This gives the "Hecla" three times the radiating surface of any other firepot—and effects a saving of from ¼ to ⅓ in fuel, as proved by a three year's test.

This is only one of the many features that are exclusive with "Hecla" Furnaces. They are all described in our new catalogue which we send free on request. Write for a copy.

AN EARTHQUAKE MIRACLE.

One of Many Strange Stories Told by the Survivors at Messina.

Many curious and improbable stories were told in Messina after its disaster, according to Robert Hichens, who has written for the Century Magazine of his experiences and observations "After the Earthquake." One of the strangest of the stories he heard he tells as follows:

"A woman after the shock was buried alone in her room. The door was blocked by fallen masonry. There was no means of ingress or egress, and the rest of the house had fallen in ruins. She was uninjured, but she was imprisoned. In this room she remained for eight days. It was a bedroom and contained no food. During the eight days she gave birth to twins. When searchers, with picks and spades, dug down to where she was they found her and the twins strong and well. They took them out and questioned her as to how she had managed to live—why she had not starved.

"'Every day a woman came and brought me food,' she answered.

"They pointed out that this was impossible, as there was no means of getting into or out of the room and the rest of the house had fallen.

"'I know,' she said. 'Nevertheless it is true. I do not know how she came or went. She never spoke to me or looked at me. She was there each day, put food for me on the table and disappeared. I had never seen her before and do not know who she was.'

"They asked for some description of the visitor, but could obtain no details.

"This woman was not raving. She was in good health, well nourished and had nursed the twins, who are thriving. She persists in her story.

"I told it to a Sicilian.

"'It was the Madonna who brought her food,' he said. 'She often does such things.'"

A Three Legged Capital.

The only apology for the decision of the South African convention about the capital is that any other would have wrecked the scheme of union. But the fact that it was an unavoidable sacrifice to local jealousies does not make the arrangement desirable or even save it from ridicule. The legislative assembly or federal parliament is to sit at Cape Town, while the executive—i. e., the government offices—are to be at Pretoria. As a crowning absurdity the legal or supreme court of appeal is to be at Bloemfontein. Thus the provincial pride, not untinged with cupidity, of the Cape Colony, the Orange Colony and the Transvaal has each in its turn been provided for, with the result that South Africa has no capital, or, rather, has three capitals.—Saturday Review.

From Gold to Copper.

There is no clearer example of the mining of the new day than these great copper camps set down in the heart of the old time gold country. Gold mining meant fortunes to the few. The argonauts came and gathered their millions and left the land almost as wild and unconquered as they found it. Few permanent towns and cities mark their trail. But copper enlists an army in its service. It sets big buildings rocking with the roar of machinery where the gold hunter pitched his tent and builds its railroads where he packed his mule trains. Science steps down from a Pullman now where romance tramped with blanket roll and rifle and gold pan, and telephone and telegraph wires follow the trails of the express riders.—Out West.

Cause For Haste.

"Wot are you breathin' so hard for, Dusty?"

"A shoemaker run me out o' town for most a mile."

"Wot r'filed him?"

"He runs a quick repair shop, an' he got mad 'cause I handed him a couple of boot heels an' a shoestring an' told him I'd call fer de shoes in half 'n hour."

Uncertainty of Lion Hunting.

A lion is a fearful animal. Do not run away with the idea that he is not dangerous. You may have luck to kill twenty, but No. 21 will likely get you. However careful and good a shot you may be, there is the greatest danger in tackling a lion. I remember Colonel H., who had lived in Africa for nine years and during that time had never seen a lion, and the first lion he saw he wounded and got badly mauled, saying to me: "Here, man; you have been here only sixteen months and have killed five lions. Chuck it, man, while you are in luck. They are bound to get you if you go on hunting them."—Forest and Stream.

Practical.

Elderly Gentleman (putting his head in at the door)—Mrs. Wilkins, will you be my wife? I have £2,000 and a good home. I'll give you three minutes to make up your mind.

Mrs. Wilkins (promptly)—I've £3,000 and a better house than yours, and I'll give you three minutes to get out of this.—London Tit-Bits.

Women's Courage.

"It is not unusual," said the observant man, "for women to die with the stoicism of Mrs. Farmer. Women at the hour of death have always had more strength and calmness and power of endurance than men. I don't know why, unless it is that they have more religion and greater faith in the betterment of their condition in the hereafter. The few women who have been executed here in America have been remarkable for their calmness, while it is a historical fact that during the French revolution it was the women who exhibited the greatest courage and strength of character upon the guillotine."—New York Press.

A Job For the Armies.

Camille Flammarion has revived his old scheme of digging a geothermic well 200 meters in diameter to ascertain the internal constitution of the earth. The imaginative Flammarion proposes to find an economic and almost inexhaustible source of heat to verify the rate of caloric increase, to find out if the materials constituting the terrestrial globe are in a state of fusion—in a word, to do rationally and directly what has been done slightly and a little by chance up to the present time in mines. To carry out the work the standing armies of the world are to be called into requisition.—Scientific American.

"S O S" Supplants "C Q D."

The first distress signal used when the wireless became popular on ships was C Q D. It has been changed to S O S. In the continental code it is made with three dots, three short dashes and three dots, while in the Morse it is three dots, dot, space and dot, three dots. The new distress signal has been adopted by the Berlin treaty and is now official all over the world.—Exchange.

TOOK NO CHANCES.

Young Bessemer Was Cautious as Well as Inventive.

The most trivial incidents have often originated the fortunes of our richest men. Take, for example, the fortunes made out of Bessemer steel. This genius, young Bessemer, had some idea of making steel out of iron, but a poor, newly married young man has no means of experimenting on a large scale. The story I must tell as I have heard it from an intimate friend of Bessemer and is a true tale. After Bessemer had in his small laboratory experimented with the metals and at last obtained the desired result by blowing air through melted iron he found in the bottom of the crucible a little lump of the famous steel. Now the question was how to make the discovery public. He put the lump of steel into his pocket and made his way to Nasmyth of steam hammer fame. Placing the metal on Nasmyth's desk, he told him that he had made this extraordinary discovery, which would revolutionize the whole metal world. Then came a little incident which shows what wonderful heads these Scotch financiers possess. What do you think Nasmyth said to his excited inventor?

"Eh, mon, it's vary risky to show your wonderful invention. The world is vary dishonest."

To which the aspiring inventor replied:

"Right, Mr. Nasmyth. I just calculated whom I was coming to see, so with my last half crown I registered the invention on my way."—London Strand Magazine.

Health Declines When Kidneys Fail

Savages.

In the New Hebrides are many islands whose interiors have never been visited by Europeans, for the simple reason that to attempt to do so would be to court certain death at the hands of the treacherous and vindictive natives. A little to the north of Assam, too, almost within sight of the tea gardens and the pretty bungalows of the planters, is the country of the Padamites, wherein no white man has dared to set his foot for at least 500 years past.

Punishment and Crime.

"She seems to be having a pretty good time now that she and her husband are separated," whispered the three girls in the corner as she entered the room.

"I don't blame her," said one. "He beat her, didn't he?"

They looked her over again.

"Well, I don't blame him for beating her," the third declared, "if she dressed like that. That red is awful."—Exchange.

Cause For Regret.

"I licked the stuffin' out o' Dick Smith this mornin'."

"You bad boy! Aren't you sorry for it?"

"Yeasum—awful sorry. I jest found out that he's goin' ter have a birthday party tomorrow."—Cleveland Leader.

WOULD YOU CONVICT ON CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE?

THE INNOCENT CRIMINAL

A TRUE STORY

(Copyright, 1909, by the New York Herald Co. All Rights Reserved.)

GEORGE GORDON BATTLE, formerly Assistant District Attorney of New York county, says:—

"Circumstantial evidence offers the only means by which perjured direct testimony may be detected and shown to be false. It is much easier for a witness to lie concerning a whole transaction which he says has happened under his eyes than for him to swear falsely to a collection of simple circumstances. Circumstantial evidence involves so many separate facts that the chance for perjury or error is largely eliminated.

"There is some danger that an innocent man may be wrongfully convicted through direct and perjured testimony. Certain cases of this kind present a very serious problem. If three men are in a room and one of them kills another the third may be able to save or convict the one who committed the deed through his statement of what he says he saw. The best weapon of justice here would be circumstantial evidence, if it could be obtained. Irrefutable circumstances placed in relation to the direct testimony would prove it right or wrong beyond question. The difficulty lies not in too much circumstantial evidence, but in too little of it.

"Rules of law direct how cases of purely circumstantial evidence must be conducted, and offer every protection. The case must be absolutely complete and point to but one conceivable hypothesis—that of guilt—to secure conviction. The innocent defendant is in no danger here. The perjurer is the threat that confronts him."

THE narrow side street near the Place St. Michel was waking to its usual degree of activity with the clatter of passing market carts and the shrill whistling of an occasional gamin busily set upon some early morning errand. Workmen in blue blouses, their eyes still sleep heavy, tramped on their way, the thudding of their nailed shoes echoing from wall to wall where the rows of three storied, flat faced houses showed as yet no sign of life. It was the banker's clerk, coming from his home, at the end furthest removed from the square, who first noticed something unusual at the shabby little shop of Madame Martine.

He was on his way to breakfast and, having arisen somewhat earlier than was his wont, he sauntered leisurely, taking pleasure in the keen, fresh air and the thin, ruddy shafts of sunlight that vaulted a garden wall and shot athwart the ends of the street. He knew every stone and crack and corner of the block, having lived in respectable poverty within its peaceful limits during a quarter of a century. He knew, moreover, that there was not a shop on either side due to open for a full half hour or more.

It was with surprise and curiosity that he stopped before the entrance to Madame Martine's. The place had been opened, for one of the double doors stood wide, and in that fact alone was matter for comment. But what appeared more remarkable was that the shutters had not been taken down, that the half of the door remained closed and that there came from within no stir or sound of sweeping.

The banker's clerk had the interest concerning small happenings of the neighborhood that was his by right of long residence. He had in mind to pass a word of greeting with Madame Martine if she should be about, and he peered within; but the place, so far as he could see, was empty. He moved to the threshold. The shelves of the shop, neatly piled with boxes and rolls of fabrics, faded into darkness at the rear, where neither door nor window had been unbarred.

As he stood looking into the unlighted, silent room a chill as of an undefined danger crept upon him through the doorway. A sense of vague alarm oppressed him. He turned for reassurance to the cheerful, sunlit street and then stepped through the doorway. There came no response to the noise of his entrance. He called Madame Martine by name. Still the unbroken silence, that began to press upon him like a tangible weight. He called once more and then panic took him in its unreasoning grip and he fled.

He found a gendarme in the Place St. Michel. A tale of terror was on the tip of his tongue, but somehow it would not run into words.

"Madame—Madame Martine does not answer," he gasped.

The gendarme regarded him with a smile.

"Does she not? What then?"

"I beg you to examine the place—the little shop here. I fear something is wrong."

"What should be wrong?"

"I know nothing of it, but Madame Martine's door is open. She never opens at this time. The shutters are still up. I get no response from calling. It should be looked to."

The gendarme, as in duty bound, accompanied the clerk to the shop, assuring him meanwhile that this was a strangely trifling matter to excite such alarm.

Discovery of the Murder.

As they went in he passed his hand down the edge of the door to the lock. Plain proof that something was amiss met him here, for the lock, ancient, defective and ill made, had been battered from its socket and its tongue had dropped within the mechanism.

With professional alertness the gendarme walked through the shop quickly to the rear and threw wide the window upon the courtyard, admitting a flood of light. The boxes and hanging garments about the place were undisturbed. If there had been robbery evidently the object had not been Mme. Martine's stock in trade. A small door to the left of the rear window showed the foot of a flight of narrow stairs. Motioning to the banker's clerk to follow him the gendarme began the ascent.

The stairs turned upon themselves and the two men were in darkness until they came to the landing of the first floor, where another rear window lighted their way. The gendarme was in the lead. As he was pressing forward alertly along the passage the clerk gave a frightened cry and stood staring. The other was around and back to him in a step. The clerk's wavering finger pointed to the wall of the stairway above the top step. There on the white plaster was the scarlet imprint of a hand with fingers distended.

Convinced now that a serious matter was toward, the gendarme hurried along the hall. The clerk would have hung back but the other flung a rude hand upon his shoulder and thrust him ahead. It was no time to lose sight of the man who had first directed attention to the house and its condition. At the front the hall led them to a door standing ajar and allowing a glimpse of a dimly lighted room. They pushed inside, the gendarme determinedly, the clerk fearfully. A scene of horror and utmost confusion was presented as the door swung back.

The body of an aged woman, instantly recognized by the clerk in spite of its disfigurements as that of Mme. Martine, lay outstretched on the floor. She had been stabbed repeatedly and the weapon used by the murderer, a keen, thin bladed kitchen knife, remained where it had been driven by the final blow, in her left shoulder. Articles of clothing and the fragments of a broken chair were strewn about. These as well as the floor and the covers of the little iron bed were spotted and smeared, indicating that there had been a struggle as remarkable as it must have been desperate. The victim, though nearly sixty years old, was heavily built, and, as the clerk recalled, had retained unusual strength and activity.

After a swift survey of the scene of the crime to gather the essential facts the gendarme turned immediately in search of some clew that would serve to throw some light on the motive or the perpetrator. In a corner stood a heavy chest of drawers of old mahogany. Each of the receptacles stood open, but his eye caught deep scars and gashes along the edge of the upper drawer. He examined it closely. From the construction of the piece of furniture it was evident that the top had been intended as a place of safekeeping for valuables. The wood here was nearly an inch in thickness and there were two locks instead of one, as on the others. Considerable effort must have been employed, he decided, in forcing this drawer open. A litter of papers filled the larger compartment. At one end a small space had been partitioned off, and the gendarme thought it likely that here the aged woman had kept her savings.

As a formality he searched the other room on the second floor and the whole upper floor before leaving to make his report. He kept the clerk within arm's reach. Nothing but empty boxes and damaged furniture rewarded his further examination.

The Boy Bluet.

"Did no one else live here?" he asked the clerk.

"There was a boy about seventeen years old who used to help her in the shop. I think he slept in the garret," answered the other, and the gendarme cursed him for his delay in mentioning the matter. They climbed to a little floored space under the roof that was lighted by a tiny square window at the front of the house and found there a mattress and some blankets but no trace of the shopkeeper's assistant.

Having roughly covered the preliminary ground of the crime the gendarme hurried off for the nearest commissary of police, taking the clerk with him and deaf to protests from one who had not missed a day at his bank for twenty years. Pending further examination into the murder, the commissary, on hearing the story, placed the unfortunate little man under arrest.

Picquard, the official, who now took charge of the affair, proceeded to the house accompanied by the gendarme and a physician and made a thorough examination. The woman, it was discovered, had been dead about ten hours, which would throw the time of the murder back to some little time before midnight. Neighbors called in to tell what they knew confirmed the obvious suspicion of robbery as a motive by repeating rumors of hoarded wealth which had circulated throughout the quarter concerning Mme. Martine. She was reputed to have a large sum in gold concealed in her house.

The commissary's attention was immediately centred upon the missing assistant, Anton Bluet. He had not been seen since the evening of the preceding day. He was described as short but muscular and strong for his years. He had been in the employ of Mme. Martine for three years, and during that time had given no trouble in the neighborhood. He was not communicative and had no friends, so far as any one knew. No one else besides these two had lived in the house since the aged woman had dismissed a former assistant.

While the body was being prepared for removal Picquard made an important discovery. Grasped in the right hand he found a little tangle of human hair. It was not her own; the strands were short, and the immediate supposition was that she had torn the lock from her murderer while attempting to defend herself. The only other direct clew was a large handkerchief of coarse texture drawn and creased by tension, which was near the body. The commissary thought that it might have been used by the assailant to obtain a strangling hold about the woman's throat. Those who had known Mme. Martine were unanimous in declaring that it could not have been her property, since it was a matter for remark among her customers that she never had any but the finest and daintiest linen for her personal use.

No one living in the street had heard an outcry or other alarming noise during the night, but a draper, whose house was opposite, came forward to inform Picquard of a circumstance which had attracted his attention. Its significance did not develop until later. He said that he frequently was a sufferer from insomnia, and that, having been uneasy about three o'clock in the morning, he had left his bed and thrown open a window looking into the street. At that time he had noticed that there was a light in the little window of the garret occupied by Bluet. He had watched this curiously for some minutes, wondering idly what should keep the boy awake at such an hour. Looking again not long afterward, he had seen that the light was gone.

The broken and battered lock on the outer door offered an apparent contradiction at the outset in the forming of the most reasonable hypothesis. On the surface this bespoke an intruder from without. Picquard made a careful examination of the door and discovered what had been overlooked at first, that there were marks of blows upon the inside plate. The outer parts of the lock were marred and scratched by long usage, but he noticed that scars on the inside showed bright metal. So far as he could determine no blows had been struck from the street side in the recent attack on the lock. It was thus plain that a rather clumsy attempt to conceal the movements of the murderer had been made, and he was able to re-establish his working hypothesis with renewed confidence.

His Absence Suspicious.

What offered the greatest puzzle was the continued absence of Anton Bluet. The incident of the lock bespoke a degree of cunning that could not well be reconciled with such an error as slight. In turning this phase over the commissary resolved not to leave the house for several hours. It occurred to him that the boy, whether guilty or entirely innocent, could not long delay in returning with some explanation that would be of first importance. With absolute proof in reserve that the door had not been forced from the outside, Picquard felt that the explanation would be worth hearing.

He was completing his notes of the case in his usual methodical manner when the gendarme entered and saluted. The man had not remitted his individual interest with the appearance of his superior on the scene, and had been quietly prowling about the place on an investigation of his own. He now reported that he had heard strange noises from under the floor of the shop. Picquard descended with him and listened. When the sound of their footsteps had ceased a sharp rap, like the impact of a pebble, came from the flooring. A few seconds later came another. In the corner across the shop from the stairway the commissary noticed a ring and staple and on approaching found that there was a closely fitting trapdoor. The top was flush with the floor and was unencumbered. He laid hold upon the ring and raised a section of flooring about two feet square.

A cry came up to them from the cellar below and smudged against the darkness they could make out a face peering up at them.

"Who are you?" demanded Picquard.

"Anton Bluet," came the answer, "and I wish you would tell me what all this means."

"Come out, Anton Bluet, and we will take great pleasure in enlightening you," said the commissary.

"I can't get out."

There was, in fact, no ladder into the pit. The gendarme laid himself flat by the verge and swinging down reached one of Bluet's hands. In this manner he dragged him up until Picquard could grasp him under the shoulders. Covered with dust and grime, the boy stood staring at them wide eyed.

"Now," said the commissary, "perhaps you will explain to me what you were doing in the cellar."

"I have been there all night," said the boy. "I went down last night to get some wine for Mme. Martine, taking a light with me. The wine is kept in the front part of the cellar. When I returned the trap had been shut, I know not how."

"And in getting down, did you jump?"

"No; there was a ladder. But that had been lifted out. It is a strange affair. I cried out until I was exhausted, and then went to sleep, waking just a moment ago. I heard steps and threw bits of plaster to attract attention. But what is the matter?"

"Little enough," said Picquard. "Your mistress has been murdered and I am now about to arrest you as the murderer."

Bluet returned his look steadily.

"But you cannot. I was in the cellar all night."

"That is something you can enlarge upon later."

"But when I tell you I was in the cellar!" cried the boy.

Problem of the Boy.

The commissary regarded his prisoner with interest. As yet not the slightest trace of fear had been exhibited by Bluet. His was a thin, pock marked face, almost expressionless. His skull was long and rather pointed at the top, but with a broad forehead, and set upon shoulders that showed remarkable physical development. His figure was squat and sturdy. Picquard found him no ordinary problem.

"You do not seem to care much about the murder of your mistress."

"No," said Bluet indifferently, "but I did not kill her."

"Was she good to you?"

"No," came the answer, with a gleam in the cold eye and a voice that took on its first touch of feeling; "she cheated me."

"Oh ho!"

"In my wages," added Bluet.

It was all plain to the commissary now. The boy had supplied the motive himself. Clearly Bluet was morally obtuse and lacking in normal perception, with hate as his one living sentiment. He was convinced that he had to deal with a natural and precocious criminal.

"Are you going to arrest me?" asked Bluet, with a vicious, sidelong glance at the commissary.

"I certainly am, my little man," answered the functionary, and he ordered the gendarme forward with a nod of the head.

But at the word the boy turned from passivity to unexpected and animal like action. As the gendarme advanced he dodged nimbly about back of the open trap and stood at bay on the narrow ledge, crouching against the wall, his lips drawn in an ugly snarl. The gendarme made as if to step about the trap to the right and halted as Bluet whipped an open knife from under his blouse and held it clutched ready for use.

The figures in the little drama held their tense positions for a moment. It was the commissary himself who brought the situation to an end. With a sweep of his foot he slammed the trap shut and in the same movement strode across it and launched himself upon the boy. He bore him to the floor, holding the hand with the knife in an iron grip. The gendarme quickly wrenched the weapon from the prisoner, who bit and scratched, resisting desperately, and finally bound him safely with arms behind his back. The question of disposing of the little terror was solved shortly afterward when the squad of police who were to remove the body arrived. Bluet was hurried to prison under guard.

Before leaving the house Picquard found a ladder, undoubtedly the one used for descending into the cellar through the trap door. It had been tossed carelessly into the courtyard, apparently from the rear doorway, as one of the rungs was freshly splintered. He also made a careful drawing of the bloody imprint on the wall of the stairway. A final discovery, however, served to top his case and furnish the keystone to the structure of evidence.

He determined upon a thorough search of the garret occupied by Bluet at the top of the house, and, climbing there, began to toss down the bedding and odds and ends of clothing to the landing below. There was a lamp standing on an empty box, but he did not remove that. Last of all he pulled the mattress aside and threw it over the edge. As it fell he was aware of a metallic sound, and he descended to seek its source. There was a hard lump inside the ticking at one end about the size of two fists. With his knife he ripped an opening. He drew out a leather bag, tightly bound with a cord at the neck. On unwinding this he disclosed a collection of gold and silver coins. He counted the treasure on the spot, spreading it out upon the mattress, and found that the amount was a little more than three thousand francs.

Building His Theory.

The handkerchief that had been found near the body could not be identified positively, but was such a one as the boy might have owned. In any event it offered no obstacle. The imprint of the hand was somewhat blurred, owing to the medium in which it had been made, but when Bluet's handprint was taken at the prison the resemblance, after allowing for imperfections, was very close. A very strong point was that furnished by the hair found in the dead grip of the victim. It was carefully compared with that of Bluet and was exactly similar in shade and length.

Picquard believed, justly, that he had established a striking case of circumstantial evidence, based on clear and spontaneous deduction. His prisoner, in the first place, had proved himself to be of a violent nature, unsusceptible to ordinary moral conceptions. Bluet had admitted a dislike and a grievance against his employer, the outgrowth of some real or fancied irregularity in the payment of his wages, and had shown his willingness to commit murderous acts. The commissary was able to construct the following theory of the crime:—

Bluet planned the crime carefully, bringing to bear such intelligence as he possessed and revealing, in fact, no little skill in devising methods for throwing pursuit off his trail. He learned where Mme. Martine kept her money, and at an opportune time attacked her with a knife. After killing her he went immediately to the courtyard to remove the stains from his person, but carelessly placed his hand on the wall when starting down stairs. Returning he forced open the drawer and took the bag of money, with which he ascended to his room.

As Picquard saw it the boy's brain development was defective, and while he possessed a certain savage cunning, he could not carry out the concealment of his crime in its logical details. This was evidenced, he thought, by the selection of such a place as the mattress for hiding the proceeds of the murder.

Carrying the matter forward, it took Bluet some time to open and sew up the ticking. While he was in the garret the draper across the street noticed his light and noticed again when the light was extinguished. Descending to the shop, the boy battered the lock of the outer door to make it appear that entrance had been forced, but either was not clever enough to attack it from the outside or feared to raise an alarm if he should open it.

After everything had been prepared he drew up the trapdoor, threw the ladder into the yard and let himself into the cellar, drawing the trap after him. In this way he obtained seeming support for his defence, based upon a mysterious house breaker who had removed the ladder and imprisoned him.

From the testimony of the draper alone it was quite evident that Bluet's story would not hold. Even supposing that some one else had been in the house, there would have been nothing to draw this some one to the garret with a light. And it was well established that the light was there. If the suspect had not used the lamp, who could have? And how could Bluet have been shut in the cellar from before midnight when the draper saw the light at three o'clock in the morning?

As to the money, it was unthinkable that one in Bluet's position should have such a sum as three thousand francs of his own. He could command but a small sum each week for his services, and the most frugal hoarding would not have sufficed.

Thus argued Picquard, and he was quite satisfied with his conclusions. So were the prosecuting authorities. There was no one who entertained the slightest doubt of Bluet's guilt, nor could any one suggest a weakness in the evidence against him. There was a brief trial ending in speedy conviction. The boy remained hostile and sullen throughout and on several occasions attempted to break from the guards. He was duly executed at the appointed time.

* * * * * * *

Nearly a year after the date on which the murder of Mme. Martine had been marked as officially cancelled a barber who had a shop in another street not far from the Place St. Michel was taken in the act of murder and sentenced to death. In his cell he made a detailed confession, setting forth that he was the murderer of Mme. Martine.

Confession Is Too Late.

He had made a friend of Bluet, encouraged him in his ill feeling against his employer and learned from him the interior arrangements of the house. Late on the afternoon preceding the crime he had passed the shop and finding that both the aged woman and her assistant were absent seized the opportunity to conceal himself beneath a counter before they returned. In the evening Bluet had come down stairs and entered the cellar, as described to the commissary. The barber had crawled softly to the trap, lifted out the ladder and imprisoned the boy beneath. He had then ascended to Mme. Martine's room and killed her with his own knife. He had pried open the drawer and taken therefrom nearly five thousand francs. The police were able to corroborate his story in this particular, discovering most of this sum with some papers of Mme. Martine's in the barber's home.

In regard to his presence in the garret, the barber made an explanation that showed Bluet in a new aspect. The boy, he said, had a passion for hoarding money, and for years had fed it by secret and skilful thefts. He had acquired a large sum before entering Mme. Martine's service and since then had been able to add to it considerably, taking a coin at a time, and on one occasion stealing a handful of gold from her store in the chest when she carelessly left it open. It was to find Bluet's treasure, the barber said, that he had climbed to the garret and lighted the lamp which attracted the draper's attention.

Unsuccessful in this search, he had descended to the shop. Here he had been confronted by the locked door, of which Bluet carried the key. He had found an iron weight and had been able to break the fastening and escape.

As to the details, the barber confessed he had the crime in mind for some months and had planned to direct suspicion to Bluet. Although he could not foresee how materially events were to aid him, he had supplied himself with some of the boy's hair while cutting it, and this he had placed in the hand of the murdered woman. The handkerchief was his. He had used it to prevent his victim's outcry. Alarmed by the noise made by Bluet in the cellar immediately after committing the crime, he had run to the head of the stairs, thus leaving the bloody handprint.

In view of these revelations the boy who had paid for the crime with his life appeared as nothing more than a thief, abnormal, savage and criminal to a degree, yet innocent of the offence charged against him. The barber was executed a few weeks after his confession.

The Eternal Thing.

By R. B. SHELTON.

The fishing was bad. Even the judge, who had whipped the pools along the Little Beaver for years, could not remember a day when the trout had ignored the tempting flies so persistently and annoyingly.

When they gathered on the bank of the stream for lunch—the judge, the bishop and the banker—the subject of fishing, after a few tart remarks by the judge and the banker which made the bishop elevate his eyebrows in mild reproof, was tactfully avoided.

So eager were they not to mention or even think of those miserable trout that they talked of everything, anything, and finally the conversation drifted into an uncharted channel.

"Romance," said the judge dictatorially, taking up a remark of the banker, "is dead. There is no room for it in this hustling age. It has gone the way of sentiment and old time courtesy and the gentlemen of the old school."

"Good riddance to it," said the banker lazily. "Let it go. It has given way to better things—good horse sense, for instance."

The bishop looked at the purling water. He was a gray haired man, with kindly eyes and the most winning smile. He was smiling now as he turned to the two men.

"You are both wrong," said he, with deep conviction. "Romance is eternal! You can't kill it with a club or with hustle. But, of course, you two would not admit it even if you saw it."

The judge bristled. The banker roused himself, and his pipe glowed like a blast furnace.

"Romance," grunted the judge, with carefully unpleasant emphasis. "You old cloistered dreamer, you want to rub elbows more with the world."

"IRREGULAR, MOST IRREGULAR," SAID THE BISHOP.

"Dollars and cents, dollars and cents," chanted the banker. "That's what the world is really after."

The bishop smiled with patient toleration. "Dear, dear, I'm glad I haven't the perspective of you two!" he said. "What a queer world you see through your black goggles! Romance! Why, that's what makes the world go round."

The banker and the judge exchanged knowing winks. They looked at the bishop with unconcealed pity.

"Speed up a bit and catch up with the procession," the banker advised.

"Perhaps you're the ones that are behind it," the bishop suggested, with a chuckle. "That reminds me," he continued. "Just twenty-five years ago, on this very spot, when I was a young minister, I was fishing here alone. You know Robert Harding, of course, you two," he interrupted himself—"fine, cynical beggar like you; never saw any romance in life and is all dollars and bustle, isn't he?"

"Well, so he is," growled the judge. "What's Robert Harding got to do with romance?"

"Oh, nothing much now, I suppose," laughed the bishop, "only it happens that twenty-five years ago there was a big camp of city people a few miles from here, and Robert Harding and May Fenelon were there with their parents. Those parents most unromantically had arranged unpleasing matches for those two, and they jumped into a canoe one morning and paddled down here and got me to marry them."

"Wouldn't have thought it was in him," said the banker. "Hello! Who's this?"

Down the stream came a canoe driven by the powerful strokes of the man at the paddle. In the bow was an attractive—a decidedly attractive—girl, who also essayed to paddle, but whose strokes really counted for little except as "moral support," as the bishop suggested chucklingly.

As soon as the man in the approaching canoe saw the little group on the bank he stopped paddling, looked sharply at the bishop and swung the craft to the bank.

"Are you Bishop Hale?" he asked excitedly.

"I am," the prelate admitted.

The young man turned quickly to the girl, who was flushing so beautifully that the judge and the banker forgot "hustle" and "dollars."

"What luck!" said the young man. "We were on our way to your camp! Sir, will you marry us?"

"Well, well," said the bishop. "Who are you, and what are you, and where did you come from, my eager young candidate?"

The young man smiled. "We're from the camp at the forks, just above here. This is an elopement, sir. We are running away from cruel parents—at any rate, they're bothering each of us to marry some one else, you know."

"Irregular, most irregular," said the bishop. "I have never married an eloping couple in my life except— However," he went on quickly, as he noted the blank expression of dismay on the two faces, "that doesn't argue that I may not act. Explain, if you please, very briefly, the circumstances that have induced you to—er—to take this step."

"A man with money and lots of power in his father's business," replied the young man, "which explains the young lady's position. As for mine, a very wealthy young woman whom my obstinate father prefers merely because he has so determined."

"I see," said the bishop. "You didn't tell me your name."

"Robert Harding," said the man in the canoe.

The judge and the banker both uttered a shout. "Did you speak?" asked the bishop sweetly, turning to them. Then he turned to the girl. "Do you fully realise the import of this step?" asked he.

"Indeed I do," said she. "If you'll please"— She glanced apprehensively over her shoulder in the direction from which they had just come.

The bishop's face was determined.

"Land!" he commanded. As the canoe shot to the bank it was the bishop himself who helped the girl out.

"Stand here—so—beneath this fir," he instructed. "Ned, Will," he went on, turning to the judge and the banker, "you two take your places here on the right. I haven't a prayer book with me, but I think I can go through the service with no omissions. You have no ring? Ned, let me have that ring of yours. If it's too large," he told the girl, smiling, "you can wrap it with a bit of string."

Through the still forest sounded the deep tones of the bishop's splendid voice. And all through that service there was a look of triumph on the bishop's face, and that look was directed at the wondering judge and the equally astonished banker.

* * * * * * *

The bishop, the judge and the banker, in the order named, had each kissed the bride. The canoe, with the young man bending to the paddle and the girl in the bow, had departed downstream, bombarded by pine needles, which the judge and the banker threw prodigally in lieu of rice.

It was only when Pierre, the head guide, touched the judge on the shoulder and declared they must certainly be starting if they wished to get downstream that night that the three men filed silently toward their forgotten canoes.

"Well," laughed the bishop, "for a saintly, cloistered, out of touch with the world dreamer I seem to have made a pretty fair guess about this romance business. Who's behind the procession, Will? Just tell me that, if you please."

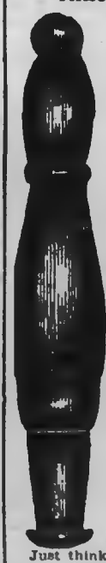
The banker grunted.

"Buck up, Baptiste," urged the judge to the guide in his canoe. "I suppose I must admit that romance got somewhat of a lease of life just now, but I don't care to encounter the irate parents that will be on its trail."

"Not a bad idea to keep in the dark for a bit," the bishop chuckled and added to the guide, "A little more steam, Jean."

BRONCHITIS,
Huskiness, Throat Catarrh

Delightful Cure Discovered That Cures Quickly.



Old-fashioned remedies were administered through the stomach only, but as it is impossible to swallow anything into the lungs, little benefit ever resulted.

Strong drugs, such as opium, chlorodyne and cocaine, were resorted to, but did more harm than good.

Nowadays, when a doctor meets a case of catarrh — finds the throat filled with mucous—sore all the way down, he prescribes Catarrhozone because he knows it goes direct to the disease.

Catarrhozone cures by antiseptic balsams that are carried by the air you breathe direct to the source of the trouble.

It aids expectoration — clears away the phlegm—carries health-laden vapors to the sore, irritated tissues.

In one minute's experience decided relief with Catarrhozone and invariably it does cure every type of Catarrh, Bronchitis, Irritable throat and hoarseness.

Just think of it—a sure cure without noxious drugs—one that is guaranteed and delightfully pleasant as well. Catarrhozone only, complete for two months' use, $1.00; small (trial) size 50c, at all dealers.

CATARRHOZONE A SURE CURE.

The Watch of Wren's Sweetheart.

The betrothed of Sir Christopher Wren, the architect of St. Paul's cathedral, accidentally dropped her watch into a bucket of water. Knowing that her lover was an ingenious man, she sent it to him to be repaired. Wren's reply ran as follows: "Madam—The artificer, having never before mett with a drowned Watch, like an ignorant physician has been soe long about the cure that he hath made me very unquiet that your commands should be soe long deferred. However, I have sent the watch at last and envie the felicity of it, that it should be soe neer your side and soe often enjoy your Eye and be consulted by you how your Time shall pass while you employ your hands in excellent workes. But have a care of it, for I put such a Spell into it that every Beating of the Balance will tell you 'tis the pulse of my Heart which labors as much to serve you and more Trewly than the watch, for the watch I believe will sometimes lie, and sometimes perhaps be idle and unwilling to goe, having received so much injury by being in that bath that I dispair it abonld ever be a Trew Servant to you more. But as for me—unless you drown me too in my Teares—you may be confident I shall never cease to be your most affectionate, humble servant, Chr. Wren."

The Lesser Evil.

"So you believe in the duel?"

"I do," answered the resident in a somewhat impetuous community.

"Don't you know that the duel is a relic of barbarism?"

"I don't care. It's a heap safer than being shot at from behind a tree box."—Washington Star.

Before the Fire— or After?

WHEN are you going to find out whether the fire insurance you have paid for is really good or not—before or after the fire which makes it due or payable? You cannot change it after the fire. It will be too late then; but before the fire, you can readily at no extra cost select an insurance company whose record and strength guarantee the liberal fulfillment of its obligations.

Upon Foundations of Commercial Honour

The Hartford Fire Insurance Company

has built up the largest fire insurance business in the United States. It has paid more than $125,000,000 to its policyholders. Its popularity is the reward of merit, and the result of nearly a century of honourable dealings with its patrons. It has published a book "Fire Prevention and Fire Insurance", which contains in separate chapters valuable information for Householders, Merchants and Manufacturers. It ought to be in the hands of every property owner in America. It may save you thousands of dollars, no matter in what company you are insured. It is free. Send for it.

LOCAL OPTION CAMPAIGN.

The matter appearing in this space from time to time is furnished by the Temperance and Moral Reform League of this City, who have arranged for its Publication.

OPINIONS OF EMINENT CATHOLIC DIVINES

The Roman Catholic Church has waged for a long time a vigorous warfare against the liquor habit and the liquor traffic. Magnificent work has been done by the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of the United States and by the League of the Cross in Great Britain and Canada. It would be easy to quote many forcible statements from eminent priests and prelates, who have done splendid service for humanity in their holy warfare against the giant evil of intemperance.

Sometimes the liquor interests endeavour to make out that the Catholic church is opposed to Local Option or prohibitive measures. While this may be true in some cases, it is not true in the case of some of the most eminent divines in the Catholic Church. His Eminence Cardinal Manning, in a speech made at Bolton, England, took very strong ground in reference to voting against the traffic in liquor. After accusing the liquor traffic of high crimes and misdemeanors against the public, he stated: "I ask you in the name of common "sense and common justice, can you "withhold from those entrusted with "the high responsibility of the ballot the power to apply their votes in "the form of a veto, when it is pro"posed, without consulting them, to "put in the midst of them places for "the sale of intoxicating drinks. It "is a mockery to ask us to put down "drunkenness by moral and religious "means, when the Legislature facili"tates the multiplication of incite"ments to intemperance on every "hand. You might as well call upon "me, as the captain of a sinking "ship and say 'Why don't you pump "the water out?' when you are scut"tling the ship in every direction. "If you will cut off the supply of "temptation, I will be bound, by the "help of God to convert drunkards, "but until you have taken off this "perepetual supply of intoxicating "drink, we never can cultivate the "fields."

A BRAVE BISHOP'S FIGHT.

One of the hardest struggles between the liquor party and the Catholic Church was that begun in an order of Bishop John A. Waterson, of the Diocese of Columbus, Ohio, in which that prelate took strong ground against the admission of liquor sellers into Catholic societies. The Bishop did not in this order condemn the liquor business itself, but his deliverance regarding liquor sellers read as follows:

"To give greater efficacy, both to "the recommendations of the bish"ops and to the declarations of our "Catholic laity, at the recent congress "in Chicago, concerning the saloon "business, I hereby withdraw my ap"probation from any and every Cath"olic society or branch or division "thereof in this diocese that has a "liquor-dealer or saloon-keeper at its "head, or anywhere among its offic"ers, and I suspend every such soci"ety itself from its rank and privil"eges as a Catholic society until it "ceases to be so officered. Happily "there is not much occasion for such "suspensions. I again publish the "condition without which for some "years past I have declined to ap"prove of new societies or new "branches of old organizations in this "diocese, namely:

"That no one who is engaged either "as principal or agent in the manu"facture or sale of intoxicating liquor "can be admitted to membership."

There was, of course, strong objection to the action of Bishop Waterson and an appeal was made against the Bishop's decision, which appeal was finally settled by the Papal Delegate at Washington, Mgr. Satolli, whose decision set out the soundness of Bishop Waterson's decision, and said:

"We call upon all pastors to induce "any of their flocks who may be en"gaged in the sale of liquors to aban"don as soon as they can the dang"erous traffic, and to embrace a more "becoming way of making a living."

A GREAT COUNCIL'S DELIVERANCE.

The Catholic Third Plenary Council held at Baltimore made this declaration among many others:

"We call upon all pastors to induce "any of their flocks who may be en"gaged in the sale of liquors to aban"don as soon as they can the dang"erous traffic, and to embrace a more "becoming way of making a living."

Of the deliverances of this Council Pope Leo XIII., in his reply to the part relating to intemperance, said:

"It is well-known to us how ruin"ous, how deplorable, is the injury, "both to faith and to morals, that is "to be feared from intemperance in "drink. Nor can we sufficiently praise "the prelates of the United States, "who recently, in the Plenary Coun"cil of Baltimore, with weightiest "words, condemned this abuse, de"claring it to be a perpetual incen"tive to sin and a fruitful root of all "evils, plunging the families of the "intemperate into the direst ruin, and "dragging numberless souls down to "everlasting perdition; declaring, "moreover, that the faithful who yield "to this vice of intemperance become "thereby a scandal of non-Catholics, "and great hindrance to the propoga"tion of the true religion."

LOCAL OPTION CAN BE ENFORCED.

When people say that we could not enforce local option in Peterborough were it to carry next January, they practically tell us that we are unable to govern ourselves. Do they mean to tell us that if we passed a law making it a criminal offence to sell liquor in Peterborough, that we have not got the backbone to enforce such a law? Are a few men, who desire to sell liquor, able to defeat the wishes of a majority of the people of Peterborough, and defy our police force as well as our Provincial License Officers? Are we not as well able to govern ourselves as people in many cities of the United States?

There are over fifty cities in the United States, larger in size than Peterborough, where they have Local Option. One of these cities is Everett, Massachusetts. Owing to the character of its population, the enforcement of a liquor law in Everett should be much more difficult than in Peterborough. The Mayor of Everett is Charles Bruce, who is in the real estate business. He is a Canadian, having been born in Shelbourne, N.S., in 1862. Mayor Bruce, in reply to a request for information, has sent the following letter to the Peterborough City Temperance League:

LOCAL OPTION A SUCCESS.

"It gives me pleasure to give you the desired information in regard to the enforcement of the liquor law in this city.

"We have about thirty-four thousand inhabitants and nearly every nationality is represented.

"There has never been any open bar in this city and I am of the opinion that there never will be.

"In Massachusetts we have what we designate local option—that is, the vote on license is taken every year. In towns it is voted on in the March town meeting, and in cities at the annual municipal election, which is held in the autumn or more generally in December. All liquor licenses run from May to May.

"This city has always voted by a very large majority against license, and we have no trouble whatever in enforcing the law. In fact, there seems to be no disposition to disobey the law except in very rare cases. It is not only possible to prohibit the sale of liquor; it is a decidedly easy matter if those who have the enforcement of the law in charge wish to do their duty. When any person says that it is not possible you can figure that they make the statement from a standpoint of ignorance of what has been done and is now being done throughout the United States, or the wish is 'father of the thought'. Don't take any stock in any such assertion for it is not true.

"In this city we have no open bar neither have we any of the much-quoted 'kitchen bar-room,' which is put forward as an argument in favour of the open bar. There is absolutely no need whatever for the existence of the 'kitchen bar-room' if, as I said before, those having in charge the enforcement of the law do their duty. I have heard all kinds of arguments advanced to the effect that you cannot prohibit the sale of liquor in cities, but I assure you that I have never heard an argument advanced that would hold good for one instant. I believe that I can speak from the standpoint of experience for I am now serving my fourth term as Mayor, and I have been connected with this City Government almost continuously since 1895.

"In conclusion would say that the sale of liquor CAN be prohibited in your city regardless of anything that is said to the contrary."

CAMPAIGN NOTE.

Owing to the large number of people who are out of the city during July and August this department will be discontinued until the fall, when it will be opened again with renewed vigour. In the interval valuable material will be gathered for the fall campaign.

ENGLAND

Mr. Gypsy Smith, the well-known evangelist, now in England, told a Liverpool correspondent that during the last ten months he had spoken in forty-five or forty-six cities in America to three and a quarter millions of people in the aggregate, at 600 meetings, and had travelled over 20,000 miles.

The late Mr. Isaac Dixon, of Underskiddaw, Keswick, Cumberland, has bequeathed an allowance to his cousins, George Peel and John Peel, the latter a son of his late cousin, John Peel, and a great grandson of the John Peel of hunting fame, the hero of the Lakeland hunting song, "D'ye ken John Peel?"

Mr. Thomas Bell, a London merchant, and a native of Kirkcaldy, died at Hampstead the other day at the age of 75 years. Mr. Bell was trained in a solicitor's office in Kirkcaldy, and while a youth went to London. He was very successful as a merchant. He took an active interest in church matters, and for years was an elder in Regent Square Presbyterian Church.

A young Continental humourist who came over to England, hoping to find London editors in receptive mood, forwarded a contribution to one with this note:—"Dear Sir, —I arrived in London this morning and paid a visit to Westminster Abbey this afternoon. I found this all depressing, for a man naturally shrinks from inspecting the spot where he is to be buried."

The greatest number of failures amongst women occur in the grocery trade. Then come milliners and dressmakers, publicans and hotelkeepers, drapers and haberdashers, and lodging-house keepers. For every five women who fail as lodging-house keepers, six fail as publicans and hotelkeepers and drapers and haberdashers, and seven as milliners and dressmakers. But, compared with that, as many as ten women grocers meet with financial disaster.

The Caledonian Church, in Holloway Road, is one of the four branches of the Church of Scotland in London. It was acquired in 1851, when the neighbourhood was a rural suburb, and from that time till 1903 the children of the Royal Caledonian Asylum attended its services. Scots living within easy distance of the church are for the most part young men and women in lodgings, who are not in a position to do more than maintain the ordinary revenue of the church, which has no endowment. The congregation for the past six months have been engaging in an effort to raise funds to renovate the church.

IRELAND

Great regret has been caused by the death of Mr. Mangan, of Wicklow street, Dublin. He was highly esteemed by all who knew him.

Belfast has lost a prominent citizen by the death of Mr. John Rogers, managing director of David Allan & Sons, the well known theatrical printers.

Mongevlin Castle is situated in the County of Donegal, on the banks of the Foyle, about seven miles from Derry and one mile from the village of St. Johnstown.

One of Ireland's many historic places that are little known is Leighlin Bridge, on the Barrow, within the borders of Carlow County. It is situated in the heart of a beautiful tract of country.

In the Irish slander action, in which the Hon. Alexis Roche sued Sir Timothy O'Brien for £3,000 damages, a County Dublin jury found for the plaintiff and assessed the damages at £5 with costs.

Sir Andrew Fraser, K.C.S.I., Lieut-Governor of Bengal from 1902 to 1908, who took part in the Presbyterian Assembly at Belfast, preached no less than three times on the 13th inst. in different parts of the city to crowded congregations.

Mr. William O'Brien, who is spending the summer in the Appennines during recovery after his recent illness is engaged in writing the "inner history of the conciliation movement of the past seven years," the object of which was to win over the Irish Protestant minority and the British people of both political parties to the cause of domestic self-government for Ireland. The statement issued some time ago, that Mr. O'Brien was retiring to end his days in Jerusalem, is without foundation.

While two labourers were working on the roadway outside the gates of the late Earl of Howth's demesne at Howth, near Dublin, recently, one of them unearthed with his pick a heavy bundle tied up in a knotted handkerchief. He tossed the bundle to his companion, and as he did so six sovereigns fell out. The men then eagerly examined it, and found it was full of shining gold coins. No owner has been discovered, and the police are advertising for claimants.

SCOTLAND

Armourer-Sergeant A. Lawrence, 1st Dumbarton, won the Caledonian Challenge Shield at Malleny on the 12th inst. with a total of 191 out of a possible of 205 points.

Great interest was taken by the public in the opening on the 13th inst. for the first time on a Sunday of the historical apartments of Holyrood Palace and the Chapel Royal.

While walking on the Pentland Hills on the 12th inst.— Mitchell, who was at Dargai with the K.O.S.B., was struck down by a spent bullet supposedly from the Malleny ranges, but was not dangerously hurt.

On the 15th inst. a terrific explosion occurred at Curtis & Harvey's Gunpowder Mills, near West Calder. Three of the six mills were blown to pieces, and considerable damage done to enclosures, but no one was injured.

Marble monuments to the memory of the Marquis of Lothian, who died in 1900, and of his son, the Earl of Ancram, who was accidentally shot in New South Wales in 1892, were unveiled in Newbattle Parish Church on the 12th inst. by General Lord Ralph Kerr, C.B.

Considerable misgiving has been caused in Dundee by the absence of news as to the whaling ketch Snowdrop, which set sail on April of last year, with Mr. O. Forsyth Grant Younger, of Ecclesgreig, aboard. The Snowdrop, which had a crew of ten hands all told, proposed to engage in walrus hunting and whaling in the neighbourhood of Davis Strait. Captain Brown, who commanded the Windward in the Jackson-Harmsworth exposition for the relief of Nansen was in command. A relief expedition is to be fitted out.

The proverbial sagacity of the shepherd's dog is well known, and a striking example of this was seen in Culter the other day. A flock of sheep was being driven along the road, and in passing the village the shepherd entered one of the shops for a moment. In his absence, a motor car came up, but in a twinkling the dog was forward and had the sheep cleared to the side of the road for the car to pass, the same as if his master had been there.

REV. FATHER LYNCH PASSED AWAY AT HIS RESIDENCE THIS MORNING

Was in His Eighty-second Year—Retired Three Years Ago—Was Fifteen Years in Peterborough and Sixteen in Port Hope—Funeral Tuesday.

The death occurred about 11 o'clock this morning of Rev. Michael Lynch, at his late residence, Reid street. The late Rev. Father Lynch, although he has been in feeble health for some time, owing to his advanced years, passed rather suddenly, it being only last Thursday that he was down town. His demise will be greatly regretted by a large number of persons of Peterborough. He was beloved and esteemed by all and his faithfulness to his duties as priest in his church never abated until ill health prevented him from further continuing his good work.

The late Father Lynch was in his eighty-second year. He was born in County Cavan, Ireland, in 1827, and came to this country when quite young. He began his education at Ste Therese, where he spent four years. He then went to Ottawa and remained there until he completed his studies. Shortly afterwards he was ordained at Ottawa by the late Bishop Guigues, and received as his first appointment at the Island of Allumettes, where he spent two years as curate to Rev. James Lynch. His first parish was that of Killey, in Leeds County. He later came to Smith's Falls, here he remained six years. He then came to the Parish of Douro, afterwards going to Cornwall, where he stayed five years. At the conclusion of his pastorate there, he came to this city, and remained here until the arrival of Bishop Francis Janiot, D.D., in 1882, when he retired for a short while.

During his stay here of fifteen years in Peterborough, Father Lynch built the present St. Joseph's convent, and two separate schools. He was untiring in the discharge of his duties here and succeeded in overcoming many obstacles in the progress and welfare of the Parish. He spent one year in Lindsay before going to Port Hope, where he remained sixteen years, retiring three years ago on account of his advanced age.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday morning at nine o'clock to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to the Roman Catholic cemetery.

School Pupils Honour Their Teacher On Her Departure

Last Tuesday afternoon before separating for their midsummer vacation the pupils of Elmdale School, North Monaghan took occasion to present their teacher, Miss M. L. Might, who leaves shortly for the Northwest, with a casket of pearls accompanied by the following address:

Miss M. L. Might,

Elmdale, North Monaghan:

Dear Teacher,—It is with sad hearts that we, the pupils of Elmdale school, are gathered to bid you farewell and feeling that your departure from our midst should not pass without giving you a slight token by which we endeavour that your efforts to help us along the path of knowledge has not been in vain and that we appreciate your kindness and patience shown us in our many shortcomings, we beg you to accept this gift as a token of our esteem and love. During your stay with us we have all learned to honour and hold you in the highest esteem fully comprehending that we are not only losing a teacher but also a faithful friend. With these few words expressing our regret we bid you adieu wishing you all prosperity in the future.

Signed on behalf of the school,
EDITH ADAMSON,
ALMA DOBBIN.

Miss Might, although taken by surprise made a suitable reply thanking the pupils for their kindness.

24th Field Battery Back Once More, Smashed Record

The 24th Field Battery ended up its annual two weeks' training in a blaze of glory by again breaking the record for a day's route march by the Canadian artillery force. Breaking up camp at Cobourg yesterday morning, and leaving the Lakeshore town at 6.30 a.m., the battery route marched to Peterborough by way of Port Hope and Bowdley, arriving in Peterborough at 5.40 o'clock. This was a longer route than that taken by the battery in going to Cobourg two weeks ago, but the 24th succeeded in making better time and arrived in fine shape and in good spirits.

The boys made a splendid showing as they proceeded up George street to the armouries. Horses and men looked little the worse for their long journey and their appearance was excellent, many favourable comments being heard from the spectators.

From Major Young the officer in command down to the latest recruit, the officers and men of the 24th are unanimous in their opinion that this year's camp was a great outing, and they have nothing but kind words to say of the way in which they were treated by the citizens of Cobourg, who did everything in their power to entertain them.

Stole A Watch While Its Owner Was Playing Ball

Norwood, July 2.—Fred. Beavis, a youth 14 years of age, was taken into custody Sunday afternoon by Chief Constable Mahoney on a charge of stealing a gold watch and fob, the property of Mr. W. J. Puffer. The theft was committed at the base ball field on the evening of the 23rd of June. Puffer who was taking part in a game of ball had left his coat, in which was the watch, hanging on a post, and when he went to get his clothing after the game the watch was gone. Beavis and another boy by the name of Cross were seen loitering about where the coat was hanging during the game. They afterwards disappeared from town and were not seen again until Sunday when Beavis ventured back and was arrested. Cross is said to be around Colborne and Brighton.

At the preliminary hearing before Magistrate Pearce on Monday Beavis was remanded for a week. He told the Magistrate that Cross took the watch and that they afterwards walked to Indian River where they boarded a freight train and went to Toronto. Also that they fell in with a man on the way whom Cross entrusted to sell the watch. On arriving at the city they went up to a store on Simcoe street where the stranger was in the act of disposing of the time piece when an officer entered and placed him under arrest. Thinking that discretion was the better part of valour Beavis and Cross made tracks, heading for Colborne. The police in Toronto have been communicated with in regard to other boy's story. In the meantime the sleuths of the law are following up the tracks of the other youth.

The Deal For Local Man's Diamond Mine Is Off

Captain Miller and Mrs. Miller, of Toronto, who have been at the Hotel National for the past few days returned home this morning. Captain Miller was here a short while ago, having heard of Mr. O. S. Ferguson's wonderful diamond discovery. He made an offer to Mr. Ferguson to take over the diamonds in his possession. However, Mr. Ferguson informed an Examiner reporter last evening that the deal was off, Captain Miller not acceding to his terms.

Captain Miller was for many years a resident of South Africa, until ten years ago, having been in the army service. He also was for some time in the army in India.. He is living in retirement in Toronto, but may possibly come here for the summer. He is much impressed with Peterborough and intends to come back to fish.

STRAWBERRIES DEARER

Dry Weather Has Somewhat Affected the Production.

Strawberries and eggs were the two articles that swooped upwards in price this morning. The latter sold at 20 cents a dozen and though no material difference was noticed by the consumer in the price of strawberries the retailers reported a scarcity, doubtless due to the dry weather that has been experienced.

QUAKER OATS CO. ARE BUSY

Factory Is Running at Capacity and the Staff of Girls Has Had To Be Increased—Activity Promises to Last.

MANY CARS RECEIVED.

The steadily increasing activities at the Quaker Oats Co. are proofs of the business that has been realized and is expected to continue throughout the year at a high water mark. One of the results that has been noticeable is the large demand for girls and in another column of to-day's issue there is an advertisement for girls. The factory has been running at capacity and there is every prospect that it will continue at this rate. The trains of raw material are rapidly transformed to the manufactured article and the large staff are now particularly busy.

FOR BABY'S SKIN TROUBLES

There are times in the life of nearly every child when Dr. Chase's Ointment proves itself a blessing. The tender skin chafes and is irritated by the clothing. Oftentimes baby eczema developes from this very cause. In a dozen ways Dr. Chase's Ointment can be used to sooth and heal the skin and prevent suffering of the little one. No treatment is so well suited for this purpose and none is so entirely satisfactory.

QUARTETTE OF BURGLARS

Entered the House of a Lindsay Minister While the Family Were Away and Cooked Dinner—Found No Valuables.

DONE IN BROAD DAYLIGHT

Lindsay, July 2.—During the absence of Rev. Mr. Real and family on Dominion day a party of four arrived at the parsonage and after trying all the doors and windows and finding same locked, obtained a ladder from a neighbour, intimating that they were relatives and placing same to an upper window, forced it and obtained entrance. After ransacking the house, but not finding the valuables that they were evidently after, they cooly cooked dinner. Upon the return of Rev. Mr. Real and family it was at once seen that their residence had been broken into. From enquiry it was learned that the trespassers consisted of two ladies and two men. It was one of those bold affairs, everything being done in broad daylight. It was learned that they came in on the G. T. R. 10:58 train and left again on the 6:28 p.m. The shock to Mrs. Real was naturally quite severe, but their valuables being undisturbed, and the Rev. Mr. Real being a peaceful man, has decided to take no steps in the matter.

THE GYPSIES HAVE GONE

Mexicans Folded Up Their Tents and Left, Eastward Bound, Yesterday Afternoon—No One Is Sorry.

HAVE GONE TO OTTAWA

The gypsies, who have been the centre of attraction in Peterborough since their arrest nearly two weeks ago, have folded up their tents, like the Arabs, and have taken their departure from the city, leaving yesterday afternoon. Several of the band stated that their destination was Ottawa; at any event the tribe went by way of East City with their entire caravan. The authorities will not be sorry that the strange visitors have left, although the public will miss an attraction that never seemed to lose interest for them.

Amount of Building Permits for June Is More Than Double That of Same Month Last Year—Building Operations Brisk.

WHAT THE RECORDS SHOW

The amount of the building permits for June is more than double that of the corresponding month last year. Building operations are apparently going to continue through the summer at the rate at which the spring opened. In June 1908 the total amount of the permits issued was $20,195.00. The month just closed shows the encouraging total of $45,492.00. The builders report that the conditions are very favourable and prospects point to continued activities.

MITH STREET BRIDGE TO BE OF REINFORCED CONCRETE AT COST OF $31,500---TO BE SUBMITTED IN BY-LAW FORM AGAIN

The ratepayers will soon be given the opportunity to vote on the Smith Street Bridge By-law, as it is likely that the Council will authorize the City Solicitor at the regular meeting on Monday night next to prepare the clauses, and to arrange it for presentation at the polls. The new bridge is to cost $31,500. At the same time a by-law will be presented for the issuing of debentures for $21,500 for street extensions and the filling in of the waterworks. It will be remembered that both these by-laws were defeated at the municipal elections last January.

At the meeting of the Board of Works last night the question was considered at some length and if everything turns out as the committee expects the council will deal with the by-law, and will give it its readings at the regular meeting. It was generally believed that the sum of nearly $50,000 for the bridge was the cause of the by-law's defeat, when it was last presented. The City Engineer was asked to go over the plans and to cut down that amount. He has done so and the estimate is now $31,500. This does not include any claims for land damages and as these were not conclusively known last night no decided action was taken by the Committee.

The Solicitor will be able to have the by-law ready it is expected for Monday night.

Engineer's Report.

The Board decided some time ago to get a report on the bridge from an outside engineer and Mr. Walter J. Francis, of Montreal, was engaged. His statement was read last night by Chairman Phelan. Mr. Francis approved of the design and plans of the City Engineer, and is also in favour of constructing the bridge of reinforced concrete. It will be 18 feet wide, instead of 24, as originally designed. Mr. Francis dealt with the suitability of concrete for bridge construction, and gave other advice as to the work. His bill for his professional services amounted to $100.

Aldermen Talk it Over.

The by-law will require a majority of the vote cast. Ald. Phelan stated that he hoped to put it before the ratepayers as soon as possible. The new bridge has been a long talked-of question, and the Board of Works want it to be advanced without further delay if it meets with the approval of the citizens. Engineer Hay stated that the price of cement had dropped considerably since he prepared his last plans. The new dam at London street has raised the water five feet but Mr. Hay stated that Mr. Larmonth had assured him that they would take out stop logs and thereby decrease the height of the water to the level it registered before the dam was built. This it was stated will mean quite a saving to the city and will considerably facilitate the work.

Concrete Railing.

The plans provide for a concrete railing. This will be sufficiently high to prevent children from climbing to the topof it and the banisters will be six inches apart. The top will be bevelled from a point. Ald. Bradburn remarked that this was a good idea as if it were level it would undoubtedly tempt the boys to try their ability to walk along it.

Regarding the money that will have to be paid to the owners of the first three or four houses extending west from the bridge it was suggested that a valuator be secured to settle the amounts. However, Mayor Rush and Ald. Phelan have the matter in hand and will try to arrange a fair settlement with the parties involved.

The other by-law is known to the public, having been fully explained at the time it was presented before. The committee intends to publish the clauses of each in order that the citizens will thoroughly understand what they are to vote upon.

ARE FROM BELGIUM

Prominent Public Men of the European State Are Inspecting Waterways and Will Go Over Trent Canal System.

TO BE ENTERTAINED HERE.

Peterborough will this evening be visited by several important public officials from Belgium, their object in visiting the city being for the purpose of looking over the hydraulic lift lock and the Trent Canal system.

The Department of Railways and Canals has been advised by the Consul-General for Belgium at Ottawa that his Government has commissioned certain of its officials to visit Canada and the United States for the purpose of studying the canal systems of these countries. The delegates is made up as follows: Messrs. Hector Genard, Inspector General of Bridges and Highways; Leon Van Wetter, engineer of Bridges and Highways; Kroft de la Saule, Chief Engineer of Buildings and secretary of the Belgium Government, and John Cokerill, of Searing.

Mr. J. H. McClellan, Superintendent of the Trent Canal has received word from the Department of Railways and Canals stating that these gentlemen would arrive in Peterborough on the 4:48 C.P.R. express this afternoon and requesting him to pay special attention to the members of the delegation, and afford them every facility for a thorough examination of the Trent Canal.

It is not at present known what time is at the disposal of the delegation and the exact programme could not be learned this morning. It is however safe to conclude that they will be treated in a manner befitting the dignity of the Dominion Government.

A NOTABLE SALE BY ROBERT FAIR & CO.

Brisk Campaign for July—Business-Bringing Price Attractions to Prevail All Over the Golden Lion Store.

July is to be marked by a campaign of such exceptional bargain offerings at Robert Fair & Co's. that the whole store is likely to be kept in a busy whirl during the month. This is the firm's annual sacrifice sale before stock-taking, and is an event which usually creates a live interest in the Golden Lion's daily store news during the month of July.

A perusal of the four column advertisement on the last page of to-day's issue furnish features full of good news to the ladies of Peterborough. Each season, Fair's store emphasizes more and more its unchallenged style supremacy in its splendid display of the new novelties in silks, dress goods, millinery, ready to wear garments, staple household goods and home furnishings. Now, when the announcement is made public that wholesale price cuts will prevail throughout the whole store, shrewd shoppers will not be slow in taking advantage of them.

Only a few of the July bargain sensations are commented in the firm's announcement to-day, many of the best never appear in the newspapers; but sufficient is given to warrant the public in taking early advantage of this money-saving event. The price is the argument in most cases; but when backed with dependable qualities and newest materials, the values are heightened. This is "Fair's way," and little more needs to be added.
